Eight Incumbents Defeated At Polls

Preserve Bond Is Approved

Lucas Valley homeowners voted overwhelmingly yesterday, to buy themselves 285 acres of undeveloped hillside land as permanent open space preserve.

They voted 789 to 35 in favor of a $315,000 bond issue by the Lucas Valley County Service Area to acquire the property offered by the Thomas Nunes family for $300,000.

In two other bond elections, Mill Valley voters approved a $275,000 bond issue for a fire house in East Mill Valley by 2,472 to 951, well over the needed two-thirds majority, but in Rohnert Park turned down, 635 o 873 opposed, a $195,000 bond offering to improve existing parks.

FAIRFAX VOTE

Fairfax citizens voted 1,415 to 625 to rezone the Marin Town and Country Club property to commercial-recreation, blocking a developer's plans for residential building on Max Friedman's historic resort property.

In Sausalito, the voters declared 1,045 to 722 that they wanted a public vote on park plans before any of the downtown parking lots are converted from revenue to recreation use. They voted 1,359 to 469 to make the treasurer's post appointive.

The Lucas Valley transaction is expected to be completed by July 1, according to Martin A. Kaufman, president of the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association that spearheaded the pioneering ,citizen effort to retain open space. He said it was the first time to his knowledge that any unincorporated community had taken this approach to environmental preservation.

The bond issue will cost each of the 526 homeowners in the service area about $40 a year for the next 25 years he said.

LEADER ELATED

"I'm extremely elated," Kaufmann said at the Marin County Civic Center last night. "We've said something important about the way we feel about our own community."

He explained that a "committee of 100" worked on passing the bond issue "and we had to turn away volunteers" because there were no campaign tasks for them. "There was complete, total community involvement."

Accogding to the county elections office, 821 of the 1016 registered voters cast ballots for a turnout of 81 per cent. Kaufmann said the percentage actually was even higher, because only about 950 registered

Victory For Sally Stanford

By DAVID DIETZ

In a day of upheaval, Marin and Southern Sonoma voters ousted eight city council incumbents yesterday and charted new courses for several municipal governments. (Stories on each election, page 25.)

It was a day of close votes, of victory for youth and of the taste of triumph at long last for restaurateur Sally Stanford, the former madam who won election to the Sausalito City Council on her sixth try.

"Sinners never give up," Miss Stanford said.

Three city councils — in Fairfax, Novato and Cotati — were turned topsy-turvy.

Open space forces won the day in Fairfax, while Novatans seemed in favor of return to a business-oriented government. Three young people ousted a trio of incumbents in Cotati.

OTHERS OUSTED

In addition to the Cotati officeholders, voters in Marin ousted Councilmen Anne L. Ellinwood in Tiburon; Mayor Earl J. O'Grady and Benton A. Sifford Jr. in Larkspur, Jerome C. Hauke in Mill Valley, and Byron D. White in Corte Madera.

Miss Ellinwood, who lost reelection by two votes, may ask for a recount, however, and recounts also loomed in Corte Madera where Herber C. Leney was beaten by only four votes and in San Anselmo, where Dr. Martin G. Blinder missed a council seat by six votes.

The unofficial tally showed that about 24,600, or 50 per cent, of the 49,259 voters went to the polls in Marin cities.

San Rafael, as well as its charter city counterpart in Southern Sonoma, Petaluma, didn't hold an election.

The outcome breaks down thus:

In Belvedere, incumbents Thomas S. Price and Merritt K. Ruddock were joined on the council by newcomer David E. Bordon.

IN CORTE MADERA

Corte Madera voters ousted White, but reelected Robert P. Simmons and picked newcomer Robert J. Flahive. Town Clerk Betty S. Behl and Treasurer

Bitter Fight For An Loc

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B52s today struck Communist troop concentrations barely a mile from the besieged town of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, while U.S. troops in northeastern South Vietnam carried out reluctant combat patrols in "dynamic defense" of their threatened base at Phu Bai.

Military sources who reported the B52 strikes said they were the closest to a South Vietnamese city since the Communists assault on the old imperial city of Hue in the 1968 Tet offensive. The Communist siege of An Loc was considered a threat to Saigon itself.

President Nguyen Van Thieu flew by helicopter to confer with his field commanders at

Maverick Juror Blasts Grand Jury Operations

By LARRY MOWELL

Marin's least secretive grand juror, Richard W. Beban, added six more pages yesterday to the jury's worst kept secret, the Sausalito police probe, but they weren't the six pages he was subpoenaed to produce.

In what he called an unprecedented move, he was ordered to appear before the grand jury on which he serves to produce his copy of a five-page subcommittee report and agenda on the investigation of Sausalito police operations.

He refused.

Instead, prior to testifying, he called a press conference and released a six-page blast he said he planned to read to his fellow jurors.

He called the order to appear a "fishing expedition" aimed at "fingering" him.

"The first person to be suspected was me," he said. "I feel they are using the power of subpoena just because the attorney general hasn't found out anything."

The report which was leaked to the press last month was the result of an eight-month grand jury investigation. The subcommittee which drafted it found the equivalent of a quota system in the Sausalito police Department.

A copy of the report went to each of the 19 grand jurors, but it was leaked before the entire grand jury could study it.

Seat Loser Files For A Recount

Tiburon City Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood today became the first of the close losers in several Marin cities to file for a recount of the ballots in yesterday's election in which unofficial returns showed her losing to Allan Littman by two votes.

Filing at the Hall of Justice, she said, "With only two votes separating Mr. Littman and myself. . .one-fifth of 1 per cent. . .the citizens of Tiburon, Mr. Littman and I would all feel much more comfortable if this were done. . ."

If the recount upholds Littman's victory, Miss Ellinwood must pay for the recall; if she overturns him, the city pays.

Army Explodes Bomb In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British army bomb experts played a waiting game through the night and exploded a bomb planted in a Londonderry dry cleaners today without causing casualties.

The explosion started a fire above the shop, severely damaged the dry cleaners and damaged a house across the street.

An army spokesman said the bomb experts declared the area safe and about 100 persons evacuated from apartment buildings Tuesday night started moving back to their homes.

IT WAS PRETTY SURE SHE'D WIN A SEAT ON THE COUNCIL

It was all due to astrology or her cat's birthday or something.

Even before the results of yesterday's municipal elections were in last night, candidate Dorothy P. Young was sure she was going to win a seat on the Novato City Council.

First of all, she is a Capricorn, she said, and the stars were in all the right places yesterday for those born under that sign according to a newspaper horoscope.

Then April 11 always has been "her" day. Yesterday's date was the same as the one on which she was married, on which her daughter was born — and it's even her cat's birthday.

After the ballots had been counted and Mrs. Young, an attorney, was among the three who won seats on the council out of a field of 11 candidates, she conceded that "hard work" might also have had something to do with her success.

Capital Punishment Wins First Round In Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The drive to restore capital punishment in California won a crucial first round victory in the legislature early today when the Senate Judiciary Committee approved an amendment to the state constitution.

The amendment, in effect, would overturn the California Supreme Court which on Feb. 18 ruled that the death penalty is both cruel and unusual and thus unconstitutional.

The measure, by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, was sent to the Senate floor on a 8-3 vote after a five-hour hearing witnessed by 300 citizens who packed the legislature's largest committee room until long after midnight. Seven votes were required for approval.

If adopted by both houses of the legislature, the amendment would go on the November ballot and be voted on by the California electorate.

Debate ranged from a high-level legal discussion between two potential 1974 rivals for governor, Attorney General Evelle J. Younger and Senate Democratic Leader George R. Moscone, to a bitter shouting match between George T. Davis, attorney for late kidnapper-rapist Caryl Chessman, and Sen. Robert S. Stevens, R-Los Angeles.

Davis claimed legislators were pushing the amendment because of "hurt egos" brought on by the court preempting

Rain Helps Maintain Present Lake Levels

Steady rains soaked Marin and Southern Sonoma again last night and today, but still not enough to raise Marin Municipal Water District reservoirs.

The forecast called for 50 per cent chance of more rain tonight; dropping to 30 per cent tomorrow.

William R. Seeger, general manager of the water district, said the rain "hasn't made any difference" in the resrevoirs, which still satand at about 75 per cent capacity. The rain, however, compensated for one day's consumption by keeping the reservoir level from falling yesterday, Seeger said.

"If it keeps up," he said, "it may be some help, but not a great deal because we need quite a deal of rain."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

FAA Investigating

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Airlines and Pacific Southwest Airlines will be investigated by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) on charges they failed to comply with government regulations for screening passengers.

The FAA yesterday gave United and PSA Airlines 20 days to respond to FAA "notices of investigation." The notices involve hijackings of a United Denver to Los Angeles flight Friday and a PSA flight from Oakland to San Diego Sunday.

The hijacker of the United flight demanded and received $500,000, then bailed out of the aircraft over Utah. A suspect was arrested at Provo, Utah. The other hijacker also demanded $500,000 but was subdued before he could carry out his plan to bail out of the plane with the money.

Economic Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon does not expect his meetings in Canada this week with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau to solve the economic problems that are straining relations between the United States and its northern neighbor.

"I certainly don't anticipate any agreements being reached on trade as a result of this meeting," White House Press Secretaryonald L. Ziegler said Tuesday.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, who angered some Canadian officials in earlier trade talks, was not named to the official party for Nixon's visit to Ottawa beginning tomorrow.

Nixon and Trudeau are scheduled to sign a new agreement Saturday calling for joint efforts to control pollution in the Great Lakes.

Cows Give More

BERKELEY (UPI) — Cows respond with a 20 per cent increase in production when their heads and necks are put through flexible seals into air conditioned space, says the California Farm Bureau.

90-Minute Talk

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev hopes his meetings with President Nixon in May will have a "minimum of ceremony and a maximum of substantive discussion," U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said today.

Butz met Brezhnev, the general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, for 90 minutes Tuesday night, the first American to meet the top-ranking Soviet leader since Dr. Glenn Seaborg, Atomic Energy Commission head, in 1963.

Butz told a news conference he and U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Beam had "a very frank, warm, and open discussion on some problems of expanding Soviet-American trade and on the desire of furthering trade exchanges."

Policy Reaffirmed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States moved today to reaffirm its Latin American policy of "realism and restraint" before the annual foreign ministers conference of the 24-nation Organization of American States (OAS).

State Department sources said Secretary of State William P. Rogers in a speech scheduled today would take into account a request by OAS Secretary General Galo Plaza that the administration make a "concrete definition of its policy toward Latin America."

Star Guarded

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — An armed guard stood watch today over Charlie Chaplin's tardily-awarded star on Hollywood Boulevard, defaced within a day after it was implanted.

The star was put in Monday. By yesterday, it had been scratched and ink had been poured on it — evidence that old rancors against the silent film comedian had not died despite the emotional welcome back given him by his peers.

The Hollywood Chamber of Commerce — which finally voted to install Chaplin's star this year only after years of controversy and reportedly some heated debate — hired a workman to buff out the damage and a private detective service to post a 24-hour armed guard.

Davenport Held

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A psychiatric examination was ordered for a mild-mannered 56-year-old accountant accused of threatening to blow up a jetliner yesterday unless the U.S. Treasury paid him half a million dollars.

Major Burton Davenport, Vancouver, Wash., was held on $50,000 bail today for allegedly boarding a Continental Airliner bound for Seattle and Hawaii with a bottle he said contained nitroglycerin.

The suspect was talked into surrendering to FBI agents after he released the plane's crew and 63 passengers, thus ending the West Coast's third extortion-by-airliner attempt in five days.

A Fatal Leap By Prague Woman

PRAGUE (UPI)—Vera Czermak jumped out of her third story window when she learned her husband had betrayed her.

Mrs. Czermak is recovering in hospital after landing on her husband, who was killed, the newspaper Vecerny Pravda reported.

GANGLAND FIGUREHEADS — Joseph "Grazy Joe" Gallo (left) a Brooklyn racketeer killed by a gunman Friday; Richard B. Grossman (center) whose body was found in a car trunk in Brooklyn Monday, and Joseph Colombo Sr., who was wounded by gunshot last June, are being linked in speculation surrounding seven killings in two weeks in the New York area. (UPI Telephotos)

Lindsay Promises Protection For Public During Gang War

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy said Tuesday there was a "distinct possibility" the renewed gangland warfare in the city was the result of a feud between the families of the late Joseph "Crazy Joe" Gallo and Joseph Colombo Sr.

Murphy added, however, that police were unable to furnish "a picture or a pattern" or determine exactly who the combatants were in the strife which resulted in seven killings in two weeks.

Murphy spoke at a news conference together with Mayor John V. Lindsay who said he had instructed the commissioner that "above all, the public must be preserved and protected" with maximum police power to "end this rash of gangland killings."

Gallo's sister, Carmella Fiorella, who was present when he was killed, screamed, "The streets are going to run red with blood, Joey."

Colombo was shot and critically wounded at an Italian-American Civil Rights League rally last June and there was speculation at the time that the Gallo gang may have been behind the attempted assination.

The latest body, found late Monday, was identified as that of Richard R. Grossman, 36. It was stuffed in the trunk of a car in an isolated section of Brooklyn. A medical examiner said Grossman had been dead from three to seven days with one bullet lodged in his brain.

Grossman had been under indictment and awaiting trial on charges of possession of stolen credit cards and had a previous arrest record on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to rape. Federal sources said Grossman had connections with the crime family allegedly headed by Joseph Colombo Sr.

At the news conference Tuesday, Murphy said he was hopeful that police would solve the Gallo slaying.

"In the Gallo killing we have many witnesses," Murphy said. "We have received some positive information."

Mrs. Gilly Admits Murder In Exchange For Her Life

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI)—Promised her life in exchange for cooperation with the prosecutor, Annette L. Gilly, a youthful looking 32, pleaded guilty Tuesday to the murder of mine union leader Joseph A. Yablonski. Mrs. Gilly implicated two new suspects in the murder.

Mrs. Gilly, slim and blonde, responding to the questions of special prosecutor Richard A. Sprague in monosyllables, implicated both her father and her husband in the Dec. 31, 1969 murder of Yablonski, his wife and daughter in their farmhouse near here.

Sprague said Mrs. Gilly had been given only two promises, that the prosecution would not seek the death penalty for first degree murder and that relatively minor federal charges would be dropped. However, it was reported Mrs. Gilly would be permitted to plead guilty to second degree murder charges.

A 22-page statement signed by Mrs. Gilly was introduced in evidence by an FBI agent who interrogated her in Philadelphia April 4. Its contents were not disclosed in court.

But sources in Washington, Pa., and Washington, D.C., said the statement says that two officials of United Mine Workers (UMW) District 19, which covers eastern Kentucky and eastern Tennessee, paid Mrs. Gilly, her father and her husband to organize the murders.

It was learned that Mrs. Gilly's statement would be brought before a federal grand jury today or Thursday and indictments would be issued. The indictments probably would be on similar federal "holding charges" under which the FBI arrested the original five suspects in Cleveland.

They were accused of stripping Yablonski of his rights as a union member under the Landrum-Griffith Act by killing him.

Yablonski was slain barely a month after he lost a bitter campaign for the presidency of the UMW to incumbent W. A. "Tony" Boyle, in which the challenger made frequent charges of corruption. During his entire campaign he never visited District 19, because of the tradition of violence in the coal industry of that Appalachian region and the strong pro-Boyle sentiment of its UMW officers.

Mrs. Gilly agreed to testify against her father, Sillous Huddleston, 62, president of a small UMW local in LaFollette, Tenn., at his murder trial next week, Sprague said.

Huddleston, Mrs. Gilly, her husband Paul, a Cleveland house painter; Aubran Martin, 23, and Claude E. Vealey, 28, alleged triggermen in the murder, were arrested in Cleveland in early 1970. Vealey confessed and testified at the trials of Martin and Gilly, who were sentenced to death.

Nevada Insurance Tax Collection Up

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—The state of Nevada collected 57 per cent more in tax revenues from insurance companies in the first quarter of 1972, compared with the same period last year.

State Insurance Commissioner Dick Rottman said $4.2 million was collected from 875 companies and part of the increase was due to "more rigorous auditing and collection measures."

WAR

Lai Khe, midway between Saigon and An Loc, and ordered the siege of An Loc by 5,000 North Vietnamese be lifted "quickly." But an armored relief column was stalled 20 miles to the south by Communist mortar and rocket attacks for the third day.

In the northeastern corner of South Vietnam where North Vietnamese striking through the A Shau Valley pose a threat to Hue, a convoy trying to reach Fire Base Bastogne was turned back by Communist fire for the second consecutive day.

Fire Base Bastogne is 12 miles west of Hue and about 10 miles west of Phu Bai, the northernmost American base in South Vietnam. It was at Phu Bai 42 miles below the demilitarized Zone, that a group of about 50 American soldiers balked for 90 minutes today before they went on patrol.

They moved out finally in trucks and by helicopters for what the army called a "dynamic defense" of the base and the 2,500 Americans there. The U.S. command blamed the brief combat refusal on "rumors to the effect that the area was an ambush site loaded with booby traps.

Communists forces heavily shelled South Vietnamese and Cambodian forces in the southern Cambodian town of Kompong Trach today and moved in major troop units to open a new front in their multipronged Indochina offensive.

Fighting flared up in the Central Highlands 280 miles north of Saigon today and field reports said Communist troops launched two heavy ground assaults under cover of artillery fire in Kontum Province.

No major fighting was reported in the Quang Tri area, site of the original Communist onslaught just below the DMZ but a field report said an artillery barrage was averted when a South Vietnamese officer on the same radio frequency as a North Vietnamese fire control officer directed the barrage into vacant marshland.

Kompong Trach is 75 miles southwest of the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, nine miles from the border of South Vietnam and 150 miles west of Saigon. Military sources in Phnom Penh said the Communists apparently hoped to break through there to open new supply routes into South Vietnam to threaten Saigon from the rear.

A government armored unit trying to reopen Highway 13 from Saigon north to the beleaguered district town of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, bogged down today when North Vietnamese opened up on the tanks and armored vehicles with rockets and mortars from both sides of the road.

UPI correspondent Arthur Higbee, with the South Vietnamese troops, said the column has been stalled at the village of Chon Thanh, 20 miles below An Loc, for two days. He said tanks moved out on each side of the road and took up defensive positions against possible ambush while artillery was wheeled into position.

VOTE

Frank Bigley were unopposed.

In Fairfax, E. Ross Parkerson and Albert E. Gately were chosen to replace two incumbents who didn't run. Priscilla C. Gray took the treasurer's post from incumbent Harold H. Taft. Eileen L. Foster was unopposed for city clerk.

Larkspur residents chose Robert H. Lee and Joan Sestak over Sifford and O'Grady, but returned William G. Fleckles to office.

NOVATO RESULTS

Ross voters reelected John H. Chase, Jewell Osterloh and Alan P. Maginis. Town Clerk Virginia Stott and Treasurer Elsa M. Innes were unopposed.

In San Anselmo, incumbents Kenneth L. Anderson and James F. Reed were the voters' choice. William P. Franchini was reelected treasurer. Clerk Helen J. Ragan was unopposed.

Sausalitans, in addition to Miss Stanford, reelected Robin Sweeny and picked Evert H. Heynneman. Edwin S. Long was unopposed for city treasurer.

California Aid Ruling Is Blocked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court today allowed California —temporarily —to reduce child support aid to families with other types of income despite a state supreme court ruling to the contrary.

The order blocked the effect of a decision by the California Supreme Court on Dec. 6, 1971 until an appeal by state attorney general Evelle J. Younger clears the high court.

The state court found that the cut, made under the California welfare reform act of 1971, was not in keeping with the requirements of the federal Social Security Act.

Younger asked U. S. Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun to stay the effect of the state court judgement and Blackmun turned the matter over to the Supreme Court itself. Justice Thurgood Marshall did not participate in today's action.

California had established a "standard of need" of $314 a month for a family of four in accordance with federal standards. But since the states are not required to pay the full standard of need, a maximum monthly payment of $260 was in effect until the 1971 act, when the amount was raised to $280.

Nevertheless under the new law many recipients received less money because outside income such as wages or veterans' benefits are now deducted from the $280, whereas before they were deducted from the $314. This section was struck down by the state court.

The lawsuit was brought jointly by the Long Beach Legal Aid Foundation and the San Francisco Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation.

their statutory jurisdiction over capital punishment.

"I don't know how stupid you think we are," snapped Stevens. "You haven't heard any members of this committee talk about 'hurt egos.'"

Younger was the chief witness for proponents. And his basic argument to the committee was that "the decision to retain or abolish the death penalty should be made by the legislature."

Contending "no court in this nation or in the world has ever before invalidated the death penalty," Younger added "I'm fighting to keep the courts from abolishing the legislature."

But Younger was challenged by Moscone, who cited the landmark Marbury vs. Madison case in which the U.S. Supreme Court during the early days of the Republic ruled that the sole judge of whether statutes are constitutional is the courts.

And committee chairman Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, who wound up voting for the amendment, told Younger "I'm really hard put to follow your argument. Certainly the court was well within its power to interpret the state constitution."

Song also voiced an argument echoed by many opponents, that "i know of no wealthy person who has been executed in all of the history of California." He cited Dr. Bernard Finch, who was convicted of murdering his wife, served 12 years of a life sentence and last fall was paroled.

Kaufmann reviewed the history of Lucas Valley residents' concern over the fate of the hillsides dating back to early 1971 when a developer proposed housing in the area. The neighborhood drive culminating in the open space preserve — equivalent of slightly more than half an acre for each home in the district — "is the way we want it. That's the way we envisaged it when we moved in" to Lucas Valley, the homeowner spokesman said.

Park-Rec Meeting In Petaluma Postponed

The Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission meeting scheduled for tonight has been postponed until next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., according to chairman Daniel Longaker.

The meeting was postponed so the new recreation director, Jemes R. Raymond, can attend. He will not take office until April 24.

JURY

from committees last October in a dispute over investigation of San Quentin, was the only grand juror to refuse to turn over his copy of the leaked report when the state attorney general's office was called in by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales to investigate the leak.

The 23-year-old grand juror went in to read his statement at 1:30 p.m., but emerged shortly afterward and hurriedly left the Hall of Justice.

Reports that filtered from behind the closed doors indicated Beban began to read his statement, but was interrupted by Timothy Riordan, a deputy state attorney general, who wanted to know if Beban would turn over the documents.

He asked Beban to formally refuse before the presiding judge, thus paving the path for possible contempt charges. Beban refused.

In his refusal statement, Beban said he would not produce his copy of the leaked report for six reasons.

First, he said the grand jury has never officially authorized the investigation. He said it was begun by jury foreman Milen C. Dempster, Joan Boessenecker, chairman of the Sausalito subcommittee, and Bales.

Second, he said he is taking the Fifth Amendment guarantee against self-incrimination because the grand jury is using its power of subpoena for the criminal investigation of the state attorney general's office, which couldn't turn up hard evidence alone.

Third, he said, "I do not feel the premature release of the report was a crime ... The crime against the people would have been committed if the report were never released."

He said the Sausalito subcommittee had hoped to meet privately with Sausalito officials to arrange "some kind of agreement," but the leak precluded that.

(After the report was leaked, the entire grand jury produced an even more critical report recommending firing Chief James D. Wright and his two top subordinates.

(An angry Sausaalito City Council rejected the findings and the recommendation.)

"The furor raised by some — including the jury foreman and the subcommittee chairwoman — over finding the 'culprit' has obscured the value of the culprit's contribution," Beban said.

Fourth, he said the proceedings are "at the least very strange, and at the very most, probably illegal. To have a personally vindictive group like this present grand jury sit in judgment (any kind of judgment) over one of its members is, to say the least, theater of the absurd."

Fifth, he said persons called before the "one-sided, prosecution-oriented body" are denied due process available in court.

And finally, he said, "I feel I have a moral obligation not to cooperate with this grand jury or any body which operates as I have described above. As of now I am going to refuse to participate in any of their activities."

Beban said he was served with a subpoena last week at his Mill Valley home by police Chief Dan Terzich.

Dempster told the Independent-Journal that Beban had not been subpoenaed.

RAIN

Seeger said the rains virtually assured that voluntary rationing of water will save enough water during the summer and fall dry months. District officials had discussed mandatory rationing.

The heaviest rainfall was reported at Woodacre, where county fire officials measured one inch between 8 a.m. yesterday and 8 a.m. today. Other counts were .32 in Mill Valley, .28 in Tiburon, .40 in Sausalito and .05 in Novato.

Warden Paid $36 For Lion Shredded Coat

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—A game warden whose jacket was shredded by a mountain lion has been reimbursed $36 for his loss.

A supervisor told the Alameda County Board of Supervisors, which approved payment of the money to Jones, that "in the future, they are not to hold mountain lions to have their pictures taken."

Jones received some minor scratches in the incident and the chicken escaped unharmed.

OBITUARIES

Angelina S. Arbini Succumbs At 81

Angelina S. Arbini, 81, a 60-year resident of Marin County, died today in a local hospital after a long illness.

She was born in Lonote Pozzla, Lombardi, Italy. She came to this country when she was 21 as a bride of the late Ernest Arbini. The couple lived in Fairfax and Ross where he was a gardener. For the past three years, she has made her home with her daughter, Mary Goode of San Anselmo.

She was a member of California Druids, San Rafael Circle No. 137.

In addition to Mrs. Goode, she is survived by two other daughters, Theresa Bruce of Ross and Margaret Baumann of San Rafael and four grandchildren.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 8:30 a.m. Friday at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Entombment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

MRS. YOUNG

Funeral was held today for Barbara Joan Young, 32, wife of E. Michael Young Jr., president of Ross Valley Savings and Loan. She died Monday at her home in Tiburon at 10 Corte Palos Verdes of an undetermined cause, and an investigation into the circumstances of her death is continuing.

She was found lying fully clothed on her bed.

A native of Vallejo, she had lived in Marin County for nine years. She is survived by her husband, her mother, Letitia Atwood of Vallejo, three sons, Michael, Brandon and Graham Young of Tiburon, and a brother, Robert Atwood of Dixon, Solano County, California.

G. S. ASKLUND

Funeral has been held for Golden S. Asklund, 1971 commodore of the San Rafael Yacht Club.

Asklund, 62, was taken off a San Rafael Yacht Club land cruise bus last Sunday after suffering a heart attack and died three hours later at the Weimar Medical Facility in Auburn.

A native of Illinois, Asklund had lived several years in San Rafael until his recent retirement from Western Greyhound lines. He was a member of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla No. 14 and served as a harbor patrol officer with the San Rafael Police Department.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Asklund of Oroville, and two daughters — Mildred E. Stanley of Sacramento and Lurene Adelle Richardson of Washington. He is also survived by two sisters, Hilda L. Warrer of Chicago and Ludene A. Bertrand of Philadelphia.

F. L. SMITH

Services were held yesterday in San Francisco for former bandleader Franklyn L. Smith, 65, of San Rafael.

Smith, born and raised in Oakland, died Saturday in his sleep at his home. He moved to Marin in 1957 and was a member of Musicians Union Local 6 and of the San Rafael Yacht Club. The family home is at 320 Point San Pedro Road.

His band, Franklyn Smith and his Society Music, played at the old Richelieu Hotel in San Francisco until the end of World War II. After moving to Marin, he became a painting contractor, retiring in 1963.

He is survived by his wife, Beatrice.

Burial was at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

CHERYL J. JESSUP

Funeral for Cheryl J. Jessup, a 25-year-old graduate of Sir Frances Drake High School, will be Friday at 2 p.m. at Christ the Victor Church in Fairfax.

Burial will follow at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

Miss Jessup was injured in an auto accident three weeks ago, and taken to a hospital in Reading, where she died Monday.

A native of Seattle, Wash., she had been a resident of California and Marin County for the past 12 years. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Jessup, live in San Anselmo, at 32 Knoll Road. She had been living in San Francisco for about a year.

She was a graduate of Sir Frances Drake High School, where she served as president of the girls' league, and California Lutheran College, where she was secretary of the student body.

She is survived by her parents, and two sisters, Kathy Landig of San Rafael and Julie Jessup of San Anselmo.

The family has said it would prefer memorial gifts to California Lutheran College or Christ the Victor Lutheran Church Memorial Fund.

MARIE H. MEIER

Funeral for Marie H. Meier of San Rafael, was held today. She died Sunday in a local hospital after a short illness. She was 81.

Mrs. Meier was a native of Denmark and came to the United States in 1914. Two years later, she arrived in California.

Her husband, the late Otto F. Meier was a sail maker for many years.

JULIA ERICKSEN

Julia C. Ericksen, 77, a Petaluma resident for three years, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

She was born in Underwood, Iowa, and was reared there and in Nebraska. Mrs. Ericksen and her late husband, Chris Ericksen, had spent most of their lives in Hartington, Neb.

Mrs. Ericksen came to California 17 years ago and had made her home with a daughter, Esther Rosager of Petaluma for three years.

She is also survived by a son, Alfred Ericksen of San Francisco; two other daughters, Elna Winkelman of San Francisco and Anne Oien of Walnut Creek; two sisters, Victoria Nordby of San Mateo and Esther Kuhl of Monterey Park; two brothers, Otto Johnson of Monterey Park and Axel Johnson of Solvang, and five grandchildren.

Funeral will be held in Nebraska.

CORA P. STEWART

Private funeral for Cora Pebble Stewart of Mill Valley was held Sunday. Mrs. Stewart died Saturday in a San Francisco hospital after an extended illness.

She was a native of Medidian, Idaho, and lived in Marin County for 12 years. From 1945 until her retirement in 1969, Mrs. Stewart was associated with the Western Area Office of the Red Cross.

SAN RAFAEL TERRA LINDA NOVATO

THE LONG WAIT IN NOVATO

Cheer mixed with despair as candidates and citizens mingled in the lobby of the Novato Community House last night to watch City Mgr. Charles A. Brown post results. It was scene typical of those in most of the 12 cities in Marin and Southern Sonoma where the direction to be taken in each during the next two years was being settled at the polls. In the end, Novato incumbent David Price Jones was reelected to the city council, joined by newcomers Fred F. Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young. Eight other candidates went home disappointed.

Protest To Development Is Ignored

To the dismay of about 200 protesting residents, the San Rafael Planning Commission last night indicated that processing should proceed on plans to develop 66 townhouse units on Oak Hill.

The vote for proceeding was 5-2 with commissioners Alan M. Kay and Albert J. Boro dissenting.

A series of speakers ranging from a young boy who said it was his "play spot" to a spokesman for the Terra Linda Valley Property Owners Association who said the proposed density was a violation of city law, pleaded to leave the hill undeveloped.

Residents urged that the planning commission delay action on the plan until it was determined how new environemental laws govering development would apply to the site.

On the agenda was review of the proposal by the Freitas Estate to construct townhouses on 18.3 acres at the end of Sao Augustine Way, an open area bordered by Nova Albion Way, Golden Hinde Boulevard and Hartzell School.

Planning Director Herbert C. Hotchner said last night's session was simply to indicate whether the applicant should proceed toward a public hearing, and wasn't in any way binding.

Speakers described the hill as "a place to get away from pressures, fly a kite or write poetry," and said open space is rapidly disappearing in the Terra Linda area and once the hill is developed, it can't be changed back to its original state.

Boro made a motion that the commission delay until it could evaluate new environmental laws, but it was defeated 5-2, with only Boro and Kay in favor of waiting.

Commissioners agreed later to have a special workshop session at 7:30 p.m. May 2 at San Rafael City Hall on the new environmental laws.

Drought Broken

FRESNO (UPI) — A 64-day winter drought in the agriculturally-rich Central San Joaquin Valley was broken Tuesday by rain that drizzled .07 inches during the first few hours.

Subdivision Map For Industrial Park Approved

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night approved a subdivision map for a proposed industrial park in East San Rafael along the lines of Northgate Industrial Park.

The proposal by McKeon Construction Co. is to develop an industrial park on 55 acres along Francisco Boulevard, southeast of Bellam Boulevard, named "Bahia De Rafael Industrial Park."

Senior Planner Charles J. Linthicum said the staff felt the proposed development would be "extremely desirable in this portion of San Rafael."

McKeon sought 77 lots, but the commission cut it back to 76 lots by combining two proposed ones.

After the decision attorney Albert Bianchi, representing McKeon, reported the firm would donate one lot along Bellam Boulevard that would connect with a planned city park and a walkway that would connect the park area with Bahia Vista School.

Commissioners also approved granting the firm a use permit for the park and zoning the area for planned commercial.

San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

TENNIS CLUB — Ordered preliminary review of plans by Caesar B. Cardani for a private tennis club with six courts and five single family homes at 2435 Fifth Avenue, near Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

IRWIN STREET — Approved a three-lot subdivision by Gerald F. Carreras at 30, 40 and 50 Irwin Street after two neighbors warned of the potential for earth slides in the hilly site.

USED CAR LOT — Granted Jerry Hannan a use permit to use a vacant lot at 355 Francisco Boulevard for used auto sales and display.

AUTO BODY SHOP — Granted Juan Ferrer a permit for a three-car auto body shop at 50 Lovell Avenue.

CHURCH ADDITION — Granted Trinity Lutheran Church a permit to construct a building to house an office and multi-purpose room at 333 Woodland Avenue.

OFFICE-INDUSTRY BUILDING — Granted La Tara a use permit for an office, retail and light industrial building at 757-767 Lincoln Avenue, consisting of 4,250 square feet of office and retail space and 31,900 square feet of warehouse space.

Three McGovern Events Slated

The Marin County McGovern campaign has slated the following fund-raising events:

April 22, from 6-9 p.m. — Cocktail-buffet with Arthur Schlesinger at 47 Laurel Grove Avenue, Ross.

May 14, from 3-6 p.m. — Auction, at McGovern headquarters, 1011 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

Open House Set

An open house for prospective preschool enrollees and their parents will be held at the Sleepy Hollow Cooperative Nursery School, 1317 Butterfield Road, from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on April 19 and 20.

Bicycle Trail Master Plan Is Being Asked

Recreation Director James Pekkain said the plan would take in not only the entire city but areas to be developed in the near future.

The commission Monday said that after the plan is completed next month, it would make application for federal funds to finance the project.

In other business, the commission received a financial report on swimming pool operations and agreed that no increase in rates will be necessary for this year.

Summer Budget For Recreation

The Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission has approved a $5,075 preliminary budget for the 1972 summer recreation program.

The commission on Monday also estimated revenues at $3,300, according to Doris Overmyer, commission chairman. The preliminary budget, she said, was forwarded to the Marinwood Community Services District board, which will meet next Monday.

proved installation of a sandbox in Marinwood Community Park at a cost of no more than $100, and approved modification of lights on tennis courts at Marinwood Community Center at a cost of no more than $70, Mrs. Overmyer said.

Ballet School, Church, Tennis Club Win Marist Land Permits

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night unanimously granted use permits for a ballet school, church and private tennis club at the nine-acre Marist seminary property on Grand Avenue, between Linden Lane and Belle Avenue.

By a 4-3 vote the commission denied a use permit for a fraternal lodge meeting hall on the site, with commissioners Thomas R. O'Toole, Jorgen V. Lunding and James Dougan dissenting.

Development of the site has stirred controversy during a series of hearings, but discussion was limited last night to the use permits and zoning.

Commissioners split only on an application by Michael J. Scotto for a fraternal lodge hall at Grand Avenue and Linden Lane.

Commissioner Albert J. Boro said: "I feel this particular use is out of character," and Commissioner Ben C. Albritton said the wording "fraternal organization" was too vague.

Scotto said there have been lodge meetings at the site for two-and-a-half years and "we never had a complaint."

The Marin Civic Ballet Association was granted a permit for a ballet school including a studio-theater for performances and a living quarters for up to 10 persons.

Francis L. Whisler of 1644 Grand Avenue was granted a permit for a tennis club with a limit of 10 courts and 200 members, a 4,000 square-foot clubhouse and a small proshop. The permit prohibits night lighting, gran stands and commercial tournaments or exhibitions.

The Assembly of God Church was granted a permit for a church parsonage, office, church and recreational activities, including operation of a swim club, limited to 200 families during summer months.

About 65 residents attended and several protested that the commission was acting improperly by granting use permits before the zoning, since the action could involve granting a permit for a use that might be nonconforming to zoning established later.

Boro charged that this approach was being used only "to accommodate the fraternal hall," a potential nonconforming use.

Several residents argued for residential zoning for the entire site, but Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner recommended planned community development, which he said, would provide greater control. The site is now zoned unclassified.

Bill Adds Public To Commission

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Planning and Land Use Committee has approved a bill by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, that would add four public members to the "overburdened " state Lands Commission.

The panel cleared the measure on a 6-0 vote Tuesday and sent it to the Ways and Means Committee.

Moretti said the present board members are "overburdened with duties which detract from the attention they can give to the complex, technical problems with which the commission must deal."

Currently, the commission, which supervises oil, gas and mineral extraction in California, is composed of the lieutenant governor, the state finance director and the state controller.

San Rafael Board Of Education Presented Preliminary Budgets

The San Rafael Board of Education last night received a preliminary elementary budget of $5,537,187 and a preliminary high school budget of $5,580,492 for next fiscal year.

The elementary budget is $25,110 more than the current $5,512,077 budget. The high school budget is $45,386 more than the current $5,580,492, said Supt. John F. Plank.

Neither budget will make any change in the tax rates of $3.315 for elementary and $2.33 for the high school districts, Plank said.

The board accepted the preliminary budget and set a workshop on it for 8 p.m. May 2.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

OFFICERS — Elected Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. as president and Herman L. Childress as vice president. It seated Paul McMullen to replace former president Paul Jones who resigned.

REGISTRATION — Set 8 p.m. tomorrow for a drive to register 18-year-old voters and discuss the issues of the voters at the auditorium at San Rafael High School, sponsored by the San Rafael High School Parent-Teacher Association.

INNER SCHOOLS — Approved continuing the plan of having a school of four teachers and 125 students as a school within San Rafael High School and the Pacific Crest High School of 50 students who have been meeting at the First Presbyterian Church.

APPLICATION — Approved a $7,000 application for audio-visual aids for the Santa Venetia Middle School to the federal government under Title III of the National Defense Education Act.

AUDITORIUM — Agreed to meet with county officials at 2 p.m. Friday at the civic center to discuss the $200 fee charged to non-profit organizations for the Veterans Memorial Building.

ROTATION — Adopted a policy of rotating teachers from one school to another instead of allowing them to teach in the same school all the time.

CHARTER — Discussed the San Rafael city charter which requires school board members be appointed to vacancies. The board will meet, at a date to be set later, with the city council to get a charter change on the ballot.

LOTTERY — Decided to set 8 p.m. May 9 to discuss a possible lottery to form a list of teachers which may have to be dismissed because of a lack of students. The district has been dropping just over 200 students per year, Plank said.

'Ride-Along' Pot Hearing Slated

A 22-year-old Tamalpais Valley woman who ended up in jail on alleged narcotics violations when she participated in the "ride-along" program of the Belvedere police has pleaded innocent to three drug charges.

A preliminary hearing was set for April 27 in Marin Municipal Court for Wendy Alice Colton on charges of possessing and growing marijuana, both felonies, and misdemeanor possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

Belvedere police said that when she was riding with officers last month, she offered to share marijuana with them. They agreed, but arrested her when she allegedly began rolling joints at the station.

A search of her home produced six small marijuana plants in pots and five small bags of the vegetable matter, according to police.

Machine Today; Earth Tomorrow

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — "People steal weird things these days," remarked the FBI agent who telephoned in a news release involving what appeared to be a fairly routine offense — interstate transportation of stolen property.

The agent said that federal authorities Monday arrested John Irving Balough, 33, of Cairnbrook on charges that he stole a $40,850 earth-moving machine from Eckles Brothers Construction Co. of Winchester, Va., on April 1.

If convicted, the self-employed truck driver could receive a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and-or a $10,000 fine.

25 Apartment Units Given Larkspur Nod

The Larkspur Planning Commission last night approved two apartment developments — 16 units at 615 and 635 South Eliseo Drive, and nine units at 875 South Eliseo Drive.

A third proposed apartment plan, for six units at 40 Locust Street, was postponed until "such time as the planning commission members can visit an existing project using the same kind of factory-built units in the Rohnert Park area", according to Planning Director John W. Appleton.

The commission also reviewed and approved a $7,500 Dolliver Park capital improvement plan, for buying additional playground equipment, and referred it to city council's May 3 meeting, with their recommendation.

Commissioners approved a building modification of Straw Hat Pizza at 20 Bon Air Road, and continued until an unspecified date a sign application by the restaurant.

The commission will meet again tonight at 8 o'clock for a special hearing on the Williams and Mocine preliminary report on community attitudes which are to serve as guidelines in community planning.

Mill Valley De Molays To Install

Robert Shaw will be installed as master councilor of the Mill Valley DeMolay at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Masonic Temple in Mill Valley.

Gordon Mills will be installed as senior councilor; James Mansfield as junior councilor, and Robert Fields as treasurer.

Cathy Connell will be named the chapter sweetheart.

Charles Cochran will be the installing officer.

Nature Study Program Will Be Continued

The Bolinas-Stinson School District board has approved continuation of the district's new environmental-nature study program through June.

According to Supt. Lester M. Horning, after viewing a half hour video-tape presentation on the program, the board voted to fund it with $500. The program is being run by Dr. Peter Warshall, a graduate of Harvard University, said Horning.

The board also denied a request from Robert Moyer, a 7th and 8th grade teacher in Bolinas School, for a one-year leave of absence. Moyer wanted time to develop a curriculum for an environmental study and design class.

The board turned down his request, according to Horning, because of the difficulties in filling a teaching vacancy for one year.

A Decrease In Major Crime

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Major crime in the city showed a decrease of 21 per cent in March as compared with the same month a year ago, according to Chief Donald M. Scott.

Scott said Monday the decrease was despite an upsurge of murders and rapes.

The chief's report showed that homicides increased from five in March, 1971, to 6 in March this year, rapes rose from 43 to 57. But the other five categories of major crimes showed decreases. Robberies were down from 600 to 394, for a drop of 34 per cent, Scott reported.

Youth Is Treated For Crash Injuries

Gregory D. Sunke, 14, of 10 Oakdale, San Rafael, was treated for leg bruises Monday at Marin General Hospital following a collision between the bicycle he was riding and a car driven by Margaret D. Rutledge, 50, of 91 Longfellow Road, Mill Valley.

The collision occurred at 3:50 p.m. on Second Street near Grand Avenue, San Rafael police said, when Sunke's bicycle darted between cars stopped in traffic and in front of the Rutledge car, which was traveling at about 10 miles per hour.

Rose Bound Over To Superior Court

David Samuel Rose, 21, of Novato, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of burglary and possessing stolen property. He is to appear in court April 26.

He was arrested Jan. 19 by Novato police when he allegedly tried to sell tools taken in the burglary of an auto repair shop three days earlier.

Two E. Bay Cities Approve Urban Curbs

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The voters in two San Francisco Bay area communities have voted to pass a law against urban growth, and the citizens of a third almost did so.

Identically worded initiatives were passed in Livermore and Pleasanton in Tuesday's elections, calling for a halt to further building permits until problems relating to adequate sewage treatment, education and water quality are solved.

The initiative passed in Livermore, with more than 68 per cent of the registered voters voting, 6,339 to 5,159. With a similar heavy vote in Pleasanton, the measure passed 3,710 to 3,240.

In the town of Brentwood in Contra Costa County, a measure to put a ceiling of 7,500 on the population of the town in 10 years failed by only 13 votes. Current population is 2,800.

The anti-growth measures in Pleasanton and Livermore were backed by a group called SAVE —for "Save All Valley Environment."

"If this is successful in restricting tract developments you'll find cities all over the state trying to exercise the same kind of control," said Garry Near, SAVE attorney.

"Part of this thing is a genuine concern over the question of 'Is bigger better?' But another attitude is: We've got ours and the hell with everyone else ... and there are racial overtones in it—let's build a wall around suxurbia," Leonard said.

Members of Carpenters Union Local 1622 have already challenged SAVE in court. They failed in an attempt to have the anti-growth amendments taken off the ballot, but are continuing their fight against the legality of the initiatives in Alameda County Superior Court in Oakland.

To Be Featured

Three Marinites will be featured in a painting exhibition scheduled to open Monday in Sn Francisco. Deanna deChauron, of Belvedere; Richard T. Bergsund, of Tiburon and Valli Ehlers, of Mill Valley will display their work in the gallery of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. building on California Street.

Unlisted Number Cost 15 Cents

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Telephone company customers who demand unlisted numbers will have to pay 15 cents for the privilege instead of 27 cents, the state Public Utilities Commission decided Tuesday.

Originally the commission had voted the 27-cent charge as part of a $70 million rate increase granted Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. Cutting the rate for unlisted numbers will reduce the amount collected by the firm by about $1.1 million.

Registration For Kindergarten

Registration for children who will attend kindergarten in Larkspur-Corte Madera schools next year will be held May 1 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Henry C. Hall, Neil Cummins, San Clemente and Larkspur-Corte Madera schools.

School officials ask that children be registered at the school nearest home, and be at least 4 years, 9 months old on September 2, 1972. Parents should bring a birth certificate or other legal verification of age and an immunization record against measles, polio, diptheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

Three Given Endorsement By Labor

The Marin County Labor Council's Committee on Political Education has endorsed supervisorial candidates Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. of Fairfax, Samuel J. Banks Jr. of Marin City and Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael.

Arrigoni is seeking reelection in the second District, and is being challenged by Barbara Boxer and Dr. William J. Filante, both of Greenbrae.

Banks is challenging Third District incumbent Michael Wornum of Mill Valley.

Peevey is seeking the Fourth District seat of retiring Supervisor Louis H. Baar. Also seeking the seat are Patricia T. Maginnis and James Dougan of San Rafael and Gary T. Giacomini of Woodacre.

Music Students To Travel North

One-hundred-and-forty music students at San Rafael High School were to leave today on a four-day performance tour of Northern California and Oregon.

Led by music teacher Terry L. Summa, members of the orchestra, a capella choir, symphonic band and jazz ensemble will give concerts at Dixon and Central Valley high schools and at Cottage Grove High School in Cottage Grove, Ore. The group — including several other teachers and chaperones — will stop off Friday evening in Medford, Ore., before beginning the journey home Saturday.

The tour is being financed by $5,000 raised by a benefit concert and by dances and pancake breakfasts dating back to last October, Summa said.

Heroin Possession Hearing Scheduled

A preliminary hearing on charges of possessing heroin and narcotics paraphernalia against Catherine Diane Duerner, 21, of Mill Valley, has been set for April 25 in Marin Municipal Court.

She was arrested Feb. 7 by San Rafael police, who said they found a substance believed to be heroin and a hypodermic kit in her purse when they stopped her car for a minor traffic violation, then learned she was wanted on a bad check warrant.

Recorder Taken

A tape recorder and equipment valued at $75 was stolen from an automobile owned by Marin Broadcasting Co. sometime between March 29 and April 5, San Rafael police reported yesterday. The theft was reported by Hugh E. Turner, president and general manager of radio station KTIM, police said.

Tie Vote Ends Plan To Subpoena Aides

WASHINGTON (UPI) —By a 6-6 tie vote, the Senate Judiciary Committee refused today to subpoena two White House aides in its politically explosive ITT investigation.

A motion by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., to issue subpoenas for Peter Flanigan and William Tinnons was defeated during a closed committee meeting called to take up President Nixon's decision to invoke the so-called executive privilege doctrine to prevent the two from testifying.

Also defeated, 9 to 4, was a compromise move simply to invite Flanigan and Timmons to appear at a closed committee meeting.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., abstained on the key vote, giving Republicans a victory since a majority was required to authorize subpoena.

The Democrats have nine committee seats and the Republicans seven, but with Eastland abstaining, there was a tie in the straight partyline voting because two other Democrats, Sens. Birch Bayh, Ind., and John L. McClellan, Ark., were absent. The only Republican absent was Sen. Strom Thurmond, S.C.

Sens. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., assistant Democraticleader, and Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., had demanded that Flanigan be called.

The committee is investigating activities of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and this has held up final Senate action on the nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst to be attorney general.

The White House announced that Flanigan would refuse to testify on grounds of "executive privilege."

"It's vital that we know what Flanigan had to say to Ramsden," Byrd said. He referred to say to Ramsden," Byrd said. He referred to Richard Ramsden, a former temporary White House aide who prepared a financial report on ITT at Flanigan's request, according to Senate testimony.

The government subsequently settled out of court an antitrust suit against the company, permitting it to keep the Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

"This whole thing creates a cloud of mistrust about the relationship between the government and huge corporations," Byrd said.

"Kleindienst is entitled to a verdict. My verdict might be greatly influenced by the part he played in the Ramsden report. I would be influenced greatly by his (Flanigan's) refusal to testify."

Byrd noted that he had previously voted to recommend Kleindienst's confirmation. But today he said that "in view of the things that have developed, I may vote against him."

Square Expansion Will Be Reviewed

The Petaluma Planning Commission will meet in special session today at 7:30 p.m. to review plans for the expansion of the Washington Square Shopping Center.

Developers will seek approval for a tentative map. Plans include a variety store, supermarket, bank and small shops.

Reservations Are Needed

Many subscribers to the Marin Symphony Association's "sitin" children's concert series have not made reservations and may not be able to attend the first concerts Saturday, according to Mrs. Robert L. Schultz, association manager.

Six performances are scheduled Saturday beginning at 8:45 a.m. at San Rafael High School, and six performances on June 3 at 8:45 a.m. at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Reservations for the June 3 concerts are almost filled, Mrs. Schultz said, adding that those wishing to attend the concerts Saturday should send in their reservations forms immediately or call the Marin Symphony Association office in San Anselmo.

State Board Fires Sex Change Teacher

TRENTON, N.J.(UPI) — A high school music teacher who underwent a sex change operation and became a woman was fired Tuesday because the state said she posed potential "psychological harm" to her students.

Mrs. Paula Miriam Grossman, 52, of Plainfield, said she will decide whether to appeal her dismissal. State Education Commissioner Carl L. Marburger ordered the firing on grounds of incapacity.

Marburger said Mrs. Grossman should not teach "because of the potential her presence in the classroom presents for psychological harm to the students." There was a "strong possibility," he said, that students with uncertainties about their own sex roles would be hurt by such a classroom experience.

"I was not really surprised by the ruling," Mrs. Grossman said Tuesday night.

Mrs. Grossman said she has been "largely unemployed," adding she has had a "few engagements" as a nightclub pianist and has given lectures about her sex change operation.

Mrs. Grossman, who underwent the surgery in April, 1971 in New York City, has fought to keep her job in the Bernards Township school system by claiming the rights of tenure earned during a 14-year teaching career as Paul Monroe Grossman. She claimed tenure rights in the appeal to the state when the school board suspended her in August.

Plea Made On Changing Tree Cutting

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A former Forest Service official urged Congress today to end an appropriations policy which he said encourages the government to chop down too many trees in the national forests.

The more timber the Forest Service sells, former deputy chief Edward C. Crafts said, the more money it gets from Congress. The result is that the service is "pressured ... to liquidate more and more of its old growth timber capital."

Crafts, who left the Forest Service in 1962 to head the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation until 1969, is now a director of the Citizens Committee on Natural Resources.

Testifying on behalf of the conservationist organization, Crafts said the Forest Service had "acquiesced in this undesirable connection between appropriations and timber receipts" the practice began about 1950.

"The time has long since passed to break down this disasterous tie if national forest quality management is ever to be achieved," Crafts said in remarks prepared for a Senate appropriations subcommittee.

The former Forest Service official said his views were shared by others who served in the agency.

"Former chief Lyle F. Watts, shortly before his retirement in 1952, told me the worst mistake of his entire career was to condone the buildup in relationship that made size of appropriations dependent on the amount of timber cut," Crafts said.

He added that the policy should be blamed on the Forest Service, White House budget officials and Congress — but that Congress "bears the ultimate responsibility for unbalance in national forest management and for the constant pressure to accelerate timber cutting."

Crafts recommended that more than $5 million of the amount earmarked for timber sales in the fiscal 1973 budget be eliminated and that a cutback in logging be ordered by Congress The savings, Crafts said, should be used to help reseed a part of 5 million acres in need of reforestation— an activity for which the administration is seeking only $2 million.

Crafts said replanting is necessary if the administration is ever to reach its announced goal of increasing the allowable cut in the national forests by 7 billion board feet.

Conservation-Oriented Logging Plan Introduced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation imposing conservationist-oriented controls on the logging industry under a new Board of Forest Resources was proposed today by three Assembly Democrats.

Termed a "major overhaul" of timber regulations by its sponsors, the proposal would enact rules to insure restocking of forest lands, protection of water quality, control of erosion and promotion of aesthetics.

The announcement of the legislation came one day after the Senate rejected an emergency bill designed to establish temporary controls over the logging industry. The measure by Sen. Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding, was supported by the industry and opposed by the Sierra Club.

The author of the latest package, Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, said his proposal is "neither a preservationist bill nor an industry bill."

"This is a bill," he said, "that recognizes the need for timber products and a healthy timber industry. But it provides for rudent and responsible management to promote conservation values as well."

The lawmaker said the proposal, in most cases, would allow any logging technique provided it meets the goals of the act.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Wornum's Record Sometimes Confusing

Recently we reviewed the record of one of the two incumbent Marin County supervisors who are seeking re-election. Today, let's look at the record of the other one: Michael Wornum of the Third District.

Supervisor Wornum has consistently been an environmentalist on broad issues. He successfully urged the board to oppose anti-missile bases in Marin, pushed for an ordinance to control logging, and was prime mover for creation of county bicycle paths. And he tried to hold up Army Corps of Engineers' work on Tamalpais Creek when a dispute developed over it.

HOWEVER, ON ZONING matters — which affect the immediate environment — his record is less consistent. For instance, although he opposed the Richardson Bay specific plan because it allowed shoreline highrises, he won approval of granting Donlon Argues 63 houseboat berths on the bay.

Apartment proposals in Srawberry Cove show the ups and downs of Supervisor Wornum on zoning. In 1969, he voted to override the planning commission to allow 122-unit marina apartments there. But later that year and the next year he dissented to approving 72 units. In 1971, he wound up opposing a revised plan. But he won approval of another development for 334 apartments in the Strawberry Hills.

Although he urged lower density in West Marin, and moved expansion of A-2 minimum lot size to two acres, he voted to override the planning commission to allow a two-story apartment building just outside Mill Valley, 2.5 units per acre in Tennessee Valley Road development, and a Colonel Saunders chicken shop at the edge of Mill Valley. He was for a 102-unit apartment development in Kentfield and 145 townhouse units in Marinwood, but against Pelican Hill apartments and 114 condominium units on 7.8 acres near Corte Madera.

EQUALLY CONFUSING is Wornum's record in some personnel matters.

In the row over Dr. Clyde G. Miller, mental health head, he first wanted to return the whole thing to the Mental Health Advisory Board, but later — after Miller's firing — blamed "the mental health community" for sabotaging efforts to find a new director.

He moved a 1969 resolution branding as unwarranted grand jury charges against Planning Director Paul C. Zucker. When Zucker the next year filed as a candidate for supervisor, Wornum suggested he resign. But he voted against firing Zucker four months later.

On replacement of Alan Bruce as county administrator, Wornum first moved for full-scale recruiting, later moved to stop the screening committee from proceeding with recruiting, and wound up seconding Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni's motion to appoint John F. Barrows to the job with no recruiting at all.

OF INTEREST are what might be called "law and order votes," which found Wornum in 1969 trying to abolish the Drug Abuse Bureau, in 1970 opposing two-man sheriff patrols and trying unsuccessfully for a county police services district. In October, 1970, he urged ending Civic Center security measures. Next month, a bomb went off in the Hall of Justice. After that, Wornum voted to install bullet-proof glass in one of the courtrooms.

Supervisor Wornum has been as active as Arrigoni in trying to involve the county in national and even international affairs.

He has never been much of a cost-cutter, but where he tried to cut provides some interests. He opposed giving funds to the Marin County Historical Society and Marin County Chamber of Commerce, but he strongly backed salary raises for elected officials.

Attempts To Cut Taxes Make Sacred Cows Bellow

By RUS WALTON

Everyone wants lower taxes, right?

Okay, then. Everybody out of the public trough! The only way to cut taxes is to cut government spending.

And that is where things get sticky. Because cutbacks gore oxen — or sacred cows.

Take the state's mental health program, for example. It is one of the best in the country. Not that it is perfect, but, by all standards, California is doing the best job of any state.

The heart of the system is the community mental health program which has been especially successful since the passage of the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act in 1969.

That legislation required that community mental health programs be established and that counties be reimbursed by the state for 90 per cent of the costs of those programs.

This approach enables mentally ill patients to be closer to their homes and families. It also has permitted the state to make more effective use of its mental health dollars, and to close some of its more antiquated mental hospitals.

IN 1966, there were some 26,500 patients in the state's mental hospitals. Today there are only 9,100. The average length of patient-stay has declined from 223 days in 1960, to 75 in 1972.

As the patient population declined, the state has been phasing out some of the older, inefficient installations — throwbacks to the turn of the century when the mentally ill were shunted off to "warehouses" in remote locations.

Modesto State Hospital, built as an army center, was closed in 1969. DeWitt Hospital, in Auburn, also an old army installation, was phased out in 1971. Agnews, near San Jose, is being phased out now.

Mendocino State Hospital is scheduled to be closed by September, 1972. It was built in 1893 as a "security" hospital for mentally disturbed criminals. For years it was jammed with 2,700 mentally ill men and women. Now most of the patients have gone — either to community clincs or transferred to more modern institutions.

FOR ALL ITS successes, the community mental health program has its problems. Every time a hospital is closed, a sacred cow is hit right in the rump.

First, the hospital employes are upset. They balk; they try to make an enlightened move look like a heartless cutback. Not that they actually lose their jobs. Few state employes are ever fired. But it does mean transfers and re-locations.

Second, a state hospital means revenue to nearby communities; loss of the hospital means loss of the revenue. More howls! From the butcher, the baker and the local chamber of commerce. Goring an ox is a messy business.

Legislation has been introduced to delay the closing of Agnews and Mendocino hospitals. The author is Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose. Agnews hospital is in Santa Clara County.

'Pepperland Hyde Park' Highly Successful

As program committee chairman of the "Hyde Park at Pepperland" voter registration-information day April 8, I wish to extend sincerest thanks to the people who made this day possible. It was an indication that there is hope within the political system of today: hope that real change can be brought about through the revolution of the new voter.

Hyde Park at Pepperland was nonpartisan in scope, having participation by Democrats, Republicans, Socialist Workers Party and at least one who claimed to be "totally independent — a private citizen seeking office."

And, judging by the numbers of young people who turned out for the day's events, it was a real success! This, contrary to the dire warnings of a certain group of people in the county who envisaged "an event run by radicals. . . a pot party turning into a riot." The entertainment, which was the cause for some of the earlier criticism, helped to make the day as these dedicated young people shared their talents with all of us with absolutely no pay!. . .

We had no fights — no riots — no busts. What we did have was an entertaining way of learning about the candidates and issues, and an opportunity for the new voters to register and learn what the election system is all about.

Today is Wednesday, April 12, the 103rd day of 1972.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aries.

American statesman Henry Clay was born April 12, 1777.

On this day in history:

In 1861 the Civil War began when Confederate troops opened fire on Fort Sumter, S.C.

In 1945 President Franklin D. Roosevelt died at Warm Springs, Ga. Roughly three hours later, Vice president Harry S Truman was sworn in as chief executive.

In 1954 Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, referred to as the "father of the atomic bomb," was suspended by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission as a possible security risk.

In 1961 Russia launched into space the first human to orbit the earth and return safely.

'Maximum Information With Minimum Comment'

Show Every Night — Just Watch The Sky

I hope you are watching the marvelous show in the western sky about 8 p.m. these nights. The three planets — Venus, Saturn and Mars (their brightness is in that order) — are putting on a celestial ballet dance in the constellation of Taurus, the Bull, between the red star, Aldebaran, on the left, and the Pleiades (Seven Sisters) on the right.

Every night the configuration is different, and, as pointed out in the I-J "Gazer's Guide" recently, the three planets will be joined on April 15, 16, and 17 by the crescent moon.

Sausalito Police Helpful To Citizen

I would like to publicly express my appreciation for the courtesy and cooperation shown me by those members of the Sausalito Police Department with whom we have had to deal. They helped me with a civil matter and showed me how to go about solving the problem. They have been very good in showing follow-up interest. I find it very difficult to believe the accusations that have been made and would do anything I can to support them.

Agrees With Council, Not With Editorial

I disagree with you on your recent editorial on the City of Mill Valley's policy with respect to the release of information on burglaries. I fail to see how the cause of better law enforcement is served by releasing names and addresses of victims. Isn't the duty of our police department to keep the peace, not to provide cannon fodder for the I-J? Our city council apparently thinks so.

Blast At Mill Valley Council Unfair

On April 6, the Independent Journal hit hard at the Mill Valley Police Department policy of withholding the details of burglaries.

Your paper is to be criticized for the editorial "Big Brother Makes Mill Valley Secure" for two reasons:

First, it was poor journalism design because you selected a few facts, ignored others and then slanted the writing in order to leave the impression that the City Council did not have the right to make their decision and that their decision was in fact wrong.

Secondly, you used your slanted article to try to reduce the chances of Jerry Hauke to be re-elected.

Expanding on these two errors, the City Council had many other reasons to restrict the information than the one reason you selected, "We know that other cities are withholding burglary information from the newspapers." Your paper stated this was their only reason and this is an error in fact. . .

Independent Journal, you surprise me — in fact, I thought at first that I was reading another newspaper.

Kennedy For Vice President May Resolve Democrats' Dilemma

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is being propelled into the forefront of the Democratic presidential race — whether he wants it or not.

It is not his own doing. Events are thrusting him into the middle of this Democratic melee.

Candidates are dropping away but none is coming near to getting a lock on the nomination.

This means that it is a near certainty that the convention will turn into a bitter, lacerating process of shifting delegate combinations, and this spells frustration.

FACING SUCH frustration, party leaders are already turning wishful eyes on the most alluring Democrat in their ranks and if frustration becomes an early stalemate, the heat on Senator Kennedy will be terrific.

It will pose a crucial dilemma for Kennedy and this is the kind of dilemma which most politicians relish. I suspect it is giving him no pain.

Harry Truman often remarked: "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen."

Teddy Kennedy shows no sign of minding the heat.

THE SENATOR'S DILEMMA is this:

When he was running for re-election to his Senate seat in 1970, he told Massachusetts voters that he would serve his full term of six years.

He has repeatedly over the last year-and-a-half said he "would not seek nor run for any office this year."

He has cited "family obligation" as one reason and he hasn't mentioned the other —that 1972 might not be a good year for a Kennedy or for any other Democratic presidential nominee.

But can an important political figure who has been a beneficiary of party favors decide entirely by himself when it is good for him to be his party's candidate? Gov. Adlai Stevenson had to say yes in 1952 though he tried to say no.

Can Senator Kennedy reject the nomination some other time when he decides he wants it?

I HAVE BELIEVED from the start that Kennedy was being absolutely direct and meant what he said when he has stated that he "would not run for any office this year." He has not sought the nomination and my guess is that he will not yield to pressure to take it. If this offends the party leaders, so be it; he will leave the political future to take care of itself.

But if a weary deadlock does not develop at the Miami convention, the pressure on Kennedy will not vanish. There is not a probable nominee, whether it be Humphrey, McGovern or Muskie, who would not want, welcome and value the senator as his running mate.

Could he be persuaded to accept? I'm not sure he couldn't.

He would not have sought any nomination and he would be clearly responding to a valid call of his party.

Running as vice-presidential nominee would undoubtedly benefit Kennedy and defeat, if it should come, would not impair his future.

His very acceptance would increase his party's debt to him and virtually assure future presidential nomination.

He would gain valuable experience and national exposure.

These are the arguments which will be made to Kennedy and they could be persuasive.

Anti-Semitic Hate Literature Discredits American Conservatives

WASHINGTON — Herr Hitler is no longer with us, the American Nazi Party has relatively small prospect of winning this year's presidential election, and the Ku Klux Klan uniform these days is more likely to be a business suit than a bed sheet. Yet, however encouraging these signs of man's slow metamorphosis out of the muck, no American should assume that the principles Hitler lived by were buried with his own charred remains.

In spirit, Hitler lives — in Union, N.J.; Gainesville, Mo.; Denver, Colo.; Memphis, Tenn.; Chicago, Ill.; Hollywood, Calif.; Charleston, S.C.; Pompano Beach, Fla.; and in any number of towns in between from which hate literature is poured out by the ton and dutifully delivered by the U.S. Postal Service.

Like the underground press of the left, these hate purveyors of the remote right claim the Establishment press refuses to print their version of the truth, so they have to do it themselves. There is more truth to their complaint than to that of the left, for the shoestring campus and urban papers once peddled "underground" because of their pornographic content and blatant sexual want ads now are sold openly on street corners and newsstands, and many are prospering nicely. But the message in the sheets I describe today, while chaste in sexual terms, is so scurrilous otherwise it is beneath the contempt of even the most conservative respectable papers and magazines.

ANYBODY WHOSE NAME appears once in the public prints is likely to receive envelopes of such trash, unsolicited. Anybody whose name is attached to a regular column of opinion gets it by the bale, and his natural impulse is to throw it away unread. It takes an effort of will to read and file it, but such patience is rewarded — not only by gradual realization of just how much of this excreta exists, but also by recognition of a pattern in it.

Its main burden is anti-Semitism, as crude and heavy-handed as anything Paul Joseph Goebbels ever put out. Its tone can be relatively restrained, and it may be printed beneath a nameplate depicting the Minuteman and the Stars and Stripes. For one example, a compilation of "50 phony arguments" against anti-Semitism and presumably effective answers to each. An excerpt:

"Q — Don't you think that attacking the Jews will be divisive to the conservative movement and perhaps even wreck it?"

"A — The objective is not to preserve the 'conservative' movement but rather to preserve our White Race, our Christian Faith and our Nation. Telling the truth cannot hurt the conservative movement but will strengthen it. It will, however, expose the Kosher Konservatives who have usurped leadership and who are zealously protecting the Jews."

The 50 arguments and answers proceed downhill from there. And that, mind you, is a dignified example. Other broadsheets try to keep alive the infamous "Protocals of the Learned Elders of Zion," a forged plan of international conspiracy used as an excuse for anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union for years, though proved to be the work of Stalin's secret police. They also mail out more modern versions of fake Jewish conspiratorial literature.

ONE GENTLEMAN in Chicago who recently favored me with a bundle of this guff apparently has a collection of rubber stamps he uses to decorate the margins of his and others' prose. "Communism is rabbihic; rabbis killed Kennedy," says one. "Remember the 105 Americans massacred by Israel aboard the USS Liberty, June 8, 1967," goes another.

It is easy enough to dismiss all this as unimportant on the assumption that no decent citizen will entertain it for a moment. But in fact, the distributors of such broadsheets quite consciously try to give the impression that their views are automatically shared by all political conservatives and in the process they give traditional American conservatism a bad name.

Mixed in with racist and anti-Semitic pamphlets, you find others expressing reservations about the United Nations or Mr. Nixon's China policy. On the outside of his envelopes, the Chicago gentleman cited above uses stickers with familiar slogans like, "If you don't like police, call a hippie for help." His viler poison is hiden inside. The result, hardly accidental, is to blur the line between legitimate political conservatism and intolerable racist propagandism.

What this makes clear is that American conservative spokesmen have not only the duty of every citizen to discredit such slander, beyond that, it is a necessity for their own self-interest and that of their respectable cause.

What U.S. Supreme Court Really Said About Busing

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The "busing issue" is sure to figure in election campaigns in many California legislative districts. How did it come about? What has the United States Supreme Court really ruled in the matter?

The Supreme Court, in a series of decisions beginning with Brown vs. Board of Education of Topeka in 1954, held that assigning children to separate schools on the basis of race violated the 14th Amendment. It ruled that school districts must establish "unitary" systems — meaning a single school system to serve all children, regardless of race.

To meet this requirement, many southern school districts adopted "freedom of choice" plans, permitting any child to attend any school in the district. This met the "unitary" legal requirement, but sometimes it left the schools in fact as racially segregated as they had been before.

Equal rights agitators filed court challenges pointing out this failure of "freedom of choice." So lower courts began to order school districts to adopt plans that would actually integrate the schools. In most cases, the resulting plans called for busing. And to give semblance of equity to this forced busing procedure, courts began setting up ratios of black and white which would represent "integration" in specific districts.

THE "BUSING ratio for integration" advocates claimed a major triumph in the unanimous Supreme Court ruling of April 30, 1971, in Swann vs. Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education, which upheld a plan based on the over-all percentage in that North Carolina district of 71 per cent white and 29 per cent Negro pupils.

However, neither those who hailed this "triumph" nor lower court judges who cited it as precedent for more sweeping busing orders seem to have read the cautions in this unanimous Supreme Court decision. Here are some of them:

"If we were to read the holding of the district court to require, as a matter of substantive constitutional right, any particular degree of racial balance or mixing, that approach would be disapproved and we would be obliged to reverse. The constitutional command to desegregate schools does not mean that every school in every community must always reflect the racial composition of the school system as a whole."

However, said the Supreme Court: "Awareness of the racial composition of the whole school system is likely to be a useful starting point in shaping a remedy to correct past constitutional violations." And it noted that the district court had ruled: "Fixed ratios of pupils in particular schools will not be set."

It observed that the busing required for the Charlotte-Mecklenburg plan imposed no more hardship on pupils than busing already in use in that district, therefore could not be rejected on that basis.

In addition, it held: "Neither school authorities nor district courts are constitutionally required to make year-by-year adjustments of the racial composition of student bodies once the affirmative duty to desegregate has been accomplished."

THE DISTORTIONS of the Supreme Court's quite plainly stated unanimous opinion, by lower courts and advocates of classroom-by-classroom mathematical "integration," show how the goal of providing equal education for all may be perverted into a fight over busing vs. the neighborhood school.

Almost the only rational comment in recent weeks has come from Wilson C. Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, who said:

"Neither the state nor the federal government should be in the business of prescribing or precluding approaches local boards may find feasible to exercise. The fussing and fuming over school busing should be ended. . .It is time for us to get on with the business of establishing quality education for all our children."

Benefit To Recycle Patrons Explored

The Novato Sanitary District is considering a suggestion by a College of Marin student that those who recycle newspapers, bottles and cans be granted a reduced garbage collection rate.

Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph said the proposal by Gregory Fearon of the Associated Students at the college was discussed by district directors Monday night.

Directors had "some reservations," about how the idea could be put into practice and referred it to the Novato Disposal Service for comment.

The board also discussed a proposed regulation to require reclaimed water devices at car washes, Joseph said.

With the devices, now in use at some car washes, soap rinse water is reclaimed and used for the initial car rinse, he said.

This system cuts down on the amount of water used and the amount discharged into the sewer system, he said.

Heroin Found On Prisoner

HOUSTON (UPI)—Prison officials searched Cruz Garcia, 18, serving a 12-year sentence for narcotics possession, after his wife completed a prison visit Monday.

They found a picture of Mrs. Olivia Garcia, 26, in the nude, and four small packets of heroin on Garcia. The picture was in his sock and the heroin was in his mouth.

Mrs. Garcia was arrested and charged with possession of heroin and taking it into the prison.

Deliquency Among Girls Up In 1970

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Juvenile delinquency among girls aged 10-17 rose twice as fast as crime involving boys from 1969 to 1970, a government crime report said yesterday It blamed the "more aggressive ... more independent" behavior of girls.

In 1970, the report said juvenile courts for the first time handled more than one million cases involving boys and girls. Courts in rural areas showed a 13 per cent increase over the previous year and courts in cities and suburbs reported 6 per cent increases.

But the Health, Education and Welfare Department study said the rate of increase in delinquency cases slowed for the first time in five years.

"The rise in girl's delinquency has generally been attributed to their changing attitude towards society and society's changing attitude towards them," the report said.

"Instead of the passive role assumed by girls in the past and society's protective role towards them, girls are becoming more aggressive and more independent in their day-to-day activities.

"Unfortunately, some of this behavior has resulted in large increases in the incidences of running away from home and in ... the use of drugs, often necessitating other crime-related activities such as shoplifting, robberty, etc."

The report said that although delinquency is still primarily a boy's problem, the boy-to-girl ratio of court referrals narrowed from 4-1 in mid-1960s to 3 -1 in 1970.

For the period covered by the study, girls' court cases showed a one-year increase of 7 per cent in suburbs, 11 per cent in cities and 20 per cent in rural areas for a national increase of 10 per cent. Boys' cases increased 5 per cent. The population growth of children aged 10-17 during the period was 2 per cent.

Of the 1,052,000 juvenile court cases in 1970, based on a national sample, 799,500 involved boys and 252,500 girls. Other crimes covered by the statistics included aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft, and truancy but not traffic violations.

Administration officials emphasized that the rate of increase in juvenile court cases declined for the first time in five years. Each year since 1965, the percentage increase in cases was higher than the previous year, but in 1970 it was only 6 per cent compared with a 10 per cent rise in 1969, the report said.

"The statistics are very significant, for we may be nearing an end to the growth in juvenile delinquency that has plagued the nation for so long," Jerris Leonard, administrator of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said in a statement.

"Nationally, crime has been increasing, but its rate of growth has slowed. Now that a similar pattern is emerging for delinquency, we may be coming near the point where crime and delinquency will cease to grow and then will actually begin to dip."

France Asks U.S., Saigon To Return To Paris Peace Table

PARIS (UPI)—The French government asked the United States and South Vietnam today to return to the suspended Paris talks on Vietnam.

The French appeal came shortly after the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations, for the second consecutive week, asked that the talks be resumed.

The United States suspended the talks indefinitely on March 23 on grounds the Communists were using them solely for propaganda purposes and refused to negotiate any of the issues involved.

Since then the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations have issued almost daily statements condemning the Nixon administration for refusal to negotiate and demanding an end to the U.S. bomb attacks on North Vietnam.

The Communist negotiating teams also conferred with French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann and asked that he intervene with the United States to try to get the talks started again.

France, since the days of the late Gen. Charles de Gaulle, has taken the position that the United States should withdraw all of its forces from Vietnam and let the Vietnamese settle their dispute at the conference table.

The French government issued the appeal for a resumption of the conference after today's weekly cabinet meeting at Elysee Palace under chairmanship of President Georges Pompidou.

Information Minister Leo Hamon told newsmen, "the French government is expressing the wish that the Paris conference on Vietnam resume without delay with a view to reaching a settlement insuring the security and independence of the Vietnamese populations."

"The French government firmly believes that the Vietnam conflict must be settled through a political solution, and that such a solution can be found," Hamon said.

The South Vietnamese already had rejected today's formal request by the Communist delegations that Thursday's session be held as usual. A Saigon spokesman said neither the Americans nor the South Vietnamese were prepared to negotiate under the threat of Communist arms.

"For the reasons which we have made clear on March 23 —the day of the suspension — and through various statements thereafter since the North Vietnamese Communist invasion of our country, there will be no session Thursday," the South Vietnamese satement said.

The regular sessions of the 39-month-old talks were suspended indefinitely March 23 on Nixon's instructions. American delegation spokesmen said the weekly meetings were being used by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong as a propaganda forum.

Both Washington and Saigon delegation spokesmen since have made it clear that they will not return to the negotiations while the North Vietnamese military offensive in South Vietnam is still underway.

"It is perfectly clear that no serious negotiations can be held under pressure of arms," said a spokesman for the Saigon delegation Tuesday.

The North Vietnamese note said last week the U.S. delegation was "happy to invoke the same unreasonable and completely erroneous pretexts" for not resuming the regular weekly sessions.

"In the meantime, on President Nixon's orders, hundreds of American warplanes, including B52s, and dozens of American warships have launched repeated attacks in the region of Vinh Linh," province of North Vietnam, the note said.

Author Denied Professional Tenure At Yale

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—Erich Segan, author of the best-selling novel and Hollywood movie success "Love Story," has been denied professorial tenure by his Yale University departmental colleagues.

Segal, a Harvard-educated classics professor at Yale, was offered a senior lectureship in place of full tenure, Prof. Jerome J. Pollitt, departmental chairman, said Tuesday.

A senior lecturer is a senior faculty member appointed to an academic position for a specific time period without assurance of permanent appointment, a Yale spokesman said.

Kissinger Postpones Trip To Japan — Viet Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger has postponed a scheduled visit to Japan so he can help President Nixon during the Vietnam War crisis. But the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff describes the situation in the war zone as "stabilized."

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said yesterday that Kissinger had given up plans to fly to Japan from Canada Saturday, and would make the trip in early May.

Ziegler said Kissinger, national security affairs adviser to Nixon, would remain at his post because of his responsibilities in keeping the President informed on military and diplomatic developments in the war.

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, the joint chiefs chairman, briefed congressional leaders on the war situation yesterday and talked to reporters, telling them "the South Vietnamese are fighting extremely well."

"For the last 48 hours the situation has been stabilized," Moorer said.

Meanwhile the Senate yesterday overwhelmingly rejected a proposal that it decide whether to declare war on North Vietnam.

The proposal was offered Tuesday by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, an outspoken and often unpredictable dove. He opposed a declaration of war but wanted to bring it to a vote, hoping its rejection would tell President Nixon something new about Senate feeling on the war.

Vehicle Parts Reported Stolen

An unknown amount of vehicle parts and tires were reported stolen from the Marin Sanitary Service vehicle repair shop, 112 Front Street, San Rafael, between 5 p.m. Monday and 2:30 a.m. yesterday, police reported.

Entry apparently was through sliding double doors which were pulled off their tracks by a chain attached to a company vehicle, police said.

ARTICHOKES, OR "anginares" as they are called in Greece, are a typical and integral part of Greek cuisine. They can be prepared in endless ways.

POPULAR GREEK DISH

Oregano, Garlic On Lamb Cubes

By PHYLLIS HANES
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

One of the most popular of the traditional Greek dishes is souvlakia — cubes of lamb delicately flavored with oregano and garlic and served on skewers.

Most of us know it as a shish kebab or just kebab. And if you like food with a continental flair, you'll order it with one of these names or perhaps just by asking for brochettes.

Another Greek favorite is the artichoke called "anginares" in Greece. They are prepared there in a variety of ways — boiled, fried, stuffed or some people eat them raw to capture the full, delicate flavor. No matter what way they're eaten, they're as much an integral part of Greek cuisine as souvlakia.

Although many Americans are traveling to Greece these days, you don't need to take the trip to enjoy artichokes. Our own artichokes, grown in California, are among the finest.

RIGHT NOW, there is a plentiful supply of fresh spring artichokes in local supermarkets. When shopping for them at this time of year, look for those that are bright green and have tightly packed leaves.

The size of the artichoke does not indicate maturity, as large artichokes grow in the middle of the plant's stock, and smaller ones near the base. To store fresh artichokes put them unwashed in a plastic bag and refrigerate.

When serving your artichoke and souvlakia Greek dinner, prepare a lemon sauce called avgolemono to accompany the artichoke as a dip.

SOUVLAKIA

⅓ cup olive or salad oil
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon crushed oregano
Dash of pepper
2 pounds leg or shoulder of lamb, cut in 2-inch pieces.
½ pound medium mushrooms
3 medium onions, sliced
4 medium artichokes
4 cloves garlic
Crushed oregano
Boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
3 medium tomatoes, quartered
Avgolemono sauce

Pour marinade over lamb, mushrooms, and onions in shallow dish. Cover and chill several hours or overnight, mixing occasionally. Wash artichokes, and cut off stems at base. Place a clove of garlic and dash of oregano in center of each; place in boiling water, one inch deep in saucepan large enough to hold artichokes upright, snugly. Sprinkle each artichoke with one-quarter teaspoon salt. Cover and boil gently 20 to 25 minutes or until stems can be easily pierced with fork (add a little more water if needed). Turn artichokes upside down to drain, set aside.

Meanwhile, drain lamb and vegetables; reserve marinade. Skewer lamb and broil four inches from source of heat 5 to 7 minutes on each side. Alternate mushrooms, onion, and tomato on other skewers; brush with marinade and broil 3 to 4 minutes per side. Serve lamb and vegetable kebabs with artichokes and avgolemono sauce.

AVGOLEMONO SAUCE

3 eggs
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup warm chicken stock or bouillon

Beat eggs in top of double boiler; gradually blend in lemon juice and stock. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until slightly thickened. Beat until foamy. Remove from heat and serve hot with artichokes. Makes about two cups.

ANCHOVY BUTTER SAUCE

4 artichokes, prepared as directed
8 flat anchovies, finely chopped
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon finely chopped parsley

While artichokes are cooking, mash anchovies with a fork. Combine with butter, lemon juice, and parsle; mix well. Cook over low heat to serving temperature stirring frequently. Serve with hot artichokes.

HOMEMADE TREAT

Meaty Beef Shanks For Body; Vegetables Color Easy Soup

So your family doesn't go for casseroles and some of those other mixed up concoctions! For their sake, you can use the same type of ingredients, but serve them forth in great style as the soup du jour. Without question, homemade beef vegetable soup is a treat. It's not much work either, if you use this simplified oven method. With a couple of pounds of meaty beef shanks to give the soup body and soul and fresh vegetables to give color, texture and flavor, it's an easy recipe.

First, brown the beef shanks under the broiler, turning only once but letting them become a rich dark brown. Add both water and tomato juice, seasonings and a quartered onion and let the soup simmer away in a slow oven.

In removing the beef from the bones, discard any of the tough tendons or cartilage, but be sure to scoop out the delicate marrow and return it to the stock along with the chopped beef. For the final cooking, slice the celery and carrot. At this point make sure you don't overcook the tasty vegetables so they still retain their colors and textures.

With a hearty, nutritious soup like this, all you need to complete the meal is some whole grain bread and butter.

HOMEMADE BEEF VEGETABLE SOUP

2 pounds meaty beef shanks
2 teaspoons salt
4 cracked peppercorns
1 bay leaf
1 quartered onion
1 cup tomato juice
3 cups water
1½ cups sliced celery
1½ cups sliced carrot
1 (10½-ounce) can beef broth

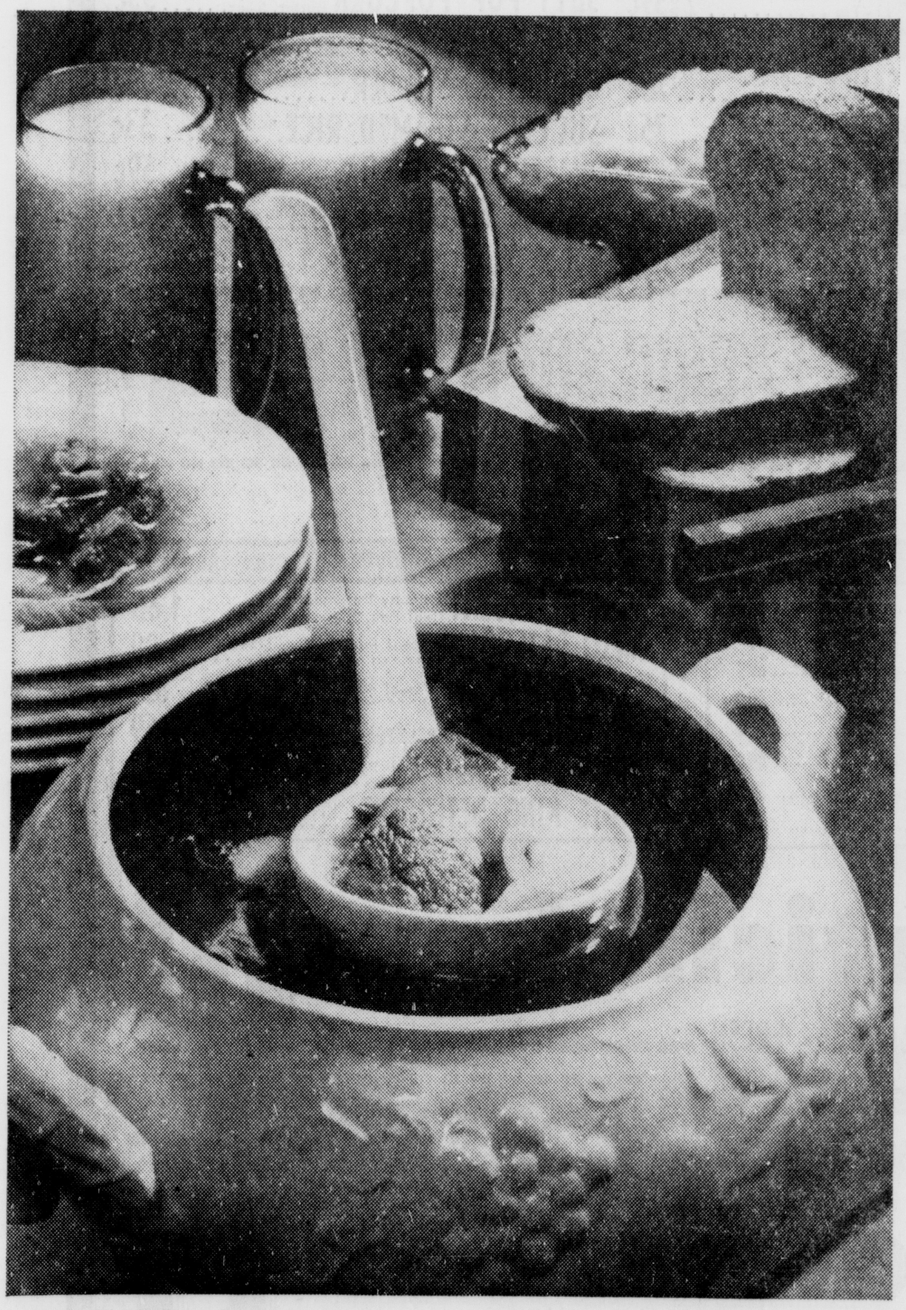
Trim fat from beef. Brown shanks under broiler. Place in pot with salt, peppercorns, bay leaf, onion, tomato juice and water. Cover and cook in slow oven (300 degrees) about two hours until beef is tender. Remove shanks and cut beef into chunks. Skim fat from broth. Return beef to pot along with celery, carrot and canned broth. Cover and cook 10 to 15 minutes longer until vegetables are barely tender. Makes about two quarts.

NOTE: Soup may also be simmered on a burner.

Beef Popular

Next time you order beef in a restaurant, you'll know that you're in good company. Of all food items available, beef is number one in restaurants according to a recent USDA study of the foodservice industry.

In fact, about 28 percent of all beef produced in the United States is sold through foodservice outlets, accounting for more than 21 percent of their purchases.



THIS BEEF and vegetable soup is hearty enough to make it a meal in itself, served with slices of whole wheat bread or French bread.

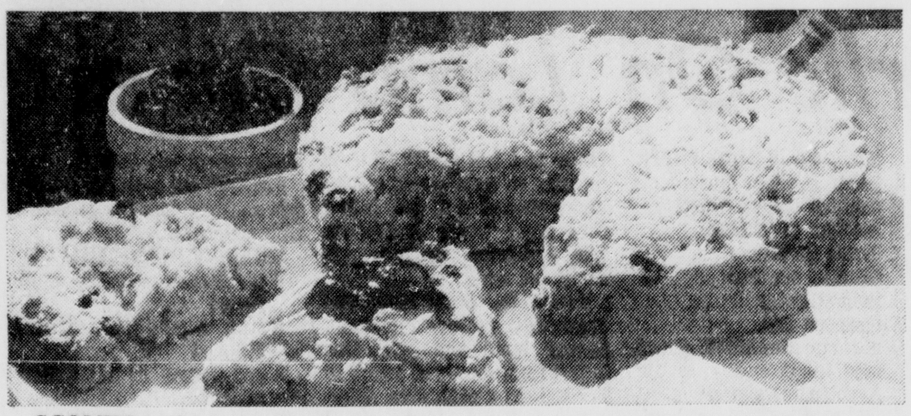
SPECIAL TREAT

New, Simpler Scones Are Baked



SCONES, the standard of the Scottish tea table, turn up warm and fresh for an after-school snack. This version is made with whole wheat flour and extra raisins for more nutrition.

When there's time to make a special treat, try this new recipe for scones made with whole wheat flour and raisins. An ancient Scottish classic, scones were traditionally made on a griddle. This baked version is much simpler. It can be served plain. arm from the oven, or spread with jelly and peanut butter for a helping of protein.

These wholesome scones are fine grown-up fare, too. They're delicious and can be put together quickly when friends are expected for a coffee break or afternoon tea.

The word "scone" derives from "schoonbrood" which means fine bread. Snackers, young and old will agree that it's aptly named.

Automatic Shopping

Grocery shopping may soon be as easy as pushing a button. An automatic retailing machine developed in Europe gives consumer choice of 280 items in any size and weight.

The machine collects shopper's money, automatically retrieves and delivers items through special receiving door.

RAISIN WHOLE WHEAT SCONES

- 1½ cups sifted flour
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 3¾ teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup whole wheat flour
- ¼ cup shortening
- ⅔ cup seedless raisins
- 1 egg, beaten
- ½ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel

Resift flour with sugar, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Stir whole wheat flour in package to lighten before measuring. Stir ½ cup into dry ingredients. Cut in shortening. Add all remaining ingredients. Stir lightly to stiff dough. Turn into well buttered 8-inch round cake pan. Mark into 6 pie-shaped pieces with sharp knife (or cut with scissors). Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. Serve warm, split and spread with peanut butter and jelly.

Makes 1 (8-inch) round or six servings.

Festive Bacon Bites

Bacon, one of the foods served traditionally at Easter, can be used to make tasty hot appetizers. Simply wrap strips of bacon around water chestnuts or pieces of banana, secure with small wooden picks and broil.

STRUMMING GRANDMOTHER

Mrs. Ralph Welch sings as she strums a tune on her Spanish steel guitar. Mrs. Welch, who was 83 years old on April 4, started playing the guitar as a child in Ohio and had played only for her own enjoyment until she recently joined the Novato Rural Band. She will play with the band when they perform at a dance on April 21 at the "Whistle Stop," the Marin County Senior Citizen social hall in San Rafael. The apartment complex where Mrs. Welch and her husbnd live in Novato has a swimming pool, which she uses every day during the summer.

Business World Lures Housewife

By JOAN LISETOR

JANE COLLINS
In business world

Jane Collins reentered the business world seven years ago after a 14-year interruption to be a full time wife, mother and "chronic volunteer."

Last month she was appointed vice president and branch manager of the San Rafael office of Bell Savings and Loan Association.

Mrs. Collins, her husband, Bradford, and their daughter, Robin, moved to Fairfax in 1951 from their native Oregon. Then an advertising executive, Collins has since retired to devote full time to his painting. In Oregon Mrs. Collins, a graduate of the University of Oregon, had a career in the banking field.

"You know what happens in Marin," she said. "There was the P-TA, Girl Scouts, Junior Theater of Marin, and then we sent Robin to Marin Country Day School, and the school needed something as a permanent fund raiser to pay for scholarships.

"WE OPENED the Marin Country Day Closet Shop in Sausalito, which I ran as a volunteer. I got to thinking if I am going to work this hard I should be working for money."

She went to work for Northwestern Savings and Loan (now Fidelty Savings and Loan) in San Rafael seven years ago.

"I took advantage of the courses offered by the Savings and Loan League," she said. "The trouble most women have when they go back to work is they would like to start where they left off. That is not possible because of changes, and that is true in all fields. You have to reenter slowly."

There are new opportunities in business for women because the women's liberation movement has advanced new attitudes toward women, Mrs. Collins said.

Savings and loans are the specialty shops of finance, according to Mrs. Collins, who said she sees full service banks as the department stores.

"WE CAN offer special services, and much of my job (as branch manager) involves woman-to-woman talk — widows who have been left money and have no idea what to do with it. Traditionally women are suited to handle the money used by families.

"Women are good with anything they are allowed to learn. All it takes is the opportunity and a willingness, and they should not be pre-judged by patterns that don't exist."

Liberals are the only ones who make things happen, she said, and revolutionaires have made the social changes which produced the present sunnier climate for women in business.

"Women have always been relied upon in business; now they are beginning to be appreciated," she said.

Her daughter is following in her father's foot steps in the advertising business, because, according to her mother, she can't balance a checkbook.

WHILE MUCH of her job involves personal contact and customer service, Mrs. Collins is involved in making policy decisions as a full vice president.

Prior to her appointment at Bell Savings and Loan, Mrs. Collins was with Homestead Savings and Loan first as a branch manager in Sausalito, then promoted to manager of the home office in San Francisco. At Homestead she was an assistant vice president, a far cry, she said from being a full vice president.

Parties To Open Sailing

By MOLLY MARIN

Belvedere Lagoon parties this weekend will celebrate opening of the lagoon sailing season on Sunday.

On the eve of opening day parade, a cocktail dinner dance will be held at Corinthian Yacht Club in Belvedere. Before the dance Dr. and Mrs. Richard Leonards will entertain a group of lagoon residents at a cocktail party.

On Sunday at 2 p.m. the Belvedere Sailing Society will officially open the lagoon's sailing season with the roar of Basil Knauth's cannon. Commodore Leland Dake will lead a parade of sailboats, including Suns, Lidos, FJs, Sunfish, and canoes, rowboats and peddle boats. Prizes will be awarded for best fleet decor, best fleet maneuver and most original decor.

Homes will fly flags and several residents will entertain friends from San Francisco and other parts of Marin. Commodore and Mrs. Leland Dake will hold a cocktail buffet. Dr. and Mrs. William Ferguson Jr. plan a luncheon. Messrs. and Mmes. William Johnstone and Mervin Field will hold a luncheon to benefit the Marin Foundation. Mrs. Harris Carrigan plans a luncheon for the Lido Fleet. A cocktail buffet will be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schwarz. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davidson will serve a luncheon.

ON APRIL 13, 1947, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Heyman of Novato were married at the Church of the Visitation in San Francisco. Last Saturday their two daughters, Mrs. James Landon and Maureen Heyman of Chico, and son, Kent, hosted a surprise reception for their parents 25th wedding anniversary at the Sportsman Lodge in Novato. Adding to the evening's entertainment, Kent and Hank and David Hicks furnished music — Kent at the piano, Hank playing guitar and David on drums.

BILL HANSEN of San Rafael left yesterday for Mexico on vacation. Driving a camper, he plans to make stops along the way to Mazatlan, where he will spend several weeks.

HELEN HELP US!

If Traveling Husband Strays, It's An Excuse To Dump Him

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 55 and my reading material these days isn't exactly "Pilgrim's Progress." My reading, in fact, leaves the impression that a married man who travels is entitled to a "fling," just so long as she's a pick-up or a paid-for, and he cares nothing for her.

In my book, this is adultery, whether there's emotional involvement or not, and his wife has every right to throw him out. Right or wrong? — NOT SURE

DEAR NOT:

Right: if the wife wants an excuse to dump her traveling man. Sadly enough, many women these days go along with this husband's version: "My wife is a married woman all the time (sez he) and she'd better not forget it. But I'M a married man only when I'm not on the road." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You asked if anyone had ever won a sweepstakes prize by checking the "No, I don't want the product" square and sending in his entry.

Please tell "Still Waiting for My Prize" that I'm still waiting, too, for more years than I want to remember. Often companies ask you to check on the outside of the envelope whether you're a purchaser or just a hoper.

To find out whether the "No" envelopes were ever opened or just summarily dumped, I checked the "No" box — then enclosed in my envelope a stamped, self-addressed card on which I had written "Entry received." An accompanying note asked that the card be mailed at once. That was back in April, 1971, and I'm still waiting for its arrival.

Maybe this doens't prove anything, but it comes close. — IN THE SAME BOAT

DEAR HELEN

We had been entering these sweepstakes contests for years, just as had "Still Waiting for My Prize." I never believed they'd pay off but couldn't resist.

Then, in January of 1971, my husband won $87,000 from a magazine subscription house — and that was the year we didn't buy magazines!

We learned later that only one major winner in this particular contest had checked the "Yes" box. All the others hadn't taken out any subscrptions, though in our case, we had been customers in previous years.

We took a million-to-one chance — and won! It can happen! GRAND PRIZE WINNER

DEAR P.W.:

Congratulations! But . . .

I wish you hadn't told me that! From now on, I'll worry every time I throw away a sales pitch sweepstakes offer! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your ownamusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL FREEMAN
Wed in Greenbrae church

(Jeff Wiener photo)

Michael Freeman, Janice Pansini Wed

Janice Pansini of Greenbrae and Michael Freeman of Palo Alto were wed Saturday in a ceremony at St. Sebastian's Catholic Church in Greenbrae. A reception followed at the Meadow Club in Fairfax.

Maid of honor was Joleen Bianchini of Fairfax, and the bride's sisters, Mrs. Richard Lewis of Petaluma and Janie Pansini of Greenbrae; and her sister-in-law, Mrs. David Pansini of Walnut Creek, were bridesmaids.

Tony Santaferrano of Santa Clara served as best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by the bride's brothers, David and Andrew Pansini of San Francisco; Dan Pevarnick and the bridegroom's brother William Freeman, both of Santa Clara; and the bride's brother-in-law, Richard Lewis.

Following a wedding trip to Carmel, San Diego and Disneyland the couple will live in Foster City.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pansini of Greenbrae, and Mrs. A. E. Rave of San Francisco is her local grandmother. She is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and Santa Rosa Junior College and also attended College of Marin.

Mrs. Carroll Freeman of Santa Clara is the bridegroom's mother, and he is also the son of the late Mr. Freeman. Michael attended high school in Santa Clara and Los Angeles City College. He is employed by Golden Gateway Garage in San Francisco. Carroll Freeman Jr. of Palo Alto is also his brother.

SMART SHOPPER

More Than Meat Hurting Budgets

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Behind the rapid increases in meat prices — reversed at least temporarily by some decreases —lie other factors that may hurt pocketbooks more than the visible price changes.

While prices fluctuate, the characteristics of marketing meat are changing even faster. Cattle raisers and meat packers have become ingenious at developing ways to get the most they can per pound without openly violating any government regulations.

As a result, consumers are often paying high prices for types of meat and cuts of meat they do not realize they are getting.

Have you ever stopped to wonder how restaurants can offer breaded veal cutlets at such low prices — often the lowest meat dish on the menu — when veal prices are so high?

HAVE YOU ever wondered how there could be so much so-called calves liver available when calf and veal meat is so scarce?

Officials at the U.S. Department of Agriculture are asking the same questions. One of them, admitting he had no statistics on the matter, speculated that much low-grade beef is being sold as veal and much of what passes for calves liver is really beef liver.

The difference between veal, calf and beef is primarily a matter of age. For the first nine months or so, an animal is considered veal. For the next five, it is usually classified as calf. A beef animal is usually at least 14 months old. But meat experts tell the differences by color of flesh and bone development.

Two recent developments at the USDA illustrate what is happening to meat standards. Last January, the department relaxed its requirements for grading "prime" and "choice" veal to reflect the smaller quantity of high quality veal coming onto the market. Growers were keeping the better animals for the beef market in hopes of making more money.

The easing of standards allows marketers to upgrade veal, stamp it with a higher grade label than it formerly would deserve on a quality basis. So the consumer may now pay "prime" prices for meat that would not formerly qualify for such a label.

MORE RECENTLY, the agriculture department published proposals designed to regulate the marketing of a meat product called "bullock," which is just another word for young bull.

Publication of the proposed standards for grading "bullock" reflects another big change in meat marketing. More and more bulls are being raised for retail meat purposes. Growers have found bull meat leaner and less costly to raise.

In fact, it is difficult to tell the difference between good bull meat and lower grade beef. Surveys show that consumers always tell the difference, but beef always wins taste tests over bull.

Even USDA inspectors find it difficult sometimes to tell the difference between bull and beef meat. As a result, no one knows exactly how much bull meat now passes as beef in such products as frankfurthers and hash.

SOME CATTLEMEN asked the USDA to allow "bullock" to be marketed as beef, with the same grading and no indication that it is bull meat. ("Bullock" refers to a bull under two years old. Meat from older animals would still be called bull.)

USDA compromised with the term "bullock." Grading terms would be the same as those for beef.

If that sounds like more bull for consumers, you may be right.

Labor Unit Studies Women's Suggestions

(I-J Special Report)

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U. S. Department of Labor and its Women's Bureau are studying recommendations submitted by participants in a meeting for Spanish-surnamed women from Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas, held last month in Phoenix, Ariz., according to Elizabeth Duncan Koontz, women's bureau director.

The meeting was the first of three the bureau plans to hold with women of minority groups.

In addressing the closing session of the meeting, Mrs. Koontz said, "I know the frustration that you feel and it is not peculiar to you as Spanish-surnamed women, but it is most important to you because it is your frustration. You have been through an experience these last two days that could be a beginning of the assertion of female leadership that is expected and desired in this country.

"This is a marvelous beginning for a lot of things. "I would like you to know how much I appreciate your assuming the expense of attending this consultation and helping us in our efforts to be of service to you."

Another speaker, Dr. Edward Aguirre, Department of Labor Regional Director, San Francisco, urged the women to translate their ideas and thoughts into significant action. He said they must follow up with realistic examples of what they want done, based on the facts and on "where you want to be six months from now, one year from now, two years from now."

"If you come out of this conference without an action plan," he said, "one that can be acted on by the administration and evaluated by you, then this conference and you have failed."

He pledged the assistance of his office and recommended that the Women's Bureau and the Spanish-surnamed women set up some form of communication on a regular basis.

Fingernails Thrive On Moisture

Fingernails, like skin, thrive on moisture. The more moisture you put in and the less that comes out, the healthier nails will be, according to cosmotologists at Elizabeth Arden, Inc.

Creamy emulsion, massaged into the cuticle and over the entire nail area, moisturize and keep nails from chipping and breaking. Oil based polish removed work quickly and efficiently without stripping the nail of valuable moisture.

Will be married

Engagement Announced By Parents

The engagement of Patricia Marie Schwessinger and David D. Monzon has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Lt. Col. (ret) and Mrs. George C. Schwessinger Jr. of Novato.

Pat is the sister of Margie, Nancy and Bill Schwessinger. She was graduated from Novato High School, College of Marin and Sonoma State College. She is employed at McGraw Hill Book Co. in Novato.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Libby Monzon of Sacramento and the sister of Dennis, Dector and Donald Monzon. He was graduated from Rio Americano High School and attended American River College and Sacramento State College. He is serving with the Navy at Treasure Island in San Francisco.

Eye Area Shows Most Aging Signs

The eye area shows signs of aging first as it is continually in motion and almost totally lacking in moisture, according to cosmetologists for Elizabeth Arden, Inc. Light creams, rich in moisturizers and lubricating ingredients, should be applied at bedtime to prevent wrinkles.

Gently patting the around the eye area with fingertips helps the skin to quickly absorb the cream and also relaxes the eye area and smooths away lines and fatigue.

Registrations Being Accepted For Day Camp

Registrations are being accepted for Camp Chai, the Marin Jewish Community Center's pre-school day camp. The camp will have two four-week sessions, June 26 to July 21 and July 31 to Aug. 25.

Camp Chai, for children between the ages of 2 years and 9 months and 5 years and 9 months, will combine a preschool curriculum with the fun of a summer day camp, according to Nancy Goldstein of the center.

A brochure and more information are available from the center.

THE TWISTER'S PATH

An entire block of utility poles was torn down yesterday when a tornado raked the St. Louis suburb of Florissant. The twister hopped across Florissant and parts of neighboring St. Charles County, killing one person, injuring several and damaging considerable property.

Rights Panel Wins Right To 'Anonymous' Surveys

The Marin County Human Rights Commission won approval yesterday from county supervisors for an "anonymous and voluntary" survey of persons appointed to county boards and commissions.

The supervisors' action followed a week of controversy after they ordered destruction of a "confidential" survey which sought information on the sex, race, age and income of those appointed.

The board said yesterday it didn't disagree with survey goals, but rather the manner in which it was carried out.

The board said that as long as the questionnaires did not ask appointees to identify themselves and was voluntary it would not object.

Its action came at the request of Stewart Boxer, chairman of the human rights commission, who said he was "disturbed" by the board's decision to destroy the original survey without consulting his commission.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

MOTEL — Tabled a proposal for Hugh Dougherty of Stinson Beach, a former county planning commissioner, that the county investigate possible apartment use of the soon-to-open Fern Court Motel in Stinson Beach. The board ordered that the county's motel ordinance be updated to preclude apartment use of motels in the future.

POOL HALLS — Rescinded a section of the county code which prohibits persons under 18 from entering pool halls. The prohibition was approved by supervisors in 1947.

OPEN SPACE — Approved proposed amendments to state law to allow the county board of supervisors to sit as the board of directors of a countywide park and open space district.

ACCOUNTING — Approvedproceeding with plans for a new accounting system aimed at obtaining an additional $200,000 per year from the federal government. Plans call for keeping separate record and accounting systems for greater control in monitoring funds.

PARTITIONS — Accepted an $11,995 bid from Partitions Modules Inc. to do several inter-office remodeling jobs at the Administration Building and Hall of Justice.

LIVESTOCK — Authorized $2,425 compensation to three Tomales Bay sheep ranchers for loss of 97 sheep, apparently killed by a single dog. Compensation is authorized under state law which says part of the county's dog license revenue shall be used for such purposes.

WILD RIVERS — Continued to April 18 consideration of supporting Sen. Peter H. Behr's "Wild Rivers Bill" which calls for preserving the Eel River in its natural state. The continuance came after Supervisor Louis H. Baar objected to any proposal which would block flood control of the river.

PRISON — Heard a report from attorney Hadden W. Roth on the progress of the county's task force studying conditions at San Quentin Prison. Roth, a former municipal judge, said the group's findings would be presented in September.

YOUTH CORPS — Authorized $1,806 toward the hiring of 39 young persons to work with the county on a part-time basis during the summer. The county's share will be matched with $16,255 in federal funds.

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Charles Slaymaker, an instructor at Dominican College, and Thomas Jackson, a student at San Francisco State College, to the county's Archaeological Investigation Committee, which is charged with regulating excavation of Indian middens. Supervisors also named Dr. Robert Marvin to the Mental Health Advisory Board and reappointed George Gnoss Jr. and Robert Pitts to the county's redevelopment agency.

FLOOD ZONE — Continued for further information a request from Ross Valley Flood Control Subzone 9-A that it be dissolved. The subzone was created to handle creek maintenance in the unincorporated areas of he Ross Valley but has requested the county to take over that function. Supervisors have refused since that service is not offered to other parts of the county.

DOGS — Discussed dogs and cats during lunch with Marin County Humane Society officials. Director Mel L. Morse told supervisors plans are in the works for licensing cats.

Courthouse Site Sale Hearing Set

The Marin County Board of Supervisors appeared supportive yesterday of a proposal to sell the old county courthouse site in San Rafael to a Sacramento construction firm.

While no formal vote was taken, the consensus of the board appeared to favor selling the site for $650,000 provided the Fourth Street frontage remains in open space.

The board set April 25 for a hearing on the proposal whch has been worked out jointly with officials of San Rafael.

The proposal basically calls for the county to drop its asking price of $750,000. The site has been appraised at $800,000 but has remained vacant for years.

McKeon Construction Co., represented yesterday by San Rafael attorney Albert Bianchi, has proposed building a six to eight-story office structure with another three-story building attached. A three-story parking building also is proposed and 45 per cent of the site would remain open.

In setting the public hearing, supervisors directed County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to draft an option agreement requiring the firm to put up an unspecified amount of "front-end money." The county would keep the money if the deal fell through.

Radio Is Stolen From Sales Office

A radio valued at $100 was taken from the Colonial Sales Co. office, 15 Lovell Avenue, San Rafael, sometime between 9 p.m. Saturday and 8:15 a.m. Monday, police reported yesterday.

Man Arrested In Flower Theft

A 23-year-old Fairfax man was arrested Saturday on suspicion of petty theft and possession of dangerous drugs, San Rafael police reported.

Kenny Ralph Zorn, 23, of 121 Meerna, was released on $1,000 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, Zorn was seen taking potted flowers from the Safeway Market at 700 B Street at 2:29 a.m. He was arrested for petty theft, police reported. In searching his car, police found a bottle of pills thought to be a dangerous drug, the report said.

Waterway Ordinance Expanded

The county ordinance which controls development along tidal waterways was expanded yesterday to give Marin supervisors control over a greater area.

Basically, the supervisors' action extends the county jurisdiction upstream on creeks affected by tidal action such as Lagunitas Creek at Point Reyes Station.

Development proposals for areas within 100 feet of creek banks must be approved by the county's fill committee which yesterday was renamed the environmental planning committee.

Prior to the amendment, the county's jurisdiction on tidal waterways was arbitrarily set. For instance, it might run upstream as far as a road on one stream and to a telephone pole on another.

The new countywide limits are based on high tide marks, except where the Bay Conservation and Development Commission has authority.

Most controversial of the areas now to be included is Lagunitas Ceek at Point Reyes, where rancher Waldo Giacomini won exclusion from the ordiance for the purpose of each year constructing an earthen dam to prevent salt water intrusion during summer months.

Diabetes Unit Plans Lecture

The Marin County Diabetes Association will sponsor a lecture in April and cooking lessons in May. Both free.

Dr. Robert A. Hedquist, a county dentist, will speak on "Diabetes and the Importance of Good Dental Care" at 8 p.m. on April 25 in the community room of the Episcopal Church in Ignacio, 400 Ignacio Boulevard.

Cooking classes will be held in the Pacific Gas and Electric auditorium, Third and Brook Streets, San Rafael, 7:45 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. May 2; 9:45 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. May 9 and 7:45 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. May 16.

Burglary Suspect Enters Innocent Plea

Robert Paul Hollenbeck, 24, of Novato, pleaded innocent Monday to a charge of burglary and a superior court trial was set for the week of June 5.

Hollenbeck was arrested last month after officers responded to a burglar alarm at a Mill Valley home. They said they found Hollenbeck on the patio attempting to leave with a color television set.

Speakers Agree 'Rehabilitation' Is Overworked In Penal Reform

By LARRY MOWELL

A platitudinous prison official, a despairing attorney and an optimistic ex-convict agreed last night that "rehabilitation" doesn't describe what is happening to men in prison.

Speaking before an almost full house at the Fine Arts Building Theater of the College of Marin, Lawrence Bennett, chief of research for the state Department of Corrections, said the department should not aim its inmates at rehabilitation, but "at something like reentering into society on some sort of a productive basis satisfactory to the individual."

Ed Snell — a two-time murderer whose slick appearance and gravelly George Raft voice betray the gangster background he has renounced — also said rehabilitation isn't what the men in prison need.

"Everybody is trying to close the barn door after the horse is out. I prefer the word, 'remotivation,' " he said.

Remotivation comes not from the prison system, but from the inmate himself, said Snell, executive director of Seventh Step Foundation, an inmate self-help program.

The third speaker in the second of six prison forums at the college was attorney Salle S. Soladay, who dismissed the evening's topic with, "I don't think there is any rehabilitation that occurs in prisons so that ends that topic."

She said that despite the great problems in prison and the public awareness of those problems, no change will occur because people don't know how to fight institutions. Prisons, therefore, will outlive the interest in reform, she predicted.

Bennett said, "I am going to give you a lot of platitudes because that is my job," then presented the official side of the rehabilitation question.

He said the rate of return to prison has been sliced from 47 per cent to 25 per cent in the past decade, but he said this is due less to the prison department than to a "real groundswell of people working with us."

"The fact of the matter is there is a built-in problem in the situation. It has to do with the kept and the keeper. There is a built-in mistrust," he said.

Because of that mistrust an inmate will not always respond to good intentions of prison officials and parole officers, he claimed.

"We can set the stage, we can help people to move forward," but only self-help programs, other ex-convicts and the families can complete the task of keeping a man from returning to prison, he said.

"The only way you are going to stay out is to run into a few individuals who, when you ask an honest question, give an honest answer," he said.

He noted the economic advantages of making a man a taxpayer instead of a burden — "and I'm stressing this point because for the first time in 30 years I'm a taxpayer," he said.

All the ex-convict should have is a chance, he said, but each one needs help to overcome the burden of a prison record.

Snell said he is not a prison reformer and certainly no friend of the state department of corrections, but added, "If this dumb jackass can stand up in front of you people and get help and can go to the department of corrections and get the same help, I figure we are going someplace."

Next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the theater John Irwin, an ex-felon who now teaches sociology at San Francisco State College, will speak on the new convict movement and the prison Union's Guerrilla Theater will perform.

"Husky chops—tender young taste... American

That's what I like about LAMB"

"Loin chops of tender, young American Lamb are bigger and meatier, the way a man likes them. Team them with the gusto of Spanish Olive Relish and you have American Lamb—Gaucho style!"

LAMB LOIN CHOPS with Spanish Olive Relish (makes 3 to 6 servings)

3 tablespoons olive or salad oil
1 small clove garlic, crushed
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 medium green pepper, chopped
1 medium red pepper, chopped
2 medium ripe tomatoes, peeled, seeded and cubed
3/4 teaspoon paprika
Salt and pepper
3/4 cup small pimiento-stuffed Spanish green olives
6 lamb loin chops, 1 to 1-1/4 inches thick

Heat 2 tablespoons of the oil in large skillet over medium heat; add garlic, vegetables, paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, dash pepper and olives. Cook uncovered, stirring frequently until vegetables are tender. Spoon olive relish in center of heated platter and keep warm. Pour drippings from skillet. Season chops with salt and pepper..Heat remaining oil in skillet; add chops and sauté 5 to 6 minutes per side, or until lamb is as done as you like it. Arrange chops around olive relish.

ART REVIEW

Students Boot An Old Theory

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Psychologically, walking into a high school art show is not the same as confronting an adult exhibit. You tend to go in with your judgments tucked away, your critical vision a little blurred and your expectations a lot less demanding.

Such attitudes are totally out of place at the High School Invitational which continues through Saturday at the Marin Society of Artists Gallery in the Ross Art and Garden Center. Compared to much adult work seen locally, these youthful exhibitors are embarrassingly good.

If they show a weakness, it is a curiously recurring one in the area of painting and drawing. Perhaps the more direct, sensual, physical, touching thing inherent in sculpture or crafts makes them seem more attractive to students. Perhaps maturity in painting is just slower or more labored in coming. Whatever — there is a certain lack of expressive freedom and confidence in this area.

It is made more noticeable by the exceptions, two of which are Ann Montgomery's scrawly thin colors scratched with black on a big white canvas box, and Donna Sharee's "Sketchbook," a group of imaginative polished drawings which span pastoral and city scenes, designs and the portrait of a wrecked truck.

Both girls are Terra Linda students. And in a way, this is Terra Linda's show. The school's entries are consistently excellent in every category, especially in the show's strongest area, crafts. In a handsome macrame group there are Heidi Thalman's natural hemp with turquoise beads, and Deborah Franziblau's complex green, gold length with wood, shell and ceramic beads.

In weaving, Nancy Aurely's rough bands of tweedy dark browns, purples, orange and yellow, and Maggie Whisenhunt's cloud brushed sun bleaching out the sky and burning the landscape, are both impressively mature.

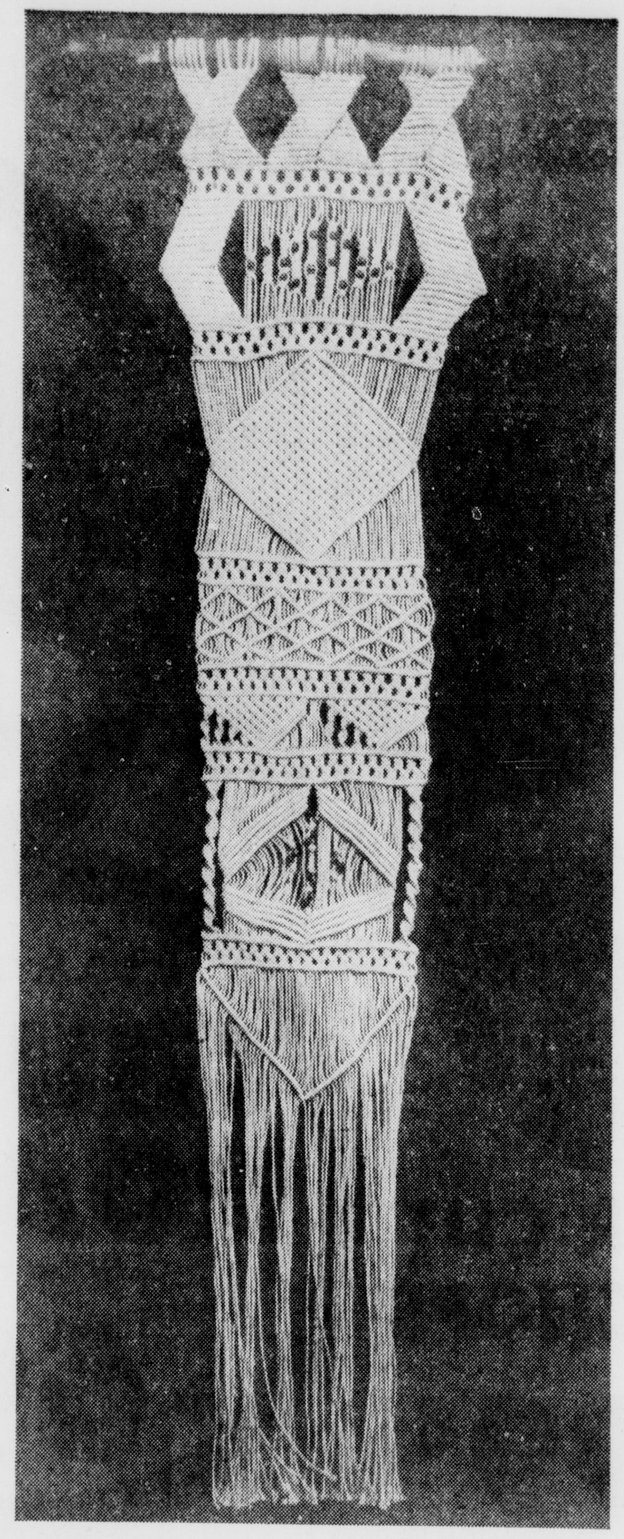
The jewelry in this show is outstanding and rather distinctive from school to school. Redwood High's, for example, has a refined restraint in its frequent crowns and vines of polished metal. While Terra Linda's is a free, confident assortment of metallic twists and flattened planes clutching shells, rocks and semi-precious stones.

There is much to admire among the ceramics such as Tam High student Mark Brumbaugh's serene open bowl, the dot-topped bottles by Mary Liebig of San Marin, and the pressed cylinder glazed in speckled gray and erupting in a crest of rough, dark clay which is the work of John Kwock of Terra Linda.

There is also work in stained glass such as the window by Susanne Dennis of San Andreas. There are several batiks such as one interestingly restitched by Drake student Patricia Graves. And there are photographs.

A generally conservative show it goes only as far out as Max Agajan from Redwood takes it with an etched, deteriorating window hung over a seedy sink.

His is immediately balanced by a San Rafael entry, Brook Merrill's classically calm, carved wood plaque whose levels allude to landscape. It is a thoughtful piece, reflective of the show as a whole, a show which is a credit to the art departments which produced it and to the Marin Society for affording the opportunity to see just how much creative thinking Marin students can really do.



HIGH SCHOOL ART — The spidery refinements of this beaded macrame by Laureen Urbais of Novato High School, is only one of many handsome aspects of the High School Invitational at the Marin Society of Artists Gallery in Ross.

Music Of Far East To Be Heard

The music of China, Thailand, Bali and West Java will be heard in Angelico Hall at Dominican College in a free public program Sunday at 8 p.m. It will be presented by students from the University of California, Los Angeles, Institute of Ethnomusicology under the direction of David Morton, acting director.

About a dozen students will fly to the Bay Area for the performance, but their unique instruments will be carefully transported by station wagon. The collection includes zithers, xylophones, gong kettles, metallophones, two-stringed bowed "fiddles," cymbals and drums.

Dr. Morton will provide a background commentary for the program, which will include a Mahori ensemble from Thailand, a Katjapi ensemble of floor zithers from Sudanese West Java, Balinese dances accompanied by a quartet of metallophones played with mallets and solos on the cheng, one of the oldest Chinese instruments.

In 1954 the University of California, Los Angeles, became the first United States institution to formulate a doctoral program in ethnomusicology to provide training in the basic musicianship of non-Western musical cultures.

The program provides a foundation for developing performance skills in specific African, Oriental and other types of music to which research methods of western historical musicology do not apply.

Student Art Works Displayed

Increased Ferry Fare Due Study

A 50 per cent boost in one-way fare aboard the Sausalito ferry will be considered by the Golden Gate Bridge District's finance-auditing committee at 9 a.m. tomorrow in toll plaza offices.

The current 50-cent fare would become 75 cents on May 1 under the staff proposal. Commuter fares would not be changed.

Selection of a team of designers for the planned ferry terminals at Larkspur and Sausalito will be considered by the building and operating committee at 11 a.m.

The full board will meet at 10 a.m. on Friday.

Marin Symphony Ends Season With A Sterling 'Joan Of Arc'

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Maestro Sandor Salgo and Vera Zorina in the title role were the birghtest stars in a firmament of lesser lights last night in the Marin Symphony Orchestra production of Honegger's "Joan of Arc at the Stake."

The dramatic oratorio, presented in English instead of the original French, closed brilliantly the 20th season of the Marin Symphony with one of its most ambitious undertakings, and the audience that nearly filled the Marin Veterans Building auditorium gave it tumultuous acclaim.

Never have Salgo's great gifts been more severely tested than in this feat of drawing many disparate elements into an integrated whole with tremendous dramatic impact — and that after only two rehearsals.

These various elements were, in addition to the orchestra, an adult chorus of about 100 voices composed of singers from Contra Costa Community College directed by Phillip Eton, the Bach Festival Chorus directed by Kenneth Ahrens and an approximately 60-voice children's chorus from Marin Country Day School and St. Luke's Episcopal Church, San Francisco, directed by Barry Mineah — plus a singing cast of six and speaking cast of five.

Heading the speaking cast, the renowned former ballerina Broadway and film star of the 1940s Vera Zorina was sensational. No longer young, but with a slim figure, flowing dark hair and dressed in simple long white robe, she easily created the illusion of a youthful Maid of Orleans, not only in appearance but in the timbre of her voice. She was an imposing vision standing in the only spotlight, the only one of the cast to declaim her lines entirely from memory.

The grace, poise and telling economy of her few gestures were a tribute to her ballerina training and her diction was flawless.

Clarity of diction, including that of the children, was, thanks to good training and excellent acoustics, one of the outstandlingly successful elements of the production.

Next to order of importance in the speaking roles was a bearded Scot Beach as Father Dominic, an extraordinary departure for the whitty San Francisco sophisticate. His stentorian voice made every word of Joan's only advocate ring clear and true.

Al Newman and especially Terry McGovern as narrators were very good. Only Glenna DeWeese in the very brief role of Mother Wine was not easily understood.

In the singing roles Marie Gibson was most impressive as the Virgin Mary with a clear, resonant soprano that soared at the end over the orchestra and choruses at full volume. Also outstanding in several singing roles was tenor Dau Parkerson.

Heard as from a distance on high, the voices of mezzo soprano Margery Tede and Soprano Margot Power as, respectively, St. Catherine and St. Marguerite (Joan's guiding voices) were not prominent but an effective counterpoint to Joan's declamation.

Other singing minor roles well were baritone Marc Clemens and Sarah Blair, a member of the children's chorus. John Brebner was the staging consultant and Thomas N. Foris was in charge of staging and concert facilities.

In this music with striking instrumental effects that varies from soft and lyrical melody and jazzy variety to clangorous cacaphony the choruses and orchestra achieved an electrifying sonority in the stunning climax.

Bridge Plans To Try Toll Free Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Commufers who form car pools can travel across the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge for only $1 per month beginning May 1.

An experimental toll-free lane for car pools began several months ago. That system will be continued to the end of this year with the $1 token fee. Normal fee is 50 cents per round trip.

About 4,000 motorists have participated in the threa persons or more pool special that has been in effect during the morning commute hours.

Music Scholarship Deadline Saturday

Applications for Sonoma State College music scholarships must be submitted by Saturday, the college administration has announced.

Application forms and information are available at the music department. Four $150 scholarships will be awarded for the 1972-73 year, based on musical ability, academic record and financial need.

$2,000 For Dance Trip Is Raised

The fund drive to send the Sonoma State College Dance Workshop to Yugoslavia has received a boost of $2,000 from the college's Center for Performing Arts.

The funds were raised by performances from the music, drama and dance department. The money would normally have been spent on production costs and performance rights to productions.

The dancers so far have raised $5,000 toward the total trip cost of $18,000 to go to Ljubljana in July to perform at the internationally famous ballet biennial. The group is the first college or non-professional dance group to be invited.

Fund raising performances by the dancers and other college groups are being planned. Tax-deductible donations to the fund may be sent to Dr. William O. Cord, Division of Humanities, at the college.

Death Penalty Will Be Aired

The pros and cons of the California Supreme Court's ruling on the death penalty will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program.

Speaking in favor of the ruling will be former Marin Municipal Judge Hadden W. Roth and Marshall W. Krause, who for eight years was Northern California counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union. Opposing the ruling will be Marin Dist. Atty., Bruce B. Bales and George Nock, deputy state attorney general.

Questions may be phoned in during the live broadcast. The program will be repeated by tape-recording at 10:05 a.m., Sunday.

Open Panel Meetings By Marin Urged

Supervisorial candidate Gary T. Giacomini, calling for criminal charges to enforce the state's antisecret meeting law, yesterday proposed opening to the public meetings of subcommittees of the county board of supervisors.

"It is during these meetings that much of the vital information that goes into the formulation of policy decisions is provided," he said at a coffee at the San Rafael home of Jim Kean.

Giacomini, an attorney and resident of Woodacre, said the public "has a right to be a part of" such subcommittee meetings.

Giacomini said the Brown Act has been violated in Marin 59 times since 1966 by city councils, commissions, district boards and the board of supervisors. "Yet not a single criminal charge has been filed for the purpose of enforcing this law," he said.

Petaluma School Squeeze

By BONNIE BARD

The Petaluma Board of Education last night agreed to close Grant School and put all other elementary schools on double sessions next fall if additional tax revenue isn't forthcoming.

With reserve funds depleted, the board said economies must be made if the budget is to be balanced in the 1972-73 school year. A tax rate increase was defeated by voters March 21.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said the board agreed that Grant School would be closed and students shifted to McNear School.

The board considered putting only some schools on double sessions, but decided all should be changed in the interest of economy and fairness. All elementary district busing also would be stopped to save money.

Four teaching positions already have been cut for next year and the board said last night another six teaching jobs may be transferred to the high school district. Principals would be required to spend at least 22 per cent of their time in the classroom as teachers.

Meyer said that if Grant School is indeed closed, the board will consider moving San Antonio Continuation High School from the Sonoma-Marin Fairgrounds to the building to save $6,000 rent per year and to bring better efficiency in operating the building.

Several residents around Grant School said they would object to the continuation high school students being housed there, saying they may be a menace to the neighborhood.

The board called a special meeting for April 24 at noon to decide on whether to try for another tax rate increase election. They asked that residents send letters or call the district office to indicate if they would support or reject another try at the polls.

Of the nearly 200 persons at last night's meeting, an informal show of hands indicated most felt another election also would fail.

The board said that if the proposed school closing and double-session plan is put into effect, other proposed cuts such as supplies and contracts with Sonoma County for library books and audio-visual equipment might be restored. Board member Sol Fishman said he would oppose requiring students to bring their own pencils, paper and other supplies since children from low-income families would be placed at a disadvantage.

Meyer said some citizens vigorously opposed double sessions as inferior education and indicated an interest in starting a non-profit foundation for supplemental financial support for the district. He said if that plan or a tax rate increase is approved, the school closing and double sessions may be avoided.

Muir Beach Group Backs Pair In Jobs 'Conflict'

Muir Beach Improvement Association directors last night voted to support a director of the Muir Beach Community Services district and her husband, the district's general manager, both held in conflict by the county counsel's office.

The association, according to member Janet Stump, will ask the county if there is not some way both can be retained in their jobs.

The county auditor-controller recently sent a letter to the community services district advising that either director Mary Mosteller resign her post or her husband, Gordon, quit his $500 per month job.

"We resent the manner in which the action was handled," Mrs. Stump said, "and we resent the slurs cast on the reputations of both the community and the Mostellers."

She said the improvement association believed the community services district board acted in good faith when hiring Mosteller last November, and pointed out that Mrs. Mosteller abstained from voting when he was hired.

(No report on the hiring was furnished the Independent-Journal.)

"They're both long-term residents who have given a great deal of service to the area," she said.

She said it was unfortunate that laws designed to control larger boards had to apply so strictly to smaller ones, since, in this case, nothing irregular had been done.

She said the board, also at last night's meeting, heard a report from the state Division of Beaches and Parks on possible long-range plans for the development of Big Beach.

State officials said the beach would be maintained as a wild beach, and that the state would soon begin to charge for parking and that a snack bar will be operated by concession.

The board also discussed but took no action on plas for a public meeting to present the Muir Beach master plan to area residents. The association has been working on the plan. Board members said one recommendation would be that the Muir Beach district be zoned residential-agricultural rather than residential.

Changes Taking Place Within Scouting; Innovations Hailed

By JAY GOODWIN

Lt. Gen. R.S.S. Baden-Powell — founder of the Boy Scouts in 1908 — would smile if he were alive to witness the changes taking place these days within the scouting movement.

In an effort to promote the original Baden-Powell ideals of self-reliance and personal growth, the national leadership of the scouts has moved to shift decision-making within the troops from the scoutmasters to the scouts.

It is hoped that such a shift in emphasis will provide individual scouts with a greater sense of participation and responsibility.

Changes are taking place throughout the country — including Marin County.

"We've been an autocratic, scoutmaster-dominated organization for years," said Mary Lou Jacobson, a member of the Women's Auxillary for Troop 36. "The personality of the scoutmaster determines the character of the troop. You can turn a kid off if he doesn't like his scoutmaster under our old set up. Now we're going to be more boy-centered."

Scoutmaster Donald L. Lessley, manager of Fidelity Savings and Loan Association in San Rafael, also sees great problems in today's scouting program.

"Scouting has been a put-on as far as youth is concerned," he said. "A great deal of inertia develops that keeps scouts doing juvenile activities that they have difficulty relating to.

"People join scouting at 11. By the time they reach puberty, it no longer relates to them and they drop out."

Dissatisfaction with current scouting practices led to a complete evaluation of the Boy Scout organization by a management-consultant firm from New York. The firm's report, "Is Scouting in Tune With the Times?" has provided the impetus for some drastic changes within the scouting movement.

This shift in emphasis is more than rhetoric. Beginning in September, several specific alterations in the scouting program will take place.

One of the most important innovations will be the "personal growth contract" that each scout will make with his scoutmaster. Rather than following a rigid pattern of advancement — that often cramps a scout's individuality — each scout will sit down with his scoutmaster and develop a personal program for progress within the troop.

The national leadership expects that such a contract will help focus a boy's interest and encourage him to work harder in his chosen areas.

A Boy Scout publication discussing the new personal growth contract said: "We must never forget that we are in the business of trying to cause each boy to reach his potential and especially his potential for creativity. The personal growth agreement may be the first time a boy ever really thinks about such a thing."

An attempt to involve each boy in the decision-making of the troop will be encouraged through the liberalization of advancement reviews. Older boys will be allowed to participate in the review process for younger scouts.

"After all our study," the scouting magazine continued "we don't think this is letting down the bars. We think the boys will be rougher on their peers than will adults."

In an effort to eliminate a built-in delay in the recognition of a scout's accomplishment, a "skill award" will also be created.

Unlike merit badges, which are presented only after a board review, the skill awards will be awarded immediately upon completion of the requirements. They will be symbolized by metal belt loops.

Another new concept in the modified scout program will be the introduction of a leadership corps. Designed for those boys 14 and 15 years old, who have not joined the Explorers (An offspring of the Boy Scouts for teen-agers), the leadership corps will provide older members of a troop with a mission of their own.

After taking special training, a member of the leadership corps will be expected to offer assistance and guidance to the younger members of his troop.

The Boy Scouts advancement program is also undergoing change. Rather than a fixed formula of merit badges required for each rank, the new program allows a wide choice of badges.

"These kids still want guidance," said William H. Sherwood, executive of the Marin County Boy Scout Council. "But, they don't want to be dictated to."

An outstanding example of scout participation in decision-making, said Sherwood, was demonstrated by the boys of Troop 39 in Santa Venetia.

After five months of fund-raising, the troop hopped a plane and jetted to Washington, D.C. for a week's vacation. They paid for their own air-fare by selling Christmas wreathes and organizing a successful dinner-dance.

"This is the type of initiative we like to see," said Sherwood. "Those plans emerged from within the group."

The troop is so eager, in fact, that Scoutmaster Charles Chiapellone is already thinking about a trip to Europe or Alaska in 1974 or 1975.

Sherwood doesn't expect much resistance to the liberalized ideas of the "new" Boy Scouts from present scoutmasters.

"Sure they are being asked to give up some of their power," he said. "But the average scoutmaster here has a college degree and is an executive in some corporation. He can accept change."

"The logger in Eureka who does the same thing all day long finds it harder to change his concepts than our scoutmaster in Marin."

There were 6,000 enrolled last year in Marin scouting, but the count has dropped to 9,800 this year.

Plan To Protest School Job Hour Cut Dropped

The Cotati School District board last night heard that plans to protest reduction in time for the district psychologist have been dropped.

Psychologist Adam Wolf in a letter to the board said he still did not agree with plans to reduce his service from five days to three days per week next year, but would accept it. A request for a hearing before a state hearing officer has been withdrawn.

The board last month said it was pleased with Wolf's job performance, but could not afford to keep him on full-time next fall. Wolf and several parent groups opposed the board's decision, saying psychological services are important to elementary students.

The board accepted the resignation of Dorothy Peter, who will retire in June after 14 years as a teacher in the distict.

Sentencing Set In Shoplift Case

Mary Frances Stewart, 38, of Terra Linda, pleaded guilty yesterday to a reduced misdemeanor charge of grand theft and sentencing was set for May 19 in Marin Municipal Court.

Mrs. Stewart was arrested Jan. 24 after she allegedly shoplifted $98 worth of goods from the Emporium in San Rafael. Another $119 worth of articles said to have been taken from the store was found in her car, police said.

She earlier pleaded innocent to a felony charge of grand theft, but that was reduced when she agreed to plead guilty to the less serious charge.

Opening lead — ♠ 8

NOT CARELESS

A careless player might fail to make this slam, losing one spade and one diamond. As it happened, however, the late Albert H. Morehead was the declarer, and careless play wasn't in his dictionary.

West picked a horrible opening lead, the eight of spades, which succeeded only in giving declarer a very elegant line of play.

Morehead covered the opening lead with dummy's nine, and East had to play the jack. Declarer won with the king of spades and drew three rounds of trumps, ending in the dummy.

NEXT STEP

The next step was to lead the ten of spades from the dummy. Morehead felt pretty sure that West had led "the top of nothing," in which case East surely held the queen of spades.

East played his queen on dummy's ten of spades. South won with the ace of spades, and West dropped the seven.

SIX IS HIGH

At this stage, after only two rounds of spades, Morehead's six of spades was high. The slam contract was now assured, but declarer could not resist the temptation to take a safe but spectacular finesse. He led a club to dummy's ace and returned the deuce of spades from dummy. East followed with the three of spades, and Morehead finessed with the four of spades.

SURE WINNER

It was a sure winner, since West wouldn't have dropped the seven if he had held any other spades. Now declarer could lead the six of spades to discard the queen of diamonds from dummy, and all 13 tricks were assured.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 10 9 2
♥ - K 10 7 5
♦ - A Q
♣ - A 10 5 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two no-trump. This shows 13 to 15 points, with balanced distribution and all unbid suits stopped. You cannot jump to three spades because your spade support is too weak.

If You See Fire Use The Phone

HOLLAND, Mich. (UPI) — If you see a fire breaking out in this West Michigan community, use the phone because the 56 fire alarm boxes have been sold at $25 each — 20 of them to fire departments in other cities.

The City Council agreed to get rid of the boxes because of the growing number of phones in private homes.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

T F 2. Offered a role in "The Partridge Family," David was signed up as an actor by TV executives who did not know he could sing.

T F 3. His good looks and small size (5'8" and 130 pounds) were immediately discovered by little girls, who insisted that parents spend $1 to buy "I LOVE DAVID" posters for them.

T F 4. When his record, "I Think I Love You," went on sale it became a sensational hit and its total pressings have gone over the 3 million mark.

T F 5. Mobbed by 20,000 screaming fans at Madison Square Garden recently, David today can only find privacy by vacationing in places where he isn't seen on TV, such as in Jamaica.

ANSWERS

12-City Election Roundup In Marin, South Sonoma

BELVEDERE

Two incumbents and a newcomer, who credited his success to a vigorous campaign, were elected yesterday to the Belvedere City Council in a race which all candidates agreed had no major issues.

Elected were incumbents Thomas S. Price and Merritt K. Ruddock along with David E. Bordon, a 28-year-old lawyer.

Sixty-seven per cent of Belvedere's 1,543 voters turned out for a total of 1,032 ballots cast.

Although Bordon agreed with the others that the Island city had no burning issue in the election, "there are quite a lot of minor issues," he said last night.

During the weeks he said he spent getting out and meeting people, he learned of concerns over the possible closing of Belvedere School, increasing traffic and a need for greater communication between the city council and the residents.

Price, 45-year-old businessman, is an eight-year veteran of the council and spent three of those years as mayor. He said during the campaign that he was pledged to keeping growth from ruining Belvedere.

Ruddock, 58, also has served on the city council for eight years and spent two years as mayor. He is a general partner in the San Francisco firm of Almar Exploration Ltd.

Ruddock said he sought reelection to continue to work the council has been doing and cited development of the city's master plan, improvement of relations with Tiburon and drainage and waste disposal projects as priority items for the council.

CORTE MADERA

One incumbent kept his seat on the Corte Madera Town Council but a second one lost out yesterday to a young resident who waged a vigorous coampaign to take top place in a close five-man contest.

Elected to the town council were Robert J. Flahive, 32-year-old publisher's representative, and Robert P. Simmons, 37, an incumbent councilman.

Losing his seat was incumbent Byron D. White, 68, who had campaigned as the taxpayer's friend, and who ran fourth. Narrowly missing being elected to the council was Herber C. Leney, 64, who ran four votes behind Simmons. His supporters last night indicated they will ask for a recount.

Vote totals were Flahive, 923; Simmons, 833; Leney, 829; White, 733; and I. Thomas Zaragoza, 692.

Forty-eight per cent of Corte Madera's 4,417 voters, or a total of 2,154, turned out for the election.

Town Clerk Betty S. Behel and Town Treasurer Frank L. Bigley, who ran unopposed, collected 1,696 votes and 1,656 votes respectively.

Although fire protection had started out to be the major issue in the election, the city council recently took the steam out of that issue by voting to hire six new firemen.

Housing and planning were the most discussed matters, and both Flahive and Simmons made upgrading of the town's six-year-old general plan a major plank, in the their campaign. Leney, who also favored updating the master plan, said he favored holding the line on taxes, as did White.

COTATI

Cotati voters yesterday ousted all three incumbent councilmen in favor of a slate of young people.

Elected were Annette Lombardi, 24, with 367 votes; Stephen Laughlin, 25, with 335 votes, and Geoffrey Dunham, 29, with 311 votes.

Incumbents defeated and their votes were Lester H. Peterson, 248; Alfred Falletti, 242, and Ben Oretsky, 234.

Unofficial but complete returns showed 587 votes cast of a possible 1,027 for a 52 per cent turnout.

Losers Petersen and Oretsky gathered at Falletti's home where a victory celebration turned into a somber session to analyze their defeat. All agreed that the young people of Cotati had worked hard and successfully to get support for the three Sonoma State College graduates.

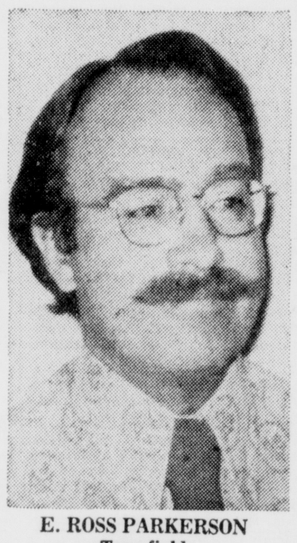
"I think people were voting more for a cause than individuals," Petersen said. "The young people voted in a solid block and the old voters were more apathetic."

With the vote, the three young people will be the controlling force on the five-man city council. Miss Lombardi, who is vacationing in Europe, is the first woman to be elected to the Cotati council.

Dunham said he believed that a coalition of young and old people brought about the election of the young team. "People just thought it was time for a change in the council and the direction of the city," Dunham said.

In the campaign, the winners had urged careful planning of Cotati's growth and said its rural character should be retained.

Miss Lombardi is co-owner of the Eeyore Book Store, Dunham operates the Portabello West antique shop, and Laughlin works as an English tutor at Santa Rosa Junior College. All are single.



E. ROSS PARKERSON
Tops field

FAIRFAX

A major shift in Fairfax city government was virtually assured yesterday when voters easily elected one present planning commissioner and a former commission member to the city council.

E. Ross Parkerson, currently chairman of the planning commission, and Albert E. Gately, a former member who lost a council seat by seven votes in a 1970 election recount, led a field of eight candidates.

Voters also clearly endorsed a measure rezoning the Town and Country Club property to a commercial-recreation designation design to thwart residential development.

And in a allied move, they ousted the city's 71-year-old treasurer, Harold H. Taft, in favor of housewife Priscilla C. Gray, chairman of a committee which forced the Town and Country question onto the ballot.

Parkerson, a 40-year-old planner with the County of Marin, led the balloting with 858 votes, while Gately, 51, a workmen's compensation referee, got 629. They replace Mayor Cornelis van Vliet and Francis J. O'Connell, neither of whom sought reelection.

Others receiving votes were Adelaide P. Wilson, a former councilman, 528 votes; Joseph E. Martinez, 505; Harold S. Lezzeni, 392; Randall L. Garrison, 306; Glenn B. Meagher, 280; Urban M. Nielsen, 162, and Edward T. Duncan, who had withdrawn from the race, 38 votes.

The Town and Country Club rezoning, placed on the ballot by a petition circulated by a group called Preserve Land and Nature, was approved, 1,415 to 625, despite a warning by City Atty. Wallace S. Myers that a court might overturn it.

Mrs. Gray, PLAN chairman, beat out another challenger for the treasurer's post, Benjamin F. Courtz, as Taft ran third. The vote was: Mrs. Gray, 732; Courtz, 631, and Taft, 549.

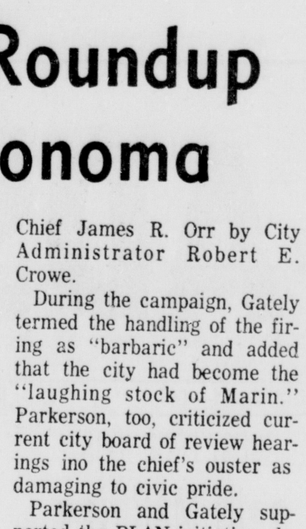
The city council outcome is certain to tip the balance of power away from Councilmen Robert R. Souza and Lee Nelder, who often were in the majority on major issues with van Vliet. O'Connell and Councilman Frank J. Egger, with whom the newcomers are expecited to side, formed the minority bloc.

It was the Souza, Nelder, van Vliet majority year that voted to uphold the firing of Police Chief James R. Orr by City Administrator Robert E. Crowe.

During the campaign, Gately termed the handling of the firing as "barbaric" and added that the city had become the "laughing stock of Marin." Parkerson, too, criticized current city board of review hearings ino the chief's ouster as damaging to civic pride.

Parkerson and Gately supported the PLAN initiative, designed to prevent property owner Max Friedman from offering the 23.5-acre Town and Country Club land for apartment development, and came out strongly in favor of low-density development throughout town.

In her campaign, Mrs. Gray said she would refuse the $65-a-month salary that goes with the treasurer's job.



EARL J. O'GRADY
Mayor ousted

LARKSPUR

Erstwhile Planning Commission Chairman Robert H. Lee piled up the largest vote yesterday. He was followed closely by environmentalist Joah Sestak to defeat Mayor Earl J. O'Grady and Councilman Benton A. Sifford Jr.

Only incumbent William G. Fleckles won reelection.

The other two women on Larkspur's seven-candidate ballot, Elizabeth Johnson and Jane Epidendio, trailed the field.

Lee, following what has become almost a traditional route from commission to council, amassed 1,509 votes, running strongly in all but the Greenbrae precinct. Fleckles, who topped the vote four years ago, received 979, dominating the Greenbrae precinct.

Lee, if he celebrated his victory, did so late. He presided over a lengthy planning commission meeting while the votes were being counted, and was not available for comment on the results.

Mrs. Sestak took time from a celebration with campaigners at her Madrone Woodlands home to say "I'm very enthusiastic" about the vote. "I really think it'll mean a lot for Larkspur. . . we've got a new council to work with. I'm sure the turnout was the liveliest in a long time."

Of the city's 5,182 registered voters, 3,368 cast ballots, for a turnout of45.7 per cent, according to Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer.

Fleckles expressed amazement at the turnout, and called it "a sign of how healthy the city is." He added that, "Bob (Lee) deserved election, and Joan (Sestak) probably did more than anyone else for the turnout. The Town Meeting group (which Mrs. Sestak helped found) has been strongly felt as the conscience of the council.

"I can't say I'm ecstatic over the election," Fleckles said, "because I regret the loss of Ben (Sifford) and Earl (O'Grady). But I can work with the new council."

Mayor O'Grady blamed the results on "probably the green area (open space proposals by the winners) and a lot of teamwork. But I still worry about taxes and how we're going to afford the open spaces. I don't know what's going to happen. . ."

Sifford said, "I have no regrets at all. I didn't have a real organization. For $125 to $135 how much of a campaign can you run?

"I'll just drop in on the council now and then to see if the candidates keep their promises and keep my tax rate down. . ."

Environment was almost the only issue in the campaign. Nearly all candidates endorsed keeping the North Ridge as an open area. Preservation of Corte Madera Creek, restriction of residential density and other planning programs won varying degrees of support from the candidates. The two losing incumbents voiced concerns about taxes that the voters seemingly chose to ignore.

Fleckles last night indicated he would speak up at the next council meeting to support Lee's call for expanded planning facilities. "We're behind Corte Madera in 'bread and butter' planning. . . we probably should have some kind of a board of zoning adjustments" to free the planning commission for more long range planning, Fleckles said.

MILL VALLEY

Incumbent Jerome C. Hauke failed to win reelection to the Mill Valley City Council yesterday. Newcomers Robert E. Capron, Robert E. Burton and Gerald J. Hood were voted in.

Voters also approved bonds for a new fire station in East Mill Valley.

Capron led the field of six council candidates with 2,316 votes, while the other newcomer, Burton, had run unsuccessfully for the council in 1970.

Burton ran second this time with 2,000 votes. Hood, executive director of the Marin County Human Rights Department won 1,840 votes, just six more than incumbent Hauke. Others receiving votes were Dolph F. Jaeger, 1,200, and Thomas N. Belsky, 341.

The fire station bonds, totaling $275,000, failed to win the necessary two-thirds majority on last June's ballot, but were easily endorsed this time. The vote was 2,472 yes, 951 no. The measure, although not a dominant campaign issue, had wide support.

About 50 per cent of the community's voters turned out to cast ballots — 3,500 out of 7,071.

The 33-year-old attorney told the Independent-Journal today, "No one used any pressure in any campaign." The town, he said, is more in agreement on issues than at odds.

The candidates were unified in the theme to keep the community rural through acquisition of open space and in holding down taxes, although there were differences on the issue of paying the council a salary.

Capron, Burton and Hauke all favored the pay, but with conditions and for varying reasons.

Capron and Burton, a 41-year-old insurance company executive, replaces Mayor George E. Wickham and Robert H. Andresen, who did not run. The returning Hauke is a 36-year-old engineer with the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

Under the approved bond proposal, the fire station will be built east of Camino Alto near Enchanted Knolls on land already owned by the city. The issue was defeated last year when it was part of a larger city bond package.

NOVATO

Two newcomers, considered business-oriented, and an incumbent known as a middle-of-the-roader in the tug-of-war over Novato's future won out last night in a race in which 11 candidates vied for three city council seats.

Coming in first was Fred F. Ruegg, 60-year-old retired Columbia Broadcasting System executive. Second place went to incumbent David Price Jones, 37-year-old attorney, and another attorney, Dorothy P. Young, 46, was third.

The election results appeared to be almost a complete turnabout from those of two years ago, when two planning commissioners, F. Wayne Sartain and George C. Quesada, dumped businessmen Babe Silva and Harley A. McAskill.

Vote totals were Ruegg, 2,349; Jones, 2,340; Mrs. Young, 2,100; Daniel P. Donovan, 2,062; Edward T. Ryken, 1,679; Bywater, 1,422; John C. Schoonover, 1,383; John H. Morrison, 707; Anthony M. Gullotta, 563; Carlos M. Newton, 338, and Donald Richards, 182.

A total of 5,279 or 49.8 per cent of Novato's 10,619 voters turned out for the election.

It was at least a partial victory for Novato's business community, which mainly had endorsed Ruegg and Mrs. Young along with Donovan.

On the other hand, the election results were seen as something of a slap at Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste and Councilman Wayne Sartain, who had backed Ryken, Schoonover and Jones.

Ryken and Schoonover both emphasized planning for Novato which would preserve open space along with allowing for reasonable growth.

On the other hand, Ruegg and Mrs. Young had campaigned on a platform of encouraging light and clean industry, rather than only residential, in an effort to halt rising taxes and pay for needed improvements.

After election results were in, Mrs. Young said that while planning and growth are important issues for the council to tackle, she also believed that taxes must be stabilized.

ROHNERT PARK

Incumbents Warren K. Hopkins and Vernon P. Smith were reelected to the Rohnert Park City Council yesterday along with newcomer Louis G. Beary.

Rohnert Park voters also soundly defeated a $195,000 park bond issue. Returns showed 635 yes votes for 42 per cent and 873 no votes for 58 per cent. A two-thirds majority was required for the passage of the funds to improve Alicia and Benecia parks.

With unofficial but complete results, Beary was the top vote getter with 800 votes and was followed by Smith with 590 and Hopkins with 559.

Other candidates and their votes were Paul Golis, 496; Margaret Sheehan, 487; Bart C. Mitchell, 409; Arthur F. Hollingsworth Jr., 324; William D. Russell, 285; Rose M. Willingham, 237, and John T. Giertz, 185.

A total of 1,572 ballots was cast out of the 2,631 registered to vote, for a 59.7 per cent turnout.

Beary, 31, is a self-employed plastering contractor. He is a graduate of Sonoma State College and made an unsuccessful bid for the council in 1970.

Smith, 39, is product manager for Del Monte Corp. and has been on the council for 10 years. Hopkins, 34, is a mathematics teacher at Rohnert Park Junior High School and was elected to a second term.

Mayor Warren K. Hopkins and recreation director James Pekkain said they were surprised the bonds did not win approval from even 50 per cent of the voters. "We thought we might lose, but I'm real surprised we didn't get at least 50 per cent of the vote," Pekkain said.

The men agreed that voters are reluctant to approve anything that will result in a property tax rate increase. Pekkain said he believed some voters felt that the improvements should have been donated as they have been at other city parks.

Pekkain said the recreation commission will review the vote figures at its April 24 meeting before giving thought to any future tries at the polls.

ROSS

Three incumbents on the Ross Town Council were returned easily to office yesterday in only the second contested election in the community in 14 years.

Capping a campaign in which completion of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project was the overriding issue, Councilmen John H. Chase, Alan P. Maginis and Jewell Osterloh defeated the challenges of Peter B. Valentine and Tracy Van Voorhees.

The vote, in which 45.7 per cent of the community's voters went to the polls, was: Chase, 467; Osterloh, 460; Maginis, 446; Valentine, 302, and Van Voorhees, 282. Virginia Stott, with 594 votes, ran unopposed for town clerk, as did Town Treasurer Elsa M. Innes, who got 592 votes. A total of 696 of the town's 1,512 voters cast ballots.

Valentine, a 32-year-old investor, and Van Voorhees, 48, a manufacturer's representative, had run as cochairmen of the Save Our Creek Committee, a group opposed to extension of the concrete flood control channel farther into the community. Valentine, in fact, won a Marin Superior Court ruling against the town on the issue.

But Chase, a 37-year-old Transamerica Corp. executive; Mrs. Osterloh, a 53-year-old housewife, and Maginis, 48, a real estate executive, said they also were against resumption of the project so long as county officials declined to finance ancillary flooding woes in town.

They said also that an alternative to the concrete channel could prove more damaging and more expensive.

Despite defeat, Valentine believed he and Van Voorhees had proved a point. "We didn't lose," he said. "We opened up this town for the first time in 50 years. They (the incumbents) have found that they have issues to face. . .and we've made the public aware of what's going on."

Other issues in the race were recreation and the practice of the council to pick successors to departing colleagues behind closed doors, without chance for public questioning.

Both Chase and Mrs. Osterloh said this was done at the wishes of the candidates, many of whom didn't wish to be "put through the public wringer," in Mrs. Osterloh's words.

The three incumbents now begin their first full four-year terms. All were appointees.

SAN ANSELMO

The two incumbents were returned to office in yesterday's San Anselmo City Council election, but the challenger who ran third said he would ask for a recount.

Mayor Kenneth L. Anderson, who topped an eight-way race with 1,090 votes, and James F. Reed, with 1,084 votes, were returned to the council for second four-year terms, according to unofficial results.

However, Dr. Martin G. Blinder, making his second bid for a council seat, finished only six votes behind Reed with 1,078 and told the Independent-Journal early today he would seek a recount.

Other finishers were Pieter Toal, 837 votes; Judy Emis, 775; Sarah Nome, 595; Richard A. Raznikov, 418, and Jack Burr II, 313. Incumbent William P. Franchini won election over Patrick E. McHatton, 1,614 to 1,334, for city treasurer, and Helen J. Ragan compiled 2,519 votes in an uncontested bid for city clerk.

Of the city's 7,004 voters, a total of 3,162, or 45.2 per cent, turned out to cast ballots.

Reed, a 36-year-old investment executive who is a former mayor, and Anderson, a 48-year-old insurance broker, campaigned on the achievements of the past four years, while the challengers hit hard on such issues as traffic, the propriety of second-home dwellings on single-family lots and council responsiveness to public wishes.

Reed, referring to the council's failure to act on a citizen committee report which endorsed the second-dwelling concept, said he believed the outcome reflected residents' wishes to protect single-family zoning. The council had referred the committee report back to the planning commission for more study.

Anderson speculated the outcome was due to his and Reed's "rational approach to problems." He belieed voters rejected what he called "extremist" proposals by other candidates.

"The closeness of the vote should serve notice on the incumbents that a substantial number of residents reject the council's humorous preoccupation with legalisms," said Blinder. "Sometimes when you go down there (to a council meeting) you think you're at a federal agency. We're just a little town."

Toal, a 50-year-old consulting engineer, based his campaign almost solely on the second-dwelling issue. He said he believed most residents supported the committee report, but owed his defeat to the fact that he started campaigning too late.

The defeated challenger announced he would support Judy Ainsworth, one of his supporters and a publicity worker for Marin Transit Systems, for a council seat at the next council election in two years.

SAUSALITO

"Lincoln had eight failures before becoming president of the United States," Sally Stanford gloated last night. She had just been elected to the Sausalito City Council on her sixth try.

Her election coupled with the reelection of incumbent Robin Sweeny, gave Sausalito two women members. The other seat up for election went to Evert H. Heynneman, a city planning commissioner who outpolled all candidates in this. his first bid for election.

Sausalito's citizens also forcefully declared they want an election before putting into effect any of the Spangle plan for the downtown park-plaza area, and agreed to abolish elections for city treasurer. Edwin S. Long, who ran unopposed, will be the last elective treasurer to serve in the post, which will become appointive four years hence.

Probably spurred both by the park-plaza issue and the large field of 11 city council candidates, 1,972 of the city's 3,960 registered voters cast ballots. The 49.8 per cent turnout was considered unusually large for a city election in the county elections office.

Largest council votegetter was Heynneman, with 913. Miss Stanford —who had traditionally missed election by only a few votes in her previous campaigns —was a strong second with 801 votes. Mrs. Sweeny received 759 votes as the only incumbent on the ballot.

The alsorans were Leonard F. Rappa, 689 votes; W. Daniel O'Connor, 670; Richard D. Bauerle, 650; Howard Chadd, 508; Robert C. Martin, 134; Serge Trubach, 124; Peter D. Bowen, 55, and the ballot's third woman candidate, Helen K. Armstrong, 24.

Heynneman, pleading his duties as host to a victory celebration at his home, would say only that, "I am very pleased" with the election and that he would make a formal statement later.

ANNE L. ELLINWOOD
Two votes off

ALBERT ARAMBURU
Tiburon choice

"Sinners never give up," she declared in reviewing her many campaigns. "I just told the truth and I think the truth prevailed. I'll be one of the people's people, darling."

She said, "I'll do a job, I'll be for you. We should have zoning laws for everybody, so before you put your dollars into property you know just exactly what you can do with the property."

Mrs. Sweeny could not be reached for comment.

Miss Stanford, 68, asked how she thought it would be to work with another woman on the council, laughed, and declared, "Mrs. Sweeny — she's a nice gal. She hasn't been exposed to some of the things I have. Maybe I'll expose her to some. . ."

The voters yesterday agreed with Miss Stanford's fears that turning waterfront parking lots into parks might be a drain on city finances. They voted 1,045 to 722 for Measure A, that the council must submit any action on the plans prepared by consultant William E. Spangle to a future election. Measure B, abolishing treasurer elections, won 1,359 to 469.

Long, who resigned the city treasurer's post after holding it from 1952 to 1969, was reelected by a complimentary 1,089 votes.

TIBURON

Veteran Tiburon Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood, yesterday lost her bid for a third term on the city council in a close race in which two men of differing viewpoints were elected.

Miss Ellinwood missed reelection by only two votes.

Top votegetter was Albert Aramburu, 38, a Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. supervisor who based his campaign on environmental issues.

Coming in second was Allan N. Littman, 43-year-old lawyer who had fought the proposed Hilarita moderate-income project, which has been approved by the city council and the court.

Miss Ellinwood had long favored the project.

She credited her defeat, however, not to her stand on the housing proposal but to more vigorous campaigns by her opponents. "I didn't ring one door bell," she said, because she said she was too busy with her council duties.

The vote totals were Aramburu, 955; Littman, 900, and Miss Ellinwood, 898. Of Tiburon's 3,151 voters, 1,530 turned out yesterday for a 48.6 per cent total vote.

Both the winners, Aramburu and Littman, agreed that the Hilarita project is now a "closed issue." Littman said last night that "the only thing now is to make it work."

Aramburu, called by Miss Ellinwood a "young man who rang doorbells," said environmental issues constitute 90 per cent of the matters of concern to Tiburon residents.

Littman, a former planning commissioner, who said during his campaign that he was opposed to any attempt to increase the city's property tax rate, also said last night that he "did a little walking" during the campaign.

Miss Ellinwood said after the election results were in that she and her supporters had not decided yet whether they would ask for a recount of the votes.

"SECONDHAND ROSE"

That's right - this 3 bedroom, 1½ bath home is on its 2nd time around. The proud owners have completely remodeled it from the floor to the ceiling. It's 2 story with lovely and modern knotty pine kitchen, carpeted family room large enough for a pool table, a wet bar and raised hearth fireplace. Large completely fenced both front and rear yard. Daddy can't buy it for 10c on the $ but it's well worth $35,550. (Even Jake the Plumber could relax here.)

SUMMONS (MARRIAGE)
Case Number 63033

Superior Court of California, County of Marin, Civic Center, San Rafael, California
In re the marriage of Petitioner: DONALD E. SUTTON
and
Respondent: SYLVIA JEAN SUTTON
To the Respondent:
The petitioner has filed a petition concerning your marriage. You may file a written response within thirty days of the date that this summons is served on you. If you fail to file a written response within such time, your default may be entered and the court may enter a judgment containing injunctive or other orders concerning division of property, spousal support, child custody, child support, attorney's fees, costs, and such other relief as may be granted by the court.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your written response, if any, may be filed on time.

PURCHASE OF UP TO 34 BUSES AND PURCHASE OF THREE FERRYBOATS AND CONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT OF SUPPORT AND SHORESIDE FACILITIES FOR TRANSIT OPERATION GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE, HIGHWAY AND TRANSPORTATION DISTRICT BOX 900, PRESIDIO STATION SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA 94129

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing will be held by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District, in the District Offices, Golden Gate Bridge Toll Plaza, San Francisco, California, at 8:00 p.m., Wednesday, April 19, 1972, for the purpose of considering an application by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District to the U.S. Department of Transportation for a Federal Urban Mass Transportation Capital Grant. Additional buses and a modified ferry system are, in the view of the Board of Directors of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District, urgently needed to alleviate the continually growing traffic congestion in the Golden Gate Corridor. Hearing was held on District's original application for ferry capital grant on May 21, 1971. Modifications to the application have been made, in which detail but not the concept, is changed. The modified grant requested is generally described as follows:

1. Purchase of Up to 34 Buses and 3 Ferryboats:

(a) Purchase of Up to 34 Buses:

(1) The project is for use in that portion of the Golden Gate Corridor comprised of Sonoma, Marin and San Francisco Counties, California, service area, where these 34 buses will be used by the Golden Gate Bus Transit Division of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District.

(2) The project is estimated to cost $1,700,000.00. A Federal Grant of 2/3 of the project cost ($1,133,332.00) is being requested. The remaining 1/3, in the amount of $566,668.00, will be furnished by the District from monies reserved and received from bridge revenues, in accordance with the provisions of the California Bridge & Highway District Act and amendments thereto.

(3) The project will reinforce the existing 132 buses now being used to transport over 6,000 commuters per day, and the 20 additional buses to be purchased under option of the District's original contract with the General Motors Corporation and included in a previous grant application. Bus patronage in the Golden Gate Corridor is increasing at a much faster rate than anticipated; and additional buses are needed to provide necessary service to the public and to reduce congestion on the Golden Gate Bridge, its approach roads and the urban automobile traffic and air pollution resulting therefrom. These new buses will contribute to the reduction of air pollution by complying with the latest standards of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

(b) Purchase of 3 Ferryboats and ancillary facilities:

(1) The project is for use on San Francisco Bay for ferryboat service between San Francisco and Marin County for the purpose of transporting commuters by water routes, between these counties, thus further reducing automobile traffic congestion and air pollution resulting therefrom. All ferryboats will be used by the Ferry Transit Division of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District, which is already operating one ferryboat between Sausalito and San Francisco, California. The proposal is for the purchase of three new 165 foot, 25 knot, gas turbine-powered, aluminum hull ferryboats, and sufficient land, floats, piers, boarding floats and necessary dredging and breakwater to develop ferry terminals in the Larkspur, Sausalito and San Francisco, California, service areas; and also for service floats, warehouse and shops for vessel maintenance.

(2) The project is estimated to cost $18,902,000.00. A Federal Grant of 2/3 of the project cost ($12,601,334.00) is being requested. The remaining 1/3, in the amount of $6,300,667.00, the local share, will be furnished from monies reserved from bridge revenues in accordance with the provisions of the California Bridge and Highway District Act and amendments thereto.

(3) The project will reinforce the existing operational ferryboat, M. V. Golden Gate, which in 1½ years in operation has carried more than 1.5 million passengers between San Francisco and Sausalito, California. The newly designed ferryboats requested in this application will — like the present M. V. Golden Gate — carry no vehicles and will therefore contribute to the reduction of vehicular traffic congestion and air pollution in urban areas, especially the downtown San Francisco area. These new ferryboats are specifically designed to create an absolute minimum of air, land and water pollution; and will comply with the latest standards of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

2. No families or businesses will be displaced by these projects.

3. These projects are in conformance with comprehensive land use and transportation planning in this area. The projects are included as part of the Transportation Plan adopted by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District and have received favorable review and comments by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

At the hearing, which is being held in accordance with requirements of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District shall afford an opportunity for all persons or agencies interested to be heard with respect to the social, economic and environmental impact of the project and to submit evidence and recommendations orally or in writing with respect to the project.

The application for a Federal Grant for this project, including a draft environmental statement and the transit development program are available for inspection in the District's Office of the Secretary, Room 109, Administration Building, Golden Gate Bridge Toll Plaza, San Francisco, California.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, subject to confirmation by the above-entitled Superior Court on April 28, 1972, at 9:00 a.m., or thereafter within the time allowed by law, the undersigned, as Administrator of the Estate of RUTH FRANCES GUYETTE, alias, deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest and best net bidder on the terms and conditions hereinafter mentioned, all right, title and interest of said decedent, at the time of her death, and all right, title and interest that the estate has acquired in addition to that of the decedent at the time of her death, in the real property located in the County of Marin, State of California, described as follows:

"Lot Number 9 as the same is laid down and delineated and so designated upon the 'Map of Altimira Park, Ross Valley, Marin County, State of California Subdivision One, 1906' filed in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Marin, State of California, on the 11th day of June, 1906 in Map Book 2 at page 61."

ferred to as #8 Alta Mira, Kentfield, California.

The sale is subject to current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, rights, rights of way, and easements of record.

The property is to be sold on "as is" basis, except as to title.

Bids or offers are invited for this property, and must be in writing and will be received at the office of David L. Bacon, of COOPER, WHITE & COOPER, attorneys for said Administrator, at 44 Montgomery Street, Suite 3300, San Francisco, California, or may be filed with the clerk of said Superior Court or delivered to David L. Bacon personally, at any time after first publication of this notice and before making said sale.

The property will be sold on the following terms: cash or part cash and part credit, the terms of such credit to be acceptable to the undersigned and to the Superior Court, 10% of the amount bid to accompany the offer by certified check, and the balance to be paid on confirmation of the sale by the Superior Court. Taxes, rents, operating and maintenance expenses, and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser shall be prorated as of the date of confirmation of sale. Examination of title, recording of conveyance, transfer taxes, and any title insurance policy shall be at the expense of the purchaser or purchasers.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids prior to entry of an order confirming the sale.

PHONY PARKING CITATION CAPER

Someone with an itch to write parking tickets has been putting homemade versions on parked cars in San Anselmo. The citations by the "Marin County Road Patrol" are on yellow mimeographed paper, eight by four inches, complete with a fine schedule and vehicle code sections. Police have no idea of who is issuing the phony tickets. Some persons have actually tried to pay fines, police said.

169 Students Win Scholarships

A total of 169 Marin and Southern Sonoma county students have been selected as state scholars for 1972-73 by the California State Scholarship and Loan Commission.

The youths are among 9,526 students picked from 42,000 applicants. The scholarships are for a maximum of $1,850, but cannot exceed tuition and fees at the college selected by the winner.

The awards are made annually to capable students who are in need of financial help.

Student-Backed Candidates Win In Davis Election

DAVIS (UPI) —Three candidates backed by a bloc of University of California students won election to the five-member City Council Tuesday.

Final unofficial returns showed Joan Poulos, a 35-year-old attorney, garnered the most votes with 8,113. The other winners were Richard Holdstock, 37, UC health and safety officer, with 7,488 votes and Bob Black, 25, a former UCD student body president and natural food store owner, with 6,863.

The election to fill three vacant seats on the council was looked upon as an early California test of the strength of the new youth vote.

About 7,000 UC students, many of them under 21, were signed up in a campus registration drive that began last fall. About 11,000 of the city's 16,000 registered voters cast ballots.

Historic Water System Found

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The 180-year-old "Zanja Madre" or "mother ditch" of the city's first water system —one of the first hydraulic projects in the West —has been unearthed beneath a downtown street.

The canal was uncovered in the backyard of the Avila adobe home, an historic exhibit on Olivera Street, heart of the city's old Spanish Colonial and Mexican district.

The Spaniards built the waterworks about 1790, constructing a series of open canals branching off the "mother ditch" to bring water from Chavez Ravine, where Dodger Stadium now stands.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Spouses And Their Ownings

Property that you own when you are single is still your own separate property when you marry. Property you get by gift or by will is also your own separate property. What about the rents or profits that come to a husband or wife from his or her property? That is separate, too.

This may be important if the marriage breaks up or if one spouse dies.

Community property is every other kind of income or property that may come to the couple after marriage. It is jointly owned by husband and wife.

What if some of the community property is mixed with some of the separate property? Then the courts will presume all of the property to be community. If one of the spouses — or an heir — says no, some of it is really separate, he has to prove it.

In a recent case John and Mary dissolved their marriage after thirty years. John had owned a large estate before he married. He devoted all his time to handling his estate, and went into a number of business deals using his own capital. He wasn't too successful in his ventures, though he was able to keep his estate intact.

The court ruled that all the property was John's separate property. Mary argued that some of the estate should be declared community property. She said this came about through the efforts and skill of her husband through 30 years of marriage.

Mary lost. True, after marriage, a husband's efforts belong to both husband and wife. But here John's efforts did not make the estate worth more than it was to begin with. What the estate did earn didn't quite pay the usual living expenses for the family. Here all the community income from John's efforts was used up by family expenses.

Deals between husband and wife must be made in good faith. The law won't permit one to overreach the other. An example: a husband got his wife to sign an agreement accepting $50,000 for her interest in the total estate. When he died, it turned out his estate was more than $1,000,000. The court said the husband took unfair advantage of his wife's ignorance of their business affairs. She got a much fairer portion of his estate.

Added To Cast

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Austin Pendleton, playing an arrogant chess authority, was added to the cast of "The Thief Who Came to Dinner," starring Ryan O'Neal and Jacqueline Bisset.

Hog Farmer Says Meat Is A Bargain

WASHINGTON (UPI) —An angry Iowa hog farmer told the Price Commission today that current high meat prices were actually a bargain for consumers and the only insurance against the death of the family farm.

The administration urged against any price controls on meat and was joined by the farmer, Frank Buryanek of awarden, Iowa. Controls have been suggested as one way to curb spiralling retail food prices.

Flanked by three Iowa neighbors, Buryanek pleaded with six members of the Price Commission at the first of two days of public hearings on food prices to let traditional supply and demand forces determine the price of farm products.

Economists, congressmen, and government officials also testified but the chunky farmer won the only applause from the small audience when he said a congressman had told him he was eligible for food stamps.

"Gentlemen, we don't want them," he said. "All we want is a fighting chance and we can do okay. We're proud Americans. We're tough. We'll make it."

His testimony followed that of Richard E. Lyng, assistant agriculture secretary who said any controls which hindered "fair" farm prices would lead to cutbacks in supplies and higher prices.

Buryanek, 38, raises about 400 cattle and hogs in northwestern Iowa. He said farmers "didn't bellyache" when meat prices were low two years ago but that now when farm prices have risen to near record levels, farmers were entitled to tell consumers "that they're getting a good bargain for their dollar."

Harlan Hummel, chief spokesman for an Iowa group and mayor of Hawarden, told lhe commission that talk about more food price controls was "threatening our way of life."

"If you depress the price that the Iowa farmer receives for his products, the only alternative you leave is commercialized farming," Hummel testified.

Lyng said food retailers were too slow to cut retail beef prices last month after farm and wholesale prices had begun declining. "Such lags are difficult for consumers to understand and accept," he said.

Lyng said wholesale prices for live steers last week were 2 per cent above the level of August —just before the wage price freeze —and hog prices were 14 per cent higher; but he said wholesale choice beef was 4 per cent lower, eggs 25 per cent lower, broiler chickens were down 5 per cent, turkeys 9 per cent, butter off 3 per cent and potatoes down 5 per cent.

Seven Drunk Drivers Are Sentenced

Seven persons were sentenced for drunken driving Monday in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Peter Allen Smith.

Sentenced were:

Walter Ray Ratel Jr., 50, of 1595 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera, arrested Dec. 3 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Erwin Peter Buchholz, 64, of 644 Rowland Boulevard, Novato, arrested March 12 in Corte Madera, placed on probation for one year and fined $275.

Gail Adele Parmeter, 31, of Forestville, arrested Jan. 28 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $200.

James Benjamin Johnson, 50, of 240 Diviso, Tiburon, arrested Feb. 7 on Highway 101, placed on probation for six months and fined $360.

Michael Doyle Power, 21, of 31 Reed Boulevard, Mill Valley, arrested April 4 in San Rafael, placed on probation for three years and fined $275.

Robert Paul Kanter, 54, of 93 Golden Hinde, San Rafael, arrested April 4 on Highway 101, placed on probation for three years and fined $275.

Art Contest For Devil Dog

An art contest to draw the Marine's Devil Dog has been announced for all high school students in Marin County. It is sponsored by the Marin Marines.

Three prizes, a $50, and a $25 savings bond are the first two prizes and a $10 gift certificate is third prize.

Reagan Wants Federal Funds For Alcoholism

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan has urged the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism to approve his proposed plan to provide the state with more than $2.3 million in federal funds to fight alcoholism.

In a prepared statement issued Tuesday, Reagan said alcoholism in California is a "major medical and social problem that is increasing at an accelerating rate."

The governor said his proposed program would allot funds to 40 counties and set up a network of county-operated alcohol abuse programs.

He also proposed that $85,000 be allocated to the state Department of Education for an alcohol abuse education projection.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

International Jet Set Has Its Own Peculiar Ailments

Fatigue and boredom often plague the international jet traveler. Flying is the safest and most economical means of getting from one place to another, but traveling above the clouds in a confined space can be tiresome. Changes in time (circadian rhythm) also play an important role. The functions of the human body are known to follow variable cycles during the 24 hours and these processes are forced to adjust to different schedules when crossing national and international time zones.

Our internal clock tells us when to eat, sleep, relax, and attend to biological functions. Body temperature and blood pressure also follow daily fluctuations.

IF THE system is out of step, the internal clock can delay certain functions by as much as 20 to 28 hours. Jet passengers quickly recognize the adverse effects of time zone displacements on eating and sleeping. On their return home, it may take several days to adjust to the old routine.

Circadian rhythm is least disturbed by north-south flights. East-west flights cause most of the trouble, because multiple time zones are involved. Oddly, the effect is more prolonged on departure flights than after the return trip.

AGE, TRAVELING experience, departure and arrival schedules, flying time, physical condition and food and fluid consumption play a prominent role. Having a companion helps. Nothing is more boring than jetting alone and returning night after night to an empty hotel room. Those who find it difficult to sleep wien airborne should ask their physician for a sedative.

Many people develop swelling of the ankles after sitting for hours. Now and then the flow of blood in the lower extremities becomes so sluggish, clotting occurs. There is always a possibility that a clot will break off and travel into the lucgs. Avoid this be getting out of your seat and walking up and down the aisle once an hour.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

PLANTAR WARTS

D. G. writes: Are plantar warts on the feet curable?

REPLY

Yes. However, it is not always easy to distinguish a plantar wart from a callus produced by a fallen (metatarsal) arch, or other foot defect. In these instances, the so-called wart will not heal until the pressure point is eliminated. Our leaflet on this disorder can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

PELLAGRA

W. B. writes: Can pellagra be cured by diet?

REPLY

Yes, but supplementary shots or tablets containing the B-complex vitamins, or nicotinic acid are recommended to speed cure. Severe pellagra may be association with a mental disturbance and the victim may not cooperate when told to eat certain foods.

10 HEART ATTACKS

T. writes: How many heart attacks can a person have and return to normal activity?

REPLY

One of my patients had 10 proved attacks.

CORONARY THROMBOSIS

A reader writes: What happens in a heart attack?

REPLY

There are two main types of heart attack. In coronary thrombosis, the artery that supplies blood to the heart muscle is obstructed by a clot. The individual develops pain, or a sense of pressure beneath the breastbone, turns ashen and may collapse. This common type of heart attack has many variations. In the second type, the heart stops beating or develops a rhythm that is incapable of pumping blood. In these instances, the individual collapses and usually dies unless given emergency treatment.

SLEPT THROUGH FIRE

S. N. writes: I live with my bahcelor son and we are very sound sleepers. Recently we slept through a fire, but fortunately were not burned. Do you have any suggestions?

REPLY

Make your house as fireproof as possible. Check the wiring, throw out all the trash in the closets, attic, and basement and get an alarm system that is triggered by heat.

SPACE PERCEPTION

C. N. writes: Can poor depth perception be improved? I have this problem when driving a car.

REPLY

No, but some people acquire other ways of judging the distance between their car and the car ahead.

THIN MAN'S BAY WINDOW

P. T. writes: How can a thin man's bay window be eliminated?

REPLY

Wearing a girdle will improve his appearance. Or, he could exercise so the abdominal muscles would become strong enough to hold in the tummy. In some instances, the abdomen in a thin person looks large only by comparison. He must gain weight to fill in around it.

NO DANGER

P. W. writes: If a pregnant woman is exposed to German measles but does not contract the disease, is there any danger that the unborn child could catch the infection?

REPLY

No. The unborn child is in danger only if the mother-to-be develops German measles during the first three months of pregnancy.

NERVOUS STOMACH

T. E. writes: Why does excitement or nervousness settle in the stomach or the intestines?

REPLY

The gastrointestinal tract is the sounding board for many nervous episodes. This occurs because of a close tie-up between the nervous system and these organs via the vagus nerve. Cutting this nerve was described years ago as "divorcing the stomach from the brain."

GOUT AND BEER

A. K. writes: Is beer bad for the person who has gout?

REPLY

Not when used in moderation. An attack of gout may follow overindulgence in any type of alcohol — be it beer or whisky. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on gout.

GARDENING AND CHOLESTEROL

H. P. writes: Does gardening help lower cholesterol?

REPLY

Yes. Exercise helps and so will eating the vegetables — without the butter, of course.

DIVERTICULA AND DIET

G. D. writes: After a person has had one attack of diverticulitis, is a bland diet necessary forever?

REPLY

Opinions vary, but I doubt if there is anything in the normal diet that will aggravate these pockets. There is new evidence that a bland diet may do more harm than good, especially when it leads to a sluggish bowel or constipation. The roughage in food hastens the passage of the contents through the intestine. Exceptions are spices and other strong seasonings, alcohol, popcorn, seeds, and nuts.

MOONLIGHTER

B. B. writes: I became very tired after working on two jobs and gave up night work to get more sleep. But I'm still fatigued and have trouble retaining what I read. Do you think my mental alertness will return in time?

REPLY

Yes, especially when you learn to relax. After a certain age, moonlighting is hard on a person.

ONE OVARY

W. B. writes: Does a woman with one ovary stand only half as much chance of getting pregnant as a woman who has two ovaries?

REPLY

No. One ovary does the work of two.

LEAD POISONING

O. T. writes: Can a person get lead poisoning if paint gets into a cut?

REPLY

Not under reasonable circumstances. Lead poisoning is common in children who eat lead-laden flakes of paint from windowsills, walls, or fences. We also inhale lead from auto exhaust.

Petaluma Considers Drug Abuse Plan

Persons interested in establishing a drug abuse program in Petaluma will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the library of Petaluma Junior High School School.

Carl V. Mitchell of Santa Rosa, who works with the Sonoma County Drug Abuse Committee, will lead the meeting to discuss the development and funding of a drug program.

Withholding Is Showing Good Results

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The first rush of state income tax returns produced a surprise $26 million more revenue under payroll withholding than had been expected, the state Franchise Tax Board was told yesterday.

State officials said they don't know for certain what caused the increase but suggested it may be due in part to overwithholding, improvement in the economy and other now undetermined reasons—or a combination of all three.

But Martin Huff, the three-member board's executive officer, cautioned against expecting that the sum would actually produce a windfall surplus for state coffers and warned much of it may be returned to taxpayers in the form of refunds.

He told the board during an initial examination of the newly instituted state withholding system that first returns show revenue is running about 17 per cent above his estimate made last June for the first three months of 1972.

He said he pegged the estimate $156 million for February and March but that $182 million actually was received. This included $4 million for January which previously hadn't been anticipated because employers had not been expected to gear up so swiftly for withholding.

Withholding was the key feature of a major tax bill passed by the 1971 Legislature, and took effect in January.

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, a board member, said it was "probable" that some of the surprise additional revenue was due to overwithholding.

But he said until more statistical information is compiled in the next few months "this additional revenue in no way can be said to be a net increase in revenue."

Huff agreed that the revenue could show up at the start of the next fiscal year July 1 as a "technical surplus" but warned it could be rapidly depleted when returns are made.

Huff said the entire picture may change swiftly when taxpayers who make quarterly payments on their income file returns.

He said elected state officials had forwarded him only 200 letters from taxpayer constituents and only 42 of those could be considered complaints about over-withholding. The others grouched about what they considered to be higher rates, he said.

Huff told the board that about one million income tax returns have been received so far in advance of the April 17 deadline and that about four per cent of those did not claim the automatic 20 per cent "forgiveness" reduction in tax liability they were entitled to.

The board expects to receive about six million returns on 1971 income, of which about 4.3 million will pay a tax.

The "forgiveness" was authorized because of overlapping tax payments which, in effect, resulted in a double tax.

SUPERVISOR — 2ND DISTRICT

TAX FACTS

Figures for Marin County for the past four years during the present term of the incumbent reveal the following:

POPULATION increased 5%, from 202,000 to 212,000

ASSESSED VALUATION increased from $550 million to over $700 million, a 27.2% increase.

TAXES increased from $11 million to $19 million up 77%.

COST OF THE COUNTY ADMINISTRATOR'S office have increased from $109,000 to $154,000, over 41%.

What does this mean for you, the taxpayer?

If you live in Kentfield, your tax bill has gone from $700 to $1400!

If you live in Fairfax, your tax bill has gone from $350 to $750!

These figures prove that we can't blame a population growth of 5% for the frightening tax increase. The questions for all Marinites are:

ARE WE REALLY GETTING 77% MORE SERVICES? IS COUNTY GOVERNMENT SIMPLY TOO EXPENSIVE?

Although it is the administrator's responsibility to present the county budget to the board, it is our Supervisor's duty to get the most for the tax dollar. As your supervisor, I will represent and defend all taxpayers in an effort to regain the confidence and trust of the people in their government. In my next column I will discuss how to reduce the Marin taxpayer's burden. I will be happy to answer any questions you may have.

Open Space Plan Is Due More Talk

A countywide open space acquisition program, proposed to Mill Valley Park and Recreation commissioners by county officials, will be discussed in more detail at the commission's next meeting, April 24.

Commissioners will come to the meeting with specific recommendations on the program, which was outlined to them by members of the county parks and recreation commission which met with them in joint session Monday night.

The proposed program would be administered by the county, officials said, which would identify open space areas to be acquired and set priorities on their acquisition. A 10-cent increase on the tax rate was proposed, and would also be administered by county supervisors, would seek federal and state matching funds where available.

Making the presentation were county commission members Lee Gerner of Novato and Polly Smith of Tiburon and Pierre W. Joske of the county parks and recreation department.

The program, they said, would have to go before the voters to gain approval.

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission also:

WATER QUALITY — Heard a report that water in the Mill Valley boat harbor is still polluted and that moving the city's dock would not correct the danger to health.

BOAT USE — Recommended to the city council that it approve the use of a city-owned sailboat by classes at Edna Maguire school provided the boat be available when needed to city crews who use it to take water samples in the harbor.

REGIONAL PARKS — Postponed until its next meeting consideration of whether to endorse "People for Parks and Open Space", a group seeking approvals of many county and city boards in order to gain support for its aims.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS — Approved its capital improvement program and senl it to the city council for action.

Baseball Commissioner To Enter The Strike Picture

SPORT NOTES

Football Steals Ink From Baseball Strike

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The baseball season hasn't even started yet and here we are thinking about football.

After all, this morning's mail had a release from ABC Television sports about the 12th annual Coaches All-American football game to be televised from Lubbock, Tex., on June 24.

Says the release: "The football contest, matching the top 30 graduating seniors from the East against the top 30 from the West, will be played at Jones Stadium on the Texas Tech campus. . . Attendance records have been set in the two contests played at Lubbock — last year's game drew a crowd of 43,320."

What baseball season?

AT STANFORD'S spring football drills, Don Alvarado of San Anselmo is trying to win himself a berth as a starter. The former Drake gridder is listed as a No. 2 flanker behind Eric Cross who missed much of last season because of injury. Last year Don had to play behind the flashy John Winesberry, who will be switched to a running back this year. This will be Alvarado's last college football season.

Trying to win himself a place on the University of California football team is Tiburon's Pete Richter, a young man who did his high school playing at Redwood. Although Richter played tight end on Cal's junior varsity team last year, he will be competing as a running back this year. The 6-foot, 205-pounder was one of 97 players reporting to spring practice when it began Monday in Berkeley.

Richter, a junior, was on Cal's rugby team which compiled a 14-2 win-loss record this year. He played at back row and breakway in the forward line.

Another Marin footballer to be playing in the Pacific-8 Conference this year is Tom Wickert, 6-5, 245 pounds, defensive tackle for the Washington State University Cougars in Pullman. A junior, Wickert suffered a broken hand and missed much of last season after working up to a starting role.

HANK YAMAGATA, Terra Linda High School gymnastics coach and president of the California Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation (how's that for a title?), is busy putting the finishing touches on plans for that group's all-day clinic Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at San Rafael High School.

It's open to all physical educators, elementary and high school, and any "interested citizens," says Yamagata. Topics will range from rock climbing to lacrosse.

BILL SOCKOLOV of San Rafael, 14-year-old eighth grader at Davidson Junior High, was very busy performing in the Hawaiian State Junior Tennis Tournament which ended last weekend in Honolulu. (Oh, to be back in that alohaland.)

Bill made it all the way to the finals in the boys 14 doubles before losing, and made it to the boys 14 semi-finals and the boys 16 quarter-finals in singles.

Seattle Seeking Attles

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Seattle SuperSonics are interested in Golden State Warriors coach Al Attles but general manager Bob Feerick says no because "He's our coach."

Seattle general manager Bob Houbregs asked the Warriors for permission to talk to Attles, it was learned Tuesday, but Feerick said, "I told them no."

Attles has been with the Warriors for the past two and one-half years and took them to the playoffs twice.

Attles said he's heard the rumors, and ... "Well, in the next few days I'm going in to see Franklin (Warriors owner Franklin Mieuli) and talk over my contract. If he makes what I consider a fair, equitable offer, I'll acceptH6right there."

If he and Mieuli can't agree, then Attles said, "I might listen to other people.

Thurmond's $2 Million ABA Offer

OAKLAND (UPI) —Warriors superstar Nate Thurmond is at the end of a two-year contract and rumors have it the Carolina Cougars are offering him some $2 million to jump to the American Basketball Association. The 6-11 center said Tuesday, "I wish nothing had been written about this." His agent Bob Bartels had a terse "no comment" on the purported offer from Carolina.

Carolina's offer to Thurmond reportedly is $200,000 a year for four years and $50,000 a year for 20 years—that means Nate could play until he is 55 and then renegotiate.

A GOAL FOR HADFIELD

New York Ranger Vic Hadfield raised his arms after scoring his team's goal against Montreal last night in the Stanley Cup playoffs. On the ice is Montreal goalie Ken Dryden. The Canadiens edged the Rangers, 2-1. In other games last night, Boston won its series against Toronto with a 3-2 victory, and Minnesota slipped by St. Louis, 4-3. See story page 38.

Kuhn Calls For Meeting Of All 24 Club Owners

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marvin Miller and the player representatives were to meet today as the baseball strike continues, with Commissioner Bowie Kuhn entering the picture by summoning all club owners to a meeting in Chicago tomorrow morning.

The pension fund dispute has been settled but there is a stalemate on the issue of back pay for rescheduled games, with the owners rejecting the players' proposal that they be docked a maximum of one day's pay if the teams play an entire 162 game schedule.

But the owners rejected that proposal, claiming they want to dock the players a day's pay for every game that is rescheduled as part of a doubleheader. Both sides agree the players will be paid for games made up on open dates or as split doubleheaders.

The original issue that started the strike—the funding of the pension fund—was settled when the players agreed to the owners' proposal offer of a $500,000 increase in the pension fund. The money will come from surplus money already in the fund and not from any additional owners' contribution.

"If this proposal would have been made a week ago, the dispute would have been settled," Tom Haller, a catcher for the Detroit Tigers and former San Francisco Giant said.

The two sides seem so close now that a quick settlement is likely but the issue of back pay will become a bigger one with each passing day as the number of games to be rescheduled buildsup.

The long day of negotiations started about 10:30 a.m. Tuesday morning in the Four Seasons Restaurant. Miller's office is located in a skyscraper 38 floors above the restaurant. Miller was huddled with the 24 player representatives and occasionally talked by phone with John Gaherin, the counsel for the owners who was in touch with the owners' Player Relations Committee. After midnight, the players were asked to leave from the restaurant and moved up to Miller's office.

The issue of the pension fund was settled first. The owners offered $400,000 Monday night and the players countered Tuesday morning with a request for $600,000. They compromised at $500,000.

Before the strike started, the owners had refused to let the players use any of the "surplus" money in the fund for pensions, claiming it was imprudent. "Mr. Finley sometimes speaks the truth," Miller said. "This strike was unnecessary. Their own actuaries say the players were right and it was prudent to use the money in the fund."

The owners want to dock the players a day's pay whenever they rescheduled a game as part of a doubleheader. The players countered with a proposal that the players be docked a half-day's pay for the first two games rescheduled as doubleheaders — for a maximum of one day's pay.

Under the owners' proposal, the number of days docked would vary from team-to-team, depending on the number of games to be rescheduled and which ones were made up as part of doubleheaders.

The players also agreed to waive all the rules for the scheduling of games, such as allowing night games on getaway days or a day doubleheader after a night game.

Padgett Takes Nevada, Reno Basketball Job

RENO (UPI)—James Padgett, who resigned under fire as head Berkeley basketball coach nine days ago, has been appointed head mentor for the University of Nevada, Reno.

"I wouldn't have taken this job if I didn't think Nevada could have a good program," Padgett said Tuesday. He added that West Coast Athletic Conference teams, of which Nevada-Reno was a last-place finisher this season, are on the level of the Pac-8.

"My prime interest will be to get the best student athletes in this state and build a strong freshman program," he said. "However, I have good contacts in California and will be spending lots of time there recruiting."

"Padgett's background in basketball is as good as you'll find in the country," said Reno athletic director Dick Trachok.

Padgett succeeds Jack Spencer who coached at Nevada, Reno for 13 years. The Wolf Pack went 0-14 in the WCAC and 2-24 overall last season as two starters were busted on marijuana charges.

Padgett indicted one of the first recruiting targets will be his son, Pete, a 6-8 senior at Del Valle High, Walnut Creek.

Padgett, who is the National Collegiate Athletic Association representative on the National Basketball Rules Committee, has been in coaching since his Air Force service in 1952-54. He came to Berkeley as an assistant in 1965 and was appointed head coach in 1968. He had a 52-53 record at California.

Knicks Eliminate Bullets; To Take On Celtics Next

NEW YORK (UPI) —The New York Knicks disposed of one tough foe and now take on another as they hook up with the Boston Celtics in the best-of seven National Basketball Association's Eastern Conference playoff final.

It took the Knicks six games to eliminate Baltimore, closing out the series Tuesday with a 107-101 victory over the Bullets.

"Boston is one of the strongest teams in the league," said Knick coach Red Holzman, "they're always tough for us. We split the six-game season series so nobody goes into this one with any edge."

Bill Bradley, the Knicks' offensive spark in the last two games, said he wasn't gaining any advantage in the upcoming Celtics series.

"I've got nothing good to look forward to against Boston since John Havlicek is just as tough to guard as Jack Marin," Bradley explained. Dave Cowens is less physical than Wes Unseld, still he's bigger and faster and is a key to the Celtics fast break."

Walt Frazier, who shares Tuesday's scoring honors with Knick center Jerry Lucas, with 22 points each, thought the matchups between New York and Boston were even, and agreed with Bradley that the club must contain the Celtics' fast break to stay alive.

The first game of the series will be played in Boston Thursday night. The second is scheduled for New York on Sunday, the third in Boston on Wednesday, April 19, and the fourth back in Madison Square Garden on Friday, April 21.

If additional games are needed, No. 5 will be in Boston on Sunday afternoon, April 23, the sixth in New York, April 26, and the seventh in Boston on Friday, April 28.

The Western Conference finals resumes tonight in Los Angeles with the Lakers meeting the defending champion Milwaukee Bucks in the second game of the best-of-seven series. The Bucks won the opener 93-72 Sunday, holding the Lakers to only eight points in the third quarter. Tonight's game will be seen on the ABC-TV network beginning at 7 p.m., PST.

Frazier added a pair of foul shots to build the New York lead to 99-97.

"This victory is a tribute to the team," Frazier said later.

Tam Wins League Golf Match

Steve Gaddis shot a nine-hole score of 39 yesterday to lead Tamalpais High School to a 207-233 victory over Drake in a Marin County Athletic League match at the San Geronimo National golf course.

In a non-league match, Terra Linda defeated Pinole Valley, 214-239, at Marin Country Club, as Doug Talley fired a 39.

The league match between Novato and San Rafael, scheduled for Peacock Gap, was rescheduled for today at 3:30 p.m. due to wet grounds yesterday, according to San Rafael coach George Lester.

The results:

STANDINGS

Marin Prep Baseball Games Rescheduled

All four scheduled Marin County Athletic League baseball games yesterday were postponed due to wet grounds. The make-up schedule:

Marin Catholic at Drake, today, 4 p.m.; Redwood vs. San Rafael at Albert Park, today, 4 p.m.; Terra Linda at Novato, tomorrow, 4 p.m.; Tamalpais at San Marin, next Wednesday, 4 p.m.

Rugged Redwood Netters In Romp

"They're every bit as strong as I expected them to be," said glum coach Chris Ahearn after powerful Redwood High School obliterated his good, young Terra Linda team yesterday in tennis.

Visiting Redwood defeated the Trojans, 7-0, winning every set. The victory was the 52nd straight in the league and 21st straight over-all for the defending champions.

In other Marin County Athletic League openers yesterday, host Drake overwhelmed Tamalpais, 6-1, and host San Rafael trounced Novato, also 6-1.

San Marin's match at Marin Catholic was called off due to wet grounds. The teams were to try to play it today, according to Marin Catholic coach Ed Fuchs.

The results:

A Collision Course For Swim Powers

Redwood and Terra Linda High Schools continued on a collision course for their final clash of the year, a meet to determine the Marin County Athletic League swim championship, by easily defeating lesser rivals yesterday.

The Giants of Larkspur, leading the MCAL race by a single decision at 8-0, blasted the host Tamalpais Indians, 72-23, while the once-beaten Trojans clobbered visiting Novato, 70-25.

Paul Cane was Redwood's only double winner, taking the 100-yard butterfly and 400 free style, but sprint sensation John Redig posted a school record 23.0 for the 50 freestyle. Redig's mark is the fastest in the league this year.

Rick Lund of Terra Linda and Roger Rechsteiner of Novato each earned double freestyle wins in that meet, Lund gathering in his specialties the 200 and 400, and Rechsteiner sweeping the 50 and 100 sprints.

Paul Moe of Tam highlighted the Indian showing with a timely win in the 100 free, but the Indians were only able to take two other races against the Giants.

Besides Rechsteiner, Novato could only get one other first place, that coming from diving ace John Summerfield.

Middleweight Admits To Two Fixed Fights

SEATTLE (UPI) —Fraser Scott, once among the top 10 rated middleweight boxing contenders, has quit boxing because the sport must "clean itself up."

"Money has bought me two times," Scott said. "I personally have been involved in fixed fights ... the deception is over."

The 23-year-old boxer from Kirkland, Wash., walked out of a Seattle gymnasium Tuesday and said he would not return. He had been in training for a 10-round main event April 25 against Canadian lightweight champion Al Ford.

Scott said on a television interview last week that he also knew a recent Seattle fight involving middleweight Mike Lankester had been fixed.

Jimmy Rondeau, Washington State Athletic Commission chairman, has demanded Scott come forth and back up his allegations. The Commission has set May 2 for Scott to appear before it. Rondeau also said he was asking state Attorney General Slade Gorton to investigate the charge.

The mustachioed redhaired Scott has declined on the advise of his attorney to name opponents and give dates of fixed fights.

He said he was writing a book on boxing that will devote chapters to fixed fights he was aware of.

Scott had 22 victories, 10 by knock-out, seven losses and one draw. He has been knocked out twice and lost his last three fights.

Terra Linda Faces Encina In Gymnastics

Terra Linda High School will face powerful Encina High of Sacramento in a gymnastics meet Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Terra Linda.

"Encina has been the champion of Northern California for the past three years," said Terra Linda coach Hank Yamagata. "This meet will give Marin County fans a chance to see truly topflight high-school gymnastics."

In addition to the dual meet between the boys teams, the Terra Linda girls team will give an exhibition. Admission is $1 for adults and 75 cents for students.

McCovey Ready But Baseball Not

Willie McCovey paced himself cautiously throughout six weeks of spring training and just when he was ready to subject his left knee to a full nine-inning test April 1 in Yuma, the first general strike of major league baseball players went into effect.

"I haven't swung a bat since March 30 when we played our final Cactus League game in Palm Springs," said McCovey, "but I'm working out daily in a downtown San Francisco gym to keep in shape."

THROUGHOUT the winter, following an operation that repaired damaged cartilage in the left knee which kept him out of action for one-third of the 1971 season, McCovey worked with weights to strengthen his left leg.

THEN CAME the strike. So he never got the opportunity to go a full nine innings in spring training.

"Working out in a gym isn't like working out with the team," said McCovey. "That's obvious. But it's the one way I can keep strengthening both legs and I'll continue that routine until the strike is over. I hope it's over soon."

McCovey misses batting practice but isn't worried about it. Two weeks of not swinging a bat is nothing compared to the long winter months when home run hitters never have a bat in their hands. McCovey has an excellent answer for such long hitting layoffs. "You don't forget how to swim," he says.

McCOVEY DISCLOSED that some of his friends wondered how he could keep his mind on baseball during the strike.

"I told them," said McCovey, "that it takes no special effort. My mind always is on baseball — the year round."

Of the 21 spring training exhibitioners the Giants played, McCovey sat out seven. When he sat out three-in-a-row March 16, 17 and 18, there was momentary concern about the soundness of his left knee. During that particular period, it wasn't the knee that was plaguing him but the old bone chips in his right hip.

"DON'T WORRY," said McCovey at the time, "I won't miss the season opener, I'm going to be ready for that one you can be sure."

McCovey did miss the 1972 season opener. So did 599 other major league players because of the strike.

"I'll be ready for it whenever it's played," said McCovey.

Tars' Track Team Tough

"We expect to have our best team in the last four years," College of Marin track and field coach Tony Bailey asserted yesterday in preparing his team for a Camino Norte Conference meet in San Pablo Friday at 3:30 p.m. against Contra Costa College.

In analyzing his squad, Bailey listed "our running (as) our strong suit. We can run with anybody in the conference," particularly in distance races. Marin's win-loss record is 2-3.

"Mike Arago is the top three-miler in the conference," accoridng to Bailey. Arago and Vian Collier, two freshmen, are the backbone of Tar distance running. They teamed with Joe Mouille and Lee Hotchkin in the four-mile relay in giving the Tars the second best time, 17:58.8, in Northern California junior college competition.

Collier and Arago again team up in the distance medley with Tom Estudillio and Joe Kinn, a 50.9 runner in the 440, giving the Marinites a fine 10:20.6 time.

While Collier and Arago stand out in distance runs, Bill LaHaye shines over-all. "LaHaye is our top point producer. He competes in the shot put, triple jump, 440 and mile relay. That's versatility," Bailey stated.

As far as versatility is concerned, Marin's Ken Blasingame takes a back seat to no one. A member of the Tars' football and basketball varsities, he tops the CNC in the 120 high hurdles with a 14.9 clocking.

In the sprints, Dick Tierney, who has a wind-aided 9.4 in the 100-yard dash, is the Tars' best. He is fourth in the CNC with a 22.4 for the 220.

Bailey intimated, "We are not as strong in the field events as we are in the running, but we do have good people, like LaHaye in the shot put. LaHaye has a 44 foot, 4½-inch toss to his credit, good for seventh in the conferences.

NHL PLAYOFFS

History Doesn't Repeat— Bruins Survive 1st Round

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Boston Bruins joined the Chicago Black Hawks among the idle rich today, while both New York and Minnesota were faced with possibly another obstacle in their bids to gain the semifinal round of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Boston advanced one notch farther than it was able to go last year when it edged the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 Tuesday night to win its quarterfinal set, four games to one. The Bruins are favored to win the Cup this spring, just as they were in 1971-72 when they were eliminated in the first round by Montreal.

DESPERATION

The Canadiens kept their current hopes alive when they pulled out a desperation 2-1 victory at New York Tuesday night, narrowing their deficit to 3-2, and Minnesota took a 3-2 lead over St. Louis by beating the Blues 4-3.

New York will be at Montreal and Minnesota at St. Louis on Thursday night.

However, in line with the current trend in professional sports, a new element entered the picture Tuesday night when the Black Hawks, who completed a four-game sweep of Pittsburgh last weekend, threatened a strike against the National Hockey League over the curvature of sticks.

CURVATURES

The Chicago players voted unanimously torequest the league to drop its rules of checking stick curvatures and Alan Eagelson, executive director of the NHL Players Association, said he plans to seek a similar vote from the other teams in the playoffs.

Eagelson said that if the other clubs support the Chicago position, a strike may be called unless the league backs down on its stick checking rule. Hockey sticks are limited to a half-inch curvature.

WINNING

Ken Hodge scored the winning goal for Boston at 7:38 of the final period, and Bruin Coach Tom Johnson was noticeably relieved to be past the opening round.

"It was a tough series," he said. "I've seen us play a lot better. We were a little nervous with the puck in our end. Maybe we'll settle down now that the first series is over. But we don't deserve all the abuse we've been getting. We're winning a lot of games for a lousy club."

PLANTED

Hodge, firmly planted in front of the Toronto net when he put in the game-winner, called it "an Esposito shot.

"I just stood there in front of the net and waited for (Toronto goalie Bernie) Parent to make his move," Hodge said. The big winger had been set up by Phil Esposito, who said later, "I heard Cashman hollering, 'Hodgie, Hodgie,' to me. So I turned and put it to the big guy and he whopped it in there. He shot it just like I do. That's the way I've been telling him to shoot it."

HOME ICE

The Rangers, who haven't clinched a Stanley Cup series of any kind on their home ice since 1940, jumped off to a 1-0 lead on Vic Hadfield's power play goal at 4:24 of the second period, but Frank Mahovlich drew Montreal even just 2 1-2 minutes later and Jim Roberts scored the decisive goal at 3:12 of the final period.

"I think we played very well," said goalie Ken Dryden, the outstanding player on the ice for Montreal with 33 saves. "We had as many chances, or more, as in any game of this series. We had to play that way, and we knew it, or else we'd be finished.

NO CRISIS

"After one or two losses you're not yet at the total crisis stage. But when you have three, you can't go any further. You know you're at the edge of the cliff."

Minnesota, trailing 3-2 entering the final period, got early third period goals from J. P. Parise and Jude Drouin to overcome the Blues.

North Star Coach Jack Gordon said that Parise's goal "gave us the spark to get going, no question about it," and then added that "It's got to be the best game we've had so far in the series."

Al Arbour, the St. Louis coach, predicted his team would bounce back again, just as it did after dropping the first two games of the series.

"We've been through this all year," he said. "We'll bounce back . . . no problem."

KNICKS

Lucas said the victory "caps a wonderful year for me, for many reasons. When I was needed, I did a job nobody thought I could."

Playing his first season with New York after being acquired from Golden State for Cazzie Russell, Lucas said he had to adjust his style of play to the Knicks. He said it was most gratifying when, "I felt they were getting confident with me in the lineup."

Somebody asked losing coach Gene Shue why he was smiling after being eliminated from the playoffs and he replied: "As long as you're alive, you should smile."

New York had a balanced scoring effort, something they hope can prevail in the Boston series. Frazier and Lucas each scored 22 points. Up front, forwards Dave DeBusschere and Bradley contributed 20 points apiece. Archie Clark of Baltimore led all scorers with 31 points, Jack Marin added 21 and former Knick Mike Rkiordan netted 19 for the Bullets.

Foyt Enters 2 Cars In Indianapolis 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —A.J. Foyt Jr. officially entered the Indianapolis 500-mile race Tuesday for the 15th consecutive year and could become the classic's first four-time winner.

Foyt, who now builds as well as races his own cars, entered two of his creations.

Another two of the turbo-changed Ford Coyotes were entered in the name of J.H. Greer of Houston, where Foyt has his garage. A.J. Foyt Sr. was named crew chief for all four cars.

Four other racers were entered Tuesday, four days before the midnight Saturday deadline. The field now numbers 40. Speedway officials said they expect about 30 more entries to be mailed before the time expires.

Other entries Tuesday included two by owner-driver Dick Simon, Salt Lake City; a back-up Dan Gurney Eagle for Bobby Unser who had an earlier entry, and a turbocharged Chevrolet-powered car by Ray W. Smith of Eaton, Ohio.

Gurney' second entry and the two for Simon will be powered by turbo-Offenhausers.

The Chevy racer was entered for rookie Tom Bigelow of White Water, Wis. Bigelow has gained experience on the United States Auto Club spring and midget circuits.

Foyt, who won the race in 1961, 1964, and 1967, is acclaimed as one of the top open cockpit drivers, but this year also had claimed two of the top 500-mile races on the NASCAR trail.

Galea Pass Romps To Golden Gate Win

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI)— Galea Pass, a seven-year-old gelding with the reputation of being one of the West's most consistent sprinters, had little trouble running off to an easy one and one-quarter length victory at muddy Golden Gate Fields Tuesday in his 1972 debut.

It was Galea Pass's first start since Aug. 23 but owner-trainer Olen Battles had him fit and ready, and he had little trouble handling a muddy strip at the suburban course as he moved in front at the start and stayed there all the way under a fine ride by Juan Gonzalez, the meet's leading rider.

The time for six furlongs was a good 1:10 2-5 and Galea Pass, the 8 to 5 favorite, paid $5.20, $4.00 and $3.00. Ipse, who finished a head before Gold Seal, paid $7.20 and $4.80, and the latter returned $3.00.

San Jose Boxer Whips Lester

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Carlos Salinas, 162, San Jose, scored a unanimous decision over Jimmy Lester, 161, San Francisco, Tuesday night in the 10-round middleweight main event at the Sacramento Memorial Auditorium.

Salinas, who beat Lester in their last meeting, took the offensive and damaged Lester with hard shots to the body. There were no knockdowns despite heavy punching by both fighters.

Referee Mario Duccina scored it 6-2, Judge Al Martino 7-2, and Judge Hank Elespuru 5-2.

It was Salinas' fourth victory in as many appearances in Sacramento.

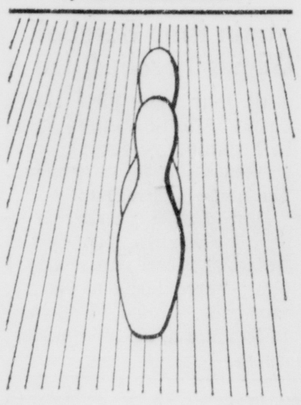
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



Spares in which the back pin is hidden directly behind one in front are among the more testing. Hook bowlers should arrange to hit the front pin very slightly on the right-front. Thus if you miss a little farther to the right, the ball will carry into the rear pin. A head-on hit is perfect. But if you miss anywhere to the left, you'll only get one pin.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

April A Good Month For That Paint Job

It's reasonable to say that more boats are painted during April than at any other time of the year. In the chilly north, of course, it's traditional that Easter and April are the times to get started working on the boat.

It's also safe to say that fewer and fewer boats are being painted each spring because the numbers of wooden boats are dwindling each year. Of the estimated 9 million boats now in use in the United States, statistics show under 40 per cent are wood. This figure is dropping by about 10 per cent per year.

BUT IF YOU are one of this 40 per cent, it's almost certain that your wooden boat needs paint . . . right now. But while you are at it, give a little consideration to what can be done to improve the appearance and lines of the craft.

(If you plan to paint an aluminum or plastic boat — many people do — the same ideas may be applied).

First consider what appeals to you when you see a striking, racy-looking boat. To me it's some intangible "shape of motion" that gives a boat a feeling of moving even when standing still. Don't knock it, the car manufacturers go to great lengths to achieve it.

On a boat that has high topsides paint on a longitudinal line of highly contrasting color. Nautical types call this a "sheer strake." Right away the boat will appear to sit lower and look racier.

If you trailer your boat, paint it to match your car with a brilliant contrasting streak. Every head will turn as you go by.

A good trick used by architects, designers and interior decorators is to take a picture of your boat, then trace its outline half a dozen times on thin paper. Try a few free-hand designs for racy lines on the tracing paper.

To see what your boat would look like with any of the designs you have drawn, hold the tracing paper down tightly over the picture so that it shows through with your design superimposed.

ONE MUST NOT forget, however, that paint must also protect as well as decorate — and it's a much greater problem. When I dragged my car-top skiff from behind the garage where it had been stored since last duck season . . . I came to the conclusion that one winter is harder on a boat than two summers.

Last year I preached the virtues of some of the new marine paints — the vinyls, epoxies, and polyesters — and went so far as to cover the cartopper with one of the new epoxy resin finishes. All summer long it was shiny and sleek and I pointed with pride. But now, after a few months lay-up, it has a crackle finish like sharkskin — and just about as rough.

This is not to condemn the new paints, but to point out that almost everything has its limitations.

That there are other problems to painting boats is shown by some of the questions I've been asked:

Q. I've just built a plywood boat. Anything I should watch now that it has to be painted?

A. Seal the wood as thoroughly as you possibly can, with the very best sealer primer and paint. Remember that a plywood boat must always be dry inside. Plywood should not be permitted to get wet because it can't swell up and expand like solid wood. The grain of the plies lie in several directions to give it great strength. If they get wet and expand they tend to tear the whole structure of the material apart.

Q. When I bought my fiberglass boat, 15 year ago, they came in any color as long as it was white. Can I paint it a color now?

A. Very easily. Just get the proper paint — either polyester or epoxy base. This bonds to the fiberglass and becomes part of it.

Smith Heads Track Show At Oberlin

BERKELEY (UPI) —Tommie Smith, the Olympian who stirred international controversy in 1968 with a clenched fist salute, has been named track coach and assistant athletic director at Oberlin College, Ohio.

He said Smith was selected after a six-week search. The former sprint man will hold the academic rank of associate professor and function as head coach of the track team while serving as assistant athletic director at Oberlin College, Scott said.

Smith, a 6-3, 190 pound runner who won the Olympic 200-meter Gold Medal at Mexico City, caused a storm of controversy when he and third place finisher John Carlos raised clenched fists in a black power salute while receiving the award.

Smith was in Oberlin last week and received "tremendous response from the students, faculty and administrators," said Scott.

A broken shoulder in 1969 ended a promising professional football career for Smith with the Cincinnati Bengals. He sustained the injury when he crashed to the ground with the first pass ever thrown him in a pro game—a 40-yard bomb.

South Sonoma Prep Sports Washed Out

All southern Sonoma County high school sports events were postponed yesterday due to rain or wet grounds.

The scheduled baseball games — Santa Rosa at Petaluma, Rancho Cotate at Sonoma, and St. Vincent at Point Arena, were all scheduled to be played today unless more rain caused further postponements. The game between Tomales and Lower Lake will be rescheduled for the middle of April or May.

The tennis matches between Santa Rosa and Petaluma, and Rancho Cotate and Sonoma were also rescheduled for today.

Marin Catholic and Rancho Cotate will hold their golf match Friday at Rohnert Park course.

Drake Adult School Sets Swim Course

A six-week adult beginning and intermediate swimming course will be offered by the Sir Francis Drake Adult School in San Anselmo starting tomorrow 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the pool.

Drake physical education instructor Ann Scott will lead the Thursday evening class which costs $6.

Lathrop Improves 880 Time

Last week's rain-shortened Marin County Athletic League track and field schedule still managed to produce two of the league's best dual-meet marks.

Gary Lathrop of San Marin High School shaved three-tenths of a second off his standard in the 880-yard run with a 2:01.2 performance last Friday.

Don Nelson of Marin Catholic, who had lost his long-jump honors to Randy Colfer of San Marin just before spring vacation, gained them back with a leap of 21 feet, six inches Friday, half an inch over Colfer's best.

There were no other changes. The league's best times and distances:

120 HH — Ed Harris (Novato), 15.6; 440 Relay — San Marin (Steve Goins, Larry Butti, Bob Briot, Randy Colfer), 45.2; 880 — Gary Lathrop (San/Marin), 2:01.2; 100 — Joe Powell (Novato), 10.1; Mile — Brian Tracy (Redwood), 4:38.2; 440 — Bob Briot, San Marin, 52.4; 180 LH — Greg Biber (Tamalpais), 21.2; 220 — Jim Grigg (San Rafael) and Joe Powell (Novato), tie, 23.4; Two-Mile — Pete Sweeney (Redwood), 9:52.0; Mile Relay — San Marin (Ron Zechlin, Gary Lathrop, Bob Briot, Randy Colfer), 3:33.4; Shot Put — Steve McGee (Redwood), 51-2 (has put unofficial 53-4); Pole Vault — Kip Kermoian (Redwood), 12-6; Discuss — Darrell Elder (Redwood), 150-2½; Long Jump — Don Nelson (Marin Catholic), 21-6; High Jump — Mark Farrar (San Rafael), 6-2; Triple Jump — Mark Lowey (Terra Linda), 40-9½.

Two Prep Swim Times Lowered

Two Redwood High School swimmers, Spencer Eldred and John Redig, lowered their own best times by fractions of a second in recent Marin County Athletic League meets.

Last Friday, Eldred nicked a tenth of a second off his league best in the 200-yard freestyle when he swam 1:54.5. Yesterday, Redig chipped two-tenths off his 50 free time when he swam a 23.0.

There were no other changes in the year's best times. The times are:

200 Medley Relay — Redwood (Pete Brunstetter, Paul Cane, Corky Hull, John Redig), 1:46.0; 200 Free — Spencer Eldred (Redwood), 1:54.5; 200 I.M. — Rick DeMont (Terra Linda), 2:06.0; 50 Free — John Redig (Redwood, 23.0; Diving — John Summerfield (Novato), 362.45; 100 Fly — Rick Demont (Terra Linda), 49.5; 400 Free — Spencer Eldred (Redwood), 4:06.2; 100 Back — Roger Rechsteiner (Novato), 1:00.8; 100 Breast — Paul Cane (Redwood), 1:03.5; 400 Free Relay — Redwood (Troy Dunham, John Goepp, Spencer Eldred, John Redig), 3:30.6.

Senior Women's Golf Tourney Set Tomorrow

Some 112 women golfers over the age of 60 are entered in the 25th Northern California Senior Women's Golf Tournament at Meadow Club near Fairfax tomorrow and Friday.

The five flight field, including 20 women over 70, start teeing off at 8 a.m. tomorrow in a 36-hole, eclectic tournament. Flight winners shooting the lowest medal scores will receive prizes.

In addition, a dinner will be held Thursday, 6:30 p.m. and an awards luncheon will be given Friday immediately after the tourney is completed.

Lakers' Goodrich Proves An Exception To The Rule

By PHIL ELDERKIN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

The race to make it big in pro basketball is always for the swift, the talented and the tall. If you don't have two of the three, forget it.

When the Los Angeles Lakers drafted guard Gail Goodrich from UCLA in 1965, rival scouts figured he qualified on only one count — speed. His future was dismissed as casually as a Cy Young Award winning pitcher working on a .220 hitter.

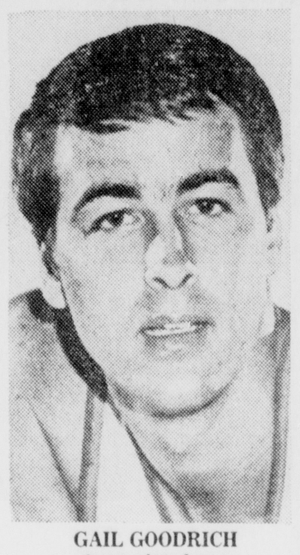
One day in training camp and Goodrich would be packing his socks as well as his lunch. Oh, he had talent all right, but it was what the pros like to call college-oriented talent.

Elgin Baylor took one look at Gail's 6 ft. 1 in. frame and called him Stumpy. This kid may have been an All-American shooter in college, everybody said, but those pro defenses would never let him get his shot off.

Besides, how often was he going to see the ball anyway with Jerry West playing next to him and Baylor in front of him?

As it turned out, not much. But on the few occasions when Goodrich did get to play, he scored. Nobody was quite sure at first how he was getting his points, because he seemed to be scoring as often on layups as jump shots.

But if you watched him closely enough, you could see him fake the big man to one side as he came down the lane, shift the ball from one hand to the other on inside drives, and



GAIL GOODRICH

score. In fact, he even embarrassed Boston's Bill Russell a couple of times.

Still, the Lakers never quite appreciated him. They thought other teams exploited his height a little too often on defense and they were also suspect about a man who never had more than 210 assists in one year.

Goodrich was getting a trifle anxious, too. He not only wanted to play more, he wanted to start. Finally he asked the Lakers to trade him. They didn't exactly rush to deal him away, but they did expose him to the NBA's 1968 expansion draft.

The Phoenix Suns, badly in need of established names and proven shooters, grabbed him. It was an ideal situation for Gail — he ran the Suns' offense, mixed in a little playmaking with his scoring, and averaged about 24 points a game.

Meanwhile, back in Los Angeles, the man who was pretty much acknowledged as the best of the game's top-shooting guards (Jerry West) averaged only one point higher.

There were not only second thoughts in the Lakers' front office now about letting Goodrich go to Phoenix, but also third and fourth thoughts.

Released from the situation which forced him to caddy for Baylor and West, Gail began to establish an all-star reputation of his own. They still called him Stumpy, only people now smiled when they said it.

The fact is Goodrich should have been set for years in Phoenix, but two things happened which pointed him back in the direction of the West Coast.

First, the Suns signed Connie Hawkins, the best player in the rival American Basketball Association, but a gentlemen who needed the ball as much as Baylor.

On May 20, 1970, two years after he became a member of the Suns, the Stump was traded back to the Los Angeles Lakers for Mel Counts, a seven-foot redwood.

Okay, so he only beat Jerry by a decimal point. But anytime anybody beats Mr. West at anything, it comes under the heading of a major achievement.

Czechs Really Pay For Hockey Game

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

PRAGUE — Hockey-minded Czechs offered up to half of an average monthly income today to seethe Russian versus Czechoslovakia game — the climax of the World Ice Hockey championships.

Black market prices rose to about $70 for a ticket — about 50 per cent of an average monthly income in Czechoslovakia.

But there were no tickets available.

All the tickets for the crucial game were distributed to "merited workers" in Prague factories in the past months.

The two teams rested Tuesday while Switzerland beat highly favored Finland 3-2 and Sweden handled West Germany 10-0.

Golf

HOUSTON — The Brigham Young University golf team, which includes Ray Leach of Novato, is considered one of the four strongest teams in the 18th annual All-America Intercollegiate Invitational tournament which starts here today.

Favorite to win the team title is NCAA champion University of Texas, but BYU, Florida and Houston were rated strong upset chances.

Basketball

PULLMAN, Wash. — George Raveling Tuesday became the first black head basketball coach in the Pacific 8 conference when he agreed to terms with Washington State.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Forward Corky Calhoun of Pennsylvania, a No. 1 draft choice, was signed Tuesday by the Phoenix Suns. Jerry Colangelo, general manager of the Suns, said that Calhoun had the tools to be a great pro player.

Football

CHEYNEY, Pa. — Billy Joe, A former bruising running back with three professional football teams, has accepted his first head college coaching job.

Joe, 31, who was the American Football League's Rookie of the Year in 1963, was named Tuesday as head football coach at Cheyney State College.

Swimming

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Indiana's NCAA swimming champions set out Tuesday night to break American records in two relay events seldom contested at the college level and succeeded both times.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Audit Notice Can Mean Refund — Or An Additional Tax Due

When you receive a notice that your return is being audited, it may mean a refund for you, or No change in your taxes, or an additional tax due.

When your tax return is audited, you will have to explain some items. Adequate records should be kept and so should sales slips, invoices, receipts, cancelled checks and other documents.

The kind of)ecords you should keep are not spelled out in the law.

Your W-2 form, cancelled checks, receipts or other evidence to support deductions or credits claimed on your income tax return should be sufficient records to support these items.

If you find you made a mistake, you should immediately file an amended return. Claim the refund due because of the mistake, or pay the additional tax you owe.

Form 1040X should be used for filing amended returns.

You can still use CLaim Form 843 or the old Form 1040 to amend an individual income tax return. However, Uncle Sam prefers that you use the new Form 1040X.

Form 1040X is designed to expedite data processing so its use could result in your getting any additional refund sooner.

If there is any additional tax due for 1971 and the amended return is filed and additional tax paid by April 15, 1972, there will be no penalty or interest.

If you would have done better to itemize your deductions instead of using the standard deduction, you can still amend your return. If you used the standard deduction for 1968, 1969 or 1970, you can still file an amended return and itemize your deductions.

If there is a refund due, an amended return will get it for you.

You can file an amended return at any time and pay an additional tax.

You can file an amended return and claim any additional refunds any time within three years of the due date of the return you wish to amend, or within two years from the time you paid the tax - whichever is the longer period.

There is no reason for you to pay more taxes than the law requires or to be timid in taking every deduction permitted by the rules.

Your tax return should contain a full and clear explanation of every tiem and you should keep available all papers, bills, checks receipts, etc., in connectqon with your return.

In addition, returns are now being processed by computers and compared with certain standards established by the IRS.

More than ever before, it is important that your income tax return be completely and accurately prepared. Your careful attention to the details of your tax return can save both you and the government needless time and expense answering questions the computers will generate if your return is inaccurate or incomplete.

A few extra minutes spent checking your tax return before you send it in could save you hours of explaining later in the year.

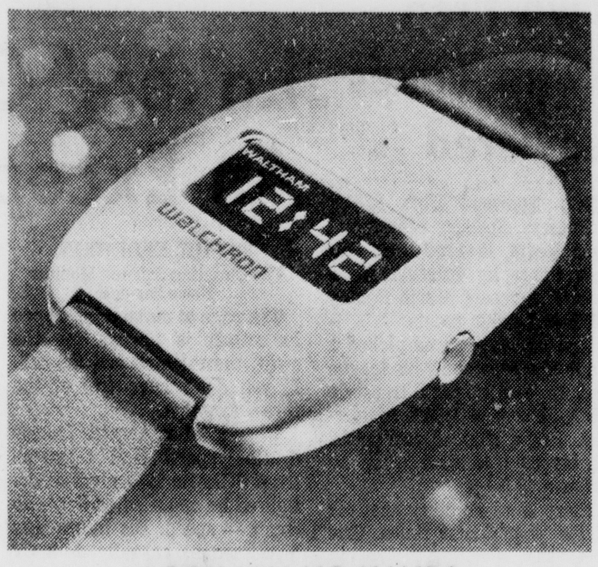
Hyatt Negotiating For Furniture Firm

BURGLINGAME (UPI) — Hyatt Corp. says it is negotiating for the acquisition of Recrion Corp., a Los Angeles furniture firm which owns the Stardust and Fremont hotels in Las Vegas.

Hyatt said Monday it wants to issue shares of its common stock for the acquisition.



LOOK MA! NO HANDS

World's first liquid crystal watch with no movable parts will be marketed by The Waltham Watch Co. in July of this year. Georges Didisheim, Waltham board chairman, said the watch is priced to sell for under $200 at retail. Instead of the conventional hands, the Walchron produces a computer-like read-out on the face of the watch, showing hours and minutes. It will run without battery change for more than a year. Whereas most watches rely on a balance wheel for ticking off seconds, the Walchron uses a solid state, electronic, quartz oscillator. It will vary no more than five seconds a month.

Market Surge Continues With Heavy Early Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—Buoyed by some excellent earnings reports, the stock market continued to surge ahead during the first two hours today. Trading was heavy.

The two-hour turnover amounted to more than 8,280,000 shares, with an overwhelming majority on the up side. Advances dominated declines, 862 to 422, among the 1,631 issues crossing the tape.

Many corporate earnings reports presently make pleasant reading. Some results are at new highs. These were the prime reason for the sharp advance during the first two hours, analysts said.

For the moment, they said, investors are ignoring the new turn in the Vietnam war. This had a diminishing effect earlier this week.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices were higher in active trading. STP Corp. was the most active issue, down 2 1-4 at 21 on 78,100 shares.

American Telephone & Telegraph was the most active New York Stock Exchange issue, off 1-8 at 43 1-4. The trading included a block of 129,500 shares at 43 1-8.

Earnings, Loans, Resources Rise

NASSAU (BW) — World Banking Corp. Ltd. has reported record increases of 41 per cent or more in deposits, resources, loans and earnings for 1971.

Deposits climbed to $288,484,000 at year-end, up 47 per cent from $198,222,000 a year earlier. Total resources rose to $310,156,000 from $214,955,000 the previous year, an increase of 44 per cent.

Loans increased 42 per cent and stood at $191,419,000 as compared with $134,376,000 at the end of 1970, and net earnings were $2,780,000 compared with $588,000 the year before.

MICHAEL C. COLN
Only Marin winner

San Rafael Youth, 18, Top Scholar

Michael C. Coln, an 18-year-old high school senior from San Rafael, is among 107 students in California to win a four-year National Merit scholarship, it was announced today.

Coln, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Olav Coln of 1065 Las Ovejas, is a student at Lick-Wilmerding High School for Boys in San Francisco. He will attend either California Institute of Technology or Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a major in either chemistry or physics.

Named to the Lick-Wilmerding honor roll several times, he is student body secretary and holds Eagle rank in Boy Scout Troop 76 of Terra Linda.

He also was California Scholarship Federation secretary; has received the Air Force electronics and communications award; has been a Model United Nations delegate, and is a member of his school's flexible scheduling and constitutional revision committees.

Coln attends chemistry classes at San Francisco State College in addition to his high school curriculum.

Nationally, 1,275 high school seniors were chosen, according to Edward C. Smith, Merit Scholarship Corp. president. They were chosen from among 14,400 finalists in the 1972 program.

Coln's award is being underwritten by Bechtel Corp. of San Francisco.

LBJ Walks Under His Own Power

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, looking pale and strained after a flight from Virginia where he suffered a heart attack five days ago, walked into the Brooke Army Medical Center under his own power today.

Johnson, 63, motioned away a hospital attendant who approached him with a wheelchair and walked slowly and with a noticeable stoop from his station wagon into the hospital.

He had a portable electrocardiogram unit taped to his chest and was accompanied by three men, two of them doctors.

Doctors did not explain how Johnson was able to make the 1,500-mile trip less than five days after suffering what had been called a massive heart attack. But hospital officials in Charlottesville, Va., where Johnson has been treated since his attack, isuued this statement an hour after he abruptly left Tuesday night:

"After several days of steady improvement from his heart attack of last Friday, Mr. Johnson flew to San Antonio where he will finish recuperating at Brooke Army Hospital."

Johnson, wearing a dark blue suit and a grey felt hat, accepted the wheelchair once inside the hospital and was then taken to his private carpeted suite on the seventh floor.

His wife Lady Bird, who also looked weary and drained, arrived seconds later and hurried into the hospital with two Secret Service agents.

Week's Report

Fifty-eight cases of streptococcus infection were reported last week to the Marin County Health Office, according to health officer Carolyn B. Albrecht. Also reported were 32 cases of gonorrhea, six of infectious hepatitis and two each of syphilis and salmonella, she said.

School Anti-Spanking Bill Passes Assembly Panel

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —On a straight party-line vote, an Assembly committee has approved a controversial bill outlawing corporal punishment or spanking of children in public and private schools.

The measure by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, was approved Tuesday on a split 5-4 vote by the Criminal Justice Committee.

The action followed testimony by Dr. Julian Nava, member of the Los Angeles school board, who said some teachers strike children with hoses, softened paddles and perforated boards.

"Frankly, you would think you were in the 12th Century when you see some of the instruments that are used not only in our school district but in others as well," he told the panel.

The measure, similar versions of which have been killed at past sessions, went to the floor where Sieroty said he would put it on ice pending adoption of technical amendments.

Nava told the committee that studies have shown that corporal punishment in schools has "relatively little long-lasting beneficial effect" and instead causes children to lose respect for teachers and education.

"There are better ways to instill discipline," he said, citing such alternatives as "social ostracism, peer group pressure and denial of privileges."

Nava also said he was "shocked" to learn that some school personnel are "very skillful" in devising spanking tools that would leave no bruises or other marks on a child's body.

"Most school districts prefer to look the other way and give teacher's discretion" to punish pupils, he said.

But Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside questioned whether the state should declare an outright, statewide ban on corporal punishment. He indicated it should be left to the discretion of local districts.

SPRINGTIME AT MICHIGAN STATE

Michigan State students don't seem to notice that at least one male student has discovered that in springtime a young man's fancy turns to something other than books. The young man and his friend don't seem to notice the others either. (UPI Telephoto)

HE LOVES HIS COMPETITION. . .

Collection Of Protested Tax Halted

The Internal Revenue Service has suspended attempts to collect unpaid telephone taxes being withheld by the Northern California Telephone War Tax Protest, according to the movement's co-ordinator, Alan Barnett of Mill Valley.

Barnett said the collection attempts would be suspended pending a decision by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas on whether IRS can collect the unpaid taxes before the tax law itself is ruled constitutional.

Barnett said the group recently learned Internal Revenue Service would begin attaching the bank accounts, salaries and property of protesters and wired Douglas, asking him to intervene.

Although they have had no direct reply from Douglas, Barnett said, he has received a copy of a letter sent from Matthew J. Zimm, assistant solicitor general in Washington, D.C., to Michael Rodak, clerk of the Supreme Court, saqing the IRS has suspended collection attempts.

Barnett's organization opposes the collection of the 10 per cent telephone tax levied by the federal government in 1966 to support the war in Vietnam, claiming the government has no authority to levy a tax to support an undeclared war.

The protest movement began last May in Marin and has spread throughout the state. Trust funds have been established in which members place taxes they decline to pay the government.

To date, he said, $20,000 has been collected and held "in escrow, so to speak," pending outcome of the group's suit, now on appeal to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Deputy Heard 'Soledad Brothers'

SAN JOSE (UPI)—A sheriff's lieutenant testified at the Angela Davis trial today he heard the Marin County courthouse kidnapers use the word "Soledad Brothers" but "I can't recall in what context."

Lt. Ronald A. Retana, one of the law enforcement officers held at bay in a second-floor corridor of the courtroom after the kidnapers came out of a courtroom with five hostages, said he also heard the word "revolutionaries."

Miss Davis, the 28-year-old black militant and former UCLA professor, is charged with furnishing guns and helping plot the Aug. 1970, kidnapings in which four persons were killed.

A key part of the state's case is that Miss Davis was in love with black revolutionary George Jackson, one of the "Soledad Brothers" accused of killing a guard at Soledad Prison, and that she entered into the plot to try to force his release.

Retana said he and other officers were forced to stand against a wall as the four kidnpers came out of Judge Harold J. Haley's courtroom, a shotgun wired around Haley's neck and four other hostages in tow.

"No complete sentences have stayed with me," Retana testified.

"I recall the word 'Soledad' but I can't recall in what context. I heard the word 'revolutionaries' and I heard Jonathan Jackson say, 'this is it.'

Tuesday, a dramatic, 19-second tape recording of the 15 shots in the bloody gun battle which ensued outside the courthouse was played for the jury.

The recording was made by James Brown, a consultant with the State Personnel Board, who was interviewing a job applicant on the third floor of the courthouse when the shots broke out below.

Brown and the applicant fled, leaving the tape recorder running, when a bullet crashed through a window.

Brown testified he and the interviewee did not recognize the noises they heard as gunfire and thought it was coming from a nearby loading dock.

"Then the window broke out and we left rapidly," he said. "We left the recorder going. I came back later and got the tape and thought it might be of interest to the sheriff's department."

As Brown played the tape in Judge Richard Arnason's courtroom, at least 15 shots clearly could be heard, bunched in an irregular pattern and varying greatly in intensity —from the sharp, clearly defined cracks of pistol fire to an occasional, deep-throated "whump" which apparently came from a shotgun.

When the battle was over, Judge Harold J. Haley and three of his abductors were dead in the van.

Prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr. for nearly two weeks had been presenting a detailed picture of the incident. He was expected to continue it at least through today and possibly through the end of this week's court sessions.

Five San Quentin Prison guards also testified Tuesday about the shootout which erupted when the escape van, apparently left outside the courthouse for the purpose by kidnaper Jonathan Jackson, rolled down the exitway and confronted a small army of law officers.

Guard Jon W. Matthews said one of the kidnapers started shooting at him, and he cut three of them down with a highpowered rifle.

Inequities Charged In Hiring Practices

By ERIK M. INGRAM

A state report on Marin County hiring practices has charged "inequities in the employment practices and policies" related to employment of women and minority group members.

The report, drafted by the California Fair Employment Practice Commission, was turned over yesterday to county supervisors who will review the document next week.

Investigation of the county's hiring practices was requested more than a year ago by the National Organization of Women — a women's rights group.

The state's investigation "revealed that women employees are, in fact, insignificantly represented in managerial and supervisory positions" even in jobs traditionally reserved for women.

The report notes that as of last August 40 per cent of the 49 supervisory positions were filled by women and 17 per cent of the 159 managerial classifications.

It makes no mention, however, that overall more women are employeed by the county than men. (The county has 1,395 permanent employees, of whom more than half are women.)

The report also charges that black employees "are also insignificantly represented and only then in those jobs generally occupied by minorities."

Maren Rinne, county personnel officer, in her reply to the state's charge said that of the 50 black employees, 21 are in professional positions, 23 in clerical and trade positions and six in supervisory and management positions.

While the report strongly condemns the county's employment practices, it makes no attempt to clarify how it reached its conclusions.

In fact, at one point it even commends the county's manual on policies, procedures and practices as "a professional document that adheres to good and proven personnel principes."

In her rebuttal, Miss Rinne concluded that "over-all, the development of this study and its findings and recommendations are informative and beneficial. We are pleased to note that many of the county's practices comply with the recommendations."

She added, however, that "present procedures can be strengthened."

Hearing Set In Liquor, Pot Case

Preliminary hearing on charges of possessing marijuana and violating two liquor laws against Gordon David Blankenberg, 18, of Fairfax, has been set for April 18 in Marin Municipal Court.

San Rafael police arrested Blankenberg Feb. 26 when officers reportedly saw him emptying a quart of malt liquor onto the pavement as they approached his car. Police said eight plastic bags of possible marijuana were found in his car.

In addition to the felony marijuana charge, he is charged with possessing liquor while under age and having an open liquor container in a car.

Dress Shop Theft Court Date Slated

Caroline Jean McIlroy, 30, of Larkspur, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court to appear April 19 to face charges of attempted theft and concealing stolen property.

She was arrested by sheriff's deputies March 12 following an alleged theft from the Little Daisy dress shop in Town and Country Shopping Center in Strawberry.

Child-Molesting Court Date Set

Larry Amato Petretti, 48, of San Rafael, was indicted by the Marin County Grand Jury yesterday on five counts of child molesting and was immediately arraigned in Marin Superior Court.

Petretti is charged with molesting 8-year-old and 9-year-old girls between July 1 and March 22 at the apartment house he manages at 520 Canal Street.

The slight, balding apartment manager was released without bail to appear again in court April 24.

Stanford Given $15 Million Gift

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—An anonymous donor has given $15 million to Stanford University, which Tuesday began the biggest five year money-raising effort ever attempted by a university.

The school is seeking $300 million, a spokesman said. Of that total, $125 million is sought in endowments, $92 million in gifts for operating needs and $83 million for buildings.

The $15 million pledge already made by an individual will be used to match contributions for endowed scholarships at the private university.

'Alice' Auditions Today, Tomorrow

Auditions will be held for "Alice in Wonderland," the first production by the Peoples Theatre, at 7:30 p.m. today and tomorrow in the Drake Little Theatre.

The Peoples' Theatre, a recently formed group for students through college age, will stage the production early in June.

PANTYHOSE WILL DO IT EVERY TIME

Troubleshooters said they were puzzled about the outage until they found "a pair of very wet pantyhose" wrapped around a 44,000-volt line.

The hose had been used as a tail for a kite, they said.

Less Controls Over Medi-Cal Cost Urged

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to eliminate the state's primary control on escalating Medi-Cal costs has been introduced by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

His bill, SB1170, was among seven he introduced at the request of the California Medical Association.

The Reagan administration long has been a strong advocate of continuing the "prior authorization" requirement that state physicians approve all office visits after two a month. The administration has argued that the requirement was needed to control costs under the program, which now sees some 15 million claims a year.

The medical association, however, long has objected that the result of the "prior authorization" is not detection of what it claims is a small percentage of abuses, but the delay or denial of needed medical care — and harrassment of the vast number of honest doctors.

The association's bill instead would provide for detection of abuses by auditing the 15 million claims.

Other bills in the CMA package introduced by Behr would require processing of prior authorization requests within seven days. Processing now takes from 10 to 28 days, according to the CMA.

The other bills would give physicians up to a year to bill the state for Medi-Cal services, require state payment to a physician certifying an earlier bill was submitted for payment but lost, require medical justification for denying Medi-Cal services to a patient, require counties to provide physicians with lists of eligible Medi-Cal recipients so they can be identified for billing the state, and add anesthesiologists' services to outpatient services covered by the program.

Yoga Class Will Begin On Tuesday

The class will meet on Tuesdays from 5:30 to 7 p.m. weekly at the Community Center through May 23. It will be taught by Elsie Piatt. Registration may be made at the recreation department.

Flood Controls Could Aid Rec Development

The Army Corps of Engineers' proposed flood control project along Novato Creek could provide recreational development, estimated to cost $844,000, according to Lewis E. Fredrickson, assistant Marin County flood control engineer.

The project could include horseback, pedestrian and bicycle trails — estimated to cost $564,000 — and a boat-launching facility near the entrance to Bel Marin Keys at an estimated cost of $280,000, he said.

Robert Mooney of the corps of engineers reported to the Novato Flood Control Zone advisory board Monday night on recreation projects that could be incorporated into the creek flood control work, Frederickson said. The costs would have to be shared equally by local and federal governments, and projects could be scaled down, he said.

Pedestrian and bicycle trails could be constructed along the creek from Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. tracks to San Pablo Bay and an equestrian trail from the tracks to Highway 37, Fredrickson said.

Mooney also reported the corps couldn't participate in any recreational facilities west of Highway 101 because the facilities wouldn't qualify for federal funds, Fredrickson said.

Jail 'Will Rehabilitate' Drug Seller

Roger Wayne Ploof, 22, of San Rafael, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner in Marin Superior Court to what the judge called a "highly rehabilitative" jail sentence for heroin sale.

The judge sentenced Ploof to prison, but suspended the sentence in favor of six months in Marin County Jail and five years of probation.

Deputy probation officer Virginia Di Cerbo recommended three months in jail with probation provided Ploof would continue methadone treatment for addiction at Marin Open House.

Ploof's attorney, Edward Murray, also stressed the importance of a rehabilitative, not punitive sentence, but Gardiner said the six months will be highly rehabilitative.

Citing Ploof's long record of drug and burglary convictions dating back to 1967, Gardiner said he doesn't expect to see any rehabilitation. "I don't have any faith in him. I don't really think he is going to turn over a new leaf," the judge declared.

Ploof — described by narcotics agents as one of the main suppliers of heroin in Marin — was arrested following alleged sales of almost 18 grams of heroin for $210 to an agent in San Rafael Aug. 2 and 3.

One charge was dismissed last month when he agreed to plead guilty to a second charge of selling the drug.

The probation officer said he had been selling the drug to support his own habit of $100 a day and suggested a light sentence in view of his effort to improve.

But Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino, recommending a prison sentence, said, "Your honor, this isn't a game where, if you cop out, everybody pats you on the head and sends you home."

Gardiner agreed: "I think if he gets anything less than state prison, he is a very lucky man."

Driver Booked For Giving Away Secrets

HONOLULU (UPI)—A laundry truck driver who formerly did top secret work in the Air Force was fired because he gave columnist Jack Anderson material about American bombing of Laos.

"It was a patriotic thing with us," a spokesman for the American Sanitary Laundry said Tuesday of the firing of James Walkley. "We felt that if he would blab his country's secrets, then what would he do with our company's secrets?"

Walkley, a former Air Force Sergeant, said his top secret photographic intelligence work at Hickam Air Force Base and an earlier assignment in Udorn, Thailand, gradually turned him against U.S. bombing policy in Southeast Asia.

Petaluma School Classroom Damaged

Officers said a window was broken, desks overturned and the public address system was torn from the wall. A slide viewer and radio were smashed and finger nail polish was smeared on the blackboards.

OPEN DATING

Perishable foods (such as eggs, dairy and bakery foods) sell so fast at Safeway, they are on and off our shelves in a matter of hours. Still, we take no chances with freshness. Perishables which are manufactured or processed by Safeway carry dates to guide our store people. Being positive that no package remains on the shelf after printed date, assures you that these Safeway foods will remain fresh and good for many more days with proper home refrigeration.

WINNERS ALL (NEARLY) — It was business as usual for one winning candidate, but three others enjoyed the moment of victory in yesterday's city council elections. Novato candidate John C. Schoonover (foreground, top left) was the exception — he despaired as incumbent David Price Jones glanced appreciatively at the totals being posted in his favor at the Novato Community House. Sally Stanford (top right) accepted a call of congratulations at her Valhalla Inn, while Dorothy P. Young, another Novato candidate (bottom right) beamed upon learning she's won. For Robert H. Lee (bottom left), the celebration over his election to the Larkspur City Council was to come later: there were important city matters to tend to as chairman of the planning commission.

Eight Incumbents Defeated At Polls

Preserve Bond Is Approved

Lucas Valley homeowners voted overwhelmingly yesterday, to buy themselves 285 acres of undeveloped hillside land as permanent open space preserve.

They voted 789 to 35 in favor of a $315,000 bond issue by the Lucas Valley County Service Area to acquire the property offered by the Thomas Nunes family for $300,000.

In two other bond elections, Mill Valley voters approved a $275,000 bond issue for a fire house in East Mill Valley by 2,472 to 951, well over the needed two-thirds majority, but in Rohnert Park turned down, 635 o 873 opposed, a $195,000 bond offering to improve existing parks.

FAIRFAX VOTE

Fairfax citizens voted 1,415 to 625 to rezone the Marin Town and Country Club property to commercial-recreation, blocking a developer's plans for residential building on Max Friedman's historic resort property.

In Sausalito, the voters declared 1,045 to 722 that they wanted a public vote on park plans before any of the downtown parking lots are converted from revenue to recreation use. They voted 1,359 to 469 to make the treasurer's post appointive.

The Lucas Valley transaction is expected to be completed by July 1, according to Martin A. Kaufman, president of the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association that spearheaded the pioneering ,citizen effort to retain open space. He said it was the first time to his knowledge that any unincorporated community had taken this approach to environmental preservation.

The bond issue will cost each of the 526 homeowners in the service area about $40 a year for the next 25 years he said.

LEADER ELATED

"I'm extremely elated," Kaufmann said at the Marin County Civic Center last night. "We've said something important about the way we feel about our own community."

He explained that a "committee of 100" worked on passing the bond issue "and we had to turn away volunteers" because there were no campaign tasks for them. "There was complete, total community involvement."

Accogding to the county elections office, 821 of the 1016 registered voters cast ballots for a turnout of 81 per cent. Kaufmann said the percentage actually was even higher, because only about 950 registered

Victory For Sally Stanford

By DAVID DIETZ

In a day of upheaval, Marin and Southern Sonoma voters ousted eight city council incumbents yesterday and charted new courses for several municipal governments. (Stories on each election, page 25.)

It was a day of close votes, of victory for youth and of the taste of triumph at long last for restaurateur Sally Stanford, the former madam who won election to the Sausalito City Council on her sixth try.

"Sinners never give up," Miss Stanford said.

Three city councils — in Fairfax, Novato and Cotati — were turned topsy-turvy.

Open space forces won the day in Fairfax, while Novatans seemed in favor of return to a business-oriented government. Three young people ousted a trio of incumbents in Cotati.

OTHERS OUSTED

In addition to the Cotati officeholders, voters in Marin ousted Councilmen Anne L. Ellinwood in Tiburon: Mayor Earl J. O'Grady and Benton A. Sifford Jr. in Larkspur, Jerome C. Hauke in Mill Valley, and Byron D. White in Corte Madera.

Miss Ellinwood, who lost reelection by two votes, may ask for a recount, however, and recounts also loomed in Corte Madera where Herber C. Leney was beaten by only four votes and in San Anselmo, where Dr. Martin G. Blinder missed a council seat by six votes.

The unofficial tally showed that about 24,600, or 50 per cent, of the 49,259 voters went to the polls in Marin cities.

San Rafael, as well as its charter city counterpart in Southern Sonoma, Petaluma, didn't hold an election.

The outcome breaks down thus:

IN CORTE MADERA

Corte Madera voters ousted White, but reelected Robert P. Simmons and picked newcomer Robert J. Flahive. Town Clerk Betty S. Behl and Treasurer

Bitter Fight For An Loc

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B52s today struck Communist troop concentrations barely a mile from the besieged town of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, while U.S. troops in northeastern South Vietnam carried out reluctant combat patrols in "dynamic defense" of their threatened base at Phu Bai.

Military sources who reported the B52 strikes said they were the closest to a South Vietnamese city since the Communists assault on the old imperial city of Hue in the 1968 Tet offensive. The Communist siege of An Loc was considered a threat to Saigon itself.

President Nguyen Van Thieu flew by helicopter to confer with his field commanders at

Maverick Juror Blasts Grand Jury Operations

By LARRY MOWELL

Marin's least secretive grand juror, Richard W. Beban, added six more pages yesterday to the jury's worst kept secret, the Sausalito police probe, but they weren't the six pages he was subpoenaed to produce.

In what he called an unprecedented move, he was ordered to appear before the grand jury on which he serves to produce his copy of a five-page subcommittee report and agenda on the investigation of Sausalito police operations.

He refused.

Instead, prior to testifying, he called a press conference and released a six-page blast he said he planned to read to his fellow jurors.

He called the order to appear a "fishing expedition" aimed at "fingering" him.

"The first person to be suspected was me," he said. "I feel they are using the power of subpoena just because the attorney general hasn't found out anything."

The report which was leaked to the press last month was the result of an eight-month grand jury investigation. The subcommittee which drafted it found the equivalent of a quota system in the Sausalito police Department.

A copy of the report went to each of the 19 grand jurors, but it was leaked before the entire grand jury could study it.

Rain Helps Maintain Present Lake Levels

Steady rains soaked Marin and Southern Sonoma again last night and today, but still not enough to raise Marin Municipal Water District reservoirs.

The forecast called for 50 per cent chance of more rain tonight; dropping to 30 per cent tomorrow.

William R. Seeger, general manager of the water district, said the rain "hasn't made any difference" in the resrevoirs, which still satand at about 75 per cent capacity. The rain, however, compensated for one day's consumption by keeping the reservoir level from falling yesterday, Seeger said.

"If it keeps up," he said, "it may be some help, but not a great deal because we need quite a deal of rain."

Seat Loser Files For A Recount

Tiburon City Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood today became the first of the close losers in several Marin cities to file for a recount of the ballots in yesterday's election in which unofficial returns showed her losing to Allan Littman by two votes.

Filing at the Hall of Justice, she said, "With only two votes separating Mr. Littman and myself. . .one-fifth of 1 per cent. . .the citizens of Tiburon, Mr. Littman and I would all feel much more comfortable if this were done. . ."

If the recount upholds Littman's victory, Miss Ellinwood must pay for the recall; if she overturns him, the city pays.

Army Explodes Bomb In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British army bomb experts played a waiting game through the night and exploded a bomb planted in a Londonderry dry cleaners today without causing casualties.

The explosion started a fire above the shop, severely damaged the dry cleaners and damaged a house across the street.

An army spokesman said the bomb experts declared the area safe and about 100 persons evacuated from apartment buildings Tuesday night started moving back to their homes.

IT WAS PRETTY SURE SHE'D WIN A SEAT ON THE COUNCIL

It was all due to astrology or her cat's birthday or something.

Even before the results of yesterday's municipal elections were in last night, candidate Dorothy P. Young was sure she was going to win a seat on the Novato City Council.

First of all, she is a Capricorn, she said, and the stars were in all the right places yesterday for those born under that sign according to a newspaper horoscope.

Then April 11 always has been "her" day. Yesterday's date was the same as the one on which she was married, on which her daughter was born — and it's even her cat's birthday.

After the ballots had been counted and Mrs. Young, an attorney, was among the three who won seats on the council out of a field of 11 candidates, she conceded that "hard work" might also have had something to do with her success.

Capital Punishment Wins First Round In Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The drive to restore capital punishment in California won a crucial first round victory in the legislature early today when the Senate Judiciary Committee approved an amendment to the state constitution.

The amendment, in effect, would overturn the California Supreme Court which on Feb. 18 ruled that the death penalty is both cruel and unusual and thus unconstitutional.

The measure, by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, was sent to the Senate floor on a 8-3 vote after a five-hour hearing witnessed by 300 citizens who packed the legislature's largest committee room until long after midnight. Seven votes were required for approval.

If adopted by both houses of the legislature, the amendment would go on the November ballot and be voted on by the California electorate.

Debate ranged from a high-level legal discussion between two potential 1974 rivals for governor, Attorney General Evelle J. Younger and Senate Democratic Leader George R. Moscone, to a bitter shouting match between George T. Davis, attorney for late kidnapper-rapist Caryl Chessman, and Sen. Robert S. Stevens, R-Los Angeles.

Davis claimed legislators were pushing the amendment because of "hurt egos" brought on by the court preempting

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

FAA Investigating

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Airlines and Pacific Southwest Airlines will be investigated by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) on charges they failed to comply with government regulations for screening passengers.

The FAA yesterday gave United and PSA Airlines 20 days to respond to FAA "notices of investigation." The notices involve hijackings of a United Denver to Los Angeles flight Friday and a PSA flight from Oakland to San Diego Sunday.

The hijacker of the United flight demanded and received $500,000, then bailed out of the aircraft over Utah. A suspect was arrested at Provo, Utah. The other hijacker also demanded $500,000 but was subdued before he could carry out his plan to bail out of the plane with the money.

Economic Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon does not expect his meetings in Canada this week with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau to solve the economic problems that are straining relations between the United States and its northern neighbor.

"I certainly don't anticipate any agreements being reached on trade as a result of this meeting," White House Press Secretaryonald L. Ziegler said Tuesday.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, who angered some Canadian officials in earlier trade talks, was not named to the official party for Nixon's visit to Ottawa beginning tomorrow.

Nixon and Trudeau are scheduled to sign a new agreement Saturday calling for joint efforts to control pollution in the Great Lakes.

Cows Give More

BERKELEY (UPI) — Cows respond with a 20 per cent increase in production when their heads and necks are put through flexible seals into air conditioned space, says the California Farm Bureau.

90-Minute Talk

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev hopes his meetings with President Nixon in May will have a "minimum of ceremony and a maximum of substantive discussion," U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said today.

Butz met Brezhnev, the general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, for 90 minutes Tuesday night, the first American to meet the top-ranking Soviet leader since Dr. Glenn Seaborg, Atomic Energy Commission head, in 1963.

Butz told a news conference he and U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Beam had "a very frank, warm, and open discussion on some problems of expanding Soviet-American trade and on the desire of furthering trade exchanges."

Policy Reaffirmed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States moved today to reaffirm its Latin American policy of "realism and restraint" before the annual foreign ministers conference of the 24-nation Organization of American States (OAS).

State Department sources said Secretary of State William P. Rogers in a speech scheduled today would take into account a request by OAS Secretary General Galo Plaza that the administration make a "concrete definition of its policy toward Latin America."

Star Guarded

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — An armed guard stood watch today over Charlie Chaplin's tardily-awarded star on Hollywood Boulevard, defaced within a day after it was implanted.

The star was put in Monday. By yesterday, it had been scratched and ink had been poured on it — evidence that old rancors against the silent film comedian had not died despite the emotional welcome back given him by his peers.

The Hollywood Chamber of Commerce — which finally voted to install Chaplin's star this year only after years of controversy and reportedly some heated debate — hired a workman to buff out the damage and a private detective service to post a 24-hour armed guard.

Davenport Held

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A psychiatric examination was ordered for a mild-mannered 56-year-old accountant accused of threatening to blow up a jetliner yesterday unless the U.S. Treasury paid him half a million dollars.

Major Burton Davenport, Vancouver, Wash., was held on $50,000 bail today for allegedly boarding a Continental Airliner bound for Seattle and Hawaii with a bottle he said contained nitroglycerin.

The suspect was talked into surrendering to FBI agents after he released the plane's crew and 63 passengers, thus ending the West Coast's third extortion-by-airliner attempt in five days.

A Fatal Leap By Prague Woman

PRAGUE (UPI)—Vera Czermak jumped out of her third story window when she learned her husband had betrayed her.

Mrs. Czermak is recovering in hospital after landing on her husband, who was killed, the newspaper Vecerny Pravda reported.

GANGLAND FIGUREHEADS — Joseph "Grazy Joe" Gallo (left) a Brooklyn racketeer killed by a gunman Friday; Richard B. Grossman (center) whose body was found in a car trunk in Brooklyn Monday, and Joseph Colombo Sr., who was wounded by gunshot last June, are being linked in speculation surrounding seven killings in two weeks in the New York area. (UPI Telephotos)

Lindsay Promises Protection For Public During Gang War

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy said Tuesday there was a "distinct possibility" the renewed gangland warfare in the city was the result of a feud between the families of the late Joseph "Crazy Joe" Gallo and Joseph Colombo Sr.

Murphy added, however, that police were unable to furnish "a picture or a pattern" or determine exactly who the combatants were in the strife which resulted in seven killings in two weeks.

Murphy spoke at a news conference together with Mayor John V. Lindsay who said he had instructed the commissioner that "above all, the public must be preserved and protected" with maximum police power to "end this rash of gangland killings."

Gallo's sister, Carmella Fiorella, who was present when he was killed, screamed, "The streets are going to run red with blood, Joey."

Colombo was shot and critically wounded at an Italian-American Civil Rights League rally last June and there was speculation at the time that the Gallo gang may have been behind the attempted assination.

The latest body, found late Monday, was identified as that of Richard R. Grossman, 36. It was stuffed in the trunk of a car in an isolated section of Brooklyn. A medical examiner said Grossman had been dead from three to seven days with one bullet lodged in his brain.

Grossman had been under indictment and awaiting trial on charges of possession of stolen credit cards and had a previous arrest record on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to rape. Federal sources said Grossman had connections with the crime family allegedly headed by Joseph Colombo Sr.

At the news conference Tuesday, Murphy said he was hopeful that police would solve the Gallo slaying.

"In the Gallo killing we have many witnesses," Murphy said. "We have received some positive information."

Mrs. Gilly Admits Murder In Exchange For Her Life

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI)—Promised her life in exchange for cooperation with the prosecutor, Annette L. Gilly, a youthful looking 32, pleaded guilty Tuesday to the murder of mine union leader Joseph A. Yablonski. Mrs. Gilly implicated two new suspects in the murder.

Mrs. Gilly, slim and blonde, responding to the questions of special prosecutor Richard A. Sprague in monosyllables, implicated both her father and her husband in the Dec. 31, 1969 murder of Yablonski, his wife and daughter in their farmhouse near here.

Sprague said Mrs. Gilly had been given only two promises, that the prosecution would not seek the death penalty for first degree murder and that relatively minor federal charges would be dropped. However, it was reported Mrs. Gilly would be permitted to plead guilty to second degree murder charges.

A 22-page statement signed by Mrs. Gilly was introduced in evidence by an FBI agent who interrogated her in Philadelphia April 4. Its contents were not disclosed in court.

But sources in Washington, Pa., and Washington, D.C., said the statement says that two officials of United Mine Workers (UMW) District 19, which covers eastern Kentucky and eastern Tennessee, paid Mrs. Gilly, her father and her husband to organize the murders.

It was learned that Mrs. Gilly's statement would be brought before a federal grand jury today or Thursday and indictments would be issued. The indictments probably would be on similar federal "holding charges" under which the FBI arrested the original five suspects in Cleveland.

They were accused of stripping Yablonski of his rights as a union member under the Landrum-Griffith Act by killing him.

Yablonski was slain barely a month after he lost a bitter campaign for the presidency of the UMW to incumbent W. A. "Tony" Boyle, in which the challenger made frequent charges of corruption. During his entire campaign he never visited District 19, because of the tradition of violence in the coal industry of that Appalachian region and the strong pro-Boyle sentiment of its UMW officers.

Mrs. Gilly agreed to testify against her father, Silous Huddleston, 62, president of a small UMW local in LaFollette, Tenn., at his murder trial next week, Sprague said.

Huddleston, Mrs. Gilly, her husband Paul, a Cleveland house painter; Aubran Martin, 23, and Claude E. Vealey, 28, alleged triggermen in the murder, were arrested in Cleveland in early 1970. Vealey confessed and testified at the trials of Martin and Gilly, who were sentenced to death.

Nevada Insurance Tax Collection Up

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—The state of Nevada collected 57 per cent more in tax revenues from insurance companies in the first quarter of 1972, compared with the same period last year.

State Insurance Commissioner Dick Rottman said $4.2 million was collected from 875 companies and part of the increase was due to "more rigorous auditing and collection measures."

WAR

Lai Khe, midway between Saigon and An Loc, and ordered the siege of An Loc by 5,000 North Vietnamese be lifted "quickly." But an armored relief column was stalled 20 miles to the south by Communist mortar and rocket attacks for the third day.

In the northeastern corner of South Vietnam where North Vietnamese striking through the A Shau Valley pose a threat to Hue, a convoy trying to reach Fire Base Bastogne was turned back by Communist fire for the second consecutive day.

Fire Base Bastogne is 12 miles west of Hue and about 10 miles west of Phu Bai, the northernmost American base in South Vietnam. It was at Phu Bai 42 miles below the demilitarized Zone, that a group of about 50 American soldiers balked for 90 minutes today before they went on patrol.

They moved out finally in trucks and by helicopters for what the army called a "dynamic defense" of the base and the 2,500 Americans there. The U.S. command blamed the brief combat refusal on "rumors to the effect that the area was an ambush site loaded with booby traps.

Communists forces heavily shelled South Vietnamese and Cambodian forces in the southern Cambodian town of Kompong Trach today and moved in major troop units to open a new front in their multipronged Indochina offensive.

Fighting flared up in the Central Highlands 280 miles north of Saigon today and field reports said Communist troops launched two heavy ground assaults under cover of artillery fire in Kontum Province.

No major fighting was reported in the Quang Tri area, site of the original Communist onslaught just below the DMZ but a field report said an artillery barrage was averted when a South Vietnamese officer on the same radio frequency as a North Vietnamese fire control officer directed the barrage into vacant marshland.

Kompong Trach is 75 miles southwest of the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, nine miles from the border of South Vietnam and 150 miles west of Saigon. Military sources in Phnom Penh said the Communists apparently hoped to break through there to open new supply routes into South Vietnam to threaten Saigon from the rear.

A government armored unit trying to reopen Highway 13 from Saigon north to the beleaguered district town of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, bogged down today when North Vietnamese opened up on the tanks and armored vehicles with rockets and mortars from both sides of the road.

UPI correspondent Arthur Higbee, with the South Vietnamese troops, said the column has been stalled at the village of Chon Thanh, 20 miles below An Loc, for two days. He said tanks moved out on each side of the road and took up defensive positions against possible ambush while artillery was wheeled into position.

Frank Bigley were unopposed.

In Fairfax, E. Ross Parkerson and Albert E. Gately were chosen to replace two incumbents who didn't run. Priscilla C. Gray took the treasurer's post from incumbent Harold H. Taft. Eileen L. Foster was unopposed for city clerk.

Larkspur residents chose Robert H. Lee and Joan Sestak over Sifford and O'Grady, but returned William G. Fleckles to office.

NOVATO RESULTS

Ross voters reelected John H. Chase, Jewell Osterloh and Alan P. Maginis. Town Clerk Virginia Stott and Treasurer Elsa M. Innes were unopposed.

In San Anselmo, incumbents Kenneth L. Anderson and James F. Reed were the voters' choice. William P. Franchini was reelected treasurer. Clerk Helen J. Ragan was unopposed.

Sausalitans, in addition to Miss Stanford, reelected Robin Sweeny and picked Evert H. Heynneman. Edwin S. Long was unopposed for city treasurer.

Tiburon voters elected Albert Aramburu and Allan N. Littman over Miss Ellinwood.

California Aid Ruling Is Blocked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court today allowed California —temporarily —to reduce child support aid to families with other types of income despite a state supreme court ruling to the contrary.

The order blocked the effect of a decision by the California Supreme Court on Dec. 6, 1971 until an appeal by state attorney general Evelle J. Younger clears the high court.

The state court found that the cut, made under the California welfare reform act of 1971, was not in keeping with the requirements of the federal Social Security Act.

Younger asked U. S. Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun to stay the effect of the state court judgement and Blackmun turned the matter over to the Supreme Court itself. Justice Thurgood Marshall did not participate in today's action.

California had established a "standard of need" of $314 a month for a family of four in accordance with federal standards. But since the states are not required to pay the full standard of need, a maximum monthly payment of $260 was in effect until the 1971 act, when the amount was raised to $280.

Nevertheless under the new law many recipients received less money because outside income such as wages or veterans' benefits are now deducted from the $280, whereas before they were deducted from the $314. This section was struck down by the state court.

The lawsuit was brought jointly by the Long Beach Legal Aid Foundation and the San Francisco Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation.

their statutory jurisdiction over capital punishment.

"I don't know how stupid you think we are," snapped Stevens. "You haven't heard any members of this committee talk about 'hurt egos.'"

Younger was the chief witness for proponents. And his basic argument to the committee was that "the decision to retain or abolish the death penalty should be made by the legislature."

Contending "no court in this nation or in the world has ever before invalidated the death penalty," Younger added "I'm fighting to keep the courts from abolishing the legislature."

But Younger was challenged by Moscone, who cited the landmark Marbury vs. Madison case in which the U.S. Supreme Court during the early days of the Republic ruled that the sole judge of whether statutes are constitutional is the courts.

And committee chairman Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park, who wound up voting for the amendment, told Younger "I'm really hard put to follow your argument. Certainly the court was well within its power to interpret the state constitution."

Song also voiced an argument echoed by many opponents, that "i know of no wealthy person who has been executed in all of the history of California." He cited Dr. Bernard Finch, who was convicted of murdering his wife, served 12 years of a life sentence and last fall was paroled.

Kaufmann reviewed the history of Lucas Valley residents' concern over the fate of the hillsides dating back to early 1971 when a developer proposed housing in the area. The neighborhood drive culminating in the open space preserve — equivalent of slightly more than half an acre for each home in the district — "is the way we want it. That's the way we envisaged it when we moved in" to Lucas Valley, the homeowner spokesman said.

Park-Rec Meeting In Petaluma Postponed

The Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission meeting scheduled for tonight has been postponed until next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., according to chairman Daniel Longaker.

The meeting was postponed so the new recreation director, Jemes R. Raymond, can attend. He will not take office until April 24.

JURY

from committees last October in a dispute over investigation of San Quentin, was the only grand juror to refuse to turn over his copy of the leaked report when the state attorney general's office was called in by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales to investigate the leak.

The 23-year-old grand juror went in to read his statement at 1:30 p.m., but emerged shortly afterward and hurriedly left the Hall of Justice.

Reports that filtered from behind the closed doors indicated Beban began to read his statement, but was interrupted by Timothy Riordan, a deputy state attorney general, who wanted to know if Beban would turn over the documents.

He asked Beban to formally refuse before the presiding judge, thus paving the path for possible contempt charges. Beban refused.

In his refusal statement, Beban said he would not produce his copy of the leaked report for six reasons.

First, he said the grand jury has never officially authorized the investigation. He said it was begun by jury foreman Milen C. Dempster, Joan Boessenecker, chairman of the Sausalito subcommittee, and Bales.

Second, he said he is taking the Fifth Amendment guarantee against self-incrimination because the grand jury is using its power of subpoena for the criminal investigation of the state attorney general's office, which couldn't turn up hard evidence alone.

Third, he said, "I do not feel the premature release of the report was a crime ... The crime against the people would have been committed if the report were never released."

He said the Sausalito subcommittee had hoped to meet privately with Sausalito officials to arrange "some kind of agreement," but the leak precluded that.

(After the report was leaked, the entire grand jury produced an even more critical report recommending firing Chief James D. Wright and his two top subordinates.

(An angry Sausaalito City Council rejected the findings and the recommendation.)

"The furor raised by some — including the jury foreman and the subcommittee chairwoman — over finding the 'culprit' has obscured the value of the culprit's contribution," Beban said.

Fourth, he said the proceedings are "at the least very strange, and at the very most, probably illegal. To have a personally vindictive group like this present grand jury sit in judgment (any kind of judgment) over one of its members is, to say the least, theater of the absurd."

Fifth, he said persons called before the "one-sided, prosecution-oriented body" are denied due process available in court.

And finally, he said, "I feel I have a moral obligation not to cooperate with this grand jury or any body which operates as I have described above. As of now I am going to refuse to participate in any of their activities."

Beban said he was served with a subpoena last week at his Mill Valley home by police Chief Dan Terzich.

Dempster told the Independent-Journal that Beban had not been subpoenaed.

Seeger said the rains virtually assured that voluntary rationing of water will save enough water during the summer and fall dry months. District officials had discussed mandatory rationing.

The heaviest rainfall was reported at Woodacre, where county fire officials measured one inch between 8 a.m. yesterday and 8 a.m. today. Other counts were .32 in Mill Valley, .28 in Tiburon, .40 in Sausalito and .05 in Novato.

Warden Paid $36 For Lion Shredded Coat

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—A game warden whose jacket was shredded by a mountain lion has been reimbursed $36 for his loss.

A supervisor told the Alameda County Board of Supervisors, which approved payment of the money to Jones, that "in the future, they are not to hold mountain lions to have their pictures taken."

Jones received some minor scratches in the incident and the chicken escaped unharmed.

OBITUARIES

Angelina S. Arbini Succumbs At 81

Angelina S. Arbini, 81, a 60-year resident of Marin County, died today in a local hospital after a long illness.

She was born in Lonote Pozzla, Lombardi, Italy. She came to this country when she was 21 as a bride of the late Ernest Arbini. The couple lived in Fairfax and Ross where he was a gardener. For the past three years, she has made her home with her daughter, Mary Goode of San Anselmo.

She was a member of California Druids, San Rafael Circle No. 137.

In addition to Mrs. Goode, she is survived by two other daughters, Theresa Bruce of Ross and Margaret Baumann of San Rafael and four grandchildren.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 8:30 a.m. Friday at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Entombment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

MRS. YOUNG

Funeral was held today for Barbara Joan Young, 32, wife of E. Michael Young Jr., president of Ross Valley Savings and Loan. She died Monday at her home in Tiburon at 10 Corte Palos Verdes of an undetermined cause, and an investigation into the circumstances of her death is continuing.

She was found lying fully clothed on her bed.

A native of Vallejo, she had lived in Marin County for nine years. She is survived by her husband, her mother, Letitia Atwood of Vallejo, three sons, Michael, Brandon and Graham Young of Tiburon, and a brother, Robert Atwood of Dixon, Solano County, California.

G. S. ASKLUND

Funeral has been held for Golden S. Asklund, 1971 commodore of the San Rafael Yacht Club.

Asklund, 62, was taken off a San Rafael Yacht Club land cruise bus last Sunday after suffering a heart attack and died three hours later at the Weimar Medical Facility in Auburn.

A native of Illinois, Asklund had lived several years in San Rafael until his recent retirement from Western Greyhound lines. He was a member of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla No. 14 and served as a harbor patrol officer with the San Rafael Police Department.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Asklund of Oroville, and two daughters — Mildred E. Stanley of Sacramento and Lurene Adelle Richardson of Washington. He is also survived by two sisters, Hilda L. Warrer of Chicago and Ludene A. Bertrand of Philadelphia.

F. L. SMITH

Services were held yesterday in San Francisco for former bandleader Franklyn L. Smith, 65, of San Rafael.

Smith, born and raised in Oakland, died Saturday in his sleep at his home. He moved to Marin in 1957 and was a member of Musicians Union Local 6 and of the San Rafael Yacht Club. The family home is at 320 Point San Pedro Road.

His band, Franklyn Smith and his Society Music, played at the old Richelieu Hotel in San Francisco until the end of World War II. After moving to Marin, he became a painting contractor, retiring in 1963.

He is survived by his wife, Beatrice.

Burial was at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

CHERYL J. JESSUP

Funeral for Cheryl J. Jessup, a 25-year-old graduate of Sir Frances Drake High School, will be Friday at 2 p.m. at Christ the Victor Church in Fairfax.

Burial will follow at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

Miss Jessup was injured in an auto accident three weeks ago, and taken to a hospital in Reading, where she died Monday.

A native of Seattle, Wash., she had been a resident of California and Marin County for the past 12 years. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Jessup, live in San Anselmo, at 32 Knoll Road. She had been living in San Francisco for about a year.

She was a graduate of Sir Frances Drake High School, where she served as president of the girls' league, and California Lutheran College, where she was secretary of the student body.

She is survived by her parents, and two sisters, Kathy Landig of San Rafael and Julie Jessup of San Anselmo.

The family has said it would prefer memorial gifts to California Lutheran College or Christ the Victor Lutheran Church Memorial Fund.

MARIE H. MEIER

Funeral for Marie H. Meier of San Rafael, was held today. She died Sunday in a local hospital after a short illness. She was 81.

Mrs. Meier was a native of Denmark and came to the United States in 1914. Two years later, she arrived in California.

Her husband, the late Otto F. Meier was a sail maker for many years.

Inurnment at Abbey of Chimes, Vallejo.

JULIA ERICKSEN

Julia C. Ericksen, 77, a Petaluma resident for three years, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

She was born in Underwood, Iowa, and was reared there and in Nebraska. Mrs. Ericksen and her late husband, Chris Ericksen, had spent most of their lives in Hartington, Neb.

Mrs. Ericksen came to California 17 years ago and had made her home with a daughter, Esther Rosager of Petaluma for three years.

She is also survived by a son, Alfred Ericksen of San Francisco; two other daughters, Elna Winkelman of San Francisco and Anne Oien of Walnut Creek; two sisters, Victoria Nordby of San Mateo and Esther Kuhl of Monterey Park; two brothers, Otto Johnson of Monterey Park and Axel Johnson of Solvang, and five grandchildren.

Funeral will be held in Nebraska.

CORA P. STEWART

Private funeral for Cora Pebble Stewart of Mill Valley was held Sunday. Mrs. Stewart died Saturday in a San Francisco hospital after an extended illness.

She was a native of Medidian, Idaho, and lived in Marin County for 12 years. From 1945 until her retirement in 1969, Mrs. Stewart was associated with the Western Area Office of the Red Cross.

Survivors are her sister, Gladys Leaf, of Portland, Ore. and her brother, D. J. Barbee of Salem, Ore.

SAN RAFAEL TERRA LINDA NOVATO

THE LONG WAIT IN NOVATO

Cheer mixed with despair as candidates and citizens mingled in the lobby of the Novato Community House last night to watch City Mgr. Charles A. Brown post results. It was scene typical of those in most of the 12 cities in Marin and Southern Sonoma where the direction to be taken in each during the next two years was being settled at the polls. In the end, Novato incumbent David Price Jones was reelected to the city council, joined by newcomers Fred F. Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young. Eight other candidates went home disappointed.

Protest To Development Is Ignored

To the dismay of about 200 protesting residents, the San Rafael Planning Commission last night indicated that processing should proceed on plans to develop 66 townhouse units on Oak Hill.

The vote for proceeding was 5-2 with commissioners Alan M. Kay and Albert J. Boro dissenting.

A series of speakers ranging from a young boy who said it was his "play spot" to a spokesman for the Terra Linda Valley Property Owners Association who said the proposed density was a violation of city law, pleaded to leave the hill undeveloped.

Residents urged that the planning commission delay action on the plan until it was determined how new environemental laws govering development would apply to the site.

On the agenda was review of the proposal by the Freitas Estate to construct townhouses on 18.3 acres at the end of Sao Augustine Way, an open area bordered by Nova Albion Way, Golden Hinde Boulevard and Hartzell School.

Planning Director Herbert C. Hotchner said last night's session was simply to indicate whether the applicant should proceed toward a public hearing, and wasn't in any way binding.

Speakers described the hill as "a place to get away from pressures, fly a kite or write poetry," and said open space is rapidly disappearing in the Terra Linda area and once the hill is developed, it can't be changed back to its original state.

Boro made a motion that the commission delay until it could evaluate new environmental laws, but it was defeated 5-2, with only Boro and Kay in favor of waiting.

Commissioners agreed later to have a special workshop session at 7:30 p.m. May 2 at San Rafael City Hall on the new environmental laws.

Drought Broken

FRESNO (UPI) — A 64-day winter drought in the agriculturally-rich Central San Joaquin Valley was broken Tuesday by rain that drizzled .07 inches during the first few hours.

Subdivision Map For Industrial Park Approved

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night approved a subdivision map for a proposed industrial park in East San Rafael along the lines of Northgate Industrial Park.

The proposal by McKeon Construction Co. is to develop an industrial park on 55 acres along Francisco Boulevard, southeast of Bellam Boulevard, named "Bahia De Rafael Industrial Park."

Senior Planner Charles J. Linthicum said the staff felt the proposed development would be "extremely desirable in this portion of San Rafael."

McKeon sought 77 lots, but the commission cut it back to 76 lots by combining two proposed ones.

After the decision attorney Albert Bianchi, representing McKeon, reported the firm would donate one lot along Bellam Boulevard that would connect with a planned city park and a walkway that would connect the park area with Bahia Vista School.

Commissioners also approved granting the firm a use permit for the park and zoning the area for planned commercial.

San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

TENNIS CLUB — Ordered preliminary review of plans by Caesar B. Cardani for a private tennis club with six courts and five single family homes at 2435 Fifth Avenue, near Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

IRWIN STREET — Approved a three-lot subdivision by Gerald F. Carreras at 30, 40 and 50 Irwin Street after two neighbors warned of the potential for earth slides in the hilly site.

USED CAR LOT — Granted Jerry Hannan a use permit to use a vacant lot at 355 Francisco Boulevard for used auto sales and display.

AUTO BODY SHOP — Granted Juan Ferrer a permit for a three-car auto body shop at 50 Lovell Avenue.

CHURCH ADDITION — Granted Trinity Lutheran Church a permit to construct a building to house an office and multi-purpose room at 333 Woodland Avenue.

OFFICE-INDUSTRY BUILDING — Granted La Tara a use permit for an office, retail and light industrial building at 757-767 Lincoln Avenue, consisting of 4,250 square feet of office and retail space and 31,900 square feet of warehouse space.

Three McGovern Events Slated

The Marin County McGovern campaign has slated the following fund-raising events:

Saturday at 8 p.m. — Improvisational satire by the Back Door Theater group at the Corte Madera Recreational Center.

April 22, from 6-9 p.m. — Cocktail-buffet with Arthur Schlesinger at 47 Laurel Grove Avenue, Ross.

May 14, from 3-6 p.m. — Auction, at McGovern headquarters, 1011 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

Open House Set

An open house for prospective preschool enrollees and their parents will be held at the Sleepy Hollow Cooperative Nursery School, 1317 Butterfield Road, from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on April 19 and 20.

Bicycle Trail Master Plan Is Being Asked

Recreation Director James Pekkain said the plan would take in not only the entire city but areas to be developed in the near future.

The commission Monday said that after the plan is completed next month, it would make application for federal funds to finance the project.

In other business, the commission received a financial report on swimming pool operations and agreed that no increase in rates will be necessary for this year.

Summer Budget For Recreation

The Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission has approved a $5,075 preliminary budget for the 1972 summer recreation program.

The commission on Monday also estimated revenues at $3,300, according to Doris Overmyer, commission chairman. The preliminary budget, she said, was forwarded to the Marinwood Community Services District board, which will meet next Monday.

proved installation of a sandbox in Marinwood Community Park at a cost of no more than $100, and approved modification of lights on tennis courts at Marinwood Community Center at a cost of no more than $70, Mrs. Overmyer said.

Ballet School, Church, Tennis Club Win Marist Land Permits

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night unanimously granted use permits for a ballet school, church and private tennis club at the nine-acre Marist seminary property on Grand Avenue, between Linden Lane and Belle Avenue.

By a 4-3 vote the commission denied a use permit for a fraternal lodge meeting hall on the site, with commissioners Thomas R. O'Toole, Jorgen V. Lunding and James Dougan dissenting.

Development of the site has stirred controversy during a series of hearings, but discussion was limited last night to the use permits and zoning.

Commissioners split only on an application by Michael J. Scotto for a fraternal lodge hall at Grand Avenue and Linden Lane.

Commissioner Albert J. Boro said: "I feel this particular use is out of character," and Commissioner Ben C. Albritton said the wording "fraternal organization" was too vague.

Scotto said there have been lodge meetings at the site for two-and-a-half years and "we never had a complaint."

The Marin Civic Ballet Association was granted a permit for a ballet school including a studio-theater for performances and a living quarters for up to 10 persons.

Francis L. Whisler of 1644 Grand Avenue was granted a permit for a tennis club with a limit of 10 courts and 200 members, a 4,000 square-foot clubhouse and a small proshop. The permit prohibits night lighting, gran stands and commercial tournaments or exhibitions.

The Assembly of God Church was granted a permit for a church parsonage, office, church and recreational activities, including operation of a swim club, limited to 200 families during summer months.

About 65 residents attended and several protested that the commission was acting improperly by granting use permits before the zoning, since the action could involve granting a permit for a use that might be nonconforming to zoning established later.

Boro charged that this approach was being used only "to accommodate the fraternal hall," a potential nonconforming use.

Several residents argued for residential zoning for the entire site, but Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner recommended planned community development, which he said, would provide greater control. The site is now zoned unclassified.

Bill Adds Public To Commission

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Planning and Land Use Committee has approved a bill by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, that would add four public members to the "overburdened " state Lands Commission.

The panel cleared the measure on a 6-0 vote Tuesday and sent it to the Ways and Means Committee.

Moretti said the present board members are "overburdened with duties which detract from the attention they can give to the complex, technical problems with which the commission must deal."

Currently, the commission, which supervises oil, gas and mineral extraction in California, is composed of the lieutenant governor, the state finance director and the state controller.

San Rafael Board Of Education Presented Preliminary Budgets

The San Rafael Board of Education last night received a preliminary elementary budget of $5,537,187 and a preliminary high school budget of $5,580,492 for next fiscal year.

The elementary budget is $25,110 more than the current $5,512,077 budget. The high school budget is $45,386 more than the current $5,580,492, said Supt. John F. Plank.

Neither budget will make any change in the tax rates of $3.315 for elementary and $2.33 for the high school districts, Plank said.

The board accepted the preliminary budget and set a workshop on it for 8 p.m. May 2.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

REGISTRATION — Set 8 p.m. tomorrow for a drive to register 18-year-old voters and discuss the issues of the voters at the auditorium at San Rafael High School, sponsored by the San Rafael High School Parent-Teacher Association.

INNER SCHOOLS — Approved continuing the plan of having a school of four teachers and 125 students as a school within San Rafael High School and the Pacific Crest High School of 50 students who have been meeting at the First Presbyterian Church.

APPLICATION — Approved a $7,000 application for audio-visual aids for the Santa Venetia Middle School to the federal government under Title III of the National Defense Education Act.

AUDITORIUM — Agreed to meet with county officials at 2 p.m. Friday at the civic center to discuss the $200 fee charged to non-profit organizations for the Veterans Memorial Building.

ROTATION — Adopted a policy of rotating teachers from one school to another instead of allowing them to teach in the same school all the time.

CHARTER — Discussed the San Rafael city charter which requires school board members be appointed to vacancies. The board will meet, at a date to be set later, with the city council to get a charter change on the ballot.

LOTTERY — Decided to set 8 p.m. May 9 to discuss a possible lottery to form a list of teachers which may have to be dismissed because of a lack of students. The district has been dropping just over 200 students per year, Plank said.

'Ride-Along' Pot Hearing Slated

A 22-year-old Tamalpais Valley woman who ended up in jail on alleged narcotics violations when she participated in the "ride-along" program of the Belvedere police has pleaded innocent to three drug charges.

A preliminary hearing was set for April 27 in Marin Municipal Court for Wendy Alice Colton on charges of possessing and growing marijuana, both felonies, and misdemeanor possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

Belvedere police said that when she was riding with officers last month, she offered to share marijuana with them. They agreed, but arrested her when she allegedly began rolling joints at the station.

A search of her home produced six small marijuana plants in pots and five small bags of the vegetable matter, according to police.

Machine Today; Earth Tomorrow

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — "People steal weird things these days," remarked the FBI agent who telephoned in a news release involving what appeared to be a fairly routine offense — interstate transportation of stolen property.

The agent said that federal authorities Monday arrested John Irving Balough, 33, of Cairnbrook on charges that he stole a $40,850 earth-moving machine from Eckles Brothers Construction Co. of Winchester, Va., on April 1.

If convicted, the self-employed truck driver could receive a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and-or a $10,000 fine.

25 Apartment Units Given Larkspur Nod

The Larkspur Planning Commission last night approved two apartment developments — 16 units at 615 and 635 South Eliseo Drive, and nine units at 875 South Eliseo Drive.

A third proposed apartment plan, for six units at 40 Locust Street, was postponed until "such time as the planning commission members can visit an existing project using the same kind of factory-built units in the Rohnert Park area", according to Planning Director John W. Appleton.

The commission also reviewed and approved a $7,500 Dolliver Park capital improvement plan, for buying additional playground equipment, and referred it to city council's May 3 meeting, with their recommendation.

Commissioners approved a building modification of Straw Hat Pizza at 20 Bon Air Road, and continued until an unspecified date a sign application by the restaurant.

The commission will meet again tonight at 8 o'clock for a special hearing on the Williams and Mocine preliminary report on community attitudes which are to serve as guidelines in community planning.

Robert Shaw will be installed as master councilor of the Mill Valley DeMolay at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Masonic Temple in Mill Valley.

Gordon Mills will be installed as senior councilor; James Mansfield as junior councilor, and Robert Fields as treasurer.

Cathy Connell will be named the chapter sweetheart.

Charles Cochran will be the installing officer.

Nature Study Program Will Be Continued

The Bolinas-Stinson School District board has approved continuation of the district's new environmental-nature study program through June.

According to Supt. Lester M. Horning, after viewing a half hour video-tape presentation on the program, the board voted to fund it with $500. The program is being run by Dr. Peter Warshall, a graduate of Harvard University, said Horning.

The board also denied a request from Robert Moyer, a 7th and 8th grade teacher in Bolinas School, for a one-year leave of absence. Moyer wanted time to develop a curriculum for an environmental study and design class.

The board turned down his request, according to Horning, because of the difficulties in filling a teaching vacancy for one year.

A Decrease In Major Crime

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Major crime in the city showed a decrease of 21 per cent in March as compared with the same month a year ago, according to Chief Donald M. Scott.

Scott said Monday the decrease was despite an upsurge of murders and rapes.

The chief's report showed that homicides increased from five in March, 1971, to 6 in March this year, rapes rose from 43 to 57. But the other five categories of major crimes showed decreases. Robberies were down from 600 to 394, for a drop of 34 per cent, Scott reported.

Youth Is Treated For Crash Injuries

Gregory D. Sunke, 14, of 10 Oakdale, San Rafael, was treated for leg bruises Monday at Marin General Hospital following a collision between the bicycle he was riding and a car driven by Margaret D. Rutledge, 50, of 91 Longfellow Road, Mill Valley.

The collision occurred at 3:50 p.m. on Second Street near Grand Avenue, San Rafael police said, when Sunke's bicycle darted between cars stopped in traffic and in front of the Rutledge car, which was traveling at about 10 miles per hour.

Rose Bound Over To Superior Court

David Samuel Rose, 21, of Novato, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of burglary and possessing stolen property. He is to appear in court April 26.

He was arrested Jan. 19 by Novato police when he allegedly tried to sell tools taken in the burglary of an auto repair shop three days earlier.

Two E. Bay Cities Approve Urban Curbs

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The voters in two San Francisco Bay area communities have voted to pass a law against urban growth, and the citizens of a third almost did so.

Identically worded initiatives were passed in Livermore and Pleasanton in Tuesday's elections, calling for a halt to further building permits until problems relating to adequate sewage treatment, education and water quality are solved.

The initiative passed in Livermore, with more than 68 per cent of the registered voters voting, 6,339 to 5,159. With a similar heavy vote in Pleasanton, the measure passed 3,710 to 3,240.

In the town of Brentwood in Contra Costa County, a measure to put a ceiling of 7,500 on the population of the town in 10 years failed by only 13 votes. Current population is 2,800.

The anti-growth measures in Pleasanton and Livermore were backed by a group called SAVE —for "Save All Valley Environment."

"If this is successful in restricting tract developments you'll find cities all over the state trying to exercise the same kind of control," said Garry Near, SAVE attorney.

"Part of this thing is a genuine concern over the question of 'Is bigger better?' But another attitude is: We've got ours and the hell with everyone else ... and there are racial overtones in it—let's build a wall around suxurbia," Leonard said.

Members of Carpenters Union Local 1622 have already challenged SAVE in court. They failed in an attempt to have the anti-growth amendments taken off the ballot, but are continuing their fight against the legality of the initiatives in Alameda County Superior Court in Oakland.

To Be Featured

Three Marinites will be featured in a painting exhibition scheduled to open Monday in Sn Francisco. Deanna deChauron, of Belvedere; Richard T. Bergsund, of Tiburon and Valli Ehlers, of Mill Valley will display their work in the gallery of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. building on California Street.

Unlisted Number Cost 15 Cents

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Telephone company customers who demand unlisted numbers will have to pay 15 cents for the privilege instead of 27 cents, the state Public Utilities Commission decided Tuesday.

Originally the commission had voted the 27-cent charge as part of a $70 million rate increase granted Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. Cutting the rate for unlisted numbers will reduce the amount collected by the firm by about $1.1 million.

Registration For Kindergarten

Registration for children who will attend kindergarten in Larkspur-Corte Madera schools next year will be held May 1 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Henry C. Hall, Neil Cummins, San Clemente and Larkspur-Corte Madera schools.

School officials ask that children be registered at the school nearest home, and be at least 4 years, 9 months old on September 2, 1972. Parents should bring a birth certificate or other legal verification of age and an immunization record against measles, polio, diptheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

Three Given Endorsement By Labor

The Marin County Labor Council's Committee on Political Education has endorsed supervisorial candidates Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. of Fairfax, Samuel J. Banks Jr. of Marin City and Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael.

Arrigoni is seeking reelection in the second District, and is being challenged by Barbara Boxer and Dr. William J. Filante, both of Greenbrae.

Banks is challenging Third District incumbent Michael Wornum of Mill Valley.

Peevey is seeking the Fourth District seat of retiring Supervisor Louis H. Baar. Also seeking the seat are Patricia T. Maginnis and James Dougan of San Rafael and Gary T. Giacomini of Woodacre.

Music Students To Travel North

One-hundred-and-forty music students at San Rafael High School were to leave today on a four-day performance tour of Northern California and Oregon.

Led by music teacher Terry L. Summa, members of the orchestra, a capella choir, symphonic band and jazz ensemble will give concerts at Dixon and Central Valley high schools and at Cottage Grove High School in Cottage Grove, Ore. The group — including several other teachers and chaperones — will stop off Friday evening in Medford, Ore., before beginning the journey home Saturday.

The tour is being financed by $5,000 raised by a benefit concert and by dances and pancake breakfasts dating back to last October, Summa said.

Heroin Possession Hearing Scheduled

A preliminary hearing on charges of possessing heroin and narcotics paraphernalia against Catherine Diane Duerner, 21, of Mill Valley, has been set for April 25 in Marin Municipal Court.

She was arrested Feb. 7 by San Rafael police, who said they found a substance believed to be heroin and a hypodermic kit jn her purse when they stopped her car for a minor traffic violation, then learned she was wanted on a bad check warrant.

Recorder Taken

A tape recorder and equipment valued at $75 was stolen from an automobile owned by Marin Broadcasting Co. sometime between March 29 and April 5, San Rafael police reported yesterday. The theft was reported by Hugh E. Turner, president and general manager of radio station KTIM, police said.

Tie Vote Ends Plan To Subpoena Aides

WASHINGTON (UPI) —By a 6-6 tie vote, the Senate Judiciary Committee refused today to subpoena two White House aides in its politically explosive ITT investigation.

A motion by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., to issue subpoenas for Peter Flanigan and William Tinnons was defeated during a closed committee meeting called to take up President Nixon's decision to invoke the so-called executive privilege doctrine to prevent the two from testifying.

Also defeated, 9 to 4, was a compromise move simply to invite Flanigan and Timmons to appear at a closed committee meeting.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., abstained on the key vote, giving Republicans a victory since a majority was required to authorize subpoena.

The Democrats have nine committee seats and the Republicans seven, but with Eastland abstaining, there was a tie in the straight partyline voting because two other Democrats, Sens. Birch Bayh, Ind., and John L. McClellan, Ark., were absent. The only Republican absent was Sen. Strom Thurmond, S.C.

Sens. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., assistant Democraticleader, and Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., had demanded that Flanigan be called.

The committee is investigating activities of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and this has held up final Senate action on the nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst to be attorney general.

The White House announced that Flanigan would refuse to testify on grounds of "executive privilege."

"It's vital that we know what Flanigan had to say to Ramsden," Byrd said. He referred to say to Ramsden," Byrd said. He referred to Richard Ramsden, a former temporary White House aide who prepared a financial report on ITT at Flanigan's request, according to Senate testimony.

The government subsequently settled out of court an antitrust suit against the company, permitting it to keep the Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

"This whole thing creates a cloud of mistrust about the relationship between the government and huge corporations," Byrd said.

"Kleindienst is entitled to a verdict. My verdict might be greatly influenced by the part he played in the Ramsden report. I would be influenced greatly by his (Flanigan's) refusal to testify."

Byrd noted that he had previously voted to recommend Kleindienst's confirmation. But today he said that "in view of the things that have developed, I may vote against him."

Reservations Are Needed

Many subscribers to the Marin Symphony Association's "sitin" children's concert series have not made reservations and may not be able to attend the first concerts Saturday, according to Mrs. Robert L. Schultz, association manager.

Six performances are scheduled Saturday beginning at 8:45 a.m. at San Rafael High School, and six performances on June 3 at 8:45 a.m. at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Reservations for the June 3 concerts are almost filled, Mrs. Schultz said, adding that those wishing to attend the concerts Saturday should send in their reservations forms immediately or call the Marin Symphony Association office in San Anselmo.

Square Expansion Will Be Reviewed

The Petaluma Planning Commission will meet in special session today at 7:30 p.m. to review plans for the expansion of the Washington Square Shopping Center.

Developers will seek approval for a tentative map. Plans include a variety store, supermarket, bank and small shops.

State Board Fires Sex Change Teacher

TRENTON, N.J.(UPI) — A high school music teacher who underwent a sex change operation and became a woman was fired Tuesday because the state said she posed potential "psychological harm" to her students.

Mrs. Paula Miriam Grossman, 52, of Plainfield, said she will decide whether to appeal her dismissal. State Education Commissioner Carl L. Marburger ordered the firing on grounds of incapacity.

Marburger said Mrs. Grossman should not teach "because of the potential her presence in the classroom presents for psychological harm to the students." There was a "strong possibility," he said, that students with uncertainties about their own sex roles would be hurt by such a classroom experience.

"I was not really surprised by the ruling," Mrs. Grossman said Tuesday night.

Mrs. Grossman said she has been "largely unemployed," adding she has had a "few engagements" as a nightclub pianist and has given lectures about her sex change operation.

Mrs. Grossman, who underwent the surgery in April, 1971 in New York City, has fought to keep her job in the Bernards Township school system by claiming the rights of tenure earned during a 14-year teaching career as Paul Monroe Grossman. She claimed tenure rights in the appeal to the state when the school board suspended her in August.

Plea Made On Changing Tree Cutting

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A former Forest Service official urged Congress today to end an appropriations policy which he said encourages the government to chop down too many trees in the national forests.

The more timber the Forest Service sells, former deputy chief Edward C. Crafts said, the more money it gets from Congress. The result is that the service is "pressured ... to liquidate more and more of its old growth timber capital."

Crafts, who left the Forest Service in 1962 to head the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation until 1969, is now a director of the Citizens Committee on Natural Resources.

Testifying on behalf of the conservationist organization, Crafts said the Forest Service had "acquiesced in this undesirable connection between appropriations and timber receipts" the practice began about 1950.

"The time has long since passed to break down this disasterous tie if national forest quality management is ever to be achieved," Crafts said in remarks prepared for a Senate appropriations subcommittee.

The former Forest Service official said his views were shared by others who served in the agency.

"Former chief Lyle F. Watts, shortly before his retirement in 1952, told me the worst mistake of his entire career was to condone the buildup in relationship that made size of appropriations dependent on the amount of timber cut," Crafts said.

He added that the policy should be blamed on the Forest Service, White House budget officials and Congress — but that Congress "bears the ultimate responsibility for unbalance in national forest management and for the constant pressure to accelerate timber cutting."

Crafts recommended that more than $5 million of the amount earmarked for timber sales in the fiscal 1973 budget be eliminated and that a cutback in logging be ordered by Congress The savings, Crafts said, should be used to help reseed a part of 5 million acres in need of reforestation— an activity for which the administration is seeking only $2 million.

Crafts said replanting is necessary if the administration is ever to reach its announced goal of increasing the allowable cut in the national forests by 7 billion board feet.

Conservation-Oriented Logging Plan Introduced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation imposing conservationist-oriented controls on the logging industry under a new Board of Forest Resources was proposed today by three Assembly Democrats.

Termed a "major overhaul" of timber regulations by its sponsors, the proposal would enact rules to insure restocking of forest lands, protection of water quality, control of erosion and promotion of aesthetics.

The announcement of the legislation came one day after the Senate rejected an emergency bill designed to establish temporary controls over the logging industry. The measure by Sen. Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding, was supported by the industry and opposed by the Sierra Club.

The author of the latest package, Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, said his proposal is "neither a preservationist bill nor an industry bill."

"This is a bill," he said, "that recognizes the need for timber products and a healthy timber industry. But it provides for rudent and responsible management to promote conservation values as well."

The lawmaker said the proposal, in most cases, would allow any logging technique provided it meets the goals of the act.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Wornum's Record Sometimes Confusing

Recently we reviewed the record of one of the two incumbent Marin County supervisors who are seeking re-election. Today, let's look at the record of the other one: Michael Wornum of the Third District.

Supervisor Wornum has consistently been an environmentalist on broad issues. He successfully urged the board to oppose anti-missile bases in Marin, pushed for an ordinance to control logging, and was prime mover for creation of county bicycle paths. And he tried to hold up Army Corps of Engineers' work on Tamalpais Creek when a dispute developed over it.

HOWEVER, ON ZONING matters — which affect the immediate environment — his record is less consistent. For instance, although he opposed the Richardson Bay specific plan because it allowed shoreline highrises, he won approval of granting Donlon Argues 63 houseboat berths on the bay.

Apartment proposals in Srawberry Cove show the ups and downs of Supervisor Wornum on zoning. In 1969, he voted to override the planning commission to allow 122-unit marina apartments there. But later that year and the next year he dissented to approving 72 units. In 1971, he wound up opposing a revised plan. But he won approval of another development for 334 apartments in the Strawberry Hills.

Although he urged lower density in West Marin, and moved expansion of A-2 minimum lot size to two acres, he voted to override the planning commission to allow a two-story apartment building just outside Mill Valley, 2.5 units per acre in Tennessee Valley Road development, and a Colonel Saunders chicken shop at the edge of Mill Valley. He was for a 102-unit apartment development in Kentfield and 145 townhouse units in Marinwood, but against Pelican Hill apartments and 114 condominium units on 7.8 acres near Corte Madera.

EQUALLY CONFUSING is Wornum's record in some personnel matters.

In the row over Dr. Clyde G. Miller, mental health head, he first wanted to return the whole thing to the Mental Health Advisory Board, but later — after Miller's firing — blamed "the mental health community" for sabotaging efforts to find a new director.

He moved a 1969 resolution branding as unwarranted grand jury charges against Planning Director Paul C. Zucker. When Zucker the next year filed as a candidate for supervisor, Wornum suggested he resign. But he voted against firing Zucker four months later.

On replacement of Alan Bruce as county administrator, Wornum first moved for full-scale recruiting, later moved to stop the screening committee from proceeding with recruiting, and wound up seconding Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni's motion to appoint John F. Barrows to the job with no recruiting at all.

OF INTEREST are what might be called "law and order votes," which found Wornum in 1969 trying to abolish the Drug Abuse Bureau, in 1970 opposing two-man sheriff patrols and trying unsuccessfully for a county police services district. In October, 1970, he urged ending Civic Center security measures. Next month, a bomb went off in the Hall of Justice. After that, Wornum voted to install bullet-proof glass in one of the courtrooms.

Supervisor Wornum has been as active as Arrigoni in trying to involve the county in national and even international affairs.

He has never been much of a cost-cutter, but where he tried to cut provides some interests. He opposed giving funds to the Marin County Historical Society and Marin County Chamber of Commerce, but he strongly backed salary raises for elected officials.

Attempts To Cut Taxes Make Sacred Cows Bellow

By RUS WALTON

Everyone wants lower taxes, right?

Okay, then. Everybody out of the public trough! The only way to cut taxes is to cut government spending.

Take the state's mental health program, for example. It is one of the best in the country. Not that it is perfect, but, by all standards, California is doing the best job of any state.

The heart of the system is the community mental health program which has been especially successful since the passage of the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act in 1969.

That legislation required that community mental health programs be established and that counties be reimbursed by the state for 90 per cent of the costs of those programs.

This approach enables mentally ill patients to be closer to their homes and families. It also has permitted the state to make more effective use of its mental health dollars, and to close some of its more antiquated mental hospitals.

IN 1966, there were some 26,500 patients in the state's mental hospitals. Today there are only 9,100. The average length of patient-stay has declined from 223 days in 1960, to 75 in 1972.

As the patient population declined, the state has been phasing out some of the older, inefficient installations — throwbacks to the turn of the century when the mentally ill were shunted off to "warehouses" in remote locations.

Modesto State Hospital, built as an army center, was closed in 1969. DeWitt Hospital, in Auburn, also an old army installation, was phased out in 1971. Agnews, near San Jose, is being phased out now.

Mendocino State Hospital is scheduled to be closed by September, 1972. It was built in 1893 as a "security" hospital for mentally disturbed criminals. For years it was jammed with 2,700 mentally ill men and women. Now most of the patients have gone — either to community clincs or transferred to more modern institutions.

FOR ALL ITS successes, the community mental health program has its problems. Every time a hospital is closed, a sacred cow is hit right in the rump.

First, the hospital employes are upset. They balk; they try to make an enlightened move look like a heartless cutback. Not that they actually lose their jobs. Few state employes are ever fired. But it does mean transfers and re-locations.

Second, a state hospital means revenue to nearby communities; loss of the hospital means loss of the revenue. More howls! From the butcher, the baker and the local chamber of commerce. Goring an ox is a messy business.

Legislation has been introduced to delay the closing of Agnews and Mendocino hospitals. The author is Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose. Agnews hospital is in Santa Clara County.

'Pepperland Hyde Park' Highly Successful

As program committee chairman of the "Hyde Park at Pepperland" voter registration-information day April 8, I wish to extend sincerest thanks to the people who made this day possible. It was an indication that there is hope within the political system of today: hope that real change can be brought about through the revolution of the new voter.

Hyde Park at Pepperland was nonpartisan in scope, having participation by Democrats, Republicans, Socialist Workers Party and at least one who claimed to be "totally independent — a private citizen seeking office."

And, judging by the numbers of young people who turned out for the day's events, it was a real success! This, contrary to the dire warnings of a certain group of people in the county who envisaged "an event run by radicals. . . a pot party turning into a riot." The entertainment, which was the cause for some of the earlier criticism, helped to make the day as these dedicated young people shared their talents with all of us with absolutely no pay!. . .

We had no fights — no riots — no busts. What we did have was an entertaining way of learning about the candidates and issues, and an opportunity for the new voters to register and learn what the election system is all about.

Show Every Night — Just Watch The Sky

I hope you are watching the marvelous show in the western sky about 8 p.m. these nights. The three planets — Venus, Saturn and Mars (their brightness is in that order) — are putting on a celestial ballet dance in the constellation of Taurus, the Bull, between the red star, Aldebaran, on the left, and the Pleiades (Seven Sisters) on the right.

Every night the configuration is different, and, as pointed out in the I-J "Gazer's Guide" recently, the three planets will be joined on April 15, 16, and 17 by the crescent moon.

Sausalito Police Helpful To Citizen

I would like to publicly express my appreciation for the courtesy and cooperation shown me by those members of the Sausalito Police Department with whom we have had to deal. They helped me with a civil matter and showed me how to go about solving the problem. They have been very good in showing follow-up interest. I find it very difficult to believe the accusations that have been made and would do anything I can to support them.

Agrees With Council, Not With Editorial

I disagree with you on your recent editorial on the City of Mill Valley's policy with respect to the release of information on burglaries. I fail to see how the cause of better law enforcement is served by releasing names and addresses of victims. Isn't the duty of our police department to keep the peace, not to provide cannon fodder for the I-J? Our city council apparently thinks so.

Blast At Mill Valley Council Unfair

On April 6, the Independent Journal hit hard at the Mill Valley Police Department policy of withholding the details of burglaries.

Your paper is to be criticized for the editorial "Big Brother Makes Mill Valley Secure" for two reasons:

First, it was poor journalism design because you selected a few facts, ignored others and then slanted the writing in order to leave the impression that the City Council did not have the right to make their decision and that their decision was in fact wrong.

Secondly, you used your slanted article to try to reduce the chances of Jerry Hauke to be re-elected.

Expanding on these two errors, the City Council had many other reasons to restrict the information than the one reason you selected, "We know that other cities are withholding burglary information from the newspapers." Your paper stated this was their only reason and this is an error in fact. . .

Independent Journal, you surprise me — in fact, I thought at first that I was reading another newspaper.

Kennedy For Vice President May Resolve Democrats' Dilemma

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is being propelled into the forefront of the Democratic presidential race — whether he wants it or not.

It is not his own doing. Events are thrusting him into the middle of this Democratic melee.

Candidates are dropping away but none is coming near to getting a lock on the nomination.

This means that it is a near certainty that the convention will turn into a bitter, lacerating process of shifting delegate combinations, and this spells frustration.

FACING SUCH frustration, party leaders are already turning wishful eyes on the most alluring Democrat in their ranks and if frustration becomes an early stalemate, the heat on Senator Kennedy will be terrific.

It will pose a crucial dilemma for Kennedy and this is the kind of dilemma which most politicians relish. I suspect it is giving him no pain.

Harry Truman often remarked: "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen."

Teddy Kennedy shows no sign of minding the heat.

THE SENATOR'S DILEMMA is this:

When he was running for re-election to his Senate seat in 1970, he told Massachusetts voters that he would serve his full term of six years.

He has repeatedly over the last year-and-a-half said he "would not seek nor run for any office this year."

He has cited "family obligation" as one reason and he hasn't mentioned the other —that 1972 might not be a good year for a Kennedy or for any other Democratic presidential nominee.

But can an important political figure who has been a beneficiary of party favors decide entirely by himself when it is good for him to be his party's candidate? Gov. Adlai Stevenson had to say yes in 1952 though he tried to say no.

Can Senator Kennedy reject the nomination some other time when he decides he wants it?

I HAVE BELIEVED from the start that Kennedy was being absolutely direct and meant what he said when he has stated that he "would not run for any office this year." He has not sought the nomination and my guess is that he will not yield to pressure to take it. If this offends the party leaders, so be it; he will leave the political future to take care of itself.

But if a weary deadlock does not develop at the Miami convention, the pressure on Kennedy will not vanish. There is not a probable nominee, whether it be Humphrey, McGovern or Muskie, who would not want, welcome and value the senator as his running mate.

Could he be persuaded to accept? I'm not sure he couldn't.

He would not have sought any nomination and he would be clearly responding to a valid call of his party.

Running as vice-presidential nominee would undoubtedly benefit Kennedy and defeat, if it should come, would not impair his future.

His very acceptance would increase his party's debt to him and virtually assure future presidential nomination.

He would gain valuable experience and national exposure.

These are the arguments which will be made to Kennedy and they could be persuasive.

Anti-Semitic Hate Literature Discredits American Conservatives

WASHINGTON — Herr Hitler is no longer with us, the American Nazi Party has relatively small prospect of winning this year's presidential election, and the Ku Klux Klan uniform these days is more likely to be a business suit than a bed sheet. Yet, however encouraging these signs of man's slow metamorphosis out of the muck, no American should assume that the principles Hitler lived by were buried with his own charred remains.

In spirit, Hitler lives — in Union, N.J.; Gainesville, Mo.; Denver, Colo.; Memphis, Tenn.; Chicago, Ill.; Hollywood, Calif.; Charleston, S.C.; Pompano Beach, Fla.; and in any number of towns in between from which hate literature is poured out by the ton and dutifully delivered by the U.S. Postal Service.

Like the underground press of the left, these hate purveyors of the remote right claim the Establishment press refuses to print their version of the truth, so they have to do it themselves. There is more truth to their complaint than to that of the left, for the shoestring campus and urban papers once peddled "underground" because of their pornographic content and blatant sexual want ads now are sold openly on street corners and newsstands, and many are prospering nicely. But the message in the sheets I describe today, while chaste in sexual terms, is so scurrilous otherwise it is beneath the contempt of even the most conservative respectable papers and magazines.

ANYBODY WHOSE NAME appears once in the public prints is likely to receive envelopes of such trash, unsolicited. Anybody whose name is attached to a regular column of opinion gets it by the bale, and his natural impulse is to throw it away unread. It takes an effort of will to read and file it, but such patience is rewarded — not only by gradual realization of just how much of this excreta exists, but also by recognition of a pattern in it.

Its main burden is anti-Semitism, as crude and heavy-handed as anything Paul Joseph Goebbels ever put out. Its tone can be relatively restrained, and it may be printed beneath a nameplate depicting the Minuteman and the Stars and Stripes. For one example, a compilation of "50 phony arguments" against anti-Semitism and presumably effective answers to each. An excerpt:

"Q — Don't you think that attacking the Jews will be divisive to the conservative movement and perhaps even wreck it?"

"A — The objective is not to preserve the 'conservative' movement but rather to preserve our White Race, our Christian Faith and our Nation. Telling the truth cannot hurt the conservative movement but will strengthen it. It will, however, expose the Kosher Konservatives who have usurped leadership and who are zealously protecting the Jews."

The 50 arguments and answers proceed downhill from there. And that, mind you, is a dignified example. Other broadsheets try to keep alive the infamous "Protocals of the Learned Elders of Zion," a forged plan of international conspiracy used as an excuse for anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union for years, though proved to be the work of Stalin's secret police. They also mail out more modern versions of fake Jewish conspiratorial literature.

ONE GENTLEMAN in Chicago who recently favored me with a bundle of this guff apparently has a collection of rubber stamps he uses to decorate the margins of his and others' prose. "Communism is rabbihic; rabbis killed Kennedy," says one. "Remember the 105 Americans massacred by Israel aboard the USS Liberty, June 8, 1967," goes another.

It is easy enough to dismiss all this as unimportant on the assumption that no decent citizen will entertain it for a moment. But in fact, the distributors of such broadsheets quite consciously try to give the impression that their views are automatically shared by all political conservatives and in the process they give traditional American conservatism a bad name.

Mixed in with racist and anti-Semitic pamphlets, you find others expressing reservations about the United Nations or Mr. Nixon's China policy. On the outside of his envelopes, the Chicago gentleman cited above uses stickers with familiar slogans like, "If you don't like police, call a hippie for help." His viler poison is hiden inside. The result, hardly accidental, is to blur the line between legitimate political conservatism and intolerable racist propagandism.

What this makes clear is that American conservative spokesmen have not only the duty of every citizen to discredit such slander, beyond that, it is a necessity for their own self-interest and that of their respectable cause.

What U.S. Supreme Court Really Said About Busing

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The "busing issue" is sure to figure in election campaigns in many California legislative districts. How did it come about? What has the United States Supreme Court really ruled in the matter?

The Supreme Court, in a series of decisions beginning with Brown vs. Board of Education of Topeka in 1954, held that assigning children to separate schools on the basis of race violated the 14th Amendment. It ruled that school districts must establish "unitary" systems — meaning a single school system to serve all children, regardless of race.

To meet this requirement, many southern school districts adopted "freedom of choice" plans, permitting any child to attend any school in the district. This met the "unitary" legal requirement, but sometimes it left the schools in fact as racially segregated as they had been before.

Equal rights agitators filed court challenges pointing out this failure of "freedom of choice." So lower courts began to order school districts to adopt plans that would actually integrate the schools. In most cases, the resulting plans called for busing. And to give semblance of equity to this forced busing procedure, courts began setting up ratios of black and white which would represent "integration" in specific districts.

THE "BUSING ratio for integration" advocates claimed a major triumph in the unanimous Supreme Court ruling of April 30, 1971, in Swann vs. Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education, which upheld a plan based on the over-all percentage in that North Carolina district of 71 per cent white and 29 per cent Negro pupils.

However, neither those who hailed this "triumph" nor lower court judges who cited it as precedent for more sweeping busing orders seem to have read the cautions in this unanimous Supreme Court decision. Here are some of them:

"If we were to read the holding of the district court to require, as a matter of substantive constitutional right, any particular degree of racial balance or mixing, that approach would be disapproved and we would be obliged to reverse. The constitutional command to desegregate schools does not mean that every school in every community must always reflect the racial composition of the school system as a whole."

However, said the Supreme Court: "Awareness of the racial composition of the whole school system is likely to be a useful starting point in shaping a remedy to correct past constitutional violations." And it noted that the district court had ruled: "Fixed ratios of pupils in particular schools will not be set."

It observed that the busing required for the Charlotte-Mecklenburg plan imposed no more hardship on pupils than busing already in use in that district, therefore could not be rejected on that basis.

In addition, it held: "Neither school authorities nor district courts are constitutionally required to make year-by-year adjustments of the racial composition of student bodies once the affirmative duty to desegregate has been accomplished."

THE DISTORTIONS of the Supreme Court's quite plainly stated unanimous opinion, by lower courts and advocates of classroom-by-classroom mathematical "integration," show how the goal of providing equal education for all may be perverted into a fight over busing vs. the neighborhood school.

Almost the only rational comment in recent weeks has come from Wilson C. Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, who said:

"Neither the state nor the federal government should be in the business of prescribing or precluding approaches local boards may find feasible to exercise. The fussing and fuming over school busing should be ended. . .It is time for us to get on with the business of establishing quality education for all our children."

Benefit To Recycle Patrons Explored

The Novato Sanitary District is considering a suggestion by a College of Marin student that those who recycle newspapers, bottles and cans be granted a reduced garbage collection rate.

Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph said the proposal by Gregory Fearon of the Associated Students at the college was discussed by district directors Monday night.

Directors had "some reservations," about how the idea could be put into practice and referred it to the Novato Disposal Service for comment.

The board also discussed a proposed regulation to require reclaimed water devices at car washes, Joseph said.

With the devices, now in use at some car washes, soap rinse water is reclaimed and used for the initial car rinse, he said.

This system cuts down on the amount of water used and the amount discharged into the sewer system, he said.

Heroin Found On Prisoner

HOUSTON (UPI)—Prison officials searched Cruz Garcia, 18, serving a 12-year sentence for narcotics possession, after his wife completed a prison visit Monday.

They found a picture of Mrs. Olivia Garcia, 26, in the nude, and four small packets of heroin on Garcia. The picture was in his sock and the heroin was in his mouth.

Mrs. Garcia was arrested and charged with possession of heroin and taking it into the prison.

Deliquency Among Girls Up In 1970

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Juvenile delinquency among girls aged 10-17 rose twice as fast as crime involving boys from 1969 to 1970, a government crime report said yesterday It blamed the "more aggressive ... more independent" behavior of girls.

In 1970, the report said juvenile courts for the first time handled more than one million cases involving boys and girls. Courts in rural areas showed a 13 per cent increase over the previous year and courts in cities and suburbs reported 6 per cent increases.

But the Health, Education and Welfare Department study said the rate of increase in delinquency cases slowed for the first time in five years.

"The rise in girl's delinquency has generally been attributed to their changing attitude towards society and society's changing attitude towards them," the report said.

"Instead of the passive role assumed by girls in the past and society's protective role towards them, girls are becoming more aggressive and more independent in their day-to-day activities.

"Unfortunately, some of this behavior has resulted in large increases in the incidences of running away from home and in ... the use of drugs, often necessitating other crime-related activities such as shoplifting, robberty, etc."

The report said that although delinquency is still primarily a boy's problem, the boy-to-girl ratio of court referrals narrowed from 4-1 in mid-1960s to 3 -1 in 1970.

For the period covered by the study, girls' court cases showed a one-year increase of 7 per cent in suburbs, 11 per cent in cities and 20 per cent in rural areas for a national increase of 10 per cent. Boys' cases increased 5 per cent. The population growth of children aged 10-17 during the period was 2 per cent.

Of the 1,052,000 juvenile court cases in 1970, based on a national sample, 799,500 involved boys and 252,500 girls. Other crimes covered by the statistics included aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft, and truancy but not traffic violations.

Administration officials emphasized that the rate of increase in juvenile court cases declined for the first time in five years. Each year since 1965, the percentage increase in cases was higher than the previous year, but in 1970 it was only 6 per cent compared with a 10 per cent rise in 1969, the report said.

"The statistics are very significant, for we may be nearing an end to the growth in juvenile delinquency that has plagued the nation for so long," Jerris Leonard, administrator of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, said in a statement.

"Nationally, crime has been increasing, but its rate of growth has slowed. Now that a similar pattern is emerging for delinquency, we may be coming near the point where crime and delinquency will cease to grow and then will actually begin to dip."

Sewage Disposal Forum To Be Tomorrow Night

"Water—Waste or Resource", a forum on sewage disposal and water resources sponsored by the League of Women Voters, will be held today at 8 p.m. in the Strawberry Recreation Center. 118 East Strawberry Drive.

Eugene Higgins of the Army Corps of Engineers will be the opening speaker and will be followed by a panel composed of: Warren E. Nute, engineer for the Richardson Bay Sanitary District; Dr. William Upton of the state Water Quality Control Board, Dr. M.P. Wennekens of the corps of engineers; Dr. William Hargreaves, chairman of the District A Advisory Board on consolidation of sewage agencies, and James Murray, Tiburon Sanitary District director.

Walking Against Hunger, Poverty

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Projects to combat hunger and poverty will be given more than $100,000 raised in a 29-mile weekend walk by about 12,000 young persons.

Of the original 12,000 volunteers who began the jaunt Saturday about 4,000 dropped out of the 1972 Sacramento Walk for Development because of blisters, bee stings and darkness. Two sprained ankles also were reported.

France Asks U.S., Saigon To Return To Paris Peace Table

PARIS (UPI)—The French government asked the United States and South Vietnam today to return to the suspended Paris talks on Vietnam.

The French appeal came shortly after the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations, for the second consecutive week, asked that the talks be resumed.

The United States suspended the talks indefinitely on March 23 on grounds the Communists were using them solely for propaganda purposes and refused to negotiate any of the issues involved.

Since then the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations have issued almost daily statements condemning the Nixon administration for refusal to negotiate and demanding an end to the U.S. bomb attacks on North Vietnam.

The Communist negotiating teams also conferred with French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann and asked that he intervene with the United States to try to get the talks started again.

France, since the days of the late Gen. Charles de Gaulle, has taken the position that the United States should withdraw all of its forces from Vietnam and let the Vietnamese settle their dispute at the conference table.

The French government issued the appeal for a resumption of the conference after today's weekly cabinet meeting at Elysee Palace under chairmanship of President Georges Pompidou.

Information Minister Leo Hamon told newsmen, "the French government is expressing the wish that the Paris conference on Vietnam resume without delay with a view to reaching a settlement insuring the security and independence of the Vietnamese populations."

"The French government firmly believes that the Vietnam conflict must be settled through a political solution, and that such a solution can be found," Hamon said.

The South Vietnamese already had rejected today's formal request by the Communist delegations that Thursday's session be held as usual. A Saigon spokesman said neither the Americans nor the South Vietnamese were prepared to negotiate under the threat of Communist arms.

"For the reasons which we have made clear on March 23 —the day of the suspension — and through various statements thereafter since the North Vietnamese Communist invasion of our country, there will be no session Thursday," the South Vietnamese satement said.

The regular sessions of the 39-month-old talks were suspended indefinitely March 23 on Nixon's instructions. American delegation spokesmen said the weekly meetings were being used by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong as a propaganda forum.

Both Washington and Saigon delegation spokesmen since have made it clear that they will not return to the negotiations while the North Vietnamese military offensive in South Vietnam is still underway.

"It is perfectly clear that no serious negotiations can be held under pressure of arms," said a spokesman for the Saigon delegation Tuesday.

The North Vietnamese note said last week the U.S. delegation was "happy to invoke the same unreasonable and completely erroneous pretexts" for not resuming the regular weekly sessions.

"In the meantime, on President Nixon's orders, hundreds of American warplanes, including B52s, and dozens of American warships have launched repeated attacks in the region of Vinh Linh," province of North Vietnam, the note said.

Author Denied Professional Tenure At Yale

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—Erich Segan, author of the best-selling novel and Hollywood movie success "Love Story," has been denied professorial tenure by his Yale University departmental colleagues.

Segal, a Harvard-educated classics professor at Yale, was offered a senior lectureship in place of full tenure, Prof. Jerome J. Pollitt, departmental chairman, said Tuesday.

A senior lecturer is a senior faculty member appointed to an academic position for a specific time period without assurance of permanent appointment, a Yale spokesman said.

Kissinger Postpones Trip To Japan — Viet Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger has postponed a scheduled visit to Japan so he can help President Nixon during the Vietnam War crisis. But the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff describes the situation in the war zone as "stabilized."

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said yesterday that Kissinger had given up plans to fly to Japan from Canada Saturday, and would make the trip in early May.

Ziegler said Kissinger, national security affairs adviser to Nixon, would remain at his post because of his responsibilities in keeping the President informed on military and diplomatic developments in the war.

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, the joint chiefs chairman, briefed congressional leaders on the war situation yesterday and talked to reporters, telling them "the South Vietnamese are fighting extremely well."

"For the last 48 hours the situation has been stabilized," Moorer said.

Meanwhile the Senate yesterday overwhelmingly rejected a proposal that it decide whether to declare war on North Vietnam.

The proposal was offered Tuesday by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, an outspoken and often unpredictable dove. He opposed a declaration of war but wanted to bring it to a vote, hoping its rejection would tell President Nixon something new about Senate feeling on the war.

Vehicle Parts Reported Stolen

An unknown amount of vehicle parts and tires were reported stolen from the Marin Sanitary Service vehicle repair shop, 112 Front Street, San Rafael, between 5 p.m. Monday and 2:30 a.m. yesterday, police reported.

Entry apparently was through sliding double doors which were pulled off their tracks by a chain attached to a company vehicle, police said.

ARTICHOKES, OR "anginares" as they are called in Greece, are a typical and integral part of Greek cuisine. They can be prepared in endless ways.

POPULAR GREEK DISH

Oregano, Garlic On Lamb Cubes

By PHYLLIS HANES
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

One of the most popular of the traditional Greek dishes is souvlakia — cubes of lamb delicately flavored with oregano and garlic and served on skewers.

Most of us know it as a shish kebab or just kebab. And if you like food with a continental flair, you'll order it with one of these names or perhaps just by asking for brochettes.

Another Greek favorite is the artichoke called "anginares" in Greece. They are prepared there in a variety of ways — boiled, fried, stuffed or some people eat them raw to capture the full, delicate flavor. No matter what way they're eaten, they're as much an integral part of Greek cuisine as souvlakia.

Although many Americans are traveling to Greece these days, you don't need to take the trip to enjoy artichokes. Our own artichokes, grown in California, are among the finest.

RIGHT NOW, there is a plentiful supply of fresh spring artichokes in local supermarkets. When shopping for them at this time of year, look for those that are bright green and have tightly packed leaves.

The size of the artichoke does not indicate maturity, as large artichokes grow in the middle of the plant's stock, and smaller ones near the base. To store fresh artichokes put them unwashed in a plastic bag and refrigerate.

When serving your artichoke and souvlakia Greek dinner, prepare a lemon sauce called avgolemono to accompany the artichoke as a dip.

SOUVLAKIA

⅓ cup olive or salad oil
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon crushed oregano
Dash of pepper
2 pounds leg or shoulder of lamb, cut in 2-inch pieces.
½ pound medium mushrooms
3 medium onions, sliced
4 medium artichokes
4 cloves garlic
Crushed oregano
Boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
3 medium tomatoes, quartered
Avgolemono sauce

Pour marinade over lamb, mushrooms, and onions in shallow dish. Cover and chill several hours or overnight, mixing occasionally. Wash artichokes, and cut off stems at base. Place a clove of garlic and dash of oregano in center of each; place in boiling water, one inch deep in saucepan large enough to hold artichokes upright, snugly. Sprinkle each artichoke with one-quarter teaspoon salt.

Calcium Sources

Milk and cheese are still the major sources of calcium in the diet.

Cover and boil gently 20 to 25 minutes or until stems can be easily pierced with fork (add a little more water if needed). Turn artichokes upside down to drain, set aside.

Meanwhile, drain lamb and vegetables; reserve marinade. Skewer lamb and broil four inches from source of heat 5 to 7 minutes on each side. Alternate mushrooms, onion, and tomato on other skewers; brush with marinade and broil 3 to 4 minutes per side. Serve lamb and vegetable kebabs with artichokes and avgolemono sauce.

AVGOLEMONO SAUCE

3 eggs
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup warm chicken stock or bouillon

Beat eggs in top of double boiler; gradually blend in lemon juice and stock. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until slightly thickened. Beat until foamy. Remove from heat and serve hot with artichokes. Makes about two cups.

ANCHOVY BUTTER SAUCE

4 artichokes, prepared as directed
8 flat anchovies, finely chopped
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon finely chopped parsley

While artichokes are cooking, mash anchovies with a fork. Combine with butter, lemon juice, and parsle; mix well. Cook over low heat to serving temperature stirring frequently. Serve with hot artichokes.

HOMEMADE TREAT

Meaty Beef Shanks For Body; Vegetables Color Easy Soup

So your family doesn't go for casseroles and some of those other mixed up concoctions! For their sake, you can use the same type of ingredients, but serve them forth in great style as the soup du jour. Without question, homemade beef vegetable soup is a treat. It's not much work either, if you use this simplified oven method. With a couple of pounds of meaty beef shanks to give the soup body and soul and fresh vegetables to give color, texture and flavor, it's an easy recipe.

First, brown the beef shanks under the broiler, turning only once but letting them become a rich dark brown. Add both water and tomato juice, seasonings and a quartered onion and let the soup simmer away in a slow oven.

In removing the beef from the bones, discard any of the tough tendons or cartilage, but be sure to scoop out the delicate marrow and return it to the stock along with the chopped beef. For the final cooking, slice the celery and carrot. At this point make sure you don't overcook the tasty vegetables so they still retain their colors and textures.

With a hearty, nutritious soup like this, all you need to complete the meal is some whole grain bread and butter.

HOMEMADE BEEF VEGETABLE SOUP

2 pounds meaty beef shanks
2 teaspoons salt
4 cracked peppercorns
1 bay leaf
1 quartered onion
1 cup tomato juice
3 cups water
1½ cups sliced celery
1½ cups sliced carrot
1 (10½-ounce) can beef broth

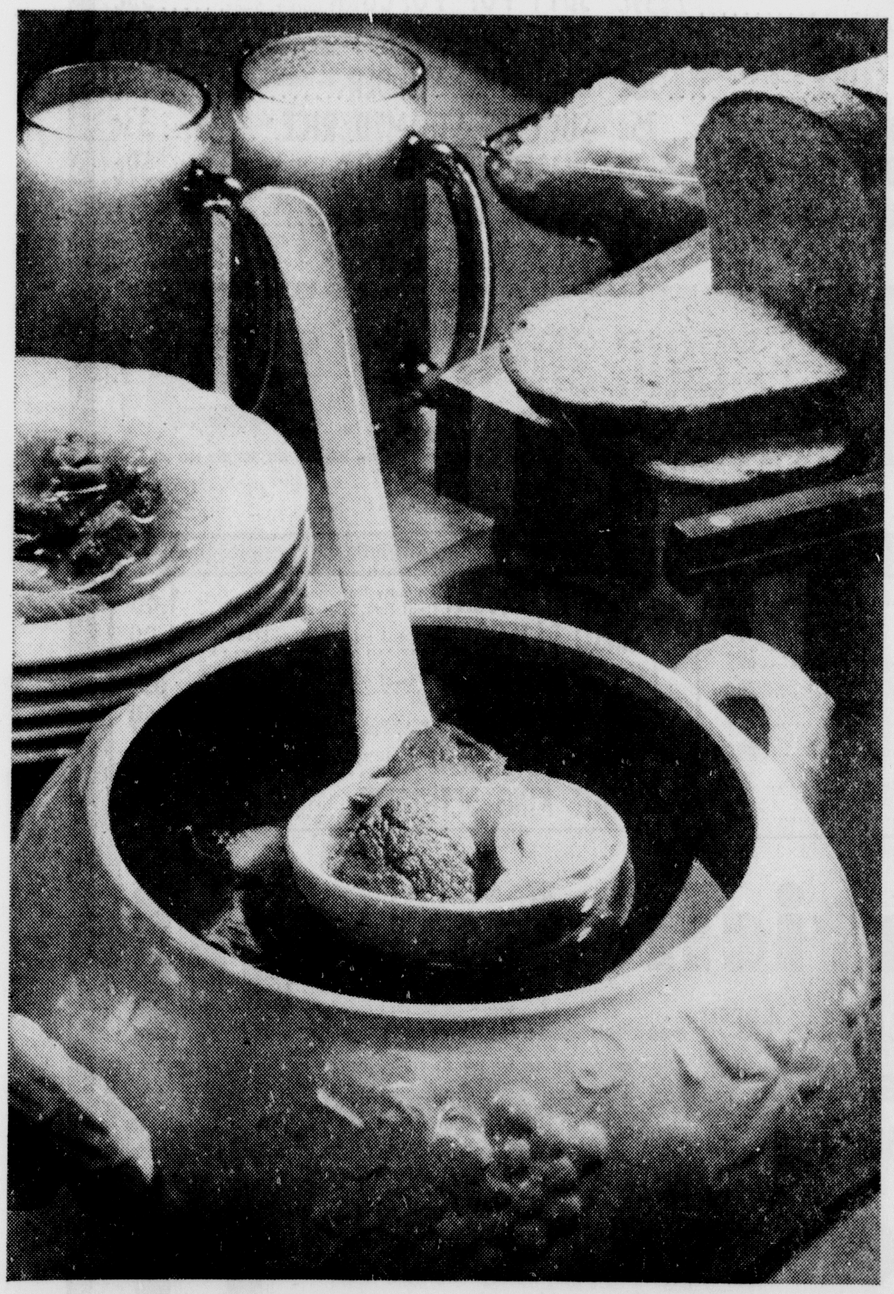
Trim fat from beef. Brown shanks under broiler. Place in pot with salt, peppercorns, bay leaf, onion, tomato juice and water. Cover and cook in slow oven (300 degrees) about two hours until beef is tender. Remove shanks and cut beef into chunks. Skim fat from broth. Return beef to pot along with celery, carrot and canned broth. Cover and cook 10 to 15 minutes longer until vegetables are barely tender. Makes about two quarts.

NOTE: Soup may also be simmered on a burner.

Beef Popular

Next time you order beef in a restaurant, you'll know that you're in good company. Of all food items available, beef is number one in restaurants according to a recent USDA study of the foodservice industry.

In fact, about 28 percent of all beef produced in the United States is sold through foodservice outlets, accounting for more than 21 percent of their purchases.



THIS BEEF and vegetable soup is hearty enough to make it a meal in itself, served with slices of whole wheat bread or French bread.

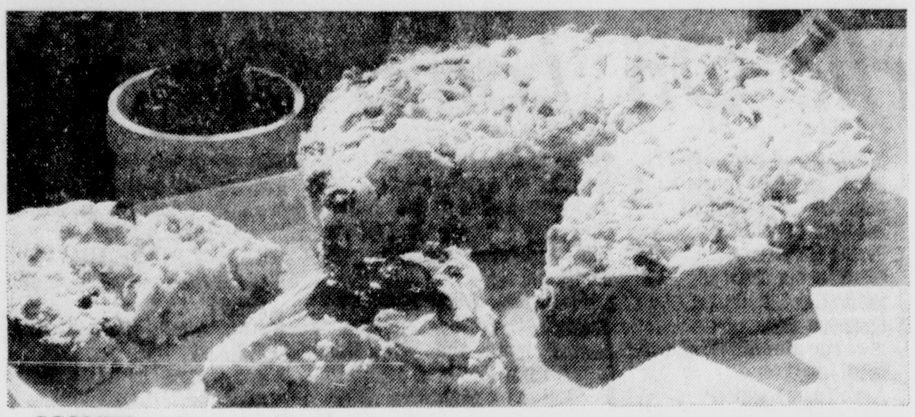
SPECIAL TREAT

New, Simpler Scones Are Baked



SCONES, the standard of the Scottish tea table, turn up warm and fresh for an after-school snack. This version is made with whole wheat flour and extra raisins for more nutrition.

When there's time to make a special treat, try this new recipe for scones made with whole wheat flour and raisins. An ancient Scottish classic, scones were traditionally made on a griddle. This baked version is much simpler. It can be served plain. arm from the oven, or spread with jelly and peanut butter for a helping of protein.

These wholesome scones are fine grown-up fare, too. They're delicious and can be put together quickly when friends are expected for a coffee break or afternoon tea.

The word "scone" derives from "schoonbrood" which means fine bread. Snackers, young and old will agree that it's aptly named.

Automatic Shopping

Grocery shopping may soon be as easy as pushing a button. An automatic retailing machine developed in Europe gives consumer choice of 280 items in any size and weight.

The machine collects shopper's money, automatically retrieves and delivers items through special receiving door.

RAISIN WHOLE WHEAT SCONES

1½ cups sifted flour
3 tablespoons sugar
3¾ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup whole wheat flour
¼ cup shortening
⅔ cup seedless raisins
1 egg, beaten
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon grated orange peel

Resift flour with sugar, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Stir whole wheat flour in package to lighten before measuring. Stir ½ cup into dry ingredients. Cut in shortening. Add all remaining ingredients. Stir lightly to stiff dough. Turn into well buttered 8-inch round cake pan. Mark into 6 pie-shaped pieces with sharp knife (or cut with scissors). Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. Serve warm, split and spread with peanut butter and jelly.

Makes 1 (8-inch) round or six servings.

Festive Bacon Bites

Bacon, one of the foods served traditionally at Easter, can be used to make tasty hot appetizers. Simply wrap strips of bacon around water chestnuts or pieces of banana, secure with small wooden picks and broil.

STRUMMING GRANDMOTHER

Mrs. Ralph Welch sings as she strums a tune on her Spanish steel guitar. Mrs. Welch, who was 83 years old on April 4, started playing the guitar as a child in Ohio and had played only for her own enjoyment until she recently joined the Novato Rural Band. She will play with the band when they perform at a dance on April 21 at the "Whistle Stop," the Marin County Senior Citizen social hall in San Rafael. The apartment complex where Mrs. Welch and her husbnd live in Novato has a swimming pool, which she uses every day during the summer.

Business World Lures Housewife

By JOAN LISETOR

JANE COLLINS
In business world

Jane Collins reentered the business world seven years ago after a 14-year interruption to be a full time wife, mother and "chronic volunteer."

Last month she was appointed vice president and branch manager of the San Rafael office of Bell Savings and Loan Association.

Mrs. Collins, her husband, Bradford, and their daughter, Robin, moved to Fairfax in 1951 from their native Oregon. Then an advertising executive, Collins has since retired to devote full time to his painting. In Oregon Mrs. Collins, a graduate of the University of Oregon, had a career in the banking field.

"You know what happens in Marin," she said. "There was the P-TA, Girl Scouts, Junior Theater of Marin, and then we sent Robin to Marin Country Day School, and the school needed something as a permanent fund raiser to pay for scholarships.

"WE OPENED the Marin Country Day Closet Shop in Sausalito, which I ran as a volunteer. I got to thinking if I am going to work this hard I should be working for money."

She went to work for Northwestern Savings and Loan (now Fidelty Savings and Loan) in San Rafael seven years ago.

"I took advantage of the courses offered by the Savings and Loan League," she said. "The trouble most women have when they go back to work is they would like to start where they left off. That is not possible because of changes, and that is true in all fields. You have to reenter slowly."

There are new opportunities in business for women because the women's liberation movement has advanced new attitudes toward women, Mrs. Collins said.

Savings and loans are the specialty shops of finance, according to Mrs. Collins, who said she sees full service banks as the department stores.

"WE CAN offer special services, and much of my job (as branch manager) involves woman-to-woman talk — widows who have been left money and have no idea what to do with it. Traditionally women are suited to handle the money used by families.

"Women are good with anything they are allowed to learn. All it takes is the opportunity and a willingness, and they should not be pre-judged by patterns that don't exist."

Liberals are the only ones who make things happen, she said, and revolutionaires have made the social changes which produced the present sunnier climate for women in business.

"Women have always been relied upon in business; now they are beginning to be appreciated," she said.

Her daughter is following in her father's foot steps in the advertising business, because, according to her mother, she can't balance a checkbook.

WHILE MUCH of her job involves personal contact and customer service, Mrs. Collins is involved in making policy decisions as a full vice president.

Prior to her appointment at Bell Savings and Loan, Mrs. Collins was with Homestead Savings and Loan first as a branch manager in Sausalito, then promoted to manager of the home office in San Francisco. At Homestead she was an assistant vice president, a far cry, she said from being a full vice president.

Parties To Open Sailing

By MOLLY MARIN

Belvedere Lagoon parties this weekend will celebrate opening of the lagoon sailing season on Sunday.

On the eve of opening day parade, a cocktail dinner dance will be held at Corinthian Yacht Club in Belvedere. Before the dance Dr. and Mrs. Richard Leonards will entertain a group of lagoon residents at a cocktail party.

On Sunday at 2 p.m. the Belvedere Sailing Society will officially open the lagoon's sailing season with the roar of Basil Knauth's cannon. Commodore Leland Dake will lead a parade of sailboats, including Suns, Lidos, FJs, Sunfish, and canoes, rowboats and peddle boats. Prizes will be awarded for best fleet decor, best fleet maneuver and most original decor.

Homes will fly flags and several residents will entertain friends from San Francisco and other parts of Marin. Commodore and Mrs. Leland Dake will hold a cocktail buffet. Dr. and Mrs. William Ferguson Jr. plan a luncheon. Messrs. and Mmes. William Johnstone and Mervin Field will hold a luncheon to benefit the Marin Foundation. Mrs. Harris Carrigan plans a luncheon for the Lido Fleet. A cocktail buffet will be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schwarz. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davidson will serve a luncheon.

ON APRIL 13, 1947, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Heyman of Novato were married at the Church of the Visitation in San Francisco. Last Saturday their two daughters, Mrs. James Landon and Maureen Heyman of Chico, and son, Kent, hosted a surprise reception for their parents 25th wedding anniversary at the Sportsman Lodge in Novato. Adding to the evening's entertainment, Kent and Hank and David Hicks furnished music — Kent at the piano, Hank playing guitar and David on drums.

BILL HANSEN of San Rafael left yesterday for Mexico on vacation. Driving a camper, he plans to make stops along the way to Mazatlan, where he will spend several weeks.

If Traveling Husband Strays, It's An Excuse To Dump Him

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 55 and my reading material these days isn't exactly "Pilgrim's Progress." My reading, in fact, leaves the impression that a married man who travels is entitled to a "fling," just so long as she's a pick-up or a paid-for, and he cares nothing for her.

In my book, this is adultery, whether there's emotional involvement or not, and his wife has every right to throw him out. Right or wrong? — NOT SURE

DEAR NOT:

Right: if the wife wants an excuse to dump her traveling man. Sadly enough, many women these days go along with this husband's version: "My wife is a married woman all the time (sez he) and she'd better not forget it. But I'M a married man only when I'm not on the road." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You asked if anyone had ever won a sweepstakes prize by checking the "No, I don't want the product" square and sending in his entry.

Please tell "Still Waiting for My Prize" that I'm still waiting, too, for more years than I want to remember. Often companies ask you to check on the outside of the envelope whether you're a purchaser or just a hoper.

To find out whether the "No" envelopes were ever opened or just summarily dumped, I checked the "No" box — then enclosed in my envelope a stamped, self-addressed card on which I had written "Entry received." An accompanying note asked that the card be mailed at once. That was back in April, 1971, and I'm still waiting for its arrival.

Maybe this doens't prove anything, but it comes close. — IN THE SAME BOAT

DEAR HELEN

We had been entering these sweepstakes contests for years, just as had "Still Waiting for My Prize." I never believed they'd pay off but couldn't resist.

Then, in January of 1971, my husband won $87,000 from a magazine subscription house — and that was the year we didn't buy magazines!

We learned later that only one major winner in this particular contest had checked the "Yes" box. All the others hadn't taken out any subscrptions, though in our case, we had been customers in previous years.

We took a million-to-one chance — and won! It can happen! GRAND PRIZE WINNER

DEAR P.W.:

Congratulations! But . . .

I wish you hadn't told me that! From now on, I'll worry every time I throw away a sales pitch sweepstakes offer! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your ownamusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Michael Freeman, Janice Pansini Wed

Janice Pansini of Greenbrae and Michael Freeman of Palo Alto were wed Saturday in a ceremony at St. Sebastian's Catholic Church in Greenbrae. A reception followed at the Meadow Club in Fairfax.

Maid of honor was Joleen Bianchini of Fairfax, and the bride's sisters, Mrs. Richard Lewis of Petaluma and Janie Pansini of Greenbrae; and her sister-in-law, Mrs. David Pansini of Walnut Creek, were bridesmaids.

Tony Santaferrano of Santa Clara served as best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by the bride's brothers, David and Andrew Pansini of San Francisco; Dan Pevarnick and the bridegroom's brother William Freeman, both of Santa Clara; and the bride's brother-in-law, Richard Lewis.

Following a wedding trip to Carmel, San Diego and Disneyland the couple will live in Foster City.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pansini of Greenbrae, and Mrs. A. E. Rave of San Francisco is her local grandmother. She is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and Santa Rosa Junior College and also attended College of Marin.

Mrs. Carroll Freeman of Santa Clara is the bridegroom's mother, and he is also the son of the late Mr. Freeman. Michael attended high school in Santa Clara and Los Angeles City College. He is employed by Golden Gateway Garage in San Francisco. Carroll Freeman Jr. of Palo Alto is also his brother.

SMART SHOPPER

More Than Meat Hurting Budgets

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Behind the rapid increases in meat prices — reversed at least temporarily by some decreases —lie other factors that may hurt pocketbooks more than the visible price changes.

While prices fluctuate, the characteristics of marketing meat are changing even faster. Cattle raisers and meat packers have become ingenious at developing ways to get the most they can per pound without openly violating any government regulations.

As a result, consumers are often paying high prices for types of meat and cuts of meat they do not realize they are getting.

Have you ever stopped to wonder how restaurants can offer breaded veal cutlets at such low prices — often the lowest meat dish on the menu — when veal prices are so high?

HAVE YOU ever wondered how there could be so much so-called calves liver available when calf and veal meat is so scarce?

Officials at the U.S. Department of Agriculture are asking the same questions. One of them, admitting he had no statistics on the matter, speculated that much low-grade beef is being sold as veal and much of what passes for calves liver is really beef liver.

The difference between veal, calf and beef is primarily a matter of age. For the first nine months or so, an animal is considered veal. For the next five, it is usually classified as calf. A beef animal is usually at least 14 months old. But meat experts tell the differences by color of flesh and bone development.

Two recent developments at the USDA illustrate what is happening to meat standards. Last January, the department relaxed its requirements for grading "prime" and "choice" veal to reflect the smaller quantity of high quality veal coming onto the market. Growers were keeping the better animals for the beef market in hopes of making more money.

The easing of standards allows marketers to upgrade veal, stamp it with a higher grade label than it formerly would deserve on a quality basis. So the consumer may now pay "prime" prices for meat that would not formerly qualify for such a label.

MORE RECENTLY, the agriculture department published proposals designed to regulate the marketing of a meat product called "bullock," which is just another word for young bull.

Publication of the proposed standards for grading "bullock" reflects another big change in meat marketing. More and more bulls are being raised for retail meat purposes. Growers have found bull meat leaner and less costly to raise.

In fact, it is difficult to tell the difference between good bull meat and lower grade beef. Surveys show that consumers always tell the difference, but beef always wins taste tests over bull.

Even USDA inspectors find it difficult sometimes to tell the difference between bull and beef meat. As a result, no one knows exactly how much bull meat now passes as beef in such products as frankfurthers and hash.

SOME CATTLEMEN asked the USDA to allow "bullock" to be marketed as beef, with the same grading and no indication that it is bull meat. ("Bullock" refers to a bull under two years old. Meat from older animals would still be called bull.)

USDA compromised with the term "bullock." Grading terms would be the same as those for beef.

If that sounds like more bull for consumers, you may be right.

Labor Unit Studies Women's Suggestions

(I-J Special Report)

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U. S. Department of Labor and its Women's Bureau are studying recommendations submitted by participants in a meeting for Spanish-surnamed women from Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas, held last month in Phoenix, Ariz., according to Elizabeth Duncan Koontz, women's bureau director.

The meeting was the first of three the bureau plans to hold with women of minority groups.

In addressing the closing session of the meeting, Mrs. Koontz said, "I know the frustration that you feel and it is not peculiar to you as Spanish-surnamed women, but it is most important to you because it is your frustration. You have been through an experience these last two days that could be a beginning of the assertion of female leadership that is expected and desired in this country.

"This is a marvelous beginning for a lot of things. "I would like you to know how much I appreciate your assuming the expense of attending this consultation and helping us in our efforts to be of service to you."

Another speaker, Dr. Edward Aguirre, Department of Labor Regional Director, San Francisco, urged the women to translate their ideas and thoughts into significant action. He said they must follow up with realistic examples of what they want done, based on the facts and on "where you want to be six months from now, one year from now, two years from now."

"If you come out of this conference without an action plan," he said, "one that can be acted on by the administration and evaluated by you, then this conference and you have failed."

He pledged the assistance of his office and recommended that the Women's Bureau and the Spanish-surnamed women set up some form of communication on a regular basis.

Fingernails Thrive On Moisture

Fingernails, like skin, thrive on moisture. The more moisture you put in and the less that comes out, the healthier nails will be, according to cosmotologists at Elizabeth Arden, Inc.

Creamy emulsion, massaged into the cuticle and over the entire nail area, moisturize and keep nails from chipping and breaking. Oil based polish removed work quickly and efficiently without stripping the nail of valuable moisture.

Engagement Announced By Parents

The engagement of Patricia Marie Schwessinger and David D. Monzon has been announced by the bride-elect's parents, Lt. Col. (ret) and Mrs. George C. Schwessinger Jr. of Novato.

Pat is the sister of Margie, Nancy and Bill Schwessinger. She was graduated from Novato High School, College of Marin and Sonoma State College. She is employed at McGraw Hill Book Co. in Novato.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Libby Monzon of Sacramento and the sister of Dennis, Dector and Donald Monzon. He was graduated from Rio Americano High School and attended American River College and Sacramento State College. He is serving with the Navy at Treasure Island in San Francisco.

Eye Area Shows Most Aging Signs

The eye area shows signs of aging first as it is continually in motion and almost totally lacking in moisture, according to cosmetologists for Elizabeth Arden, Inc. Light creams, rich in moisturizers and lubricating ingredients, should be applied at bedtime to prevent wrinkles.

Gently patting the around the eye area with fingertips helps the skin to quickly absorb the cream and also relaxes the eye area and smooths away lines and fatigue.

Registrations Being Accepted For Day Camp

Registrations are being accepted for Camp Chai, the Marin Jewish Community Center's pre-school day camp. The camp will have two four-week sessions, June 26 to July 21 and July 31 to Aug. 25.

Camp Chai, for children between the ages of 2 years and 9 months and 5 years and 9 months, will combine a preschool curriculum with the fun of a summer day camp, according to Nancy Goldstein of the center.

A brochure and more information are available from the center.

THE TWISTER'S PATH

An entire block of utility poles was torn down yesterday when a tornado raked the St. Louis suburb of Florissant. The twister hopped across Florissant and parts of neighboring St. Charles County, killing one person, injuring several and damaging considerable property.

Rights Panel Wins Right To 'Anonymous' Surveys

The Marin County Human Rights Commission won approval yesterday from county supervisors for an "anonymous and voluntary" survey of persons appointed to county boards and commissions.

The supervisors' action followed a week of controversy after they ordered destruction of a "confidential" survey which sought information on the sex, race, age and income of those appointed.

The board said yesterday it didn't disagree with survey goals, but rather the manner in which it was carried out.

The board said that as long as the questionnaires did not ask appointees to identify themselves and was voluntary it would not object.

Its action came at the request of Stewart Boxer, chairman of the human rights commission, who said he was "disturbed" by the board's decision to destroy the original survey without consulting his commission.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

MOTEL — Tabled a proposal for Hugh Dougherty of Stinson Beach, a former county planning commissioner, that the county investigate possible apartment use of the soon-to-open Fern Court Motel in Stinson Beach. The board ordered that the county's motel ordinance be updated to preclude apartment use of motels in the future.

POOL HALLS — Rescinded a section of the county code which prohibits persons under 18 from entering pool halls. The prohibition was approved by supervisors in 1947.

OPEN SPACE — Approved proposed amendments to state law to allow the county board of supervisors to sit as the board of directors of a countywide park and open space district.

ACCOUNTING — Approvedproceeding with plans for a new accounting system aimed at obtaining an additional $200,000 per year from the federal government. Plans call for keeping separate record and accounting systems for greater control in monitoring funds.

FLOOD PLAN — Approved a master drainage plan for the Sutton Manor area of the Mill Valley Flood Control District.

PARTITIONS — Accepted an $11,995 bid from Partitions Modules Inc. to do several inter-office remodeling jobs at the Administration Building and Hall of Justice.

LIVESTOCK — Authorized $2,425 compensation to three Tomales Bay sheep ranchers for loss of 97 sheep, apparently killed by a single dog. Compensation is authorized under state law which says part of the county's dog license revenue shall be used for such purposes.

WILD RIVERS — Continued to April 18 consideration of supporting Sen. Peter H. Behr's "Wild Rivers Bill" which calls for preserving the Eel River in its natural state. The continuance came after Supervisor Louis H. Baar objected to any proposal which would block flood control of the river.

PRISON — Heard a report from attorney Hadden W. Roth on the progress of the county's task force studying conditions at San Quentin Prison. Roth, a former municipal judge, said the group's findings would be presented in September.

YOUTH CORPS — Authorized $1,806 toward the hiring of 39 young persons to work with the county on a part-time basis during the summer. The county's share will be matched with $16,255 in federal funds.

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Charles Slaymaker, an instructor at Dominican College, and Thomas Jackson, a student at San Francisco State College, to the county's Archaeological Investigation Committee, which is charged with regulating excavation of Indian middens. Supervisors also named Dr. Robert Marvin to the Mental Health Advisory Board and reappointed George Gnoss Jr. and Robert Pitts to the county's redevelopment agency.

FLOOD ZONE — Continued for further information a request from Ross Valley Flood Control Subzone 9-A that it be dissolved. The subzone was created to handle creek maintenance in the unincorporated areas of he Ross Valley but has requested the county to take over that function. Supervisors have refused since that service is not offered to other parts of the county.

DOGS — Discussed dogs and cats during lunch with Marin County Humane Society officials. Director Mel L. Morse told supervisors plans are in the works for licensing cats.

Radio Is Stolen From Sales Office

A radio valued at $100 was taken from the Colonial Sales Co. office, 15 Lovell Avenue, San Rafael, sometime between 9 p.m. Saturday and 8:15 a.m. Monday, police reported yesterday.

Burglars apparently pried locks on a door in order to gain entry, police said.

Courthouse Site Sale Hearing Set

The Marin County Board of Supervisors appeared supportive yesterday of a proposal to sell the old county courthouse site in San Rafael to a Sacramento construction firm.

While no formal vote was taken, the consensus of the board appeared to favor selling the site for $650,000 provided the Fourth Street frontage remains in open space.

The board set April 25 for a hearing on the proposal whch has been worked out jointly with officials of San Rafael.

The proposal basically calls for the county to drop its asking price of $750,000. The site has been appraised at $800,000 but has remained vacant for years.

McKeon Construction Co., represented yesterday by San Rafael attorney Albert Bianchi, has proposed building a six to eight-story office structure with another three-story building attached. A three-story parking building also is proposed and 45 per cent of the site would remain open.

In setting the public hearing, supervisors directed County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to draft an option agreement requiring the firm to put up an unspecified amount of "front-end money." The county would keep the money if the deal fell through.

Waterway Ordinance Expanded

The county ordinance which controls development along tidal waterways was expanded yesterday to give Marin supervisors control over a greater area.

Basically, the supervisors' action extends the county jurisdiction upstream on creeks affected by tidal action such as Lagunitas Creek at Point Reyes Station.

Development proposals for areas within 100 feet of creek banks must be approved by the county's fill committee which yesterday was renamed the environmental planning committee.

Prior to the amendment, the county's jurisdiction on tidal waterways was arbitrarily set. For instance, it might run upstream as far as a road on one stream and to a telephone pole on another.

The new countywide limits are based on high tide marks, except where the Bay Conservation and Development Commission has authority.

Most controversial of the areas now to be included is Lagunitas Ceek at Point Reyes, where rancher Waldo Giacomini won exclusion from the ordiance for the purpose of each year constructing an earthen dam to prevent salt water intrusion during summer months.

Speakers Agree 'Rehabilitation' Is Overworked In Penal Reform

By LARRY MOWELL

A platitudinous prison official, a despairing attorney and an optimistic ex-convict agreed last night that "rehabilitation" doesn't describe what is happening to men in prison.

Speaking before an almost full house at the Fine Arts Building Theater of the College of Marin, Lawrence Bennett, chief of research for the state Department of Corrections, said the department should not aim its inmates at rehabilitation, but "at something like reentering into society on some sort of a productive basis satisfactory to the individual."

Ed Snell — a two-time murderer whose slick appearance and gravelly George Raft voice betray the gangster background he has renounced — also said rehabilitation isn't what the men in prison need.

"Everybody is trying to close the barn door after the horse is out. I prefer the word, 'remotivation,'" he said.

Remotivation comes not from the prison system, but from the inmate himself, said Snell, executive director of Seventh Step Foundation, an inmate self-help program.

The third speaker in the second of six prison forums at the college was attorney Salle S. Soladay, who dismissed the evening's topic with, "I don't think there is any rehabilitation that occurs in prisons so that ends that topic."

She said that despite the great problems in prison and the public awareness of those problems, no change will occur because people don't know how to fight institutions. Prisons, therefore, will outlive the interest in reform, she predicted.

Bennett said, "I am going to give you a lot of platitudes because that is my job," then presented the official side of the rehabilitation question.

He said the rate of return to prison has been sliced from 47 per cent to 25 per cent in the past decade, but he said this is due less to the prison department than to a "real groundswell of people working with us."

"The fact of the matter is there is a built-in problem in the situation. It has to do with the kept and the keeper. There is a built-in mistrust," he said.

Because of that mistrust an inmate will not always respond to good intentions of prison officials and parole officers, he claimed.

"We can set the stage, we can help people to move forward," but only self-help programs, other ex-convicts and the families can complete the task of keeping a man from returning to prison, he said.

"The only way you are going to stay out is to run into a few individuals who, when you ask an honest question, give an honest answer," he said.

He noted the economic advantages of making a man a taxpayer instead of a burden — "and I'm stressing this point because for the first time in 30 years I'm a taxpayer," he said.

All the ex-convict should have is a chance, he said, but each one needs help to overcome the burden of a prison record.

Snell said he is not a prison reformer and certainly no friend of the state department of corrections, but added, "If this dumb jackass can stand up in front of you people and get help and can go to the department of corrections and get the same help, I figure we are going someplace."

Next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the theater John Irwin, an ex-felon who now teaches sociology at San Francisco State College, will speak on the new convict movement and the prison Union's Guerrilla Theater will perform.

Man Arrested In Flower Theft

A 23-year-old Fairfax man was arrested Saturday on suspicion of petty theft and possession of dangerous drugs, San Rafael police reported.

Kenny Ralph Zorn, 23, of 121 Meerna, was released on $1,000 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, Zorn was seen taking potted flowers from the Safeway Market at 700 B Street at 2:29 a.m. He was arrested for petty theft, police reported. In searching his car, police found a bottle of pills thought to be a dangerous drug, the report said.

Diabetes Unit Plans Lecture

The Marin County Diabetes Association will sponsor a lecture in April and cooking lessons in May. Both free.

Dr. Robert A. Hedquist, a county dentist, will speak on "Diabetes and the Importance of Good Dental Care" at 8 p.m. on April 25 in the community room of the Episcopal Church in Ignacio, 400 Ignacio Boulevard.

Cooking classes will be held in the Pacific Gas and Electric auditorium, Third and Brook Streets, San Rafael, 7:45 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. May 2; 9:45 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. May 9 and 7:45 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. May 16.

Burglary Suspect Enters Innocent Plea

Robert Paul Hollenbeck, 24, of Novato, pleaded innocent Monday to a charge of burglary and a superior court trial was set for the week of June 5.

Hollenbeck was arrested last month after officers responded to a burglar alarm at a Mill Valley home. They said they found Hollenbeck on the patio attempting to leave with a color television set.

"Husky chops—tender young taste... American

That's what I like about LAMB"

"Loin chops of tender, young American Lamb are bigger and meatier, the way a man likes them. Team them with the gusto of Spanish Olive Relish and you have American Lamb—Gaucho style!"

LAMB LOIN CHOPS with Spanish Olive Relish (makes 3 to 6 servings)

3 tablespoons olive or salad oil
1 small clove garlic, crushed
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 medium green pepper, chopped
1 medium red pepper, chopped
2 medium ripe tomatoes, peeled, seeded and cubed
3/4 teaspoon paprika
Salt and pepper
3/4 cup small pimiento-stuffed Spanish green olives
6 lamb loin chops, 1 to 1-1/4 inches thick

Heat 2 tablespoons of the oil in large skillet over medium heat; add garlic, vegetables, paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, dash pepper and olives. Cook uncovered, stirring frequently until vegetables are tender. Spoon olive relish in center of heated platter and keep warm. Pour drippings from skillet. Season chops with salt and pepper. Heat remaining oil in skillet; add chops and sauté 5 to 6 minutes per side, or until lamb is as done as you like it. Arrange chops around olive relish.

ART REVIEW

Students Boot An Old Theory

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Psychologically, walking into a high school art show is not the same as confronting an adult exhibit. You tend to go in with your judgments tucked away, your critical vision a little blurred and your expectations a lot less demanding.

Such attitudes are totally out of place at the High School Invitational which continues through Saturday at the Marin Society of Artists Gallery in the Ross Art and Garden Center. Compared to much adult work seen locally, these youthful exhibitors are embarrassingly good.

If they show a weakness, it is a curiously recurring one in the area of painting and drawing. Perhaps the more direct, sensual, physical, touching thing inherent in sculpture or crafts makes them seem more attractive to students. Perhaps maturity in painting is just slower or more labored in coming. Whatever — there is a certain lack of expressive freedom and confidence in this area.

It is made more noticeable by the exceptions, two of which are Ann Montgomery's scrawly thin colors scratched with black on a big white canvas box, and Donna Sharee's "Sketchbook," a group of imaginative polished drawings which span pastoral and city scenes, designs and the portrait of a wrecked truck.

Both girls are Terra Linda students. And in a way, this is Terra Linda's show. The school's entries are consistently excellent in every category, especially in the show's strongest area, crafts. In a handsome macrame group there are Heidi Thalman's natural hemp with turquoise beads, and Deborah Franziblau's complex green, gold length with wood, shell and ceramic beads.

In weaving, Nancy Aurely's rough bands of tweedy dark browns, purples, orange and yellow, and Maggie Whisenhunt's cloud brushed sun bleaching out the sky and burning the landscape, are both impressively mature.

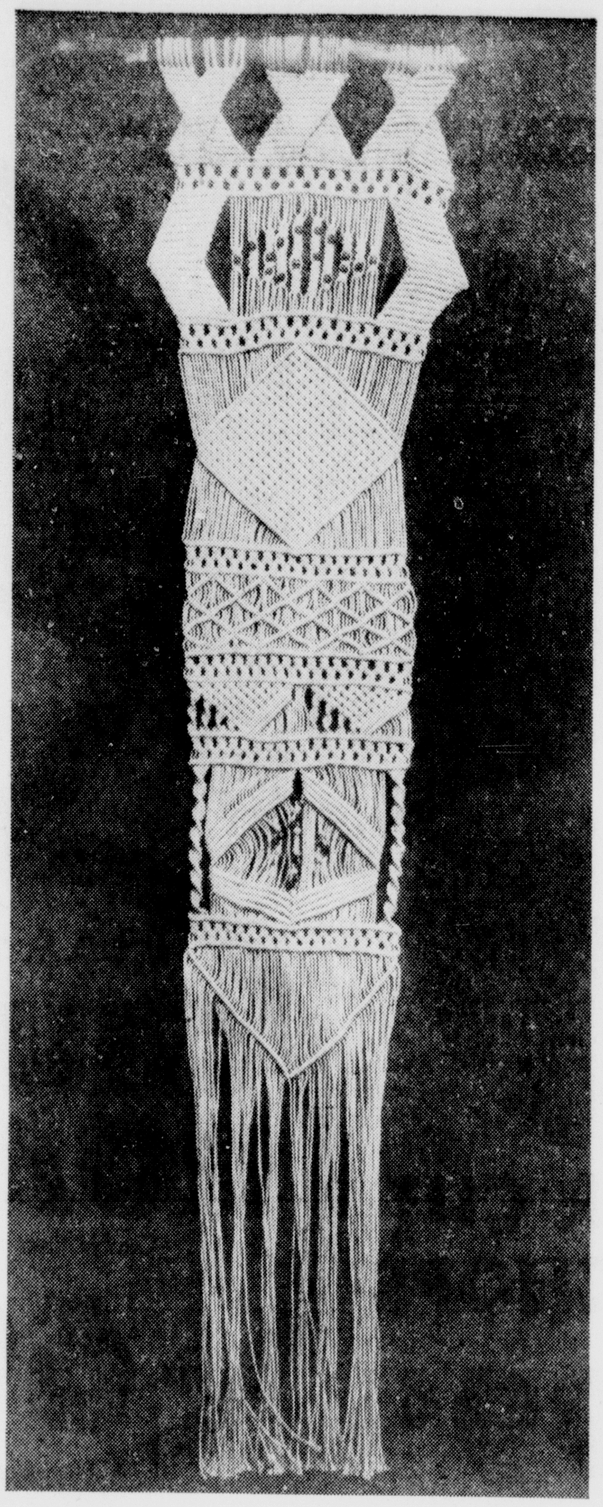
The jewelry in this show is outstanding and rather distinctive from school to school. Redwood High's, for example, has a refined restraint in its frequent crowns and vines of polished metal. While Terra Linda's is a free, confident assortment of metallic twists and flattened planes clutching shells, rocks and semi-precious stones.

There is much to admire among the ceramics such as Tam High student Mark Brumbaugh's serene open bowl, the dot-topped bottles by Mary Liebig of San Marin, and the pressed cylinder glazed in speckled gray and erupting in a crest of rough, dark clay which is the work of John Kwock of Terra Linda.

There is also work in stained glass such as the window by Susanne Dennis of San Andreas. There are several batiks such as one interestingly restitched by Drake student Patricia Graves. And there are photographs.

A generally conservative show it goes only as far out as Max Agajan from Redwood takes it with an etched, deteriorating window hung over a seedy sink.

His is immediately balanced by a San Rafael entry, Brook Merrill's classically calm, carved wood plaque whose levels allude to landscape. It is a thoughtful piece, reflective of the show as a whole, a show which is a credit to the art departments which produced it and to the Marin Society for affording the opportunity to see just how much creative thinking Marin students can really do.



HIGH SCHOOL ART — The spidery refinements of this beaded macrame by Laureen Urbais of Novato High School, is only one of many handsome aspects of the High School Invitational at the Marin Society of Artists Gallery in Ross.

Music Of Far East To Be Heard

The music of China, Thailand, Bali and West Java will be heard in Angelico Hall at Dominican College in a free public program Sunday at 8 p.m. It will be presented by students from the University of California, Los Angeles, Institute of Ethnomusicology under the direction of David Morton, acting director.

About a dozen students will fly to the Bay Area for the performance, but their unique instruments will be carefully transported by station wagon. The collection includes zithers, xylophones, gong kettles, metallophones, two-stringed bowed "fiddles," cymbals and drums.

Dr. Morton will provide a background commentary for the program, which will include a Mahori ensemble from Thailand, a Katjapi ensemble of floor zithers from Sudanese West Java, Balinese dances accompanied by a quartet of metallophones played with mallets and solos on the cheng, one of the oldest Chinese instruments.

In 1954 the University of California, Los Angeles, became the first United States institution to formulate a doctoral program in ethnomusicology to provide training in the basic musicianship of non-Western musical cultures.

The program provides a foundation for developing performance skills in specific African, Oriental and other types of music to which research methods of western historical musicology do not apply.

Student Art Works Displayed

The Exhibit includes oils and pastels. The class, taught by Jack Hoyt, includes students ranging in age from 18 to 80. Some of the paintings are offered for sale.

Increased Ferry Fare Due Study

A 50 per cent boost in one-way fare aboard the Sausalito ferry will be considered by the Golden Gate Bridge District's finance-auditing committee at 9 a.m. tomorrow in toll plaza offices.

The current 50-cent fare would become 75 cents on May 1 under the staff proposal. Commuter fares would not be changed.

Selection of a team of designers for the planned ferry terminals at Larkspur and Sausalito will be considered by the building and operating committee at 11 a.m.

The full board will meet at 10 a.m. on Friday.

Marin Symphony Ends Season With A Sterling 'Joan Of Arc'

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Maestro Sandor Salgo and Vera Zorina in the title role were the birghtest stars in a firmament of lesser lights last night in the Marin Symphony Orchestra production of Honegger's "Joan of Arc at the Stake."

The dramatic oratorio, presented in English instead of the original French, closed brilliantly the 20th season of the Marin Symphony with one of its most ambitious undertakings, and the audience that nearly filled the Marin Veterans Building auditorium gave it tumultuous acclaim.

Never have Salgo's great gifts been more severely tested than in this feat of drawing many disparate elements into an integrated whole with tremendous dramatic impact — and that after only two rehearsals.

These various elements were, in addition to the orchestra, an adult chorus of about 100 voices composed of singers from Contra Costa Community College directed by Phillip Eton, the Bach Festival Chorus directed by Kenneth Ahrens and an approximately 60-voice children's chorus from Marin Country Day School and St. Luke's Episcopal Church, San Francisco, directed by Barry Mineah — plus a singing cast of six and speaking cast of five.

Heading the speaking cast, the renowed former ballerina Broadway and film star of the 1940s Vera Zorina was sensational. No longer young, but with a slim figure, flowing dark hair and dressed in simple long white robe, she easily created the illusion of a youthful Maid of Orleans, not only in appearance but in the timbre of her voice. She was an imposing vision standing in the only spotlight, the only one of the cast to declaim her lines entirely from memory.

The grace, poise and telling economy of her few gestures were a tribute to her ballerina training and her diction was flawless.

Clarity of diction, including that of the children, was, thanks to good training and excellent acoustics, one of the outstandlingly successful elements of the production.

Next to order of importance in the speaking roles was a bearded Scot Beach as Father Dominic, an extraordinary departure for the whitty San Francisco sophisticate. His stentorian voice made every word of Joan's only advocate ring clear and true.

Al Newman and especially Terry McGovern as narrators were very good. Only Glenna DeWeese in the very brief role of Mother Wine was not easily understood.

In the singing roles Marie Gibson was most impressive as the Virgin Mary with a clear, resonant soprano that soared at the end over the orchestra and choruses at full volume. Also outstanding in several singing roles was tenor Dau Parkerson.

Heard as from a distance on high, the voices of mezzo soprano Margery Tede and Soprano Margot Power as, respectively, St. Catherine and St. Marguerite (Joan's guiding voices) were not prominent but an effective counterpoint to Joan's declamation.

Other singing minor roles well were baritone Marc Clemens and Sarah Blair, a member of the children's chorus. John Brebner was the staging consultant and Thomas N. Foris was in charge of staging and concert facilities.

In this music with striking instrumental effects that varies from soft and lyrical melody. and jazzy variety to clangorous cacaphony the choruses and orchestra achieved an electrifying sonority in the stunning climax.

Bridge Plans To Try Toll Free Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Commuters who form car pools can travel across the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge for only $1 per month beginning May 1.

An experimental toll-free lane for car pools began several months ago. That system will be continued to the end of this year with the $1 token fee. Normal fee is 50 cents per round trip.

About 4,000 motorists have participated in the threa persons or more pool special that has been in effect during the morning commute hours.

Music Scholarship Deadline Saturday

Applications for Sonoma State College music scholarships must be submitted by Saturday, the college administration has announced.

Application forms and information are available at the music department. Four $150 scholarships will be awarded for the 1972-73 year, based on musical ability, academic record and financial need.

$2,000 For Dance Trip Is Raised

The fund drive to send the Sonoma State College Dance Workshop to Yugoslavia has received a boost of $2,000 from the college's Center for Performing Arts.

The funds were raised by performances from the music, drama and dance department. The money would normally have been spent on production costs and performance rights to productions.

The dancers so far have raised $5,000 toward the total trip cost of $18,000 to go to Ljubljana in July to perform at the internationally famous ballet biennial. The group is the first college or non-professional dance group to be invited.

Fund raising performances by the dancers and other college groups are being planned. Tax-deductible donations to the fund may be sent to Dr. William O. Cord, Division of Humanities, at the college.

Death Penalty Will Be Aired

The pros and cons of the California Supreme Court's ruling on the death penalty will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program.

Speaking in favor of the ruling will be former Marin Municipal Judge Hadden W. Roth and Marshall W. Krause, who for eight years was Northern California counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union. Opposing the ruling will be Marin Dist. Atty., Bruce B. Bales and George Nock, deputy state attorney general.

Questions may be phoned in during the live broadcast. The program will be repeated by tape-recording at 10:05 a.m., Sunday.

Open Panel Meetings By Marin Urged

Supervisorial candidate Gary T. Giacomini, calling for criminal charges to enforce the state's antisecret meeting law, yesterday proposed opening to the public meetings of subcommittees of the county board of supervisors.

"It is during these meetings that much of the vital information that goes into the formulation of policy decisions is provided," he said at a coffee at the San Rafael home of Jim Kean.

Giacomini, an attorney and resident of Woodacre, said the public "has a right to be a part of" such subcommittee meetings.

Giacomini said the Brown Act has been violated in Marin 59 times since 1966 by city councils, commissions, district boards and the board of supervisors. "Yet not a single criminal charge has been filed for the purpose of enforcing this law," he said.

Internal Revenue Service has announced its office in Marin County, in room 121, Third and D streets, San Rafael, will be open today, tomorrow, Friday and next Monday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., and on Saturday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. in order to provide service to taxpayers.

Petaluma School Squeeze

By BONNIE BARD

The Petaluma Board of Education last night agreed to close Grant School and put all other elementary schools on double sessions next fall if additional tax revenue isn't forthcoming.

With reserve funds depleted, the board said economies must be made if the budget is to be balanced in the 1972-73 school year. A tax rate increase was defeated by voters March 21.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said the board agreed that Grant School would be closed and students shifted to McNear School.

The board considered putting only some schools on double sessions, but decided all should be changed in the interest of economy and fairness. All elementary district busing also would be stopped to save money.

Four teaching positions already have been cut for next year and the board said last night another six teaching jobs may be transferred to the high school district. Principals would be required to spend at least 22 per cent of their time in the classroom as teachers.

Meyer said that if Grant School is indeed closed, the board will consider moving San Antonio Continuation High School from the Sonoma-Marin Fairgrounds to the building to save $6,000 rent per year and to bring better efficiency in operating the building.

Several residents around Grant School said they would object to the continuation high school students being housed there, saying they may be a menace to the neighborhood.

The board called a special meeting for April 24 at noon to decide on whether to try for another tax rate increase election. They asked that residents send letters or call the district office to indicate if they would support or reject another try at the polls.

Of the nearly 200 persons at last night's meeting, an informal show of hands indicated most felt another election also would fail.

The board said that if the proposed school closing and double-session plan is put into effect, other proposed cuts such as supplies and contracts with Sonoma County for library books and audio-visual equipment might be restored. Board member Sol Fishman said he would oppose requiring students to bring their own pencils, paper and other supplies since children from low-income families would be placed at a disadvantage.

Meyer said some citizens vigorously opposed double sessions as inferior education and indicated an interest in starting a non-profit foundation for supplemental financial support for the district. He said if that plan or a tax rate increase is approved, the school closing and double sessions may be avoided.

Muir Beach Group Backs Pair In Jobs 'Conflict'

Muir Beach Improvement Association directors last night voted to support a director of the Muir Beach Community Services district and her husband, the district's general manager, both held in conflict by the county counsel's office.

The association, according to member Janet Stump, will ask the county if there is not some way both can be retained in their jobs.

The county auditor-controller recently sent a letter to the community services district advising that either director Mary Mosteller resign her post or her husband, Gordon, quit his $500 per month job.

"We resent the manner in which the action was handled," Mrs. Stump said, "and we resent the slurs cast on the reputations of both the community and the Mostellers."

She said the improvement association believed the community services district board acted in good faith when hiring Mosteller last November, and pointed out that Mrs. Mosteller abstained from voting when he was hired.

(No report on the hiring was furnished the Independent-Journal.)

"They're both long-term residents who have given a great deal of service to the area," she said.

She said it was unfortunate that laws designed to control larger boards had to apply so strictly to smaller ones, since, in this case, nothing irregular had been done.

She said the board, also at last night's meeting, heard a report from the state Division of Beaches and Parks on possible long-range plans for the development of Big Beach.

State officials said the beach would be maintained as a wild beach, and that the state would soon begin to charge for parking and that a snack bar will be operated by concession.

The board also discussed but took no action on plas for a public meeting to present the Muir Beach master plan to area residents. The association has been working on the plan. Board members said one recommendation would be that the Muir Beach district be zoned residential-agricultural rather than residential.

Changes Taking Place Within Scouting; Innovations Hailed

By JAY GOODWIN

Lt. Gen. R.S.S. Baden-Powell — founder of the Boy Scouts in 1908 — would smile if he were alive to witness the changes taking place these days within the scouting movement.

In an effort to promote the original Baden-Powell ideals of self-reliance and personal growth, the national leadership of the scouts has moved to shift decision-making within the troops from the scoutmasters to the scouts.

It is hoped that such a shift in emphasis will provide individual scouts with a greater sense of participation and responsibility.

Changes are taking place throughout the country — including Marin County.

"We've been an autocratic, scoutmaster-dominated organization for years," said Mary Lou Jacobson, a member of the Women's Auxillary for Troop 36. "The personality of the scoutmaster determines the character of the troop. You can turn a kid off if he doesn't like his scoutmaster under our old set up. Now we're going to be more boy-centered."

Scoutmaster Donald L. Lessley, manager of Fidelity Savings and Loan Association in San Rafael, also sees great problems in today's scouting program.

"Scouting has been a put-on as far as youth is concerned," he said. "A great deal of inertia develops that keeps scouts doing juvenile activities that they have difficulty relating to.

"People join scouting at 11. By the time they reach puberty, it no longer relates to them and they drop out."

Dissatisfaction with current scouting practices led to a complete evaluation of the Boy Scout organization by a management-consultant firm from New York. The firm's report, "Is Scouting in Tune With the Times?" has provided the impetus for some drastic changes within the scouting movement.

This shift in emphasis is more than rhetoric. Beginning in September, several specific alterations in the scouting program will take place.

One of the most important innovations will be the "personal growth contract" that each scout will make with his scoutmaster. Rather than following a rigid pattern of advancement — that often cramps a scout's individuality — each scout will sit down with his scoutmaster and develop a personal program for progress within the troop.

The national leadership expects that such a contract will help focus a boy's interest and encourage him to work harder in his chosen areas.

A Boy Scout publication discussing the new personal growth contract said: "We must never forget that we are in the business of trying to cause each boy to reach his potential and especially his potential for creativity. The personal growth agreement may be the first time a boy ever really thinks about such a thing."

An attempt to involve each boy in the decision-making of the troop will be encouraged through the liberalization of advancement reviews. Older boys will be allowed to participate in the review process for younger scouts.

"After all our study," the scouting magazine continued "we don't think this is letting down the bars. We think the boys will be rougher on their peers than will adults."

In an effort to eliminate a built-in delay in the recognition of a scout's accomplishment, a "skill award" will also be created.

Unlike merit badges, which are presented only after a board review, the skill awards will be awarded immediately upon completion of the requirements. They will be symbolized by metal belt loops.

Another new concept in the modified scout program will be the introduction of a leadership corps. Designed for those boys 14 and 15 years old, who have not joined the Explorers (An offspring of the Boy Scouts for teen-agers), the leadership corps will provide older members of a troop with a mission of their own.

After taking special training, a member of the leadership corps will be expected to offer assistance and guidance to the younger members of his troop.

The Boy Scouts advancement program is also undergoing change. Rather than a fixed formula of merit badges required for each rank, the new program allows a wide choice of badges.

"These kids still want guidance," said William H. Sherwood, executive of the Marin County Boy Scout Council. "But, they don't want to be dictated to."

An outstanding example of scout participation in decision-making, said Sherwood, was demonstrated by the boys of Troop 39 in Santa Venetia.

After five months of fund-raising, the troop hopped a plane and jetted to Washington, D.C. for a week's vacation. They paid for their own air-fare by selling Christmas wreathes and organizing a successful dinner-dance.

"This is the type of initiative we like to see," said Sherwood. "Those plans emerged from within the group."

The troop is so eager, in fact, that Scoutmaster Charles Chiapellone is already thinking about a trip to Europe or Alaska in 1974 or 1975.

Sherwood doesn't expect much resistance to the liberalized ideas of the "new" Boy Scouts from present scoutmasters.

"Sure they are being asked to give up some of their power," he said. "But the average scoutmaster here has a college degree and is an executive in some corporation. He can accept change."

"The logger in Eureka who does the same thing all day long finds it harder to change his concepts than our scoutmaster in Marin."

There were 6,000 enrolled last year in Marin scouting, but the count has dropped to 9,800 this year.

Plan To Protest School Job Hour Cut Dropped

The Cotati School District board last night heard that plans to protest reduction in time for the district psychologist have been dropped.

Psychologist Adam Wolf in a letter to the board said he still did not agree with plans to reduce his service from five days to three days per week next year, but would accept it. A request for a hearing before a state hearing officer has been withdrawn.

The board last month said it was pleased with Wolf's job performance, but could not afford to keep him on full-time next fall. Wolf and several parent groups opposed the board's decision, saying psychological services are important to elementary students.

The board accepted the resignation of Dorothy Peter, who will retire in June after 14 years as a teacher in the distict.

Sentencing Set In Shoplift Case

Mary Frances Stewart, 38, of Terra Linda, pleaded guilty yesterday to a reduced misdemeanor charge of grand theft and sentencing was set for May 19 in Marin Municipal Court.

Mrs. Stewart was arrested Jan. 24 after she allegedly shoplifted $98 worth of goods from the Emporium in San Rafael. Another $119 worth of articles said to have been taken from the store was found in her car, police said.

She earlier pleaded innocent to a felony charge of grand theft, but that was reduced when she agreed to plead guilty to the less serious charge.

NOT CARELESS

A careless player might fail to make this slam, losing one spade and one diamond. As it happened, however, the late Albert H. Morehead was the declarer, and careless play wasn't in his dictionary.

West picked a horrible opening lead, the eight of spades, which succeeded only in giving declarer a very elegant line of play.

Morehead covered the opening lead with dummy's nine, and East had to play the jack. Declarer won with the king of spades and drew three rounds of trumps, ending in the dummy.

NEXT STEP

The next step was to lead the ten of spades from the dummy. Morehead felt pretty sure that West had led "the top of nothing," in which case East surely held the queen of spades.

East played his queen on dummy's ten of spades. South won with the ace of spades, and West dropped the seven.

SIX IS HIGH

At this stage, after only two rounds of spades, Morehead's six of spades was high. The slam contract was now assured, but declarer could not resist the temptation to take a safe but spectacular finesse. He led a club to dummy's ace and returned the deuce of spades from dummy. East followed with the three of spades, and Morehead finessed with the four of spades.

SURE WINNER

It was a sure winner, since West wouldn't have dropped the seven if he had held any other spades. Now declarer could lead the six of spades to discard the queen of diamonds from dummy, and all 13 tricks were assured.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 10 9 2
♥ - K 10 7 5
♦ - A Q
♣ - A 10 5 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two no-trump. This shows 13 to 15 points, with balanced distribution and all unbid suits stopped. You cannot jump to three spades because your spade support is too weak.

If You See Fire Use The Phone

HOLLAND, Mich. (UPI) — If you see a fire breaking out in this West Michigan community, use the phone because the 56 fire alarm boxes have been sold at $25 each — 20 of them to fire departments in other cities.

The City Council agreed to get rid of the boxes because of the growing number of phones in private homes.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

T F 1. Born in New York 22 years ago, young David was raised by his mother, Shirley Jones, in the corn country of River City, Iowa.

T F 2. Offered a role in "The Partridge Family," David was signed up as an actor by TV executives who did not know he could sing.

T F 3. His good looks and small size (5'8" and 130 pounds) were immediately discovered by little girls, who insisted that parents spend $1 to buy "I LOVE DAVID" posters for them.

BELVEDERE

Two incumbents and a newcomer, who credited his success to a vigorous campaign, were elected yesterday to the Belvedere City Council in a race which all candidates agreed had no major issues.

Elected were incumbents Thomas S. Price and Merritt K. Ruddock along with David E. Bordon, a 28-year-old lawyer.

Sixty-seven per cent of Belvedere's 1,543 voters turned out for a total of 1,032 ballots cast.

Although Bordon agreed with the others that the Island city had no burning issue in the election, "there are quite a lot of minor issues," he said last night.

During the weeks he said he spent getting out and meeting people, he learned of concerns over the possible closing of Belvedere School, increasing traffic and a need for greater communication between the city council and the residents.

Price, 45-year-old businessman, is an eight-year veteran of the council and spent three of those years as mayor. He said during the campaign that he was pledged to keeping growth from ruining Belvedere.

Ruddock, 58, also has served on the city council for eight years and spent two years as mayor. He is a general partner in the San Francisco firm of Almar Exploration Ltd.

Ruddock said he sought reelection to continue to work the council has been doing and cited development of the city's master plan, improvement of relations with Tiburon and drainage and waste disposal projects as priority items for the council.

CORTE MADERA

One incumbent kept his seat on the Corte Madera Town Council but a second one lost out yesterday to a young resident who waged a vigorous coampaign to take top place in a close five-man contest.

Elected to the town council were Robert J. Flahive, 32-year-old publisher's representative, and Robert P. Simmons, 37, an incumbent councilman.

Losing his seat was incumbent Byron D. White, 68, who had campaigned as the taxpayer's friend, and who ran fourth. Narrowly missing being elected to the council was Herber C. Leney, 64, who ran four votes behind Simmons. His supporters last night indicated they will ask for a recount.

Vote totals were Flahive, 923; Simmons, 833; Leney, 829; White, 733; and I. Thomas Zaragoza, 692.

Forty-eight per cent of Corte Madera's 4,417 voters, or a total of 2,154, turned out for the election.

Town Clerk Betty S. Behel and Town Treasurer Frank L. Bigley, who ran unopposed, collected 1,696 votes and 1,656 votes respectively.

Although fire protection had started out to be the major issue in the election, the city council recently took the steam out of that issue by voting to hire six new firemen.

Housing and planning were the most discussed matters, and both Flahive and Simmons made upgrading of the town's six-year-old general plan a major plank, in the their campaign. Leney, who also favored updating the master plan, said he favored holding the line on taxes, as did White.

STEPHEN LAUGHLIN
Cotati winner

COTATI

Cotati voters yesterday ousted all three incumbent councilmen in favor of a slate of young people.

Elected were Annette Lombardi, 24, with 367 votes; Stephen Laughlin, 25, with 335 votes, and Geoffrey Dunham, 29, with 311 votes.

Incumbents defeated and their votes were Lester H. Petersen, 248; Alfred Falletti, 242, and Ben Oretsky, 234.

Unofficial but complete returns showed 587 votes cast of a possible 1,027 for a 52 per cent turnout.

Losers Petersen and Oretsky gathered at Falletti's home where a victory celebration turned into a somber session to analyze their defeat. All agreed that the young people of Cotati had worked hard and successfully to get support for the three Sonoma State College graduates.

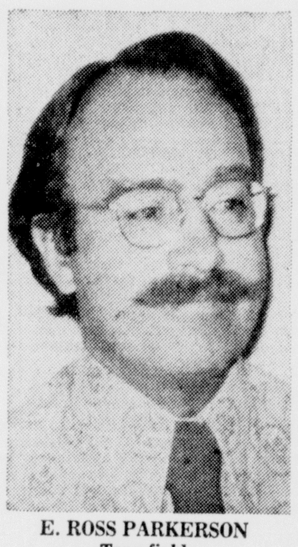
"I think people were voting more for a cause than individuals," Petersen said. "The young people voted in a solid block and the old voters were more apathetic."

With the vote, the three young people will be the controlling force on the five-man city council. Miss Lombardi, who is vacationing in Europe, is the first woman to be elected to the Cotati council.

Dunham said he believed that a coalition of young and old people brought about the election of the young team. "People just thought it was time for a change in the council and the direction of the city," Dunham said.

In the campaign, the winners had urged careful planning of Cotati's growth and said its rural character should be retained.

Miss Lombardi is co-owner of the Eeyore Book Store, Dunham operates the Portabello West antique shop, and Laughlin works as an English tutor at Santa Rosa Junior College. All are single.



E. ROSS PARKERSON
Tops field

FAIRFAX

A major shift in Fairfax city government was virtually assured yesterday when voters easily elected one present planning commissioner and a former commission member to the city council.

E. Ross Parkerson, currently chairman of the planning commission, and Albert E. Gately, a former member who lost a council seat by seven votes in a 1970 election recount, led a field of eight candidates.

Voters also clearly endorsed a measure rezoning the Town and Country Club property to a commercial-recreation designation design to thwart residential development.

And in a allied move, they ousted the city's 71-year-old treasurer, Harold H. Taft, in favor of housewife Priscilla C. Gray, chairman of a committee which forced the Town and Country question onto the ballot.

Parkerson, a 40-year-old planner with the County of Marin, led the balloting with 858 votes, while Gately, 51, a workmen's compensation referee, got 629. They replace Mayor Cornelis van Vliet and Francis J. O'Connell, neither of whom sought reelection.

Others receiving votes were Adelaide P. Wilson, a former councilman, 528 votes; Joseph E. Martinez, 505; Harold S. Lezzeni, 392; Randall L. Garrison, 306; Glenn B. Meagher, 280; Urban M. Nielsen, 162, and Edward T. Duncan, who had withdrawn from the race, 38 votes.

The Town and Country Club rezoning, placed on the ballot by a petition circulated by a group called Preserve Land and Nature, was approved, 1,415 to 625, despite a warning by City Atty. Wallace S. Myers that a court might overturn it.

Mrs. Gray, PLAN chairman, beat out another challenger for the treasurer's post, Benjamin F. Courtz, as Taft ran third. The vote was: Mrs. Gray, 732; Courtz, 631, and Taft, 549.

The city council outcome is certain to tip the balance of power away from Councilmen Robert R. Souza and Lee Nelder, who often were in the majority on major issues with van Vliet. O'Connell and Councilman Frank J. Egger, with whom the newcomers are expecited to side, formed the minority bloc.

It was the Souza, Nelder, van Vliet majority year that voted to uphold the firing of Police Chief James R. Orr by City Administrator Robert E. Crowe.

During the campaign, Gately termed the handling of the firing as "barbaric" and added that the city had become the "laughing stock of Marin." Parkerson, too, criticized current city board of review hearings ino the chief's ouster as damaging to civic pride.

Parkerson and Gately supported the PLAN initiative, designed to prevent property owner Max Friedman from offering the 23.5-acre Town and Country Club land for apartment development, and came out strongly in favor of low-density development throughout town.

In her campaign, Mrs. Gray said she would refuse the $65-a-month salary that goes with the treasurer's job.

EARL J. O'GRADY
Mayor ousted

LARKSPUR

Erstwhile Planning Commission Chairman Robert H. Lee piled up the largest vote yesterday. He was followed closely by environmentalist Joah Sestak to defeat Mayor Earl J. O'Grady and Councilman Benton A. Sifford Jr.

Only incumbent William G. Fleckles won reelection.

The other two women on Larkspur's seven-candidate ballot, Elizabeth Johnson and Jane Epidendio, trailed the field.

Lee, following what has become almost a traditional route from commission to council, amassed 1,509 votes, running strongly in all but the Greenbrae precinct. Fleckles, who topped the vote four years ago, received 979, dominating the Greenbrae precinct.

Lee, if he celebrated his victory, did so late. He presided over a lengthy planning commission meeting while the votes were being counted, and was not available for comment on the results.

Mrs. Sestak took time from a celebration with campaigners at her Madrone Woodlands home to say "I'm very enthusiastic" about the vote. "I really think it'll mean a lot for Larkspur. . . we've got a new council to work with. I'm sure the turnout was the liveliest in a long time."

Of the city's 5,182 registered voters, 3,368 cast ballots, for a turnout of45.7 per cent, according to Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer.

Fleckles expressed amazement at the turnout, and called it "a sign of how healthy the city is." He added that, "Bob (Lee) deserved election, and Joan (Sestak) probably did more than anyone else for the turnout. The Town Meeting group (which Mrs. Sestak helped found) has been strongly felt as the conscience of the council.

"I can't say I'm ecstatic over the election," Fleckles said, "because I regret the loss of Ben (Sifford) and Earl (O'Grady). But I can work with the new council."

Mayor O'Grady blamed the results on "probably the green area (open space proposals by the winners) and a lot of teamwork. But I still worry about taxes and how we're going to afford the open spaces. I don't know what's going to happen. . ."

Sifford said, "I have no regrets at all. I didn't have a real organization. For $125 to $135 how much of a campaign can you run?

"I'll just drop in on the council now and then to see if the candidates keep their promises and keep my tax rate down. . ."

Environment was almost the only issue in the campaign. Nearly all candidates endorsed keeping the North Ridge as an open area. Preservation of Corte Madera Creek, restriction of residential density and other planning programs won varying degrees of support from the candidates. The two losing incumbents voiced concerns about taxes that the voters seemingly chose to ignore.

Fleckles last night indicated he would speak up at the next council meeting to support Lee's call for expanded planning facilities. "We're behind Corte Madera in 'bread and butter' planning. . . we probably should have some kind of a board of zoning adjustments" to free the planning commission for more long range planning, Fleckles said.

MILL VALLEY

Incumbent Jerome C. Hauke failed to win reelection to the Mill Valley City Council yesterday. Newcomers Robert E. Capron, Robert E. Burton and Gerald J. Hood were voted in.

Voters also approved bonds for a new fire station in East Mill Valley.

Capron led the field of six council candidates with 2,316 votes, while the other newcomer, Burton, had run unsuccessfully for the council in 1970.

Burton ran second this time with 2,000 votes. Hood, executive director of the Marin County Human Rights Department won 1,840 votes, just six more than incumbent Hauke. Others receiving votes were Dolph F. Jaeger, 1,200, and Thomas N. Belsky, 341.

The fire station bonds, totaling $275,000, failed to win the necessary two-thirds majority on last June's ballot, but were easily endorsed this time. The vote was 2,472 yes, 951 no. The measure, although not a dominant campaign issue, had wide support.

About 50 per cent of the community's voters turned out to cast ballots — 3,500 out of 7,071.

The 33-year-old attorney told the Independent-Journal today, "No one used any pressure in any campaign." The town, he said, is more in agreement on issues than at odds.

The candidates were unified in the theme to keep the community rural through acquisition of open space and in holding down taxes, although there were differences on the issue of paying the council a salary.

Capron, Burton and Hauke all favored the pay, but with conditions and for varying reasons.

Capron and Burton, a 41-year-old insurance company executive, replaces Mayor George E. Wickham and Robert H. Andresen, who did not run. The returning Hauke is a 36-year-old engineer with the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

Under the approved bond proposal, the fire station will be built east of Camino Alto near Enchanted Knolls on land already owned by the city. The issue was defeated last year when it was part of a larger city bond package.

NOVATO

Two newcomers, considered business-oriented, and an incumbent known as a middle-of-the-roader in the tug-of-war over Novato's future won out last night in a race in which 11 candidates vied for three city council seats.

Coming in first was Fred F. Ruegg, 60-year-old retired Columbia Broadcasting System executive. Second place went to incumbent David Price Jones, 37-year-old attorney, and another attorney, Dorothy P. Young, 46, was third.

The election results appeared to be almost a complete turnabout from those of two years ago, when two planning commissioners, F. Wayne Sartain and George C. Quesada, dumped businessmen Babe Silva and Harley A. McAskill.

Vote totals were Ruegg, 2,349; Jones, 2,340; Mrs. Young, 2,100; Daniel P. Donovan, 2,062; Edward T. Ryken, 1,679; Bywater, 1,422; John C. Schoonover, 1,383; John H. Morrison, 707; Anthony M. Gullotta, 563; Carlos M. Newton, 338, and Donald Richards, 182.

A total of 5,279 or 49.8 per cent of Novato's 10,619 voters turned out for the election.

It was at least a partial victory for Novato's business community, which mainly had endorsed Ruegg and Mrs. Young along with Donovan.

On the other hand, the election results were seen as something of a slap at Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste and Councilman Wayne Sartain, who had backed Ryken, Schoonover and Jones.

Ryken and Schoonover both emphasized planning for Novato which would preserve open space along with allowing for reasonable growth.

On the other hand, Ruegg and Mrs. Young had campaigned on a platform of encouraging light and clean industry, rather than only residential, in an effort to halt rising taxes and pay for needed improvements.

After election results were in, Mrs. Young said that while planning and growth are important issues for the council to tackle, she also believed that taxes must be stabilized.

ROHNERT PARK

Incumbents Warren K. Hopkins and Vernon P. Smith were reelected to the Rohnert Park City Council yesterday along with newcomer Louis G. Beary.

Rohnert Park voters also soundly defeated a $195,000 park bond issue. Returns showed 635 yes votes for 42 per cent and 873 no votes for 58 per cent. A two-thirds majority was required for the passage of the funds to improve Alicia and Benecia parks.

With unofficial but complete results, Beary was the top vote getter with 800 votes and was followed by Smith with 590 and Hopkins with 559.

Other candidates and their votes were Paul Golis, 496; Margaret Sheehan, 487; Bart C. Mitchell, 409; Arthur F. Hollingsworth Jr., 324; William D. Russell, 285; Rose M. Willingham, 237, and John T. Giertz, 185.

A total of 1,572 ballots was cast out of the 2,631 registered to vote, for a 59.7 per cent turnout.

Beary, 31, is a self-employed plastering contractor. He is a graduate of Sonoma State College and made an unsuccessful bid for the council in 1970.

Smith, 39, is product manager for Del Monte Corp. and has been on the council for 10 years. Hopkins, 34, is a mathematics teacher at Rohnert Park Junior High School and was elected to a second term.

Mayor Warren K. Hopkins and recreation director James Pekkain said they were surprised the bonds did not win approval from even 50 per cent of the voters. "We thought we might lose, but I'm real surprised we didn't get at least 50 per cent of the vote," Pekkain said.

The men agreed that voters are reluctant to approve anything that will result in a property tax rate increase. Pekkain said he believed some voters felt that the improvements should have been donated as they have been at other city parks.

Pekkain said the recreation commission will review the vote figures at its April 24 meeting before giving thought to any future tries at the polls.

ROSS

Three incumbents on the Ross Town Council were returned easily to office yesterday in only the second contested election in the community in 14 years.

Capping a campaign in which completion of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project was the overriding issue, Councilmen John H. Chase, Alan P. Maginis and Jewell Osterloh defeated the challenges of Peter B. Valentine and Tracy Van Voorhees.

The vote, in which 45.7 per cent of the community's voters went to the polls, was: Chase, 467; Osterloh, 460; Maginis, 446; Valentine, 302, and Van Voorhees, 282. Virginia Stott, with 594 votes, ran unopposed for town clerk, as did Town Treasurer Elsa M. Innes, who got 592 votes. A total of 696 of the town's 1,512 voters cast ballots.

Valentine, a 32-year-old investor, and Van Voorhees, 48, a manufacturer's representative, had run as cochairmen of the Save Our Creek Committee, a group opposed to extension of the concrete flood control channel farther into the community. Valentine, in fact, won a Marin Superior Court ruling against the town on the issue.

But Chase, a 37-year-old Transamerica Corp. executive; Mrs. Osterloh, a 53-year-old housewife, and Maginis, 48, a real estate executive, said they also were against resumption of the project so long as county officials declined to finance ancillary flooding woes in town.

They said also that an alternative to the concrete channel could prove more damaging and more expensive.

Despite defeat, Valentine believed he and Van Voorhees had proved a point. "We didn't lose," he said. "We opened up this town for the first time in 50 years. They (the incumbents) have found that they have issues to face. . .and we've made the public aware of what's going on."

Other issues in the race were recreation and the practice of the council to pick successors to departing colleagues behind closed doors, without chance for public questioning.

Both Chase and Mrs. Osterloh said this was done at the wishes of the candidates, many of whom didn't wish to be "put through the public wringer," in Mrs. Osterloh's words.

The three incumbents now begin their first full four-year terms. All were appointees.

SAN ANSELMO

The two incumbents were returned to office in yesterday's San Anselmo City Council election, but the challenger who ran third said he would ask for a recount.

Mayor Kenneth L. Anderson, who topped an eight-way race with 1,090 votes, and James F. Reed, with 1,084 votes, were returned to the council for second four-year terms, according to unofficial results.

However, Dr. Martin G. Blinder, making his second bid for a council seat, finished only six votes behind Reed with 1,078 and told the Independent-Journal early today he would seek a recount.

Other finishers were Pieter Toal, 837 votes; Judy Emis, 775; Sarah Nome, 595; Richard A. Raznikov, 418, and Jack Burr II, 313. Incumbent William P. Franchini won election over Patrick E. McHatton, 1,614 to 1,334, for city treasurer, and Helen J. Ragan compiled 2,519 votes in an uncontested bid for city clerk.

Of the city's 7,004 voters, a total of 3,162, or 45.2 per cent, turned out to cast ballots.

Reed, a 36-year-old investment executive who is a former mayor, and Anderson, a 48-year-old insurance broker, campaigned on the achievements of the past four years, while the challengers hit hard on such issues as traffic, the propriety of second-home dwellings on single-family lots and council responsiveness to public wishes.

Reed, referring to the council's failure to act on a citizen committee report which endorsed the second-dwelling concept, said he believed the outcome reflected residents' wishes to protect single-family zoning. The council had referred the committee report back to the planning commission for more study.

Anderson speculated the outcome was due to his and Reed's "rational approach to problems." He belieed voters rejected what he called "extremist" proposals by other candidates.

"The closeness of the vote should serve notice on the incumbents that a substantial number of residents reject the council's humorous preoccupation with legalisms," said Blinder. "Sometimes when you go down there (to a council meeting) you think you're at a federal agency. We're just a little town."

Toal, a 50-year-old consulting engineer, based his campaign almost solely on the second-dwelling issue. He said he believed most residents supported the committee report, but owed his defeat to the fact that he started campaigning too late.

The defeated challenger announced he would support Judy Ainsworth, one of his supporters and a publicity worker for Marin Transit Systems, for a council seat at the next council election in two years.

SAUSALITO

"Lincoln had eight failures before becoming president of the United States," Sally Stanford gloated last night. She had just been elected to the Sausalito City Council on her sixth try.

Her election coupled with the reelection of incumbent Robin Sweeny, gave Sausalito two women members. The other seat up for election went to Evert H. Heynneman, a city planning commissioner who outpolled all candidates in this. his first bid for election.

Sausalito's citizens also forcefully declared they want an election before putting into effect any of the Spangle plan for the downtown park-plaza area, and agreed to abolish elections for city treasurer. Edwin S. Long, who ran unopposed, will be the last elective treasurer to serve in the post, which will become appointive four years hence.

Probably spurred both by the park-plaza issue and the large field of 11 city council candidates, 1,972 of the city's 3,960 registered voters cast ballots. The 49.8 per cent turnout was considered unusually large for a city election in the county elections office.

Largest council votegetter was Heynneman, with 913. Miss Stanford —who had traditionally missed election by only a few votes in her previous campaigns —was a strong second with 801 votes. Mrs. Sweeny received 759 votes as the only incumbent on the ballot.

The alsorans were Leonard F. Rappa, 689 votes; W. Daniel O'Connor, 670; Richard D. Bauerle, 650; Howard Chadd, 508; Robert C. Martin, 134; Serge Trubach, 124; Peter D. Bowen, 55, and the ballot's third woman candidate, Helen K. Armstrong, 24.

Heynneman, pleading his duties as host to a victory celebration at his home, would say only that, "I am very pleased" with the election and that he would make a formal statement later.

ANNE L. ELLINWOOD
Two votes off

ALBERT ARAMBURU
Tiburon choice

"Sinners never give up," she declared in reviewing her many campaigns. "I just told the truth and I think the truth prevailed. I'll be one of the people's people, darling."

She said, "I'll do a job, I'll be for you. We should have zoning laws for everybody, so before you put your dollars into property you know just exactly what you can do with the property."

Mrs. Sweeny could not be reached for comment.

Miss Stanford, 68, asked how she thought it would be to work with another woman on the council, laughed, and declared, "Mrs. Sweeny — she's a nice gal. She hasn't been exposed to some of the things I have. Maybe I'll expose her to some. . ."

The voters yesterday agreed with Miss Stanford's fears that turning waterfront parking lots into parks might be a drain on city finances. They voted 1,045 to 722 for Measure A, that the council must submit any action on the plans prepared by consultant William E. Spangle to a future election. Measure B, abolishing treasurer elections, won 1,359 to 469.

Long, who resigned the city treasurer's post after holding it from 1952 to 1969, was reelected by a complimentary 1,089 votes.

TIBURON

Veteran Tiburon Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood, yesterday lost her bid for a third term on the city council in a close race in which two men of differing viewpoints were elected.

Miss Ellinwood missed reelection by only two votes.

Top votegetter was Albert Aramburu, 38, a Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. supervisor who based his campaign on environmental issues.

Coming in second was Allan N. Littman, 43-year-old lawyer who had fought the proposed Hilarita moderate-income project, which has been approved by the city council and the court.

Miss Ellinwood had long favored the project.

She credited her defeat, however, not to her stand on the housing proposal but to more vigorous campaigns by her opponents. "I didn't ring one door bell," she said, because she said she was too busy with her council duties.

The vote totals were Aramburu, 955; Littman, 900, and Miss Ellinwood, 898. Of Tiburon's 3,151 voters, 1,530 turned out yesterday for a 48.6 per cent total vote.

Both the winners, Aramburu and Littman, agreed that the Hilarita project is now a "closed issue." Littman said last night that "the only thing now is to make it work."

Aramburu, called by Miss Ellinwood a "young man who rang doorbells," said environmental issues constitute 90 per cent of the matters of concern to Tiburon residents.

Littman, a former planning commissioner, who said during his campaign that he was opposed to any attempt to increase the city's property tax rate, also said last night that he "did a little walking" during the campaign.

Miss Ellinwood said after the election results were in that she and her supporters had not decided yet whether they would ask for a recount of the votes.

"SECONDHAND ROSE"

That's right - this 3 bedroom, 1½ bath home is on its 2nd time around. The proud owners have completely remodeled it from the floor to the ceiling. It's 2 story with lovely and modern knotty pine kitchen, carpeted family room large enough for a pool table, a wet bar and raised hearth fireplace. Large completely fenced both front and rear yard. Daddy can't buy it for 10c on the $ but it's well worth $35,550. (Even Jake the Plumber could relax here.)

SPECIAL
$495
Here's a really unbelievably well-taken-care-of little Buick Special 2-dr. sport coupe that we sold new to local couple in '64 and have just taken back in trade on another new Buick.
This little green Special has the gas-saving little V6 engine with power steering, automatic, radio, heater and even air conditioning.
Lots of miles left in the clean-as-a-pin little Special that's a real buy at only $495. BEJ 588

SUMMONS (MARRIAGE)
Case Number 63033

Superior Court of California, County of Marin, Civic Center, San Rafael, California
In re the marriage of
and
Respondent: SYLVIA JEAN SUTTON
To the Respondent:

The petitioner has filed a petition concerning your marriage. You may file a written response within thirty days of the date that this summons is served on you. If you fail to file a written response within such time, your default may be entered and the court may enter a judgment containing injunctive or other orders concerning division of property, spousal support, child custody, child support, attorney's fees, costs, and such other relief as may be granted by the court.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your written response, if any, may be filed on time.

PURCHASE OF UP TO 34 BUSES AND PURCHASE OF THREE FERRYBOATS AND CONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT OF SUPPORT AND SHORESIDE FACILITIES FOR TRANSIT OPERATION GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE, HIGHWAY AND TRANSPORTATION DISTRICT BOX 900, PRESIDIO STATION SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA 94129

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a public hearing will be held by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District, in the District Offices, Golden Gate Bridge Toll Plaza, San Francisco, California, at 8:00 p.m., Wednesday, April 19, 1972, for the purpose of considering an application by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District to the U.S. Department of Transportation for a Federal Urban Mass Transportation Capital Grant. Additional buses and a modified ferry system are, in the view of the Board of Directors of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District, urgently needed to alleviate the continually growing traffic congestion in the Golden Gate Corridor. Hearing was held on District's original application for ferry capital grant on May 21, 1971. Modifications to the application have been made, in which detail but not the concept, is changed. The modified grant requested is generally described as follows:

1. Purchase of Up to 34 Buses and 3 Ferryboats:

(a) Purchase of Up to 34 Buses:

(1) The project is for use in that portion of the Golden Gate Corridor comprised of Sonoma, Marin and San Francisco Counties, California, service area, where these 34 buses will be used by the Golden Gate Bus Transit Division of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District.

(2) The project is estimated to cost $1,700,000.00. A Federal Grant of 2/3 of the project cost ($1,133,332.00) is being requested. The remaining 1/3, in the amount of $566,668.00, will be furnished by the District from monies reserved and received from bridge revenues, in accordance with the provisions of the California Bridge & Highway District Act and amendments thereto.

(3) The project will reinforce the existing 132 buses now being used to transport over 6,000 commuters per day, and the 20 additional buses to be purchased under option of the District's original contract with the General Motors Corporation and included in a previous grant application. Bus patronage in the Golden Gate Corridor is increasing at a much faster rate than anticipated; and additional buses are needed to provide necessary service to the public and to reduce congestion on the Golden Gate Bridge, its approach roads and the urban automobile traffic and air pollution resulting therefrom. These new buses will contribute to the reduction of air pollution by complying with the latest standards of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

(b) Purchase of 3 Ferryboats and ancillary facilities:

(1) The project is for use on San Francisco Bay for ferryboat service between San Francisco and Marin County for the purpose of transporting commuters by water routes, between these counties, thus further reducing automobile traffic congestion and air pollution resulting therefrom. All ferryboats will be used by the Ferry Transit Division of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District, which is already operating one ferryboat between Sausalito and San Francisco, California. The proposal is for the purchase of three new 165 foot, 25 knot, gas turbine-powered, aluminum hull ferryboats, and sufficient land, floats, piers, boarding floats and necessary dredging and breakwater to develop ferry terminals in the Larkspur, Sausalito and San Francisco, California, service areas; and also for service floats, warehouse and shops for vessel maintenance.

(2) The project is estimated to cost $18,902,000.00. A Federal Grant of 2/3 of the project cost ($12,601,334.00) is being requested. The remaining 1/3, in the amount of $6,300,667.00, the local share, will be furnished from monies reserved from bridge revenues in accordance with the provisions of the California Bridge and Highway District Act and amendments thereto.

(3) The project will reinforce the existing operational ferryboat, M. V. Golden Gate, which in 1½ years in operation has carried more than 1.5 million passengers between San Francisco and Sausalito, California. The newly designed ferryboats requested in this application will — like the present M. V. Golden Gate — carry no vehicles and will therefore contribute to the reduction of vehicular traffic congestion and air pollution in urban areas, especially the downtown San Francisco area. These new ferryboats are specifically designed to create an absolute minimum of air, land and water pollution; and will comply with the latest standards of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

2. No families or businesses will be displaced by these projects.

3. These projects are in conformance with comprehensive land use and transportation planning in this area. The projects are included as part of the Transportation Plan adopted by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District and have received favorable review and comments by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

At the hearing, which is being held in accordance with requirements of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District shall afford an opportunity for all persons or agencies interested to be heard with respect to the social, economic and environmental impact of the project and to submit evidence and recommendations orally or in writing with respect to the project.

The application for a Federal Grant for this project, including a draft environmental statement and the transit development program are available for inspection in the District's Office of the Secretary, Room 109, Administration Building, Golden Gate Bridge Toll Plaza, San Francisco, California.

PHONY PARKING CITATION CAPER

Someone with an itch to write parking tickets has been putting homemade versions on parked cars in San Anselmo. The citations by the "Marin County Road Patrol" are on yellow mimeographed paper, eight by four inches, complete with a fine schedule and vehicle code sections. Police have no idea of who is issuing the phony tickets. Some persons have actually tried to pay fines, police said.

169 Students Win Scholarships

A total of 169 Marin and Southern Sonoma county students have been selected as state scholars for 1972-73 by the California State Scholarship and Loan Commission.

The youths are among 9,526 students picked from 42,000 applicants. The scholarships are for a maximum of $1,850, but cannot exceed tuition and fees at the college selected by the winner.

The awards are made annually to capable students who are in need of financial help.

The local winners are:

Student-Backed Candidates Win In Davis Election

DAVIS (UPI) —Three candidates backed by a bloc of University of California students won election to the five-member City Council Tuesday.

Final unofficial returns showed Joan Poulos, a 35-year-old attorney, garnered the most votes with 8,113. The other winners were Richard Holdstock, 37, UC health and safety officer, with 7,488 votes and Bob Black, 25, a former UCD student body president and natural food store owner, with 6,863.

The election to fill three vacant seats on the council was looked upon as an early California test of the strength of the new youth vote.

About 7,000 UC students, many of them under 21, were signed up in a campus registration drive that began last fall. About 11,000 of the city's 16,000 registered voters cast ballots.

Historic Water System Found

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The 180-year-old "Zanja Madre" or "mother ditch" of the city's first water system —one of the first hydraulic projects in the West —has been unearthed beneath a downtown street.

The canal was uncovered in the backyard of the Avila adobe home, an historic exhibit on Olivera Street, heart of the city's old Spanish Colonial and Mexican district.

The Spaniards built the waterworks about 1790, constructing a series of open canals branching off the "mother ditch" to bring water from Chavez Ravine, where Dodger Stadium now stands.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Spouses And Their Ownings

Property that you own when you are single is still your own separate property when you marry. Property you get by gift or by will is also your own separate property. What about the rents or profits that come to a husband or wife from his or her property? That is separate, too.

This may be important if the marriage breaks up or if one spouse dies.

Community property is every other kind of income or property that may come to the couple after marriage. It is jointly owned by husband and wife.

What if some of the community property is mixed with some of the separate property? Then the courts will presume all of the property to be community. If one of the spouses — or an heir — says no, some of it is really separate, he has to prove it.

In a recent case John and Mary dissolved their marriage after thirty years. John had owned a large estate before he married. He devoted all his time to handling his estate, and went into a number of business deals using his own capital. He wasn't too successful in his ventures, though he was able to keep his estate intact.

The court ruled that all the property was John's separate property. Mary argued that some of the estate should be declared community property. She said this came about through the efforts and skill of her husband through 30 years of marriage.

Mary lost. True, after marriage, a husband's efforts belong to both husband and wife. But here John's efforts did not make the estate worth more than it was to begin with. What the estate did earn didn't quite pay the usual living expenses for the family. Here all the community income from John's efforts was used up by family expenses.

Deals between husband and wife must be made in good faith. The law won't permit one to overreach the other. An example: a husband got his wife to sign an agreement accepting $50,000 for her interest in the total estate. When he died, it turned out his estate was more than $1,000,000. The court said the husband took unfair advantage of his wife's ignorance of their business affairs. She got a much fairer portion of his estate.

Added To Cast

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Austin Pendleton, playing an arrogant chess authority, was added to the cast of "The Thief Who Came to Dinner," starring Ryan O'Neal and Jacqueline Bisset.

Hog Farmer Says Meat Is A Bargain

WASHINGTON (UPI) —An angry Iowa hog farmer told the Price Commission today that current high meat prices were actually a bargain for consumers and the only insurance against the death of the family farm.

The administration urged against any price controls on meat and was joined by the farmer, Frank Buryanek of awarden, Iowa. Controls have been suggested as one way to curb spiralling retail food prices.

Flanked by three Iowa neighbors, Buryanek pleaded with six members of the Price Commission at the first of two days of public hearings on food prices to let traditional supply and demand forces determine the price of farm products.

Economists, congressmen, and government officials also testified but the chunky farmer won the only applause from the small audience when he said a congressman had told him he was eligible for food stamps.

"Gentlemen, we don't want them," he said. "All we want is a fighting chance and we can do okay. We're proud Americans. We're tough. We'll make it."

His testimony followed that of Richard E. Lyng, assistant agriculture secretary who said any controls which hindered "fair" farm prices would lead to cutbacks in supplies and higher prices.

Buryanek, 38, raises about 400 cattle and hogs in northwestern Iowa. He said farmers "didn't bellyache" when meat prices were low two years ago but that now when farm prices have risen to near record levels, farmers were entitled to tell consumers "that they're getting a good bargain for their dollar."

Harlan Hummel, chief spokesman for an Iowa group and mayor of Hawarden, told lhe commission that talk about more food price controls was "threatening our way of life."

"If you depress the price that the Iowa farmer receives for his products, the only alternative you leave is commercialized farming," Hummel testified.

Lyng said food retailers were too slow to cut retail beef prices last month after farm and wholesale prices had begun declining. "Such lags are difficult for consumers to understand and accept," he said.

Lyng said wholesale prices for live steers last week were 2 per cent above the level of August —just before the wage price freeze —and hog prices were 14 per cent higher; but he said wholesale choice beef was 4 per cent lower, eggs 25 per cent lower, broiler chickens were down 5 per cent, turkeys 9 per cent, butter off 3 per cent and potatoes down 5 per cent.

Seven Drunk Drivers Are Sentenced

Seven persons were sentenced for drunken driving Monday in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Peter Allen Smith.

Sentenced were:

Walter Ray Ratel Jr., 50, of 1595 Casa Buena Drive, Corte Madera, arrested Dec. 3 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Erwin Peter Buchholz, 64, of 644 Rowland Boulevard, Novato, arrested March 12 in Corte Madera, placed on probation for one year and fined $275.

Gail Adele Parmeter, 31, of Forestville, arrested Jan. 28 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $200.

George Sherman Fletcher, 52, of 21 Hickory Apenue, Corte Madera, arrested March 3 in Larkspur, fined $250.

James Benjamin Johnson, 50, of 240 Diviso, Tiburon, arrested Feb. 7 on Highway 101, placed on probation for six months and fined $360.

Michael Doyle Power, 21, of 31 Reed Boulevard, Mill Valley, arrested April 4 in San Rafael, placed on probation for three years and fined $275.

Robert Paul Kanter, 54, of 93 Golden Hinde, San Rafael, arrested April 4 on Highway 101, placed on probation for three years and fined $275.

Art Contest For Devil Dog

An art contest to draw the Marine's Devil Dog has been announced for all high school students in Marin County. It is sponsored by the Marin Marines.

Three prizes, a $50, and a $25 savings bond are the first two prizes and a $10 gift certificate is third prize.

Reagan Wants Federal Funds For Alcoholism

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan has urged the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism to approve his proposed plan to provide the state with more than $2.3 million in federal funds to fight alcoholism.

In a prepared statement issued Tuesday, Reagan said alcoholism in California is a "major medical and social problem that is increasing at an accelerating rate."

The governor said his proposed program would allot funds to 40 counties and set up a network of county-operated alcohol abuse programs.

He also proposed that $85,000 be allocated to the state Department of Education for an alcohol abuse education projection.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

International Jet Set Has Its Own Peculiar Ailments

Fatigue and boredom often plague the international jet traveler. Flying is the safest and most economical means of getting from one place to another, but traveling above the clouds in a confined space can be tiresome. Changes in time (circadian rhythm) also play an important role. The functions of the human body are known to follow variable cycles during the 24 hours and these processes are forced to adjust to different schedules when crossing national and international time zones.

Our internal clock tells us when to eat, sleep, relax, and attend to biological functions. Body temperature and blood pressure also follow daily fluctuations.

IF THE system is out of step, the internal clock can delay certain functions by as much as 20 to 28 hours. Jet passengers quickly recognize the adverse effects of time zone displacements on eating and sleeping. On their return home, it may take several days to adjust to the old routine.

Circadian rhythm is least disturbed by north-south flights. East-west flights cause most of the trouble, because multiple time zones are involved. Oddly, the effect is more prolonged on departure flights than after the return trip.

AGE, TRAVELING experience, departure and arrival schedules, flying time, physical condition and food and fluid consumption play a prominent role. Having a companion helps. Nothing is more boring than jetting alone and returning night after night to an empty hotel room. Those who find it difficult to sleep wien airborne should ask their physician for a sedative.

Many people develop swelling of the ankles after sitting for hours. Now and then the flow of blood in the lower extremities becomes so sluggish, clotting occurs. There is always a possibility that a clot will break off and travel into the lucgs. Avoid this be getting out of your seat and walking up and down the aisle once an hour.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

PLANTAR WARTS

D. G. writes: Are plantar warts on the feet curable?

REPLY

Yes. However, it is not always easy to distinguish a plantar wart from a callus produced by a fallen (metatarsal) arch, or other foot defect. In these instances, the so-called wart will not heal until the pressure point is eliminated. Our leaflet on this disorder can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

PELLAGRA

W. B. writes: Can pellagra be cured by diet?

REPLY

Yes, but supplementary shots or tablets containing the B-complex vitamins, or nicotinic acid are recommended to speed cure. Severe pellagra may be association with a mental disturbance and the victim may not cooperate when told to eat certain foods.

10 HEART ATTACKS

T. writes: How many heart attacks can a person have and return to normal activity?

REPLY

One of my patients had 10 proved attacks.

CORONARY THROMBOSIS

A reader writes: What happens in a heart attack?

REPLY

There are two main types of heart attack. In coronary thrombosis, the artery that supplies blood to the heart muscle is obstructed by a clot. The individual develops pain, or a sense of pressure beneath the breastbone, turns ashen and may collapse. This common type of heart attack has many variations. In the second type, the heart stops beating or develops a rhythm that is incapable of pumping blood. In these instances, the individual collapses and usually dies unless given emergency treatment.

SLEPT THROUGH FIRE

S. N. writes: I live with my bahcelor son and we are very sound sleepers. Recently we slept through a fire, but fortunately were not burned. Do you have any suggestions?

REPLY

Make your house as fireproof as possible. Check the wiring, throw out all the trash in the closets, attic, and basement and get an alarm system that is triggered by heat.

SPACE PERCEPTION

C. N. writes: Can poor depth perception be improved? I have this problem when driving a car.

REPLY

No, but some people acquire other ways of judging the distance between their car and the car ahead.

THIN MAN'S BAY WINDOW

P. T. writes: How can a thin man's bay window be eliminated?

REPLY

Wearing a girdle will improve his appearance. Or, he could exercise so the abdominal muscles would become strong enough to hold in the tummy. In some instances, the abdomen in a thin person looks large only by comparison. He must gain weight to fill in around it.

NO DANGER

P. W. writes: If a pregnant woman is exposed to German measles but does not contract the disease, is there any danger that the unborn child could catch the infection?

REPLY

No. The unborn child is in danger only if the mother-to-be develops German measles during the first three months of pregnancy.

NERVOUS STOMACH

T. E. writes: Why does excitement or nervousness settle in the stomach or the intestines?

REPLY

The gastrointestinal tract is the sounding board for many nervous episodes. This occurs because of a close tie-up between the nervous system and these organs via the vagus nerve. Cutting this nerve was described years ago as "divorcing the stomach from the brain."

GOUT AND BEER

A. K. writes: Is beer bad for the person who has gout?

REPLY

Not when used in moderation. An attack of gout may follow overindulgence in any type of alcohol — be it beer or whisky. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on gout.

GARDENING AND CHOLESTEROL

H. P. writes: Does gardening help lower cholesterol?

REPLY

Yes. Exercise helps and so will eating the vegetables — without the butter, of course.

DIVERTICULA AND DIET

G. D. writes: After a person has had one attack of diverticulitis, is a bland diet necessary forever?

REPLY

Opinions vary, but I doubt if there is anything in the normal diet that will aggravate these pockets. There is new evidence that a bland diet may do more harm than good, especially when it leads to a sluggish bowel or constipation. The roughage in food hastens the passage of the contents through the intestine. Exceptions are spices and other strong seasonings, alcohol, popcorn, seeds, and nuts.

MOONLIGHTER

B. B. writes: I became very tired after working on two jobs and gave up night work to get more sleep. But I'm still fatigued and have trouble retaining what I read. Do you think my mental alertness will return in time?

REPLY

Yes, especially when you learn to relax. After a certain age, moonlighting is hard on a person.

ONE OVARY

W. B. writes: Does a woman with one ovary stand only half as much chance of getting pregnant as a woman who has two ovaries?

REPLY

No. One ovary does the work of two.

LEAD POISONING

O. T. writes: Can a person get lead poisoning if paint gets into a cut?

REPLY

Not under reasonable circumstances. Lead poisoning is common in children who eat lead-laden flakes of paint from windowsills, walls, or fences. We also inhale lead from auto exhaust.

Petaluma Considers Drug Abuse Plan

Persons interested in establishing a drug abuse program in Petaluma will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the library of Petaluma Junior High School School.

Carl V. Mitchell of Santa Rosa, who works with the Sonoma County Drug Abuse Committee, will lead the meeting to discuss the development and funding of a drug program.

Withholding Is Showing Good Results

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The first rush of state income tax returns produced a surprise $26 million more revenue under payroll withholding than had been expected, the state Franchise Tax Board was told yesterday.

State officials said they don't know for certain what caused the increase but suggested it may be due in part to overwithholding, improvement in the economy and other now undetermined reasons—or a combination of all three.

But Martin Huff, the three-member board's executive officer, cautioned against expecting that the sum would actually produce a windfall surplus for state coffers and warned much of it may be returned to taxpayers in the form of refunds.

He told the board during an initial examination of the newly instituted state withholding system that first returns show revenue is running about 17 per cent above his estimate made last June for the first three months of 1972.

He said he pegged the estimate $156 million for February and March but that $182 million actually was received. This included $4 million for January which previously hadn't been anticipated because employers had not been expected to gear up so swiftly for withholding.

Withholding was the key feature of a major tax bill passed by the 1971 Legislature, and took effect in January.

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, a board member, said it was "probable" that some of the surprise additional revenue was due to overwithholding.

But he said until more statistical information is compiled in the next few months "this additional revenue in no way can be said to be a net increase in revenue."

Huff agreed that the revenue could show up at the start of the next fiscal year July 1 as a "technical surplus" but warned it could be rapidly depleted when returns are made.

Huff said the entire picture may change swiftly when taxpayers who make quarterly payments on their income file returns.

He said elected state officials had forwarded him only 200 letters from taxpayer constituents and only 42 of those could be considered complaints about over-withholding. The others grouched about what they considered to be higher rates, he said.

Huff told the board that about one million income tax returns have been received so far in advance of the April 17 deadline and that about four per cent of those did not claim the automatic 20 per cent "forgiveness" reduction in tax liability they were entitled to.

The board expects to receive about six million returns on 1971 income, of which about 4.3 million will pay a tax.

The "forgiveness" was authorized because of overlapping tax payments which, in effect, resulted in a double tax.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

SUPERVISOR — 2ND DISTRICT

TAX FACTS

Figures for Marin County for the past four years during the present term of the incumbent reveal the following:

POPULATION increased 5%, from 202,000 to 212,000

ASSESSED VALUATION increased from $550 million to over $700 million, a 27.2% increase.

TAXES increased from $11 million to $19 million up 77%.

COST OF THE COUNTY ADMINISTRATOR'S office have increased from $109,000 to $154,000, over 41%.

What does this mean for you, the taxpayer?

If you live in Kentfield, your tax bill has gone from $700 to $1400!

If you live in Fairfax, your tax bill has gone from $350 to $750!

These figures prove that we can't blame a population growth of 5% for the frightening tax increase. The questions for all Marinites are:

Although it is the administrator's responsibility to present the county budget to the board, it is our Supervisor's duty to get the most for the tax dollar. As your supervisor, I will represent and defend all taxpayers in an effort to regain the confidence and trust of the people in their government. In my next column I will discuss how to reduce the Marin taxpayer's burden. I will be happy to answer any questions you may have.

Open Space Plan Is Due More Talk

A countywide open space acquisition program, proposed to Mill Valley Park and Recreation commissioners by county officials, will be discussed in more detail at the commission's next meeting, April 24.

Commissioners will come to the meeting with specific recommendations on the program, which was outlined to them by members of the county parks and recreation commission which met with them in joint session Monday night.

The proposed program would be administered by the county, officials said, which would identify open space areas to be acquired and set priorities on their acquisition. A 10-cent increase on the tax rate was proposed, and would also be administered by county supervisors, would seek federal and state matching funds where available.

Making the presentation were county commission members Lee Gerner of Novato and Polly Smith of Tiburon and Pierre W. Joske of the county parks and recreation department.

The program, they said, would have to go before the voters to gain approval.

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission also:

WATER QUALITY — Heard a report that water in the Mill Valley boat harbor is still polluted and that moving the city's dock would not correct the danger to health.

BOAT USE — Recommended to the city council that it approve the use of a city-owned sailboat by classes at Edna Maguire school provided the boat be available when needed to city crews who use it to take water samples in the harbor.

REGIONAL PARKS — Postponed until its next meeting consideration of whether to endorse "People for Parks and Open Space", a group seeking approvals of many county and city boards in order to gain support for its aims.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS — Approved its capital improvement program and senl it to the city council for action.

Baseball Commissioner To Enter The Strike Picture

SPORT NOTES

Football Steals Ink From Baseball Strike

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The baseball season hasn't even started yet and here we are thinking about football.

After all, this morning's mail had a release from ABC Television sports about the 12th annual Coaches All-American football game to be televised from Lubbock, Tex., on June 24.

Says the release: "The football contest, matching the top 30 graduating seniors from the East against the top 30 from the West, will be played at Jones Stadium on the Texas Tech campus. . . Attendance records have been set in the two contests played at Lubbock — last year's game drew a crowd of 43,320."

What baseball season?

AT STANFORD'S spring football drills, Don Alvarado of San Anselmo is trying to win himself a berth as a starter. The former Drake gridder is listed as a No. 2 flanker behind Eric Cross who missed much of last season because of injury. Last year Don had to play behind the flashy John Winesberry, who will be switched to a running back this year. This will be Alvarado's last college football season.

Trying to win himself a place on the University of California football team is Tiburon's Pete Richter, a young man who did his high school playing at Redwood. Although Richter played tight end on Cal's junior varsity team last year, he will be competing as a running back this year. The 6-foot, 205-pounder was one of 97 players reporting to spring practice when it began Monday in Berkeley.

Richter, a junior, was on Cal's rugby team which compiled a 14-2 win-loss record this year. He played at back row and breakway in the forward line.

Another Marin footballer to be playing in the Pacific-8 Conference this year is Tom Wickert, 6-5, 245 pounds, defensive tackle for the Washington State University Cougars in Pullman. A junior, Wickert suffered a broken hand and missed much of last season after working up to a starting role.

HANK YAMAGATA, Terra Linda High School gymnastics coach and president of the California Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation (how's that for a title?), is busy putting the finishing touches on plans for that group's all-day clinic Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at San Rafael High School.

It's open to all physical educators, elementary and high school, and any "interested citizens," says Yamagata. Topics will range from rock climbing to lacrosse.

BILL SOCKOLOV of San Rafael, 14-year-old eighth grader at Davidson Junior High, was very busy performing in the Hawaiian State Junior Tennis Tournament which ended last weekend in Honolulu. (Oh, to be back in that alohaland.)

Bill made it all the way to the finals in the boys 14 doubles before losing, and made it to the boys 14 semi-finals and the boys 16 quarter-finals in singles.

Seattle Seeking Attles

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Seattle SuperSonics are interested in Golden State Warriors coach Al Attles but general manager Bob Feerick says no because "He's our coach."

Seattle general manager Bob Houbregs asked the Warriors for permission to talk to Attles, it was learned Tuesday, but Feerick said, "I told them no."

Attles has been with the Warriors for the past two and one-half years and took them to the playoffs twice.

Attles said he's heard the rumors, and ... "Well, in the next few days I'm going in to see Franklin (Warriors owner Franklin Mieuli) and talk over my contract. If he makes what I consider a fair, equitable offer, I'll acceptH6right there."

If he and Mieuli can't agree, then Attles said, "I might listen to other people.

Thurmond's $2 Million ABA Offer

OAKLAND (UPI) —Warriors superstar Nate Thurmond is at the end of a two-year contract and rumors have it the Carolina Cougars are offering him some $2 million to jump to the American Basketball Association. The 6-11 center said Tuesday, "I wish nothing had been written about this." His agent Bob Bartels had a terse "no comment" on the purported offer from Carolina.

Carolina's offer to Thurmond reportedly is $200,000 a year for four years and $50,000 a year for 20 years—that means Nate could play until he is 55 and then renegotiate.

A GOAL FOR HADFIELD

New York Ranger Vic Hadfield raised his arms after scoring his team's goal against Montreal last night in the Stanley Cup playoffs. On the ice is Montreal goalie Ken Dryden. The Canadiens edged the Rangers, 2-1. In other games last night, Boston won its series against Toronto with a 3-2 victory, and Minnesota slipped by St. Louis, 4-3. See story page 38.

Kuhn Calls For Meeting Of All 24 Club Owners

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marvin Miller and the player representatives were to meet today as the baseball strike continues, with Commissioner Bowie Kuhn entering the picture by summoning all club owners to a meeting in Chicago tomorrow morning.

The pension fund dispute has been settled but there is a stalemate on the issue of back pay for rescheduled games, with the owners rejecting the players' proposal that they be docked a maximum of one day's pay if the teams play an entire 162 game schedule.

But the owners rejected that proposal, claiming they want to dock the players a day's pay for every game that is rescheduled as part of a doubleheader. Both sides agree the players will be paid for games made up on open dates or as split doubleheaders.

The original issue that started the strike—the funding of the pension fund—was settled when the players agreed to the owners' proposal offer of a $500,000 increase in the pension fund. The money will come from surplus money already in the fund and not from any additional owners' contribution.

"If this proposal would have been made a week ago, the dispute would have been settled," Tom Haller, a catcher for the Detroit Tigers and former San Francisco Giant said.

The two sides seem so close now that a quick settlement is likely but the issue of back pay will become a bigger one with each passing day as the number of games to be rescheduled buildsup.

The long day of negotiations started about 10:30 a.m. Tuesday morning in the Four Seasons Restaurant. Miller's office is located in a skyscraper 38 floors above the restaurant. Miller was huddled with the 24 player representatives and occasionally talked by phone with John Gaherin, the counsel for the owners who was in touch with the owners' Player Relations Committee. After midnight, the players were asked to leave from the restaurant and moved up to Miller's office.

The issue of the pension fund was settled first. The owners offered $400,000 Monday night and the players countered Tuesday morning with a request for $600,000. They compromised at $500,000.

Before the strike started, the owners had refused to let the players use any of the "surplus" money in the fund for pensions, claiming it was imprudent. "Mr. Finley sometimes speaks the truth," Miller said. "This strike was unnecessary. Their own actuaries say the players were right and it was prudent to use the money in the fund."

The owners want to dock the players a day's pay whenever they rescheduled a game as part of a doubleheader. The players countered with a proposal that the players be docked a half-day's pay for the first two games rescheduled as doubleheaders — for a maximum of one day's pay.

Under the owners' proposal, the number of days docked would vary from team-to-team, depending on the number of games to be rescheduled and which ones were made up as part of doubleheaders.

The players also agreed to waive all the rules for the scheduling of games, such as allowing night games on getaway days or a day doubleheader after a night game.

Padgett Takes Nevada, Reno Basketball Job

RENO (UPI)—James Padgett, who resigned under fire as head Berkeley basketball coach nine days ago, has been appointed head mentor for the University of Nevada, Reno.

"I wouldn't have taken this job if I didn't think Nevada could have a good program," Padgett said Tuesday. He added that West Coast Athletic Conference teams, of which Nevada-Reno was a last-place finisher this season, are on the level of the Pac-8.

"My prime interest will be to get the best student athletes in this state and build a strong freshman program," he said. "However, I have good contacts in California and will be spending lots of time there recruiting."

"Padgett's background in basketball is as good as you'll find in the country," said Reno athletic director Dick Trachok.

Padgett succeeds Jack Spencer who coached at Nevada, Reno for 13 years. The Wolf Pack went 0-14 in the WCAC and 2-24 overall last season as two starters were busted on marijuana charges.

Padgett indicted one of the first recruiting targets will be his son, Pete, a 6-8 senior at Del Valle High, Walnut Creek.

Padgett, who is the National Collegiate Athletic Association representative on the National Basketball Rules Committee, has been in coaching since his Air Force service in 1952-54. He came to Berkeley as an assistant in 1965 and was appointed head coach in 1968. He had a 52-53 record at California.

Knicks Eliminate Bullets; To Take On Celtics Next

NEW YORK (UPI) —The New York Knicks disposed of one tough foe and now take on another as they hook up with the Boston Celtics in the best-of seven National Basketball Association's Eastern Conference playoff final.

It took the Knicks six games to eliminate Baltimore, closing out the series Tuesday with a 107-101 victory over the Bullets.

"Boston is one of the strongest teams in the league," said Knick coach Red Holzman, "they're always tough for us. We split the six-game season series so nobody goes into this one with any edge."

Bill Bradley, the Knicks' offensive spark in the last two games, said he wasn't gaining any advantage in the upcoming Celtics series.

"I've got nothing good to look forward to against Boston since John Havlicek is just as tough to guard as Jack Marin," Bradley explained. Dave Cowens is less physical than Wes Unseld, still he's bigger and faster and is a key to the Celtics fast break."

Walt Frazier, who shares Tuesday's scoring honors with Knick center Jerry Lucas, with 22 points each, thought the matchups between New York and Boston were even, and agreed with Bradley that the club must contain the Celtics' fast break to stay alive.

The first game of the series will be played in Boston Thursday night. The second is scheduled for New York on Sunday, the third in Boston on Wednesday, April 19, and the fourth back in Madison Square Garden on Friday, April 21.

If additional games are needed, No. 5 will be in Boston on Sunday afternoon, April 23, the sixth in New York, April 26, and the seventh in Boston on Friday, April 28.

The Western Conference finals resumes tonight in Los Angeles with the Lakers meeting the defending champion Milwaukee Bucks in the second game of the best-of-seven series. The Bucks won the opener 93-72 Sunday, holding the Lakers to only eight points in the third quarter. Tonight's game will be seen on the ABC-TV network beginning at 7 p.m., PST.

Frazier added a pair of foul shots to build the New York lead to 99-97.

"This victory is a tribute to the team," Frazier said later.

Tam Wins League Golf Match

Steve Gaddis shot a nine-hole score of 39 yesterday to lead Tamalpais High School to a 207-233 victory over Drake in a Marin County Athletic League match at the San Geronimo National golf course.

In a non-league match, Terra Linda defeated Pinole Valley, 214-239, at Marin Country Club, as Doug Talley fired a 39.

The league match between Novato and San Rafael, scheduled for Peacock Gap, was rescheduled for today at 3:30 p.m. due to wet grounds yesterday, according to San Rafael coach George Lester.

The results:

STANDINGS

Tamalpais 207, Drake 223 at San Geronimo

Tamalpais — Steve Gaddis (medalist) 39, Steve Pearson 41, Ethan Winterling 41, Bob Pennell 42, Mike McCann 44.

Drake — Paul Berlenbach 41, Paul Arms 42, Jeff Twitchell 46, Mike Kelly 46, Jim Cummesky 48.

Marin Prep Baseball Games Rescheduled

All four scheduled Marin County Athletic League baseball games yesterday were postponed due to wet grounds. The make-up schedule:

Marin Catholic at Drake, today, 4 p.m.; Redwood vs. San Rafael at Albert Park, today, 4 p.m.; Terra Linda at Novato, tomorrow, 4 p.m.; Tamalpais at San Marin, next Wednesday, 4 p.m.

Rugged Redwood Netters In Romp

"They're every bit as strong as I expected them to be," said glum coach Chris Ahearn after powerful Redwood High School obliterated his good, young Terra Linda team yesterday in tennis.

Visiting Redwood defeated the Trojans, 7-0, winning every set. The victory was the 52nd straight in the league and 21st straight over-all for the defending champions.

In other Marin County Athletic League openers yesterday, host Drake overwhelmed Tamalpais, 6-1, and host San Rafael trounced Novato, also 6-1.

San Marin's match at Marin Catholic was called off due to wet grounds. The teams were to try to play it today, according to Marin Catholic coach Ed Fuchs.

The results:

A Collision Course For Swim Powers

Redwood and Terra Linda High Schools continued on a collision course for their final clash of the year, a meet to determine the Marin County Athletic League swim championship, by easily defeating lesser rivals yesterday.

The Giants of Larkspur, leading the MCAL race by a single decision at 8-0, blasted the host Tamalpais Indians, 72-23, while the once-beaten Trojans clobbered visiting Novato, 70-25.

Paul Cane was Redwood's only double winner, taking the 100-yard butterfly and 400 free style, but sprint sensation John Redig posted a school record 23.0 for the 50 freestyle. Redig's mark is the fastest in the league this year.

Rick Lund of Terra Linda and Roger Rechsteiner of Novato each earned double freestyle wins in that meet, Lund gathering in his specialties the 200 and 400, and Rechsteiner sweeping the 50 and 100 sprints.

Paul Moe of Tam highlighted the Indian showing with a timely win in the 100 free, but the Indians were only able to take two other races against the Giants.

Besides Rechsteiner, Novato could only get one other first place, that coming from diving ace John Summerfield.

Middleweight Admits To Two Fixed Fights

SEATTLE (UPI) —Fraser Scott, once among the top 10 rated middleweight boxing contenders, has quit boxing because the sport must "clean itself up."

"Money has bought me two times," Scott said. "I personally have been involved in fixed fights ... the deception is over."

The 23-year-old boxer from Kirkland, Wash., walked out of a Seattle gymnasium Tuesday and said he would not return. He had been in training for a 10-round main event April 25 against Canadian lightweight champion Al Ford.

Scott said on a television interview last week that he also knew a recent Seattle fight involving middleweight Mike Lankester had been fixed.

Jimmy Rondeau, Washington State Athletic Commission chairman, has demanded Scott come forth and back up his allegations. The Commission has set May 2 for Scott to appear before it. Rondeau also said he was asking state Attorney General Slade Gorton to investigate the charge.

The mustachioed redhaired Scott has declined on the advise of his attorney to name opponents and give dates of fixed fights.

He said he was writing a book on boxing that will devote chapters to fixed fights he was aware of.

Scott had 22 victories, 10 by knock-out, seven losses and one draw. He has been knocked out twice and lost his last three fights.

Terra Linda Faces Encina In Gymnastics

Terra Linda High School will face powerful Encina High of Sacramento in a gymnastics meet Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Terra Linda.

"Encina has been the champion of Northern California for the past three years," said Terra Linda coach Hank Yamagata. "This meet will give Marin County fans a chance to see truly topflight high-school gymnastics."

In addition to the dual meet between the boys teams, the Terra Linda girls team will give an exhibition. Admission is $1 for adults and 75 cents for students.

JACK HANLEY

McCovey Ready But Baseball Not

Willie McCovey paced himself cautiously throughout six weeks of spring training and just when he was ready to subject his left knee to a full nine-inning test April 1 in Yuma, the first general strike of major league baseball players went into effect.

"I haven't swung a bat since March 30 when we played our final Cactus League game in Palm Springs," said McCovey, "but I'm working out daily in a downtown San Francisco gym to keep in shape."

THROUGHOUT the winter, following an operation that repaired damaged cartilage in the left knee which kept him out of action for one-third of the 1971 season, McCovey worked with weights to strengthen his left leg.

THEN CAME the strike. So he never got the opportunity to go a full nine innings in spring training.

"Working out in a gym isn't like working out with the team," said McCovey. "That's obvious. But it's the one way I can keep strengthening both legs and I'll continue that routine until the strike is over. I hope it's over soon."

McCovey misses batting practice but isn't worried about it. Two weeks of not swinging a bat is nothing compared to the long winter months when home run hitters never have a bat in their hands. McCovey has an excellent answer for such long hitting layoffs. "You don't forget how to swim," he says.

"I told them," said McCovey, "that it takes no special effort. My mind always is on baseball — the year round."

Of the 21 spring training exhibitioners the Giants played, McCovey sat out seven. When he sat out three-in-a-row March 16, 17 and 18, there was momentary concern about the soundness of his left knee. During that particular period, it wasn't the knee that was plaguing him but the old bone chips in his right hip.

"DON'T WORRY," said McCovey at the time, "I won't miss the season opener, I'm going to be ready for that one you can be sure."

McCovey did miss the 1972 season opener. So did 599 other major league players because of the strike.

"I'll be ready for it whenever it's played," said McCovey.

Tars' Track Team Tough

"We expect to have our best team in the last four years," College of Marin track and field coach Tony Bailey asserted yesterday in preparing his team for a Camino Norte Conference meet in San Pablo Friday at 3:30 p.m. against Contra Costa College.

In analyzing his squad, Bailey listed "our running (as) our strong suit. We can run with anybody in the conference," particularly in distance races. Marin's win-loss record is 2-3.

"Mike Arago is the top three-miler in the conference," accoridng to Bailey. Arago and Vian Collier, two freshmen, are the backbone of Tar distance running. They teamed with Joe Mouille and Lee Hotchkin in the four-mile relay in giving the Tars the second best time, 17:58.8, in Northern California junior college competition.

Collier and Arago again team up in the distance medley with Tom Estudillio and Joe Kinn, a 50.9 runner in the 440, giving the Marinites a fine 10:20.6 time.

While Collier and Arago stand out in distance runs, Bill LaHaye shines over-all. "LaHaye is our top point producer. He competes in the shot put, triple jump, 440 and mile relay. That's versatility," Bailey stated.

As far as versatility is concerned, Marin's Ken Blasingame takes a back seat to no one. A member of the Tars' football and basketball varsities, he tops the CNC in the 120 high hurdles with a 14.9 clocking.

In the sprints, Dick Tierney, who has a wind-aided 9.4 in the 100-yard dash, is the Tars' best. He is fourth in the CNC with a 22.4 for the 220.

Bailey intimated, "We are not as strong in the field events as we are in the running, but we do have good people, like LaHaye in the shot put. LaHaye has a 44 foot, 4½-inch toss to his credit, good for seventh in the conferences.

NHL PLAYOFFS

History Doesn't Repeat— Bruins Survive 1st Round

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Boston Bruins joined the Chicago Black Hawks among the idle rich today, while both New York and Minnesota were faced with possibly another obstacle in their bids to gain the semifinal round of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Boston advanced one notch farther than it was able to go last year when it edged the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 Tuesday night to win its quarterfinal set, four games to one. The Bruins are favored to win the Cup this spring, just as they were in 1971-72 when they were eliminated in the first round by Montreal.

DESPERATION

The Canadiens kept their current hopes alive when they pulled out a desperation 2-1 victory at New York Tuesday night, narrowing their deficit to 3-2, and Minnesota took a 3-2 lead over St. Louis by beating the Blues 4-3.

New York will be at Montreal and Minnesota at St. Louis on Thursday night.

However, in line with the current trend in professional sports, a new element entered the picture Tuesday night when the Black Hawks, who completed a four-game sweep of Pittsburgh last weekend, threatened a strike against the National Hockey League over the curvature of sticks.

CURVATURES

The Chicago players voted unanimously torequest the league to drop its rules of checking stick curvatures and Alan Eagelson, executive director of the NHL Players Association, said he plans to seek a similar vote from the other teams in the playoffs.

Eagelson said that if the other clubs support the Chicago position, a strike may be called unless the league backs down on its stick checking rule. Hockey sticks are limited to a half-inch curvature.

WINNING

Ken Hodge scored the winning goal for Boston at 7:38 of the final period, and Bruin Coach Tom Johnson was noticeably relieved to be past the opening round.

"It was a tough series," he said. "I've seen us play a lot better. We were a little nervous with the puck in our end. Maybe we'll settle down now that the first series is over. But we don't deserve all the abuse we've been getting. We're winning a lot of games for a lousy club."

PLANTED

Hodge, firmly planted in front of the Toronto net when he put in the game-winner, called it "an Esposito shot.

"I just stood there in front of the net and waited for (Toronto goalie Bernie) Parent to make his move," Hodge said. The big winger had been set up by Phil Esposito, who said later, "I heard Cashman hollering, 'Hodgie, Hodgie,' to me. So I turned and put it to the big guy and he whopped it in there. He shot it just like I do. That's the way I've been telling him to shoot it."

HOME ICE

The Rangers, who haven't clinched a Stanley Cup series of any kind on their home ice since 1940, jumped off to a 1-0 lead on Vic Hadfield's power play goal at 4:24 of the second period, but Frank Mahovlich drew Montreal even just 2 1-2 minutes later and Jim Roberts scored the decisive goal at 3:12 of the final period.

"I think we played very well," said goalie Ken Dryden, the outstanding player on the ice for Montreal with 33 saves. "We had as many chances, or more, as in any game of this series. We had to play that way, and we knew it, or else we'd be finished.

NO CRISIS

"After one or two losses you're not yet at the total crisis stage. But when you have three, you can't go any further. You know you're at the edge of the cliff."

Minnesota, trailing 3-2 entering the final period, got early third period goals from J. P. Parise and Jude Drouin to overcome the Blues.

North Star Coach Jack Gordon said that Parise's goal "gave us the spark to get going, no question about it," and then added that "It's got to be the best game we've had so far in the series."

Al Arbour, the St. Louis coach, predicted his team would bounce back again, just as it did after dropping the first two games of the series.

"We've been through this all year," he said. "We'll bounce back . . . no problem."

KNICKS

Lucas said the victory "caps a wonderful year for me, for many reasons. When I was needed, I did a job nobody thought I could."

Playing his first season with New York after being acquired from Golden State for Cazzie Russell, Lucas said he had to adjust his style of play to the Knicks. He said it was most gratifying when, "I felt they were getting confident with me in the lineup."

Somebody asked losing coach Gene Shue why he was smiling after being eliminated from the playoffs and he replied: "As long as you're alive, you should smile."

New York had a balanced scoring effort, something they hope can prevail in the Boston series. Frazier and Lucas each scored 22 points. Up front, forwards Dave DeBusschere and Bradley contributed 20 points apiece. Archie Clark of Baltimore led all scorers with 31 points, Jack Marin added 21 and former Knick Mike Rkiordan netted 19 for the Bullets.

Foyt Enters 2 Cars In Indianapolis 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —A.J. Foyt Jr. officially entered the Indianapolis 500-mile race Tuesday for the 15th consecutive year and could become the classic's first four-time winner.

Foyt, who now builds as well as races his own cars, entered two of his creations.

Another two of the turbo-changed Ford Coyotes were entered in the name of J.H. Greer of Houston, where Foyt has his garage. A.J. Foyt Sr. was named crew chief for all four cars.

Four other racers were entered Tuesday, four days before the midnight Saturday deadline. The field now numbers 40. Speedway officials said they expect about 30 more entries to be mailed before the time expires.

Other entries Tuesday included two by owner-driver Dick Simon, Salt Lake City; a back-up Dan Gurney Eagle for Bobby Unser who had an earlier entry, and a turbocharged Chevrolet-powered car by Ray W. Smith of Eaton, Ohio.

Gurney' second entry and the two for Simon will be powered by turbo-Offenhausers.

The Chevy racer was entered for rookie Tom Bigelow of White Water, Wis. Bigelow has gained experience on the United States Auto Club spring and midget circuits.

Foyt, who won the race in 1961, 1964, and 1967, is acclaimed as one of the top open cockpit drivers, but this year also had claimed two of the top 500-mile races on the NASCAR trail.

Galea Pass Romps To Golden Gate Win

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI)— Galea Pass, a seven-year-old gelding with the reputation of being one of the West's most consistent sprinters, had little trouble running off to an easy one and one-quarter length victory at muddy Golden Gate Fields Tuesday in his 1972 debut.

It was Galea Pass's first start since Aug. 23 but owner-trainer Olen Battles had him fit and ready, and he had little trouble handling a muddy strip at the suburban course as he moved in front at the start and stayed there all the way under a fine ride by Juan Gonzalez, the meet's leading rider.

The time for six furlongs was a good 1:10 2-5 and Galea Pass, the 8 to 5 favorite, paid $5.20, $4.00 and $3.00. Ipse, who finished a head before Gold Seal, paid $7.20 and $4.80, and the latter returned $3.00.

San Jose Boxer Whips Lester

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Carlos Salinas, 162, San Jose, scored a unanimous decision over Jimmy Lester, 161, San Francisco, Tuesday night in the 10-round middleweight main event at the Sacramento Memorial Auditorium.

Salinas, who beat Lester in their last meeting, took the offensive and damaged Lester with hard shots to the body. There were no knockdowns despite heavy punching by both fighters.

Referee Mario Duccina scored it 6-2, Judge Al Martino 7-2, and Judge Hank Elespuru 5-2.

It was Salinas' fourth victory in as many appearances in Sacramento.

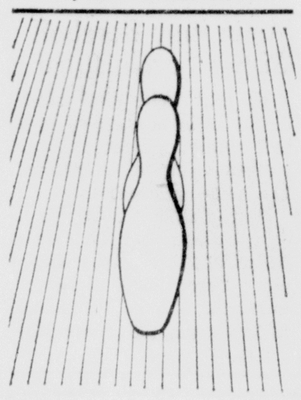
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



Spares in which the back pin is hidden directly behind one in front are among the more testing. Hook bowlers should arrange to hit the front pin very slightly on the right-front. Thus if you miss a little farther to the right, the ball will carry into the rear pin. A head-on hit is perfect. But if you miss anywhere to the left, you'll only get one pin.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

April A Good Month For That Paint Job

It's reasonable to say that more boats are painted during April than at any other time of the year. In the chilly north, of course, it's traditional that Easter and April are the times to get started working on the boat.

It's also safe to say that fewer and fewer boats are being painted each spring because the numbers of wooden boats are dwindling each year. Of the estimated 9 million boats now in use in the United States, statistics show under 40 per cent are wood. This figure is dropping by about 10 per cent per year.

BUT IF YOU are one of this 40 per cent, it's almost certain that your wooden boat needs paint . . . right now. But while you are at it, give a little consideration to what can be done to improve the appearance and lines of the craft.

(If you plan to paint an aluminum or plastic boat — many people do — the same ideas may be applied).

First consider what appeals to you when you see a striking, racy-looking boat. To me it's some intangible "shape of motion" that gives a boat a feeling of moving even when standing still. Don't knock it, the car manufacturers go to great lengths to achieve it.

ONE OF THE standard tricks in repainting to give this sensation of motion is to break up large expanses by adding horizontal lines from stem to stern.

On a boat that has high topsides paint on a longitudinal line of highly contrasting color. Nautical types call this a "sheer strake." Right away the boat will appear to sit lower and look racier.

If you trailer your boat, paint it to match your car with a brilliant contrasting streak. Every head will turn as you go by.

A good trick used by architects, designers and interior decorators is to take a picture of your boat, then trace its outline half a dozen times on thin paper. Try a few free-hand designs for racy lines on the tracing paper.

To see what your boat would look like with any of the designs you have drawn, hold the tracing paper down tightly over the picture so that it shows through with your design superimposed.

ONE MUST NOT forget, however, that paint must also protect as well as decorate — and it's a much greater problem. When I dragged my car-top skiff from behind the garage where it had been stored since last duck season . . . I came to the conclusion that one winter is harder on a boat than two summers.

Last year I preached the virtues of some of the new marine paints — the vinyls, epoxies, and polyesters — and went so far as to cover the cartopper with one of the new epoxy resin finishes. All summer long it was shiny and sleek and I pointed with pride. But now, after a few months lay-up, it has a crackle finish like sharkskin — and just about as rough.

This is not to condemn the new paints, but to point out that almost everything has its limitations.

That there are other problems to painting boats is shown by some of the questions I've been asked:

Q. I've just built a plywood boat. Anything I should watch now that it has to be painted?

A. Seal the wood as thoroughly as you possibly can, with the very best sealer primer and paint. Remember that a plywood boat must always be dry inside. Plywood should not be permitted to get wet because it can't swell up and expand like solid wood. The grain of the plies lie in several directions to give it great strength. If they get wet and expand they tend to tear the whole structure of the material apart.

Q. When I bought my fiberglass boat, 15 year ago, they came in any color as long as it was white. Can I paint it a color now?

A. Very easily. Just get the proper paint — either polyester or epoxy base. This bonds to the fiberglass and becomes part of it.

Smith Heads Track Show At Oberlin

BERKELEY (UPI) —Tommie Smith, the Olympian who stirred international controversy in 1968 with a clenched fist salute, has been named track coach and assistant athletic director at Oberlin College, Ohio.

He said Smith was selected after a six-week search. The former sprint man will hold the academic rank of associate professor and function as head coach of the track team while serving as assistant athletic director at Oberlin College, Scott said.

Smith, a 6-3, 190 pound runner who won the Olympic 200-meter Gold Medal at Mexico City, caused a storm of controversy when he and third place finisher John Carlos raised clenched fists in a black power salute while receiving the award.

Smith was in Oberlin last week and received "tremendous response from the students, faculty and administrators," said Scott.

A broken shoulder in 1969 ended a promising professional football career for Smith with the Cincinnati Bengals. He sustained the injury when he crashed to the ground with the first pass ever thrown him in a pro game—a 40-yard bomb.

South Sonoma Prep Sports Washed Out

All southern Sonoma County high school sports events were postponed yesterday due to rain or wet grounds.

The scheduled baseball games — Santa Rosa at Petaluma, Rancho Cotate at Sonoma, and St. Vincent at Point Arena, were all scheduled to be played today unless more rain caused further postponements. The game between Tomales and Lower Lake will be rescheduled for the middle of April or May.

The tennis matches between Santa Rosa and Petaluma, and Rancho Cotate and Sonoma were also rescheduled for today.

Marin Catholic and Rancho Cotate will hold their golf match Friday at Rohnert Park course.

Drake Adult School Sets Swim Course

A six-week adult beginning and intermediate swimming course will be offered by the Sir Francis Drake Adult School in San Anselmo starting tomorrow 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the pool.

Drake physical education instructor Ann Scott will lead the Thursday evening class which costs $6.

Lathrop Improves 880 Time

Last week's rain-shortened Marin County Athletic League track and field schedule still managed to produce two of the league's best dual-meet marks.

Gary Lathrop of San Marin High School shaved three-tenths of a second off his standard in the 880-yard run with a 2:01.2 performance last Friday.

Don Nelson of Marin Catholic, who had lost his long-jump honors to Randy Colfer of San Marin just before spring vacation, gained them back with a leap of 21 feet, six inches Friday, half an inch over Colfer's best.

There were no other changes. The league's best times and distances:

120 HH — Ed Harris (Novato), 15.6; 440 Relay — San Marin (Steve Goins, Larry Butti, Bob Briot, Randy Colfer), 45.2; 880 — Gary Lathrop (San/Marin), 2:01.2; 100 — Joe Powell (Novato), 10.1; Mile — Brian Tracy (Redwood), 4:38.2; 440 — Bob Briot, San Marin, 52.4; 180 LH — Greg Biber (Tamalpais), 21.2; 220 — Jim Grigg (San Rafael) and Joe Powell (Novato), tie, 23.4; Two-Mile — Pete Sweeney (Redwood), 9:52.0; Mile Relay — San Marin (Ron Zechlin, Gary Lathrop, Bob Briot, Randy Colfer), 3:33.4; Shot Put — Steve McGee (Redwood), 51-2 (has put unofficial 53-4); Pole Vault — Kip Kermoian (Redwood), 12-6; Discuss — Darrell Elder (Redwood), 150-2½; Long Jump — Don Nelson (Marin Catholic), 21-6; High Jump — Mark Farrar (San Rafael), 6-2; Triple Jump — Mark Lowey (Terra Linda), 40-9½.

Two Prep Swim Times Lowered

Two Redwood High School swimmers, Spencer Eldred and John Redig, lowered their own best times by fractions of a second in recent Marin County Athletic League meets.

Last Friday, Eldred nicked a tenth of a second off his league best in the 200-yard freestyle when he swam 1:54.5. Yesterday, Redig chipped two-tenths off his 50 free time when he swam a 23.0.

There were no other changes in the year's best times. The times are:

200 Medley Relay — Redwood (Pete Brunstetter, Paul Cane, Corky Hull, John Redig), 1:46.0; 200 Free — Spencer Eldred (Redwood), 1:54.5; 200 I.M. — Rick DeMont (Terra Linda), 2:06.0; 50 Free — John Redig (Redwood, 23.0; Diving — John Summerfield (Novato), 362.45; 100 Fly — Rick Demont (Terra Linda), 49.5; 400 Free — Spencer Eldred (Redwood), 4:06.2; 100 Back — Roger Rechsteiner (Novato), 1:00.8; 100 Breast — Paul Cane (Redwood), 1:03.5; 400 Free Relay — Redwood (Troy Dunham, John Goepp, Spencer Eldred, John Redig), 3:30.6.

Senior Women's Golf Tourney Set Tomorrow

Some 112 women golfers over the age of 60 are entered in the 25th Northern California Senior Women's Golf Tournament at Meadow Club near Fairfax tomorrow and Friday.

The five flight field, including 20 women over 70, start teeing off at 8 a.m. tomorrow in a 36-hole, eclectic tournament. Flight winners shooting the lowest medal scores will receive prizes.

In addition, a dinner will be held Thursday, 6:30 p.m. and an awards luncheon will be given Friday immediately after the tourney is completed.

Lakers' Goodrich Proves An Exception To The Rule

By PHIL ELDERKIN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

The race to make it big in pro basketball is always for the swift, the talented and the tall. If you don't have two of the three, forget it.

When the Los Angeles Lakers drafted guard Gail Goodrich from UCLA in 1965, rival scouts figured he qualified on only one count — speed. His future was dismissed as casually as a Cy Young Award winning pitcher working on a .220 hitter.

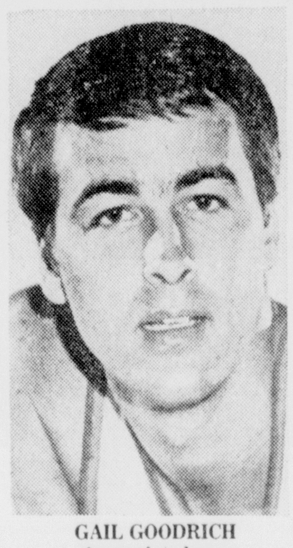
One day in training camp and Goodrich would be packing his socks as well as his lunch. Oh, he had talent all right, but it was what the pros like to call college-oriented talent.

Elgin Baylor took one look at Gail's 6 ft. 1 in. frame and called him Stumpy. This kid may have been an All-American shooter in college, everybody said, but those pro defenses would never let him get his shot off.

Besides, how often was he going to see the ball anyway with Jerry West playing next to him and Baylor in front of him?

As it turned out, not much. But on the few occasions when Goodrich did get to play, he scored. Nobody was quite sure at first how he was getting his points, because he seemed to be scoring as often on layups as jump shots.

But if you watched him closely enough, you could see him fake the big man to one side as he came down the lane, shift the ball from one hand to the other on inside drives, and



GAIL GOODRICH

score. In fact, he even embarrassed Boston's Bill Russell a couple of times.

Still, the Lakers never quite appreciated him. They thought other teams exploited his height a little too often on defense and they were also suspect about a man who never had more than 210 assists in one year.

Goodrich was getting a trifle anxious, too. He not only wanted to play more, he wanted to start. Finally he asked the Lakers to trade him. They didn't exactly rush to deal him away, but they did expose him to the NBA's 1968 expansion draft.

The Phoenix Suns, badly in need of established names and proven shooters, grabbed him. It was an ideal situation for Gail — he ran the Suns' offense, mixed in a little playmaking with his scoring, and averaged about 24 points a game.

Meanwhile, back in Los Angeles, the man who was pretty much acknowledged as the best of the game's top-shooting guards (Jerry West) averaged only one point higher.

There were not only second thoughts in the Lakers' front office now about letting Goodrich go to Phoenix, but also third and fourth thoughts.

Released from the situation which forced him to caddy for Baylor and West, Gail began to establish an all-star reputation of his own. They still called him Stumpy, only people now smiled when they said it.

The fact is Goodrich should have been set for years in Phoenix, but two things happened which pointed him back in the direction of the West Coast.

First, the Suns signed Connie Hawkins, the best player in the rival American Basketball Association, but a gentlemen who needed the ball as much as Baylor.

On May 20, 1970, two years after he became a member of the Suns, the Stump was traded back to the Los Angeles Lakers for Mel Counts, a seven-foot redwood.

Okay, so he only beat Jerry by a decimal point. But anytime anybody beats Mr. West at anything, it comes under the heading of a major achievement.

Czechs Really Pay For Hockey Game

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

PRAGUE — Hockey-minded Czechs offered up to half of an average monthly income today to seethe Russian versus Czechoslovakia game — the climax of the World Ice Hockey championships.

Black market prices rose to about $70 for a ticket — about 50 per cent of an average monthly income in Czechoslovakia.

But there were no tickets available.

All the tickets for the crucial game were distributed to "merited workers" in Prague factories in the past months.

The two teams rested Tuesday while Switzerland beat highly favored Finland 3-2 and Sweden handled West Germany 10-0.

Golf

HOUSTON — The Brigham Young University golf team, which includes Ray Leach of Novato, is considered one of the four strongest teams in the 18th annual All-America Intercollegiate Invitational tournament which starts here today.

Favorite to win the team title is NCAA champion University of Texas, but BYU, Florida and Houston were rated strong upset chances.

Basketball

PULLMAN, Wash. — George Raveling Tuesday became the first black head basketball coach in the Pacific 8 conference when he agreed to terms with Washington State.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Forward Corky Calhoun of Pennsylvania, a No. 1 draft choice, was signed Tuesday by the Phoenix Suns. Jerry Colangelo, general manager of the Suns, said that Calhoun had the tools to be a great pro player.

Football

CHEYNEY, Pa. — Billy Joe, A former bruising running back with three professional football teams, has accepted his first head college coaching job.

Joe, 31, who was the American Football League's Rookie of the Year in 1963, was named Tuesday as head football coach at Cheyney State College.

Swimming

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Indiana's NCAA swimming champions set out Tuesday night to break American records in two relay events seldom contested at the college level and succeeded both times.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Audit Notice Can Mean Refund — Or An Additional Tax Due

When you receive a notice that your return is being audited, it may mean a refund for you, or No change in your taxes, or an additional tax due.

When your tax return is audited, you will have to explain some items. Adequate records should be kept and so should sales slips, invoices, receipts, cancelled checks and other documents.

The kind of)ecords you should keep are not spelled out in the law.

Your W-2 form, cancelled checks, receipts or other evidence to support deductions or credits claimed on your income tax return should be sufficient records to support these items.

If you find you made a mistake, you should immediately file an amended return. Claim the refund due because of the mistake, or pay the additional tax you owe.

Form 1040X should be used for filing amended returns.

You can still use CLaim Form 843 or the old Form 1040 to amend an individual income tax return. However, Uncle Sam prefers that you use the new Form 1040X.

Form 1040X is designed to expedite data processing so its use could result in your getting any additional refund sooner.

If there is any additional tax due for 1971 and the amended return is filed and additional tax paid by April 15, 1972, there will be no penalty or interest.

If you would have done better to itemize your deductions instead of using the standard deduction, you can still amend your return. If you used the standard deduction for 1968, 1969 or 1970, you can still file an amended return and itemize your deductions.

If there is a refund due, an amended return will get it for you.

You can file an amended return at any time and pay an additional tax.

You can file an amended return and claim any additional refunds any time within three years of the due date of the return you wish to amend, or within two years from the time you paid the tax - whichever is the longer period.

There is no reason for you to pay more taxes than the law requires or to be timid in taking every deduction permitted by the rules.

Your tax return should contain a full and clear explanation of every tiem and you should keep available all papers, bills, checks receipts, etc., in connectqon with your return.

Uncle Sam has many sources of information concerning your income besides your tax return. In addition, returns are now being processed by computers and compared with certain standards established by the IRS.

More than ever before, it is important that your income tax return be completely and accurately prepared. Your careful attention to the details of your tax return can save both you and the government needless time and expense answering questions the computers will generate if your return is inaccurate or incomplete.

A few extra minutes spent checking your tax return before you send it in could save you hours of explaining later in the year.

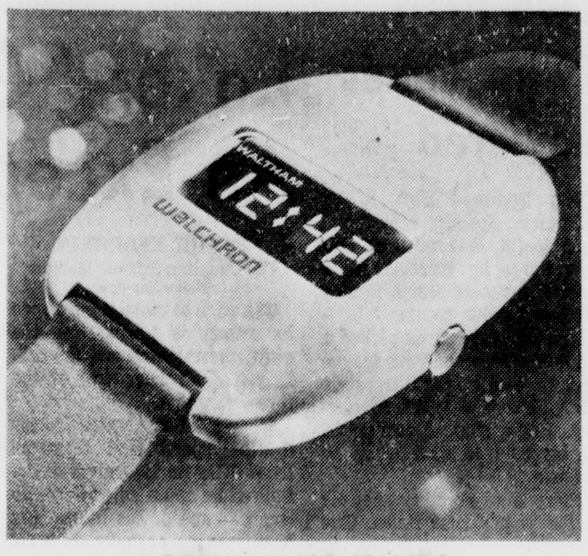
Hyatt Negotiating For Furniture Firm

BURGLINGAME (UPI) — Hyatt Corp. says it is negotiating for the acquisition of Rerion Corp., a Los Angeles furniture firm which owns the Stardust and Fremont hotels in Las Vegas.

Hyatt said Monday it wants to issue shares of its common stock for the acquisition.



LOOK MA! NO HANDS

World's first liquid crystal watch with no movable parts will be marketed by The Waltham Watch Co. in July of this year. Georges Didisheim, Waltham board chairman, said the watch is priced to sell for under $200 at retail. Instead of the conventional hands, the Walchron produces a computer-like read-out on the face of the watch, showing hours and minutes. It will run without battery change for more than a year. Whereas most watches rely on a balance wheel for ticking off seconds, the Walchron uses a solid state, electronic, quartz oscillator. It will vary no more than five seconds a month.

Market Surge Continues With Heavy Early Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—Buoyed by some excellent earnings reports, the stock market continued to surge ahead during the first two hours today. Trading was heavy.

The two-hour turnover amounted to more than 8,280,000 shares, with an overwhelming majority on the up side. Advances dominated declines, 862 to 422, among the 1,631 issues crossing the tape.

Many corporate earnings reports presently make pleasant reading. Some results are at new highs. These were the prime reason for the sharp advance during the first two hours, analysts said.

For the moment, they said, investors are ignoring the new turn in the Vietnam war. This had a diminishing effect earlier this week.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices were higher in active trading. STP Corp. was the most active issue, down 2 1-4 at 21 on 78,100 shares.

American Telephone & Telegraph was the most active New York Stock Exchange issue, off 1-8 at 43 1-4. The trading included a block of 129,500 shares at 43 1-8.

Earnings, Loans, Resources Rise

NASSAU (BW) — World Banking Corp. Ltd. has reported record increases of 41 per cent or more in deposits, resources, loans and earnings for 1971.

Deposits climbed to $288,484,000 at year-end, up 47 per cent from $198,222,000 a year earlier. Total resources rose to $310,156,000 from $214,955,000 the previous year, an increase of 44 per cent.

Loans increased 42 per cent and stood at $191,419,000 as compared with $134,376,000 at the end of 1970, and net earnings were $2,780,000 compared with $588,000 the year before.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Hike Boston Edison For Monthly Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would like to invest up to $30,000 to supplement my 300 shares of Boston Edison (NYSE). This stock pays dividends the first of February, May, August and November. Can you suggest two other stocks that will give me about $200 each month in dividends? — E.A.

A. Your shares of Boston Edison, which now pay $177 four times a year, as of the May distribution will return $183. However, I would add 50 more shares here for a $213 monthly income.

For the June, September, December and March 1 payments, American Brands (NYSE) paying $0.572 quarterly per share is recommended. The dividend here was raised with the March payment. A 350 share investment costing $15,600 would produce $200 quarterly in income.

MONY Mortgage Investors, which pays at the end of March, June, September and December, rounds out your trio. This trust pays 25 cents quarterly (7 cents a share extra was paid in 1971). 800 shares yielding $200 quarterly would cost about $10,000. This portfolio, worth $39,000, will yield $2,452, or 6.3 per cent.

Q. I have 62 shares of Lone Star Gas Co. (NYSE) which I am thinking about selling to buy Browning-Ferris (NYSE). I am looking for appreciation rather than income. — C.F.

A. Houston-based Browning-Ferris since 1969 has acquired some 30 waste management firms and now collects and disposes of more than 24 million pounds of trash per day, on contract, in about 36 metropolitan areas in the U.S., Canada and Puerto Rico.

Disposing of this waste accounted for a major portion of the company's revenues last year, the rest being generated through equipment sales and rentals. Revenues and earnings have been trending higher since 1969, with worthwhile gains being recorded each year.

While Browning-Ferris offers more appreciation potential than perhaps Lone Star Gas, the stock is also more speculative — being quoted at some 58 times fiscal 1972 earnings estimates — and, hence, is best suited to the aggressive investor.

Hibernia Posts Quarter Earnings

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The Hibernia Bank posted 1972 first quarter operating earnings up 66-⅔ per cent from first quarter 1971, according to president Martin J. O'Dea.

Net earnings after estimated taxes were up 75 per cent to $385,841, or 63 cents per share, compared to $221.605, or 36 cents per share, for the three month period in 1971.

On March 31 Hibernia deposits were $2 5,674,000, compared to $266,708,000 on that date last year, an increase of 7.11 per cent. Total assets increased to $324,200,000 from the $304,670,000 listed one year ago.

O'Dea also reported Hibernia has launched an extensive campaign to promote a new series of scenic checks which he said are being introduced to meet recent customer demand and to attract new commercial account depositors.

Pacific States Plywood Inc. Opens Outlet On Lovell Avenue

Armstrong

Seawell

Pacific States Plywood Inc., which deals in both retail and wholesale of plywood products, is now open for business at 75 Lovell Avenue in San Rafael.

The principals are Chester Bergeron of Greenbrae, Edward Lampe of Novato, and Donald Nelson of San Rafael. Both Bergeron and Lampe were with U.S. Plywood in San Rafael for 12 years. The three partners have a combined experience of 45 years in the plywood business.

Pacific States Plywood occupies a brand new building with 7,200 square feet of floor space. It is open from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 6 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.

The company sells sanded sheathings, sidings, hardwood panels, pre-finished products and related supplies such as glue and sheetrock.

WILDERNESS SHOP, a back-pack supply store opened last week at the Co-Op Shopping Center in Corte Madera. It moved into space formerly occupied by Boitano's Restaurant, which folded.

Manager of the Wilderness Shop is William Simon, who managed the Co-Op's Berkeley Wilderness Shop for the past three years.

"We carry a complete line of back packing equipment," said Simon. Clothing, down sleeping bags, back frames, rucksacks, camping stoves, dehydrated foods and accessories are carried at the new store. It is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

WILLIAM T. SEAWELL III and Marshall M. Armstrong, both of San Rafael, have joined the Bank of Marin as assistant cashiers, President William P. Murrary Jr. announced.

Both men are headquartered at the Bank of Marin's main office in San Rafael and serve as loan officers. Seawell was formerly with Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco, and Armstrong with the Union Bank.

CHANNEL 50, the North Bay's first television station, will open next month in Santa Rosa at 125 West Fifth Street, corner of Davis Street.

Kit Spier, general manager, said every effort will be made to put Channel 50 on the air in mid-May, transmitting in full color from 4,400-foot high Mt. St. Helena.

ERNEST W. HAHN Inc., the Southern California firm which expressed interest in developing a major shopping center in Corte Madera, is going ahead with another regional shopping center at Santa Anita Park in Arcadia.

Hahn will develop Santa Anita Fashion Park on 50 acres of racetrack property in conjunction with Santa Anita Consolidated Inc., which owns the property.

Richard G. Osmun of Mill Valley has been named a registered representative by Bache & Co. Inc., San Francisco. Bache & Co., with headquarters in New York City, is a worldwide investment banking firm.

Osmun has an A.B. from Duke University and a master of business administration from the University of Michigan.

Larry Dervin of San Anselmo, Alhambra Water Co. route salesman in San Francisco's financial district, has been selected as one of the industry's top salesmen of the year in an American Bottled Water Association competition.

Devin has been with Alhambra National for two years.

William W. Ryan of Sausalito, who heads the San Francisco agency of National Life Insurance Co. of Vermont, and seven of his associates have been cited for outstanding services and sales performances.

Ryan received a company award for agency growth. Among his associates who won honors were two from Marin:

Frank W. Coleman of Novato and Philip V. Petersen of San Anselmo.

MICHAEL C. COLN
Only Marin winner

San Rafael Youth, 18, Top Scholar

Michael C. Coln, an 18-year-old high school senior from San Rafael, is among 107 students in California to win a four-year National Merit scholarship, it was announced today.

Coln, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Olav Coln of 1065 Las Ovejas, is a student at Lick-Wilmerding High School for Boys in San Francisco. He will attend either California Institute of Technology or Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a major in either chemistry or physics.

Named to the Lick-Wilmerding honor roll several times, he is student body secretary and holds Eagle rank in Boy Scout Troop 76 of Terra Linda.

He also was California Scholarship Federation secretary; has received the Air Force electronics and communications award; has been a Model United Nations delegate, and is a member of his school's flexible scheduling and constitutional revision committees.

Coln attends chemistry classes at San Francisco State College in addition to his high school curriculum.

Nationally, 1,275 high school seniors were chosen, according to Edward C. Smith, Merit Scholarship Corp. president. They were chosen from among 14,400 finalists in the 1972 program.

Coln's award is being underwritten by Bechtel Corp. of San Francisco.

LBJ Walks Under His Own Power

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, looking pale and strained after a flight from Virginia where he suffered a heart attack five days ago, walked into the Brooke Army Medical Center under his own power today.

Johnson, 63, motioned away a hospital attendant who approached him with a wheelchair and walked slowly and with a noticeable stoop from his station wagon into the hospital.

He had a portable electrocardiogram unit taped to his chest and was accompanied by three men, two of them doctors.

Doctors did not explain how Johnson was able to make the 1,500-mile trip less than five days after suffering what had been called a massive heart attack. But hospital officials in Charlottesville, Va., where Johnson has been treated since his attack, isuued this statement an hour after he abruptly left Tuesday night:

"After several days of steady improvement from his heart attack of last Friday, Mr. Johnson flew to San Antonio where he will finish recuperating at Brooke Army Hospital."

Johnson, wearing a dark blue suit and a grey felt hat, accepted the wheelchair once inside the hospital and was then taken to his private carpeted suite on the seventh floor.

His wife Lady Bird, who also looked weary and drained, arrived seconds later and hurried into the hospital with two Secret Service agents.

Week's Report

Fifty-eight cases of streptococcus infection were reported last week to the Marin County Health Office, according to health officer Carolyn B. Albrecht. Also reported were 32 cases of gonorrhea, six of infectious hepatitis and two each of syphilis and salmonella, she said.

School Anti-Spanking Bill Passes Assembly Panel

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —On a straight party-line vote, an Assembly committee has approved a controversial bill outlawing corporal punishment or spanking of children in public and private schools.

The measure by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, was approved Tuesday on a split 5-4 vote by the Criminal Justice Committee.

The action followed testimony by Dr. Julian Nava, member of the Los Angeles school board, who said some teachers strike children with hoses, softened paddles and perforated boards.

"Frankly, you would think you were in the 12th Century when you see some of the instruments that are used not only in our school district but in others as well," he told the panel.

The measure, similar versions of which have been killed at past sessions, went to the floor where Sieroty said he would put it on ice pending adoption of technical amendments.

Nava told the committee that studies have shown that corporal punishment in schools has "relatively little long-lasting beneficial effect" and instead causes children to lose respect for teachers and education.

"There are better ways to instill discipline," he said, citing such alternatives as "social ostracism, peer group pressure and denial of privileges."

Nava also said he was "shocked" to learn that some school personnel are "very skillful" in devising spanking tools that would leave no bruises or other marks on a child's body.

"Most school districts prefer to look the other way and give teacher's discretion" to punish pupils, he said.

But Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside questioned whether the state should declare an outright, statewide ban on corporal punishment. He indicated it should be left to the discretion of local districts.

SPRINGTIME AT MICHIGAN STATE

Michigan State students don't seem to notice that at least one male student has discovered that in springtime a young man's fancy turns to something other than books. The young man and his friend don't seem to notice the others either. (UPI Telephoto)

HE LOVES HIS COMPETITION. . .

Deputy Heard 'Soledad Brothers'

SAN JOSE (UPI)—A sheriff's lieutenant testified at the Angela Davis trial today he heard the Marin County courthouse kidnapers use the word "Soledad Brothers" but "I can't recall in what context."

Lt. Ronald A. Retana, one of the law enforcement officers held at bay in a second-floor corridor of the courtroom after the kidnapers came out of a courtroom with five hostages, said he also heard the word "revolutionaries."

Miss Davis, the 28-year-old black militant and former UCLA professor, is charged with furnishing guns and helping plot the Aug. 1970, kidnapings in which four persons were killed.

A key part of the state's case is that Miss Davis was in love with black revolutionary George Jackson, one of the "Soledad Brothers" accused of killing a guard at Soledad Prison, and that she entered into the plot to try to force his release.

Retana said he and other officers were forced to stand against a wall as the four kidnpers came out of Judge Harold J. Haley's courtroom, a shotgun wired around Haley's neck and four other hostages in tow.

"No complete sentences have stayed with me," Retana testified.

"I recall the word 'Soledad' but I can't recall in what context. I heard the word 'revolutionaries' and I heard Jonathan Jackson say, 'this is it.'

Tuesday, a dramatic, 19-second tape recording of the 15 shots in the bloody gun battle which ensued outside the courthouse was played for the jury.

The recording was made by James Brown, a consultant with the State Personnel Board, who was interviewing a job applicant on the third floor of the courthouse when the shots broke out below.

Brown and the applicant fled, leaving the tape recorder running, when a bullet crashed through a window.

Brown testified he and the interviewee did not recognize the noises they heard as gunfire and thought it was coming from a nearby loading dock.

"Then the window broke out and we left rapidly," he said. "We left the recorder going. I came back later and got the tape and thought it might be of interest to the sheriff's department."

As Brown played the tape in Judge Richard Arnason's courtroom, at least 15 shots clearly could be heard, bunched in an irregular pattern and varying greatly in intensity —from the sharp, clearly defined cracks of pistol fire to an occasional, deep-throated "whump" which apparently came from a shotgun.

When the battle was over, Judge Harold J. Haley and three of his abductors were dead in the van.

Prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr. for nearly two weeks had been presenting a detailed picture of the incident. He was expected to continue it at least through today and possibly through the end of this week's court sessions.

Five San Quentin Prison guards also testified Tuesday about the shootout which erupted when the escape van, apparently left outside the courthouse for the purpose by kidnaper Jonathan Jackson, rolled down the exitway and confronted a small army of law officers.

Guard Jon W. Matthews said one of the kidnapers started shooting at him, and he cut three of them down with a highpowered rifle.

Collection Of Protested Tax Halted

The Internal Revenue Service has suspended attempts to collect unpaid telephone taxes being withheld by the Northern California Telephone War Tax Protest, according to the movement's co-ordinator, Alan Barnett of Mill Valley.

Barnett said the collection attempts would be suspended pending a decision by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas on whether IRS can collect the unpaid taxes before the tax law itself is ruled constitutional.

Barnett said the group recently learned Internal Revenue Service would begin attaching the bank accounts, salaries and property of protesters and wired Douglas, asking him to intervene.

Although they have had no direct reply from Douglas, Barnett said, he has received a copy of a letter sent from Matthew J. Zimm, assistant solicitor general in Washington, D.C., to Michael Rodak, clerk of the Supreme Court, saqing the IRS has suspended collection attempts.

Barnett's organization opposes the collection of the 10 per cent telephone tax levied by the federal government in 1966 to support the war in Vietnam, claiming the government has no authority to levy a tax to support an undeclared war.

The protest movement began last May in Marin and has spread throughout the state. Trust funds have been established in which members place taxes they decline to pay the government.

To date, he said, $20,000 has been collected and held "in escrow, so to speak," pending outcome of the group's suit, now on appeal to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Inequities Charged In Hiring Practices

By ERIK M. INGRAM

A state report on Marin County hiring practices has charged "inequities in the employment practices and policies" related to employment of women and minority group members.

The report, drafted by the California Fair Employment Practice Commission, was turned over yesterday to county supervisors who will review the document next week.

Investigation of the county's hiring practices was requested more than a year ago by the National Organization of Women — a women's rights group.

The state's investigation "revealed that women employees are, in fact, insignificantly represented in managerial and supervisory positions" even in jobs traditionally reserved for women.

The report notes that as of last August 40 per cent of the 49 supervisory positions were filled by women and 17 per cent of the 159 managerial classifications.

It makes no mention, however, that overall more women are employeed by the county than men. (The county has 1,395 permanent employees, of whom more than half are women.)

The report also charges that black employees "are also insignificantly represented and only then in those jobs generally occupied by minorities."

Maren Rinne, county personnel officer, in her reply to the state's charge said that of the 50 black employees, 21 are in professional positions, 23 in clerical and trade positions and six in supervisory and management positions.

While the report strongly condemns the county's employment practices, it makes no attempt to clarify how it reached its conclusions.

In fact, at one point it even commends the county's manual on policies, procedures and practices as "a professional document that adheres to good and proven personnel principes."

In her rebuttal, Miss Rinne concluded that "over-all, the development of this study and its findings and recommendations are informative and beneficial. We are pleased to note that many of the county's practices comply with the recommendations."

She added, however, that "present procedures can be strengthened."

Hearing Set In Liquor, Pot Case

Preliminary hearing on charges of possessing marijuana and violating two liquor laws against Gordon David Blankenberg, 18, of Fairfax, has been set for April 18 in Marin Municipal Court.

San Rafael police arrested Blankenberg Feb. 26 when officers reportedly saw him emptying a quart of malt liquor onto the pavement as they approached his car. Police said eight plastic bags of possible marijuana were found in his car.

In addition to the felony marijuana charge, he is charged with possessing liquor while under age and having an open liquor container in a car.

Dress Shop Theft Court Date Slated

Caroline Jean McIlroy, 30, of Larkspur, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court to appear April 19 to face charges of attempted theft and concealing stolen property.

She was arrested by sheriff's deputies March 12 following an alleged theft from the Little Daisy dress shop in Town and Country Shopping Center in Strawberry.

Child-Molesting Court Date Set

Larry Amato Petretti, 48, of San Rafael, was indicted by the Marin County Grand Jury yesterday on five counts of child molesting and was immediately arraigned in Marin Superior Court.

Petretti is charged with molesting 8-year-old and 9-year-old girls between July 1 and March 22 at the apartment house he manages at 520 Canal Street.

The slight, balding apartment manager was released without bail to appear again in court April 24.

Stanford Given $15 Million Gift

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—An anonymous donor has given $15 million to Stanford University, which Tuesday began the biggest five year money-raising effort ever attempted by a university.

The school is seeking $300 million, a spokesman said. Of that total, $125 million is sought in endowments, $92 million in gifts for operating needs and $83 million for buildings.

The $15 million pledge already made by an individual will be used to match contributions for endowed scholarships at the private university.

'Alice' Auditions Today, Tomorrow

Auditions will be held for "Alice in Wonderland," the first production by the Peoples Theatre, at 7:30 p.m. today and tomorrow in the Drake Little Theatre.

The Peoples' Theatre, a recently formed group for students through college age, will stage the production early in June.

PANTYHOSE WILL DO IT EVERY TIME

Troubleshooters said they were puzzled about the outage until they found "a pair of very wet pantyhose" wrapped around a 44,000-volt line.

The hose had been used as a tail for a kite, they said.

Less Controls Over Medi-Cal Cost Urged

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to eliminate the state's primary control on escalating Medi-Cal costs has been introduced by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

His bill, SB1170, was among seven he introduced at the request of the California Medical Association.

The Reagan administration long has been a strong advocate of continuing the "prior authorization" requirement that state physicians approve all office visits after two a month. The administration has argued that the requirement was needed to control costs under the program, which now sees some 15 million claims a year.

The medical association, however, long has objected that the result of the "prior authorization" is not detection of what it claims is a small percentage of abuses, but the delay or denial of needed medical care — and harrassment of the vast number of honest doctors.

The association's bill instead would provide for detection of abuses by auditing the 15 million claims.

Other bills in the CMA package introduced by Behr would require processing of prior authorization requests within seven days. Processing now takes from 10 to 28 days, according to the CMA.

The other bills would give physicians up to a year to bill the state for Medi-Cal services, require state payment to a physician certifying an earlier bill was submitted for payment but lost, require medical justification for denying Medi-Cal services to a patient, require counties to provide physicians with lists of eligible Medi-Cal recipients so they can be identified for billing the state, and add anesthesiologists' services to outpatient services covered by the program.

Yoga Class Will Begin On Tuesday

The Rohnert Park Recreation Department will offer a yoga class beginning next Tuesday.

The class will meet on Tuesdays from 5:30 to 7 p.m. weekly at the Community Center through May 23. It will be taught by Elsie Piatt. Registration may be made at the recreation department.

Flood Controls Could Aid Rec Development

The Army Corps of Engineers' proposed flood control project along Novato Creek could provide recreational development, estimated to cost $844,000, according to Lewis E. Fredrickson, assistant Marin County flood control engineer.

The project could include horseback, pedestrian and bicycle trails — estimated to cost $564,000 — and a boat-launching facility near the entrance to Bel Marin Keys at an estimated cost of $280,000, he said.

Robert Mooney of the corps of engineers reported to the Novato Flood Control Zone advisory board Monday night on recreation projects that could be incorporated into the creek flood control work, Frederickson said. The costs would have to be shared equally by local and federal governments, and projects could be scaled down, he said.

Pedestrian and bicycle trails could be constructed along the creek from Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. tracks to San Pablo Bay and an equestrian trail from the tracks to Highway 37, Fredrickson said.

Mooney also reported the corps couldn't participate in any recreational facilities west of Highway 101 because the facilities wouldn't qualify for federal funds, Fredrickson said.

Jail 'Will Rehabilitate' Drug Seller

Roger Wayne Ploof, 22, of San Rafael, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner in Marin Superior Court to what the judge called a "highly rehabilitative" jail sentence for heroin sale.

The judge sentenced Ploof to prison, but suspended the sentence in favor of six months in Marin County Jail and five years of probation.

Deputy probation officer Virginia Di Cerbo recommended three months in jail with probation provided Ploof would continue methadone treatment for addiction at Marin Open House.

Ploof's attorney, Edward Murray, also stressed the importance of a rehabilitative, not punitive sentence, but Gardiner said the six months will be highly rehabilitative.

Citing Ploof's long record of drug and burglary convictions dating back to 1967, Gardiner said he doesn't expect to see any rehabilitation. "I don't have any faith in him. I don't really think he is going to turn over a new leaf," the judge declared.

Ploof — described by narcotics agents as one of the main suppliers of heroin in Marin — was arrested following alleged sales of almost 18 grams of heroin for $210 to an agent in San Rafael Aug. 2 and 3.

One charge was dismissed last month when he agreed to plead guilty to a second charge of selling the drug.

The probation officer said he had been selling the drug to support his own habit of $100 a day and suggested a light sentence in view of his effort to improve.

But Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino, recommending a prison sentence, said, "Your honor, this isn't a game where, if you cop out, everybody pats you on the head and sends you home."

Gardiner agreed: "I think if he gets anything less than state prison, he is a very lucky man."

Driver Booked For Giving Away Secrets

HONOLULU (UPI)—A laundry truck driver who formerly did top secret work in the Air Force was fired because he gave columnist Jack Anderson material about American bombing of Laos.

"It was a patriotic thing with us," a spokesman for the American Sanitary Laundry said Tuesday of the firing of James Walkley. "We felt that if he would blab his country's secrets, then what would he do with our company's secrets?"

Walkley, a former Air Force Sergeant, said his top secret photographic intelligence work at Hickam Air Force Base and an earlier assignment in Udorn, Thailand, gradually turned him against U.S. bombing policy in Southeast Asia.

Petaluma School Classroom Damaged

Officers said a window was broken, desks overturned and the public address system was torn from the wall. A slide viewer and radio were smashed and finger nail polish was smeared on the blackboards.

OPEN DATING

Perishable foods (such as eggs, dairy and bakery foods) sell so fast at Safeway, they are on and off our shelves in a matter of hours. Still, we take no chances with freshness. Perishables which are manufactured or processed by Safeway carry dates to guide our store people. Being positive that no package remains on the shelf after printed date, assures you that these Safeway foods will remain fresh and good for many more days with proper home refrigeration.
